JOHN BROWDER IS CHIEF OF POLICE

Succeeding John Hardy Who Becomes County Sherrif Next Week

Forthcoming changes in county officials, in which former Mayor, J. Lee Smith becomes Probate Judge, and Chief of Police, John R. Hardy, becomes county Sheriff, have necessitated some rearrangements of the city's officials staff, announcement of which has been definitely made.

Changes which affected the Mayor's office were made by vote of the people of Clanton, in September, prior to the county election, when Mr. C. Fenn Jones was elected Mayor, succeeding Mayor Smith, whose time expired while he was in the midst of the campaign for Probate Judge.

Since the county election determined that Mr. Hardy would become Sheriff the middle of January, the Town authorities have chosen as his successor, Mr. John Browder for chief of police. He has already assumed his new duties, Heretofore Mr. Browder has been a member of the night police force.

Mr. J. A. Nivens, formerly chief of night police, was called by sheriff-elect Hardy into the county service as his chief deputy. This brought about the selection by the town of Mr. Matthew Wagoner to take the place of Mr. Nivens as chief of night police.

An assistant to Mr. Wagoner on the night force has not yet been selected, and, in fact, it has not been definitely determined by the city officials whether or not they will employ one for that place.

"Keep on coming to see me," said Uncle John, "and I will do my best to make 1935 a fruitful season for you."

ANDREW MINER BURIED SUNDAY

Clanton Business Man Died Of Pneumonia Last Friday Morning

Funeral services for Andrew N. Miner, age 55, prominent business man of Clanton, were held at the Baptist Church Sunday afternoon, conducted by Rev. S. J. Esell. Immediately following the funeral, the body was carried by Martin to Concord cemetery east of Clanton, for burial.

Pallbearers were Parker Taylor, Stanley Davis, M. H. Thigpen, John D. Mullins, W. M. Wyatt, and J. Watts Moore.

The deceased was a son of Nathan Miner, one of the pioneer citizens of the eastern part of Chilton County. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Parrsh Miner; one son, Bill Miner, of Clanton; three daughters, Mrs. Leonard Gentry, of Cane Creek, Mrs. Lewis Williams, of Clanton, and Mrs. L. W. Street, of Washington, D. C.; three brothers, Nicholas, William and Newt Miner; three sisters, Mrs. Nancy Mims, Miss Sarah Miner and Miss Angeline Miner.

Mr. Miner came to Clanton several years ago and for a long time he was employed as salesman for different mercantile establishments. A few years ago he moved to Montgomery, where he remained a few years as manager of a grocery store.

Returning to Clanton he entered business for himself, in which he was engaged at the time of his death.

Andrew Miner was one of the most universally loved citizens of Clanton and Chilton County. He lived a life of much usefulness to his fellowman, and the esteem in which he was held by everybody was attested by the unusually large gathering of friends and acquaintances at his funeral and burial Sunday afternoon.

NEW CARS ARE BEING SHOWN

Ford, Chevrolet and Plymouth Greet The Public In 1935 Displays

The advent of the New Year 1935 has brought forth an unusual interest in the new automobiles which have been developed.

The motor car manufacturers were all cocked and primed for the show start, and much interest has been worked up among the motor minded portion of our population, which is the majority.

The procession started last Saturday when Clanton Motors put the new Ford V-8 on exhibition at their showrooms. About 1,200 spectators saw the car on that date.

Next Saturday Chevrolet will be introduced here when Hayes Chevrolet Company puts the new Standard Model for 1935 on display.

Polk Brothers will also be in the procession Saturday when they will officially display the new Plymouth.

DR. GRAGG KILLED DEER ON MONDAY'S HUNTING TRIP

On a hunting trip to Choctaw County Monday Dr. Gragg had that much-sought experience of every hunter, the joy of killing a deer, and the initiation ceremonies thtat follow after.

Dr. Gragg, Dr. Lawrence and Dr. Edgar composed the party from Clanton attending the hunt. Upon their return Tuesday they supplied a number of their neighbors with a portion of the deer's meat, the eating of which was an experience about as much enjoyed and as unusual to some of us as would be the killing of the animal.

The head, antlers and pelt of his quarry is being preserved by Dr. Gragg for mounting. It will be among his prize trophies.

BILL MINER WILL CONTINUE TO OPERATE FRUIT STORE

Mr. Bill Miner announces that he will continue to operate the business of his father, A. N. Miner, who died last week. He will appreciate the continued patronage of the friends and former customers of his father.

The driver of the other machine, Cecil Gardner, Selma salesman, lost several teeth in the crash, and his companion, J. G. Stamps, also of Selma, suffered a broken nose.

The McKee cars and Gardner's machine were demolished.

NEW FORD FOR 1935 NOW ON DISPLAY

The New 1935 V-8 Ford car was placed on exhibition last Saturday at the showrooms of Clanton Motors, and was received by the largest and heartiest approval of any car ever offered by Ford.

In a statement Monday Mr. Tom Littlejohn said: "More than twenty-five hundred people came here last Saturday to see the new Ford for 1935, and they have been coming steadily ever since.

"This new Ford was given the finest expression of approval of any car we have ever shown. Almost every person expressed admiration of the new and outstanding features so evident in this year's offering of Mr. Ford.

Already we have booked twenty-seven orders for the New 1935 V-8 Ford, with substantial cash deposits. We are pleased to give assurance to all our friends that we will, in a very few days, have all body types of the new car ready for delivery.

"We further extend the invitation to everybody to come and see the new Ford. Let us explain it to you, and let us demonstrate it in full. You will be amazed at the new car."

FARM CENSUS

At the request of County Agent, J. W. Fant, we call special attention of the farmers of the county to the farm census to be taken this year. Mr. Fant is anxious for all farmers in the county to furnish the information requested, in order that full credit may be given the county by the government in determining the future status of agriculture based upon the facts compiled in this census.

Each farmer will be requested to fill out a blank by the census taker. Mr. Fant has a few of these sample blanks on hand. He wants to give them out to farmers in order that they may study it and be able to furnish the information readily when the census taker calls on them.

HOLIDAY LIGHTS ARE TAKEN DOWN

List Of Business Firms Who Contributed To The Christmas Display

With upwards of a thousand lights of many colors brghtly illuminating the business district and shedding a lovely hue of Christmas effect, Clanton gained the commendation of thousands of people from far and near during the holiday season just closed.

The lights came down on New Year's eve, and were carefully packed away to do service again next Christmas in a scheme that is calculated to outshine this one as much as this one did the former one.

Led by a committee of the Kiwanis Club, composed of John Hollis, Mell Martin and Leonard Williams, the splendid success of the Christmas lighting program was made by the hearty co-operation of officials of the Town of Clanton, the ladies of the Pilot Club, the Ala. Power Co., and almost the unanimous support of every business establishment in town.

Besides those organizations mentioned above, the committe has released the following list of business places which contributed money to help carry out the scheme:

JEMISON SENIORS TO PRESENT "SON JOHN"

Can anybody think of anyone who doesn't have time to see old Dan Cupid take the lead occasionally? If so, we wish to remind them that they will have time, just any old day, after they see "Son John," presented by the Senior Class at Jemison High School Auditorium next Frday night, January 4, 1935.

Come and see the blunders of a bashful country man in the city. Together with romance, laughter and life that will be dished out of the dramatic talent of the gifted Seniors.

You will surely get your evening fun when you see Cecil Ellison, Olene Traywick, Frank Nelson, Leila George, Curtis Martin, Edna Gore, Howard Anderson, Evelyn Martin, Virginia Price, J. T. Cobb, Maurice Hayes, in "Son John."

Mr. Lloyd Howard, of Thorsby, and Miss Edna Hayes, of Oneonta, Ala., with choruses, will render musical enertainment between acts.

Sheriff W. H. Gillespie has bought a part of the Dr. Mastin farm four miles from Clanton, on the old Thorsby Highway. He is moving there this week. Mr. Gillespie said he did not want to get very far away, just a safe distance from which he can accurately observe future political developments around the courthouse.

TO OPEN BIDS ON CITY HALL JAN. 9

Municipal Building Will Be Under Construction In Next Few Weeks

Plans and specifications drawn by the architect for the new City Hall of Clanton, have been on file in the office of Mayor C. Fenn Jones for several days, subject to inspection and calculation of any and all parties who wished to bid on the construction job.

The date of January 9th has been set as a day when the Mayor and City Clerk will open all bids that have been submitted on the job.

Discussing the matter Tuesday Mayor Jones indicated that it will likely not be long now until Clanton's new municipal building will be definitely under construction.

It was stated by the Mayor that the town has an option on the lot where the old Baptist Church used to be, for the purpose of erecting the city hall. However, he said, that is not yet an absolute certainty. It could be that some kind of a trade will arise which will place the location of the city hall at another place.

While discussing the town's affairs, the Mayor could not forego the opportunity to put in a word about his pet hobby, the extension of the city limits. "We hope to be definitely engaged in preliminary plans toward our goal in a week from now," he said, adding, "I hope that everybody will say a good word for this important movement, and that those who may, and I believe will be, added to the population of the town, will come in with a smile rather than a grouch. If everybody would be willing to look at the matter in its true importance, I believe it would be almost unanimous with everybody concerned."

Tuesday, January the first, saw the maturity of Clanton's twenty-year waterworks bonds. Likewise the unpaid obligations of many property owners expired at the same time. For several weeks Mayor Jones has been intensely interested in reaching some means of financing these obligations, and Tuesday, the day of maturity, he was busier than ever. Our Mayor is a man who always conducted his personal business on the principles of pay when due, and he believes the same principle should be held to in the conduct of public affairs.

PASTOR'S UNION OF CHILTON-UNITY ASSOCIATION TO MEET

The Pastor's Union of the Chilton-Unity Association will meet Monday, January 7, at the Baptist Church in Clanton at 10:00 o'clock. Every minister is urged to be present.

EARLE THOMAS LEAVES SCHOOL

Vocational Teacher Will Take Up Duties As State Senator

Isabella High School, the main building of whch was destroyed by fire during the holidays, re-opened Monday morning in temporary quarters at different available places in the community. The church buildings at Isabella and Mulberry are being used to take care of the students so that the work of the present school term may be completed.

The vocational agriculture biulding was not consumed in the fire that wiped out all other buildings and equipment of the school.

At the same time of the re-opening of the school Monday, another change was made when Prof. J. W. Locke took a place on the faculty succeeding Prof. Earle Thomas. Mr. Thomas has been at Isabella for about ten years as head of the vocational agriculture department. He was the first teacher of that branch of work in the county and has made a signal success in the Isabella school and community.

His successor, Mr. Locke, is an experienced teacher of vocational agriculture. He comes here from Mississippi.

Prof. Earle Thomas will take up his duties as a member of the Alabama State Senate the middle of this month, representing the counties of Autauga, Chilton and Shelby. He is giving up his work at Isabella for good, and expects, when he has completed his service in the Senate, to seek other fields of usefulness.

The many friends of Mr. Thomas in the Isabella community and all throughout Chilton county hope that he will remain here in some capacity in the future, as we can ill afford to lose men of his type, usefulness, good spirit and ability.

A cordial welcome is extended to Mr. Locke not only in Isabella community, but to Chilton County as a whole. He is busy this week getting the "lay of the land", and an outline of his work. As soon as he has time to begin to circulate among us a little more, we hope to have a more detailed introduction which we may give of him to the people of the county.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

YOUNG FOREST TREES ARE AVAILABLE FOR PLANTING

Montgomery. — Approximately a quarter million tree seedlings are still available for reforestation purposes in Alabama, according to a statement issued by the State Commission of Forestry. The species on hand comprise, black locust, Osage orange, bald cypress, white ash, black walnut, longleaf pine, short-leaf pine, overcup oak, white oak, persimmon and cow oak. Practically all of these seedlings were produced during 1934. All of these plants may be distributed to tree planters interested in reforestation timber production.

The seedlings can be secured by landowners at $1.50 per thousand f. o. b. Livingston. The trees will be shipped at intervals during the present planting season which extends to March 15.

Application blanks, on the reverse side of which will be found the regulations governing the distribution of seedlings, can be obtained from the office of the State Forester at Montgomery. Shade and ornamental stock are not available for private plantings, since it is not the purpose of the State Commission of Forestry to compete with privte nurseries.

While the planting of forest tree seedlings may be done successfully as late as March 15, it is better in most cases to do the work much earlier. December, January and February are the best months and most landowners will find it convenient to do their forest planting during this period.

STATE GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 31.—With the groundwork for co-ordinated effort between the state and federal conservation agencies already laid, Alabama's wildlife program for the new year will have the added support of a conservative-minded governor.

Gov.-elect Bibb Graves has stated emphatically that he favors the development of the state's wildlife resources and Alabama sportsmen may reasonably expect pregressiveness in step with the broad conservation program undertaken by the federal government during the next four years.

In viewing the game and fish picture of the past year Commissioner I. T. Quinn found little cause for pessimism. The improvement in economic conditions he said, brought more hunters back into the field and sent more fishermen to the banks of streams to fish. Of great significance was the tendency of the sportsmen to organize in seeking better hunting and fishing.

Alabama was blest with good game crops and attracted some of the nation's foremost leaders in the field of conservation to its rich forests and waterways to see for themselves the wildelife resources of the valley on a state is known. Again the Bobwhite led all game birds and animals in popularity, but there was plenty of deer, duck, dove, turkey, bear and squirrel hunting.

Commissioner Quinn has announced that game farming and an expansion in fish culture are aims of the Game and Fisheries Department for the immediate future. During the last year streams in more than 60 counties were restocked with fish from state hatcheries and a building program was undertaken that will greatly increase the output of these hatcheries.

The Tennessee Valley Authority is understood to be ready to develop the wildlift resources of the valley on a planned scale and hunting has been curtailed in the Alabama national forest in anticipation of the addition of some 300,000 arcres to the present forest tract.

The Alabama deep sea rodeo drew a record registeration of 525 anglers who came from more than a dozen states to test their skill at deep sea fishing. With financial aid from the federal government, the Game and Fisheries Department was enabled to resume oyster planting in Mobile waters and a total of 41,000 barrels of oysters and shells were planted.

The first four months of the 1934-35 hunting season produced 15 hunting accidents, 10 of them proving fatal.

W. M. U. CLINIC MEETING TO BE HELD AT LIBERTY HILL

The W. M. U. clinic meeting of the Chilton county association will meet at Liberty Hill on Saturday afternoon, January 5th, at 2 o'clock. Everybody has an invitation to come. This is everybody's day, not just for the officers of the association. Don't forget the date, Saturday, January 5th, at 2 o'clock.—Louanna Jones, Secretary and Treasurer. 2t

ONE-ROOM SCHOOL IS DOOMED

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 29.—The "little red school house," figuratively is setting over Alabama's educational horizon and in "just a few years practically will have disappeared as a factor in the loves of rural school children"—the state department of education said so.

Some of the boys and girls of yesteryear will be hard to "sell on the idea," but the main reason for the rapid disappearance is the fact that the department of education has found the one-room school "generally inefficient and unsatfisfactory."

The reason for the decline was set out today by Dr. E. L. Morphet, department statistician, in announcing that surveys revealed only 1,053 one-room schools left in Alabama as compared with 2,164 in 1920, just 14 years ago.

In the school year 1920-21, almost 60 per cent of all rural white pupils were registered in one-teacher schools, with only 11.4 in six or more-teacher schools. Last year only 25.1 per cent of the pupils were attending one-teacher schools and 50.4 were in schools having at least six teachers.

Not mindful of the "vast sentiment centering around the 'little red school house'," Dr. Morphet said that "these smaller schools are disappearing simply because on the whole they have not accomplished what is demanded of a modern school. They have in general, proven inefficient and unsatisfactory."

Consolidated or district schools, some with a dozen teachers, have grown into new favor with their better facilites, teacher-management, and smaller classes.

Automobile buses pick up the children in the morning and carry them home, making it much easier for the pupils and eliminating in the future that "long walk over the mountain," that almost invariably goes with "the little red schoolhouse."

Those who attended one-teacher rural schools in 1930-31 did not attend as regularly as pupils in the larger schools, Dr. Morphet's figures showing the persentage (average daily attendance) was 14.3 per cent less.

Also surveys showed in 1928 that the number of over-age pupils in the smallest schools was greater than in the larger institutions, and in some cases the number of failures in studies was 20 per cent more in one-teacher schools.

"The fact that one and two-teacher schools have proven inefficient, that work in the upper grades, particularly, demands larger schools, that roads and automobile have been improved and community horizons expanded, have brought a demand for more adequate schools that is not likely to cease until practically all pupils except in the most isolated communities are in schools having at least three teachers," Dr. Marphet said in a press release.

The present generation spots a bare few of the "little red school houses"—mostly painted white now—but the "grandpas" and "grandmas" of tomorrow will carry on with the tales about the legendary school where they were taught "readin' ritin' and 'rightmetic" —because Dr. Morphet wouldn't say positively they would all vanish forever.

BENEFIT PAYMENTS NOW EXCEED 421 MILLION

The cumulative total of rental and benefit payments received by farmers participating in the wheat, cotton, tobacco and corn-hog adjustment programs of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration reached $421,697,389, up to November 1. In addition, disbursements of $169,389,731 were made for removal of surplus agricultural commodities. Of this sum approximately $139,381,00 was in direct payments to farmers for hogs, drought cattle and sheep. Of the rental and beneft payments paid, wheat farmers received $108,668,557; cotton frogers, $166,786,379; corn - hog producers, $129,668,799; and tobacco growers, $16,572,652. Processing and related related taxes collected up to November 1, totaled $550,081,419, and included the following: Wheat, $158,328,178; cotton, $178,608,763; tobacco, $27,595,-345; corn, $7,029,938; hogs $145,034,-586; paper and jute, $10,901,615; sugar $21,646,684; peanuts, $363; cotton ginning tax (under Bankhead Act), $21,-605; tobacco sales tax (under Keer-Smith Act), $269,065; and unclassified, $645,173.

You will note from the above quotations from the Agricultural Adjustment Administration that the farm adjustment program is paying its way. This is more than can be said for most Government operations.

The processing tax levied on the different products for the purpose of paying rental and benefit claims is more than paying the bills. You will note that there has been $178,608,763, tax collected. The cotton growers have received in rental and benefit payments $166,786,379. This leaves a balance of $11,822,384 in the treasury up to December 1, 1934.

AEROTYPE CROWN ETHYL GASOLINE ANNOUNCED TODAY

Standard Oil Company introduces last word in motor fuel

Announcement is made here today that there is now available at all Standard Oil Company dealers and service stations, Aerotype Crown Ethyl, the last word in motor gasoline. This is a new gasoline, a great improvement on the well known Crown Ethyl gasoline, but will be sold at the regular Ethyl price.

In his announcement of the introduction of Aerotype Crown Ethyl, President W. E. Smith, of the Standard Oil Company, at Louisville, writes:

"Through our thousands of dealers and service stations in this state, we are offering Aerotype Crown Ethyl, the very last word in gasoline.

"It will be sold at the regular Ethyl price. Aerotype Crown Ethyl has been perfected for the express purpose of starting more quickly, warming up the motor more rapidly, vaporizing more completely, and with the absolute elimination of all knocking, and with an increase of 30 per cent in potential power.

"For the first time, in Aerotype Crown Ethyl, a true aviation gasoline has been converted into automobile use.

"The Standard Oil Company is proud to offer, with its best wishes for the New Year, a new product—Aerotype Crown Ethyl."

1935 COTTON PLAN PROVIDES INCREASE

A reduction of 25 per cent from the base acreage of cooperating cotton producers for 1935, as compared with the 40 per cent reduction in 1934, was announced by the Secretary of Agriculture and the adminimtration of the Agricultural Adjustment Act. Acting under the terms of the 1934 and 1935 cotton acreage adjustment contract which provides that the maximum rate of reduction that can be required in 1935 is "to reduce the acreage planted to cotton on this farm by an amount not to exceed 25 per cent below the base acreage." The Secreary of Agriculture signed a proclamation making effective for 1935 the approximately 1,004,000 two-year contracts signed during the early part of 1934. It was also announced that new 1-year contracts for 1935 will be offered those producers who did not sign the two-year contract. It is expected hat new contracts will be available soon and that they may be signed and accepted by March 1, 1935. The basis of payment for the 1935 program is 3½ cents per pound "on the average yield of lint cotton per acre for this farm for the years 1928-1932 with a maximum rental of $18.00 per acre" for the acres rented under the contract, and a "parity payment" of 1¼ cents per pound on the farm allotment. The farm allotment, which is the equivalent of 40 per cent of the farm's average production for the base period, represents the percentage of production which ordinarily moves into domestic consumption. For the current crop year, 1934, the basis of payment was 3½ cents per pound as rental and a parity payment of 1 cent per pound. It is pointed out that the rate of reduction would permit an expansion of about 25 per cent of the acreage planted by contracting producers over the acreage planted in 1934. The total amount of rental and benefit payments which will be disbursed under the program is estimated at $94,230,-000. The program will be financed by the processing tax of 4.2 cents per pound on raw cotton. Producers who desire to do so will be permitted to reduce acreage up and including 30 per cent and receive payment therefor. On the basis of current trends in cotton production and average weather conditions, it would not be unreasonable to expect a crop somewhat above 12 million bales with the 25 per cent reduction, but without the Bankhead Cotton Control Act in effect for 1935, total production would be greater and probably would result in a crop of slightly above 13 million bales. The world supplies of American cotton are now indicated at 20,200,000 bales for the 1934-1935 crop year. This figure is in line with past averages of world supplies of American cotton.

With foreign and domestic consumption of American cotton during the current year assumed to be 11 to 12 million bales, the indicated carry-over on August 1, 1935, would be between 8 and 9 million bales, which is higher than a normal carry-over. A total production of about 12 million bales in 1935, would result in a world supply of American cotton for the 1935-36 season of about 20 to 21 million bales, which might result in some increase over our rent supplies in spite of the maximum adjustment under the terms of the contract. The average farm price for cotton for the year ending July 31, 1934, was 9.7 cents per pound. The parity price of cotton is at present 15.6 cents per pound.

Mrs. L. W. Street (Lurlene Miner) arrived here from her home in Washington, D. C., Saturday night, to attend the funeral of her father, Mr. A. N. Miner.

THE NEW FORD V-8 FOR 1935

The New Ford V-8 for 1935 is the biggest and roomiest Ford car ever built. It is a strikingly handsome car, with modern lines and new, luxurious appointments.

But most important of all it is especially designed to give you smooth, easy riding over all kinds of roads—"a front-seat ride for back-seat riders."

This ease of riding is achieved by the use of three basic principles never before combined in a low-price car.

1. Correct distribution of car weight by moving engine and body forward eight and a half inches.

2. New location of seats by which the rear seat is moved forward, toward the center of the car—away from the rear axle and away from the bumps.

3. New spring suspension which permits the use of longer, more flexible springs and increases the springbase to 123 inches.

The result is Center-Poise—which not only gives you a new riding comfort but adds to the stability of the car and its ease of handling. You can take curves with greater safety.

There are many new features in the Ford V-8 for 1935 which make the car still easier to drive. New brakes give more power for stopping quickly with far less foot pressure on the pedal.

A new type of easy-pressure clutch employs centrifugal force to increase efficiency at higher speeds. New steering mechanism makes the car still easier to handle. New, wider, roomier seats.

The New Ford V-8 for 1935 retains the V-8 engine which has demonstrated its dependability and economy in the service of more than a million owners. There are refinements, but no change in basic design. You buy premium performance when you buy this Ford V-8—full 85 horsepower and capable of 80 miles an hour. All Ford V-8 cars for 1935 come equipped with Safety Glass throughout at no additional cost.

The Story of the Bible Told in Pictures

Jesus Baptized by John the Baptist.—"Then Herod, when he saw that he was mocked of the wise men, was exceeding wroth, and sent forth, and slew all the children that were in Bethlehem, and in all the coasts thereof, from two years old and under."—Matthew 2:16. After the massacre of the innocents, and the death of Herod, an angel of the Lord appeared to Joseph in Egypt and told him to take Mary and the child, Jesus, into Israel. "And he came and dwelt in a city called Nazareth: that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophets, He shall be called a Nazarene."—Matthew 2: 23. "And the child grew, and waxed strong in spirit, filled with wisdom; and the grace of God was upon Him."—Luke 2: 40. All four Gospels record the ministry of John the Baptist. Matthew, Mark and Luke record that baptisms were made by the evangelist, and describe the baptism of Jesus. "Now when all the people were baptized, it came to pass, that Jesus also being baptized, and praying, the heaven was opened, And the Holy Ghost descended in a bodily shape like a dove upon Him, and a voice came from heaven, which said, Thou art my beloved Son; in Thee I am well pleased."—Luke 3: 21-22. This illustration is from Merian's story of the Bible in pictures, engraved in 1626-1630.

25,000 CENSUS WORKERS BEGIN ENUMERATION OF NATION FARMS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—Aproximately 25,000 federal census employees today began the huge task of enumerating the more than six million farms and ranches of the United States in what is probably the most important agricultural census in the nation's history, according to a statement released by Director William L. Austin, Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce. Plans call for the completion of the canvass before the end of January.

"The Fifteenth Decennial Census Act, approved June 18, 1929, directed that a mid-decennial Census of Agriculture be taken January 1, 1935, for the calendar year 1934," Director Austin said. "Because of the tremendous upheaval in the great basic industry of agriculture, due to the depression, drought and other factors new farm statistics are urgently needed in connection with the Government's vast recovery program.

"The earnest cooperation of the farmer is necessary to the success of this census, for it is one of the federal actvities designed primarily for his benefit. However, the welfare of agriculture affects all other industries, directly or indirectly, and the public generally. The statistics are necessary not only for the ardinary tranasaction of governmental business, but also for allotment programs. These programs range from the allocations of the Agrcultural Adjustment Admnistration to the Federal Emergency Relief and Farm Credit Administrations. Indeed, the benefits expected to be derived from this census are incalculable and will have a marked influence on the future welfare of agriculture and the country as a whole. At the completion of the canvass every effort will be put forth to make preliminary tabulation reports available at the earliest possible moment.

"Due to the splendid cooperation of newspapers, farm publications, radio broadcasting stations, state and county farm agencies and organizations and educational institutions in disseminating information concerning the importance of this farm census more than a million copies of the sample schedule have been distrbuted to farmers. Those who do not have sample schedules are urged to write phone or call at the farm census headquarters in their district, procure a copy, study the questions and have their records ready when the enumerator calls. The headquarters for the Sixth District of Alabama is located at Tuscaloosa, Alabama.

"The Bureau desires to call attention to the law which provides that the individual return made by each farmer is an absolutely confdential government report and to emphasize the fact that no individual figures will be used for taxation purposes nor given to any tax official. All enumerators, as well as all Census employees, are sworn to secrecy and are required to read the law and the severe penalties established for any disclosure of information. Only sworn employees of the Census Bureau have access to the files. Section 9 of the Fifteenth Decennial Census Act provides penalties for failure to answer questions asked by enumerators or for giving false information.

"Enumerators are legal residents of the districts which they canvass. Some, if not all, of the farmers residing in an enumeration district will know the enumerator personally and they will do well to see that an accurate report is returned for their district. With the program now being carried on by the Government to assist agriculture an inaccurate report might readily react to the disadvantage of the farmers in that particular district.

"The farm schedule is comprised of 100 questions covering practically every important ramification of the agricultural industry. Of course, very few farmers will be required to answer all of the questions, only the ones pertaining to their particular activities. Questions to be answered will include farm tenure; farm population; farm acreage, which includes all crop land, pasture land and woodland; total value of the farm; acreage and yield of each of the principal field crops and vegetables; number of trees and yield of the principal fruits and nuts; number and value of each class of livestock, and poultry and eggs."

County Agent, Fant, has a number of sample blanks to be filled out when the enumerator comes. He will be glad to give one to any farmer who desires to study it in advance.

CENTER HILL NEWS

There has been much to happen in this community since we last wrote for the paper.

By the time this is printed, the old year will be gone and the new year will be ushered in.

Those who missed the play at Center Hill certainly missed something that was fine.

Sunday school was almost rained out last Sunday. Our prayer meeting is still going. Remember prayer meeting and B. Y. P. U. next Sunday night. Mrs. Madge Howard will be in chage of the prayer meeting. and Mr. Gene Ray will serve as captain of group No. 1, which will be in charge of B. Y. P. U.

Mrs. Lizize Retherford was buried at this place on Friday, December 21. Rev. R. M. Honeycutt preached the funeral. Martin and son was in charge of the burial. Mrs. Retherford was loved by all who knew her. She will be greatly missed but not forgotten.

She was the wife of the late Florence Retherford who died several years ago. She leaves to mourn her loss one son, Floyd Retherford; three daughters, Mrs. Chester McGraw, Misses Louise and Ethel Retherford; one grand daughters, Peggy Sue McGraw; her father, Jeams Glass; and six brothers, John, Jap, Pat and George, all of Jemison; and Wylie, of Clanton; and one sister, Mrs. Henry Beasley, of Jemison.

She had suffered for about two years with cancer. What she suffered no one can tell. You children should rejoice that she is easy, instead of greiving for her.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Hudmon are the proud parents of a fine baby boy. He made his arrival on Christmas morning.

Miss Jessie Lee Shannon, of Decator is spending the holidays with her aunt, Mrs. Ora Barnes.

Mr. Hubbard Watson, of Northport is visiting Mr. Leo Cobb.

Mrs. Winford Jackson entertined at her home Friday afternoon December 28, from two until four o'clock with a miscellaneous shower in honor of Mr. Alton Cobb. The house was beautifully decorated with holly and ferns. Games were player and all had a good time in general. Cake and hot chocolate were served to the following ladies: Mesdames J. E. George, J. E. Cobb, Wess White, B. L. Cobb, J. C. White, Winford Jackson, Doyle Miller, Lonnie Cobb. Reuben White, Alton Cobb and Joe Carey and Misses Mildred Cobb, Ollean Miller, and Mable Cobb.

Mrs. Jackson was assisted by Mrs. Reuben White in serving the refreshments.

Mrs. Lonnie Cobb presided over the bride's book. Mrs. Cobb received many beautiful and useful gifts.

Mr. B. L. Cobb is carrying the mail on Route 1 for Mr. E. B. Langston, who has gone to Pasadena, Cal., to attend the ball game at Rose Bowl. Let all hope Alabama wins.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

Just at this time, when Europe seems to be in a more troubled state than at any period in its history, the occasion seems to have arisen when a great many of aur own internationalists believe that Uncle Sam should plunge squarely and head first into the European mess. Practically all of our statesmen from George Washington and Thomas Jefferson on down have warned us that we ought to avoid entangling commitments and attend strictly to our own business. They have warned us that there is no such thing as permanent friendships among nations and that the best way for us to avoid hostility is to remain away from the scene of hostilities. Yet in spite of these facts and in spite of additional facts that a century and a half of our national existence have proved these statements to be imminently wise, there are still a great many international busybodies who seem always eager and anxious to get Uncle Sam embroiled in any trouble which may break out anywhere. They are the fellows who are always eager to settle a neighborhood quarrel and usually get a brick on the chin.

They are the George Bungles of that international comic sheet known as world politics.

Just now there seem to be two danger spots in Europe. One of these is the Saar Basin and the other is Jugoslavia. Either one may burst into flames at any time. The Saar Basin trouble will come to a focus in January and will then become either better or worse. The Jugoslavian problem is liable to get worse at any moment.

The Saar Basin is a particularly rich bit of territory lying between France and Germany and controlled since the war by the League of Nations under policies dictated by France. Under international agreement the people of the Saar are to vote in January, 1935, as to whether they want to be governed by Germany, France, or remain under the League. People in the Saar are heavily Catholic and for a time it looked as though Hitler's trouble with the church might keep it from becoming German. Hitler seems to have settled some of these troubles, however, and it now appears probable that the Saar will vote to join Germany. In fact, the French who do not want this but who are always "practical" are now beginning to ask how much they are going to get out of the Saar mines.

Trouble in Jugoslavia is due to the fact that assassination of the king is supposed to have been planned on Hungarian soil. The Jugoslavs hate the Italians but are allied with the French. They also hate the Hungarians who are allied with the Italians. Trouble with Hungary means trouble with Italy. But the French and Italians are on the surface trying to become friendly which makes it very dangerous all around, as Jugoslavia cannot be friendly to both. In the meantime Hitler who loves nobody but Germany is sitting off watching Austria as a cat watches a mouse and wondering how Germany can take advantage of any situation that arises over the much befuddled affair.

It is such messes as these that our international Gearge Bungles would like to have us mix into. To the average American it would seem that there couldn't be a much worse time for the United States to get into European politics. Fortunately the present administration has so far been inclined to avoid international troubles and to remain at home. Let us hope it continues to do so. Yet in spite of this there seems to be greater danger now than for a dozen years that the United States will get into the international comedy strip by joining the World Court or League of Nations. It is the duty now of every American to do what he can, in the name of American peace, to avoid such a contingency.

OUR GRAIN IMPORTATIONS

Because of th difference in the price level between grains here and abroad, we already are hearing about the importation of wheat and other cereals into the United States. Crop limitation and drought in this country have so cut down the production that the price of grain has gone beyond the limit. Because of this condition it has been profitable for certain grain growing nations to pay the American tariff and still ship grains to the United States and derive a profit. It is said that quite a part of a great number of surplus grain crops of other nations will now come to the United States. We have already heard of several cargoes of rye from Eastern Europe which have come into the United States after paying the tariff to compete with the product of the American farmer. It is now reported that low grade French wheat is to be sent here and that Canada is gathering up considerable crops of coarse or feed grains for the purpose of shipping these on to the United States.

The first purpose of the administration in its crop limitation in the United States was to cut down production here so that American farmers could make some money through the added price. It was not contemplated, however, that foreign farmers would grab advantage of the situation to dump their crops on our markets at a good profit. The alien farmers have not cut down their production in proportion to the United States. Therefore somebody is going to get the worst of it and it is not going to be the alien farmers. The American farmer ought to be permitted to raise enough to be able to compete in the world market. If he does not get this permission he certainly should have a tariff high enough to protect him in his own market. To do otherwise is to commit economic suicide.

Whose Money Is It?

Says the Charleston News and Courier:

"Respectfully The News and Courier suggests that when they, or the Roosevelt administration, talk of 'government' bearing the risk of loss in industry, of government spending billions on housing, of government feeding the hungry, they substitute for the word 'government', the word 'people'.

"Let the New Dealers say 'the people are distributing $1,000,000 a month for relief in South Carolina.

"When they say 'government' they leave the unthinking to assume that some faraway some foreign, some magical agency, some angelic benefactor drawing his money from the moon or Saturn, is doing all these good works.

"The New Dealers distribute only the people's money. Government is the people.

"Why not discard the word 'government' and proclaim what the people are doing, spending day by day for the other people?

"They are using the word government to hide from the taxpayers, the people, what they are themselves giving to the unemployed, to bring back 'recovery'.

"For the taxpayers are the people. Who does not pay federal taxes?"

There is more to this than meets the eye and it deserves a great deal of studying. When we read of college professors with mortar board hats joyously distributing a golden stream of federal wealth we have a right to ask ourselves "whose money?" When Mr. Roosevelt's administration spends several billion dollars to feed the hungry, clothe the naked, rebuild the structure of the nation, and put the power in federal power houses, let it be known that this is not Mr. Roosevelt's money. It does not belong to the gentlemen with various educational degrees, who say they are making over the nation. Nor is this the government's money. The national administration can only get its money from the government. The government has no money of its own and can only spend the money it gets from the people. Therefore it is the people's money which is spent. This is a proposition so plain that even the college graduates ought to understand it, even after a season of shell shock due to too much football.

If Mr. Smith, through the government, is feeding Mr. Jones, clothing him, giving him a new house, a new electric washer and a radio, let it be known that this is being done with Mr. Jones' money. Mr. Smith is not paying for it and is in a good deal of the position of the fellow who says to Mr. Jones, "I'm so sorry you're hungry. Here is one of your own hams. Go and eat it."

Of course Mr. Smith will have to pay just as all American consumers will have to pay, no more or no less. The Joneses will have to do most of the paying as there are more of them.

No matter how lavish the government may be, the taxpayers will have to foot the bill. If they have no houses they pay taxes as renters; if they have no farms they pay tax when they eat pork or flour; if they have no oil wells they pay tax when they buy gasoline. It is a great game and the only way you can beat it is to stay at home, live in a tent, quit eating and go nudist. In the meantime remember that the fellow who talks so loudly about helping you so much is doing it at your own expense. Taxation may be for a moment a redistribution of wealth, but it always ends up the same way. Either the same fellow gets it again or nobody gets any.

PENALIZING THRIFT

One policy on which the administration plumes itself is that of redistributing wealth. This movement is actually proceeding on a broad front. Property is taken from our older communities and states to be given to newer distant sections, and the earnings of the thrifty and forehanded are appropriated for the benefit of those lacking those virtues. A favorite device is to capture the savings prudent persons by hard work have put by as a reliance for their future and bestow them elsewhere or use them to further pet schemes for socializing the country. If any object, they are told they need not worry as everybody's old age will be made rosy by the federal or state government.

One step in furthering this policy was accomplished through devaluation of the gold dollar by approximately one half, an act that struck at all property and every savings account, small and large. This course was previously pursued in the Old World with painful results.

But this is only one of the numerous ways employed to relieve the provident and self-reliant of their cash. The same purpose is promoted through property, income, processing and other special taxes. All these levy in one way or another on earnings and capital investment for the purpose of promoting the administration's spending. Still another method is by setting up organizations for public ownership of utilities and industries forcing private concerns to the wall to the discomfiture of investors.

With all such measures directed against communities and organizations that have given a good account of themselves and established busy centers of employment, they are being subjected to a fresh line of attack. Having appropriated savings and earnings, the Santa Claus dispensation is now developing a large scale arrangement for taking their industries away from them. This is proposed to be attained through a policy of decentralization.—Springfield Union.

A few years more of the Brain Trust, and the United States Constitution will know how to sympathize with the Ten Commandments. —Osborne Farmer.

An internationalist is a fellow who thinks the little fellow who, belives in his own country first is a hopeless provincial.

After we join the League of Nations and the World Court and cancel the war debts the internationalists will then want us to start lending the European nations some nice new money.

We got a letter from a fellow who owes us a little money the other day and he said he would pay us when Europe settled with Uncle Sam. That is the coldest turn down we have had this year.

January is generally a foggy month in Washington, D. C. Whether or not by coincidence it is also the month for the meeting of Congress.

The government now has a "managed currency." So have we. Sometimes we manage to make it last nearly to the end of the week.

Some thief stole a police car in New York City the other night. Any time now we are expecting to read in the papers that somebody has swiped the Goddess of Liberty.

Birds Of A Feather

Sometimes defeated political candidates take their medicine, like good sportsmen, and fall into line to support their party nominees. And, sometimes, they don't do this, but sit on the fence, and I have heard of a few who go over on the other side. Every time I hear of one of this latter stripe, I think of a story I once heard, which went like this: In a southern town the members of a large negro church were having a grand all-day "rally", and there were hundreds of negroes present. The master of ceremonies for the day had been to a well-known and highly respected white leader in a church belonging to the same creed as the negro church, and the "big white preacher" had consented to come out and speak to the colored "brethren" in the afternoon. Accordingly, he arrived, and the master of ceremonies rose to introduce him to his colored audience, and these were his words. "We has wid us, breddern, Rev. Braxton, one of the greatest white leaders of our faith. I would be glad that you would favor him wid your close attention and best order. It is not often that I present a white speaker to you, but I am proud to bring this one to you. You may be sure he has a powerful message for you. As said before, he is one of the greatest of our creed, and, though his skin may be white, his heart is as black as any of us."

What Is A Whiffiebat?

Just what is a whiffiebat? You need not look for the word in your dictionary—it isn't there. I never heard it used until a short time ago, and that time it was in reference to the last American set of congressmen. Some editor referred to the congressmen as "a set of whiffiebats". Another editor got his dictionary down and tried to find the word, and failing, wrote to the first editor, asking for the definition. Here is the answer he got: "A whiffie is a sharp cutting tool. A bat is a little creature with very little sense, and no courage whatever, and he hibernates with the first chilly breeze. Now, when the last set of congressmen met, they went in with their axes all whetted to do lots of wood-cutting. But when the president got with them, he merely blew chilling breath on all their big ideas, and the whole mob of them hibernated just like they had been chloroformed. Their action was so disgusting that I didn't want to bemean any fish, fowl or animal by naming them after said creature, so I happened to hit on the term—'Whiffiebat'. I hope you will agree with me that it was appropriate, because it was done to keep from dishonoring the said fish, fowls and animals."

Bought And Paid For

If you are an automobile owner (and the most of us are), have you ever stopped to think just how much you pay out for taxes during the life of a car. One automobile journal gives some interesting figures on the subject. The average car owner drives some 12,500 miles per year, and the average life of a car is four years. That's 50,000 miles the average man drives his car before trading it in. The average gasoline per mileage is 15. That gives approximately 3,300 gallons of gasoline you burn in your car during its life, and in Alabama you pay seven cents a gallon tax, besides any special city tax. This amounts to $231.00 tax you pay on gas alone. The average tag tax is $15.00 or $60.00 during the life of the car. The average property tax you pay is $4.00 per year, or $16.00 for the four years you keep it. This much is sure, besides any tax you might pay on tires, oil, etc. This amount is about $322.00—everything considered, it will run to $350.00 for four years. Then, with the average price of purchased cars around $1,000.00, every time you buy three cars and wear them out, you pay for four. In other words, there is a car you buy and pay for, but never get. Think of that when your representative dresses up and starts off to Montgomery for the next meeting of the state legislature. In the words of a popular song of a few years ago: "Something should be done about that!"

Same Here, Brother

One well known former Republican, and a big shot, at that, who supported Roosevelt and the other Democrats in the 1932 fiasco, has just made his confession. Not long ago, during a speech he made in his home state, the big boy had quite a bit to say. Since he was so hot for Roosevelt, somebody wanted to know why he now speaks against him. He replied: "I am not speaking against Mr. Roosevelt; he is a fine man. But I believe he can concot some of the wildest schemes ever revealed to mankind. Take this relief business, for instance. During the 1932 campaign, Mr. Hoover, (may he rest forever), made the assertion that if Roosevelt was elected, grass would grow in the streets of the cities and towns of Amerca. Well, I laughed loud and long at that one. But blame me, I believe the guy would have been proved right but for the relef business. Mr. Roosevelt saw to it that this grass-growing business didn't get out of hand. He figured out the relief program, and the reliefers did the rest. They took care of the grass quesion. They kept it all stomped down, standing around waiting for the government to give them something. Meanwhile, you couldn't hire one of them to work for love or money—not while they could get by for nothing."

Who Is Getting Rich,

When President Roosevelt was stumping the country in behalf of his candidacy back in 1932, he said on several occasions: "I want to see the list of millionaries dwindle, and this money scattered out among the common people. During the last past Republican administrations, the number of millionaries in this country has multiplied many times over. I want to try to put a stop to that. I want a re-distribuion of wealth". That little speech was supposed to mean that Republicans stood for helping the rich man to become richer, at the expense of the poor man, who, of course, would become poorer. Now, let's see what has happened. The people fell for this "brotherly" line, all right. They sent the man to Washington who would "take the money away from he rich and give it to the common people." And, a recent survey shows that during 1934, the list of millionaries has increased by 26 in the country. But I haven't heard any of the "common people" complaining of having received any of this money that the millionaries were supposed to be hoarding away "under the protection of Republican administration." Here's what has really happened. Mr. Roosevelt's "managed money" program has had the effect of cutting down the "par value" of every dollar in the country from 100 cents to 59.6 cents, no matter who it belonged to. That means that if a man had a million dollars in 1932, and still has it, he really has only $569,000. Likewise, the little fellow who had a hundred dollars then, now really has only $59.60. Now, let's use the old think-tank a bit. Who can best afford to stand this loss—the man with a million, or the man with a hundred? I don't know how others feel about it, but it seems to me that the man who had a million and who now has been cut down to nearly half that is still in far better shape, in proportion, than the little fellow who has seen his hundred shaved off to nearly half. The rich man can re-invest, and soon build back to a million again, but it isn't so easy for the other fellow to build his $59.60 back to a hundred by the sweat of his brow. I think the little fellow got the little end of the horn again, as usual. Besides all this, the report shows that, while the number of millionaries is still increasing, the average small income is still shrinking. Page the millionarie-breaker, please.—Man in the Moon.

AIDING THE UNNEEDY

The way in which the government is helping the building industres back to their feet is wonderful to behold.

The big idea is to encourage people to repair their dwelling places by loaning them the necessary funds.

Anxious to do his part, a man in one of the smaller cities of Michigan approached the government's representative the other day and asked for a loan of $2,000 to fix up his house.

The representative informed him that in order to get such a loan he must be able to show an annual income of $3,500!

Why a man with an income of $3,500 a year should have to borrow money to keep or put his home in repair is a question that only a Brain Truster could answer.

The experience of this particular applicant for assisance is illustrative of much of the administration's widely touted but self-defeating efforts to be generous and helpful.

A person with the necessary gilt-edged security for a loan of this sort generally does not have to go to the government to get ready money.

The people who really need the proffered aid haven't the required income or security—and therefore do not get it.—Detroit Free Press.

LISTEN TO COOLIDGE

At this season of the year when our thoughts naturally turn to questions of seriousness it may be just as well for a moment to harken to the wisdom of Calvin Coolidge. Although Mr. Coolidge has been away from us for only a few years it appears that he has been already hopelessly outmoded. In these days of trying to spend ourselves rich, and to simplify the government by adding new bureaus, such words as "economy" and "decentralization of power" seem to be as archaic as a quotation from Chaucer. Coolidge was President from 1925 to 1929, and although Professor Tugwell has taught many to believe that this was a terrible period when pirates of industry tore at each other's throats and the rugged individualist was little better than an anthipoid age, it is strange indeed that we now hear of efforts to get us back to price level and the economic status of 1926 which was in the very midst of the Coolidge administration. Listen then to some of the words of Calvin Coolidge which were at one time regarded as words of wisdom:

Address of May 15, 1926: "No plan of centralization has ever been adopted which did not result in bureaucracy, tyranny, inflexibility, reaction and decline. Of all the forms of government, those exercised by bureaus are about the least satisfactory to an enlightened and progressive people. Being irresponsible, they became autocratic, and being autocratic, they resist all development. Unless bureaucracy is constantly resisted it breaks down representative government and overwhelms democracy. It is the one element of our institutions that sets up the pretense of having authority over everybody and being responsible to nobody."

December 7, 1926: "I am in favor of reducing rather than expanding government bureaus which seek to regulate and control the business activities of the people. Everyone is aware that abuses exist, and will continue to exist, as long as we are limited by human imperfections. Unfortunately, human nature cannot be changed by an act of the legislature. It is too much assumed that because an abuse exists, it is the business of the national government to provide a remedy. The presumption should be that it is the business of the local and state governments. Such national action results in encroachment upon the salutary independence of the states and by undertaking to supercede their natural authority fills the land with bureaus and departments which are attempting to do what it is impossible for them to accomplish and brings our whole system of government into disrespect and disfavor."

December 7, 1927: "To relieve the states of their just obligations by resort to the federal treasury in the final result is hurtful rather than helpful to the sate, and unfair to the payers of national taxes. To tempt the states by federal subsidies to sacrifice their vested rights is not wholesome practice, no matter how worthy the object to be obtained Federal interference in state functions can never be justified as a permanent continuing policy even if, which doubtful, such interference is warranted by emergent conditions as a temporary expedient."

August 14, 1924: "We are likely to hear a great deal about liberal thought and progressive action. It is well for the county to have liberality in thought and progress in action, but its greatest asset is common sense. It is not in brilliant conceptions and strokes of genius that we shall find the chief reliance of this country, but in the home, in the school and in religion. America must continue to defend these shrines."

We anxiously await the report of the man and his wife who went ten miles into the stratosphere as to wheher or not they saw the top of the national debt.—Greenleaf Sentinel.

Every man should lift his hat when the flag passes by. He should also do his best to get along without aid from the government that flag betokens.—Atchison Globe.

People are beginning to wonder why this administration refused to pay the soldier's bonus. That would have scattered the money about as evenly as any plan.—Jewell Co. Republican.

A Chicago girl who has been asleep for over two years is gradually awakening. There may be hope for us Republicans yet.

"I suppose if I were to die tomorrow you'd marry some other woman immediately," snapped the nagging wife. "Not right away; I'd take a ltlie rest first," the henpecked husband retorted.—Hiawatha World.

We haven't any dictator in America but we have a lot of nice red tape manipulators.

FOR PEACE

Military active pacifists would do well to consider carefully the program for peace of the American Legion as outlined by National Commander Frank N. Belgrano durng his Milwaukee visit. Mr. Belgrano condemned as ineffective and puerile the merely negative proposals of student, church radical organizations which fell that the way to peace is by refusing to take up arms in case of war. Really effective policy, he declared, demands two things. The first is national preparedness for all eventualties. The second is a universal draft in war time of all the manpower and all the resources of the country.

There is practical sense in what Mr. Belgrano says. The world is not greatly impressed by the assertions of little groups of individuals that they will not bear arms in times of war. The world does not believe that these individuals know now what they will do if war should come. Certainly most of them would be willing to defend their kin in case of invasion. Certainly at least some of them would, if the cause seemed to them just, recede from their present "belligerent pacifism." If war should come, they would, in the last analysis, do pretty much what public opinion demanded of them.

The real way to curb war, then is to make war generally unattractive to nations and peoples—to create a public sentiment which views war as the last recourse when all else has been tried. As our own country's contribution, the Legion proposes preparedness and general conscription. The idea of the first is to moke ourselves so nearly invulnerable that no other nation will seek to pick a quarrel with us. The idea of the second to make fighting so profitless an undertaking that our own people will seek to avoid it, if humanly possible. The Legion's program, then, seeks to avoid war in two different and telling directions.

Even militant pacifists should be able to see that, in a world of armaments, defenselessness invites trouble. Look at China. This country can afford to disarm only if other nations do the same. If the purpose is right, preparedness is indeed insurance against ambitious belligerency from without. And the universal conscription of men and wealth is indeed insurance against ambitions belligerency from wthout. And the universal conscription of men and wealth is similar insurance against belligerency within; it is insurance that the purpose of preparedness will stay right.—Milwaukee Journal.

GOVERNMENT IN BUSINESS

In a very factual article in the December issue of the National Republic magazine, F. G. R. Gordon writes the following:

"At this particular time this nation is more in danger of going over to state socialism than it is to a soviet regime or to a Socialist party control, both of which follow state socialism.

"There are some 16,000,000 citizens in this nation who are yelling: 'Let Uncle Sam do it.'

"They want to socalize the railroads, the wire systems, the gas and electric industries, the coal mines, the banks and so on; and if the state socialists can succeed in all this, then it will be a step to take over shipping by river and sea; to grab millions of land, just as several Austrian states have already done; to socialize mills and factories engaged in feeding and clothing the human race; and this means state socialism.

"One group will yell for the socialization of the electric light industry; another for the railways, another for the coal mines, but there isn't any more economic or political sense in socializing the mines or electric light industry than in socializing the newspapers, radio, farms and grocery stores. Indeed, there isn't as much.

"The average family in this nation spends sixty-six cents out of every dollar for food, clothing and shelter, the three great prime necessities of the human race. The average family spends less than two cents for all the electric service they use. In round numbers the cost for domestic service for the use of electricity is $600,000,000 a year; the cost for the masses who attend the movies is $900,000,000 a year. Why isn't there a drive on to socialize the show business? Oh is there?

"Radical politicians have already made a big advance in socializing the electric industry, for since the first socialized electric light plant was installed there have been established almost 4,000 plants. And right here I make a most important point: The U. S. Census for the electric industry for 1932 shows that all but 1,592 of these 4,000 plants have gone back to private operations. If there wde any such thing as success these 4,000 would have grown to embrace practically all of this giant industry.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. F. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
©, Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for January 6

PETER'S CONVERSION AND CALL

LESSON TEXT—John 1:35-42; Mark 1:14-18.

GOLDEN TEXT—And Jesus said unto them, Come ye after me, and I will make you to become fishers of men.—Mark 1:17.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Why Peter Went With Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter Enrolls in Jesus' School.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Accepting a Great Leader.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Ways of Winning Men to Christ

For the next three months the lessons center around the apostle Peter The aim of the lesson committee was to acquaint the members of the Sunday school with the life and writings of Peter.

I. The Conversion of Peter (John 1:35-42).

1. John pointing his disciples to Jesus (vv. 29-34). Through the testimony of John the Baptist his disciples were brought to Jesus.

2. Two of John's disciples follow Jesus (vv. 35-37). As a result of the Baptist's testimony, two of his disciples left him and followed Jesus. One of these disciples was Andrew (v. 40), and presumably the other was John. When the Baptist pointed out Jesus as the Lamb of God, the long-expected Messiah, these disciples sought further acquaintance with Jesus. When they looked upon Jesus, they were induced to follow him.

3. The two disciples abiding with Jesus (vv. 38, 39).

a. Jesus' question (v. 38). When Jesus saw the disciples following, he kindly inquired as to their business.

b. The disciples' reply (v. 39). They answered his question by inquiring as to his dwelling place. Their reply showed their desire to go apart privately where they could open their hearts unto him. He invited them to his place of abode, where they enjoyed sweet fellowship with their Master.

4. Andrew bringing Peter to Jesus (vv. 40-42). The very genius of Christianity is self-propagation. The usual method is to begin with those nearest us, home folks and relatives, and pass out to ever-widening circles. The disciples who enjoyed fellowship with Jesus went at once to tell others of the priceless treasure they had found. This is always true of the real disciple. Andrew bringing his brother Peter is a beautiful example of brotherly affection, expressing itself in bringing him to Christ. When Andrew had witnessed to Peter about Christ he brought him to Jesus where he could enjoy personal intercourse. This was a great piece of work for Andrew, for Peter became one of the pillars of the church.

II. The Call of Peter (Mark 1:14-18).

1. Jesus preaching in Galilee (vv. 14, 15). The growing opposition to Jesus moved him to change from Judaea to Galilee. He accepted the fate of John the Baptist as foreshadowing his own death. Observe—

a. What he preached (v. 14). The Gospel of the Kingdom of God, which meant the good news of the near approach of the rule of God as predicted by the prophets.

b. How he preached it (v. 15).

(1) The time is fulfilled and the Kingdom of God is at hand.

This meant that the time had now come for the appearance of the Messiah and the establishment of his Kingdom.

(2) Repent. This meant that the people should turn around, change their minds and attitude toward Christ, and accept him as their king.

(3) Believe the Gospel. Then, as now, men needed to believe the Gospel of Christ.

2. Jesus called Peter and Andrew to become fishers of men (vv. 16-18). Jesus called this pair of brothers for service in his kingdom. It is to be noted that these men had previously been called to be disciples of Christ (John 1:36-42). They are now called to service. Jesus first calls men to him for salvation; those who accept that call have an additional call to service. Note—

a. From what they were called (v. 16). They were called from positions of definite service; they were fishers.

b. To what they were called (v. 17) To be fishers of men. They no doubt had been successful fishers. The qualities which made them good fishermen namely patience, bravery to face the storm and darkness of the night, and perseverance which led them to toil all night, though no fish were caught, would make them good fishers of men.

c. Their obedience (v. 18). Straightway they forsook their nets and followed him. Obedience meant sacrifice, painful separation, the giving up of all business interests, and the leaving of their father behind.

Short Cut to Happiness

If anyone would tell you the shortest, surest way to all happiness and all perfection, he must tell you to make it a rule to yourself to thank and praise God for everything that happens to you.

Prayer

Perhaps we do not think enough what an effective service prayer is, especially intercessory prayer. We do not believe as we should how it might help those we so fain would serve.

Dr. V. J. Bragg, Dr. C. O. Lawrence and Dr. J. E. Edgar spent Monday on a hunting trip to Choctaw County.

Woodrow Durbin Winner of Award Given By Congressman W. B. Oliver

Isabella Boy Most Outstanding In Sixth Congressional District

Woodrow Durbin, 19-year-old Senior II student at the Isabella High school, has been officially notified that he is winner of the Oliver award, offered by Congressman W. B. Oliver to the most outstanding boy in vocational work in the Sixth Congressional District, of which Mr. Oliver is Representative.

Young Durbin received notice a few days ago that he has been named recipient of this honor. The award is a trip to Washington, D. C., with all expenses paid and $25.

About a year ago, the F. F. A. chapter entertained Congressman Oliver at a banquet at Jemison. At that time young Durbin appeared on the program, which was presided over by his brother, Marvin Durbin, who, too, won outstanding recognition for his work in the vocational field. It was at this banquet that Mr. Oliver announced his intention of making this award to the boy in his district who performed the most outstanding work during the scholastic year.

Isabella school is one of the fourteen vocational schools in this congressional district and in winning the Oliver award, Young Durbin successfully competed with between 400 and 500 other vocational students.

He is the son of Mrs. Ola Edwards, of the Fairview community, and is recognized by his neighbors as an outstanding farmer. He entered the Isabella school in 1931 and has made an enviable record since thatstime.

Commenting on his work at the school, Mr. Durbin said: "In 1931 I started in vocational agriculture at Isabella. My first year I took animal husbandry for my project, tending a brood sow and litter. In connections with this project I also cultivated three acres of corn in order to produce feed for my hogs. I raised a litter of 16 pigs my first year.

"The second year I took field crops and carried another corn project, continuing with my sow and litter. Again I raised 16 pigs and averaged 40 bushels per acre on my corn. My third year, which was last year, I took over the home orchard project, begun by my brother, and on this orchard produced enough fruit for the home and enough for one other family. To these, I added a poultry project, having now 1,380 chickens. I also cultivated 10 acres of cotton and continued my corn and hog projects.

"This work at Isabella has taught me to really appreciate the farm and farm life. I have learned how to do better farm work and to value my home surroundings.

"I am desply grateful for the recognition and honor that has been given me in being the recipient of this award. I believe that the interest of Congressman Olver in this work is going to mean much in its future development and influence."

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

Recently it was my privilege to conduct an eight-day evangelistic campaign in Londonderry, Ireland. This is one of the most remarkable towns historically speaking, in all of Europe. Every one to whom I talked told me the story of the siege in the 16th century which continued from early December until the first of the following August. The walls are there. The ancient gates remain. The gates were closed for many long weary months the people were under siege. It was a small town' yet seven thousand people, so it is reported, died, but the town would not surrender. This story has been told from parent to child for generations. I have never been anywhere where the people were so completely sold on their own town.

During the siege of Londonderry there was a man named Lundy who suggested as a matter of expediency that the town surrender. They burned Lundy. Ever since, once a year, they burn him in effigy. This has been going on for nearly three hundred years. The ancestors of the present citizens of Londonderry fought for religious liberty. Before the siege protestants and Catholics worshipped together in the wonderful cathedral which still stands. There are some things worth fighting for. Religious liberty is one of them. Under our American system of government every man has a right to worship God according to the dictates of his conscience. No evangelical Christian need ever fear as long as that type of religious liberty is granted to our people. The writer has visited in countries where there is no religious liberty. You Christians should get down on your knees once a day and thank God for your precious privilege under the stars and stripes.

Vive-President Graves

An Alabamian who knows the man and what he stands for does not have to borrow on his imagination and enthusiasm to picture Goversor-elect Bibb Graves as the ideal running mate for President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1936. Alabama's incoming chief executive possesses every qudlification for the high office in Washington. And, furthermore, President Roosevelt is as much aware of that fact as any man in the United States. Col. Graves went straight to Roosevelt's private sanctums, in Washington and Warm Springs, when he had matters of import to discuss with the President, and on each occasion the President was impressed with the Alabamian's knowledge of State and national affairs, and particularly impressed with his loyalty to the New Deal.

No other southern gentleman is better qualified than Col. Graves to serve his country as its vice-president. No other American citizen is more American, more democratic, more profund in his New Deal ideas and thoughts, more diplomatic in his dealings with the other man, more worthy of the high honor than Bibb Graves. And, above all else, Alabama deserves the honor and the nation needs Bibb Graves, especially at this time when President Roosevelt must surround himself with the best talent the country affords.

God needed an annex to Heaven, so He made Alabama.

"How Should a Child Drink?" asks the Montgomery Advertiser. If it must drink, we humbly suggest, for it's health's sake, that it be diluted, either with ice-water or gingerale. meaning the drink, not the child.

Three hundred six shopping days until Christmas. Shop early!

Montgomery—A mammy rocking a cradle.

When a man fills a public office for years, runs for re-election and nobody dares oppose him, it's a safe bet that man knows his job. When election years roil around, the electorate of Alabama say to themselves, "We have a good man in that office, so why elect another?" They refer, of course, to that venerable trustworthy official, State Auditor C. E. McCall, than whom there is none better, none more popular, none more efficient.

A city, a state, a church, a home and a profession suffered an irreparable loss in the recent death of General James B. Stanley, who established the Greenville Advocate in 1865 and edited it uninterruptedly up to the day of his passing. No other newspaper publisher enjoys such an enviable distinction. Gen. Stanley endeared himself to all who knew him and literally thousands knew him. His going away left a lot of vacancies, few if any of which can be filled.

FOR SALE—A tie that's too green; a pair of socks that don't fit; and a box of cigars that don't smell right.

Bibb graves is a good man—Morally and otherwise. He never swears, but it is reliably reported that he will take an oath on the 14th instant.

The New Year was greeted with inspired enthusiasm by millions who didn't fare so well during the old year. The old year was not so bad; the trouble, to a large extent, was with us. The man who buckled down, held his chin up, smiled and went at his troubles in the right spirit and with the right punch didn't suffer so much. The pessimist who thinks the world owes him a living and should settle the account without any persuaion on the part of the debtor, is the one who grumbles about the times and who will grumble again when another year passes on.

Baptists believe in close communion, but don't always practice it. Recently seventy ministers of that faith registered at the Gay-Teague Hotel and practically all demanded separate rooms or twin beds.

Another hash season opened Wednesday morning, December 26th.

And there were two Doras so dumb, one thought Yuletide had something to do with the sea; the other thought Eli Whitney patented a drink.

Just a word about the SERVICE at the

MOLTON HOTEL

FIFTH AVENUE AND TWENTIETH STREET

THERE'S a pleasant, friendly atmosphere about the Hotel Molton—a delightful informality and unobtrusively efficient service that appeals to discriminating guests. While Molton service is punctilious, it is entirely lacking in that stiff formality one often finds in larger metropolitan hotels. That's why the guests who stop here once, feel like they're coming home when they return to see us.

REPORT OF LYNCHINGS

According to the records compiled in the Department of Records and Research of the Tuskegee Institute that there were 15 persons lynched in 1934. This is 13 less than the number 28 for 1933; 7 more than the number 8 for 1932; 2 more than the number for 1831; and 6 less than the number 21 for 1930. Eight of the persons lynched were in the hands of the law; three were taken from jails and 5 from officers of the law outside of jails.

There were 51 instances in which officers of the law prevented lynchings. Seven of these were in Northern and Western States and 44 in Southern States. In 46 of the instances the prisoners were removed or the guards augmented or other precautions taken. In the 5 other instances, armed force was used to repel the would be lynchers. A total of 74 persons, 14 white men; 57 negro men and 3 negro women, were thus saved from death at the hands of mobs.

Of the 15 persons lynched, all were negroes. The offenses charged were: Attempted rape, 4; rape, 2; murder, 2; wounding man in altercation, 1; associating with white woman, 1; striking man, 1; writing insulting letter, 1; talking disrespectfully, 1; insulting women, 1; implicating others in a charge of stealing turpentine and bootlegging it, 1.

The state in which lynchings occurred and the number in each state are as follows: Alabama, 1; Florida, 2; Georgia, 1; Kentucky, 1; Louisiana, 2; Mississippi, 6; Tennessee, 1; and Texas, 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy DeShazo and Herman White, of Panama City, Fla., came up Christmas to spend a couple of days with their parents at Isabella. They returned home Thursday of last week.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Will you be so kind as to allow me space in your paper to say a few words in regard to the liquor question as it is going to be a lively issue with the people of Alabama for the next few months.

First I want to say that I am always in favor of any change that will give us better morals.

I have been a close observer of the liquor question for sixty years and my honest opinion is that it is doing a thousand times more harm to the youth of our country today than it did 60 years ago, when the churches first began to try to handle the liquor problem.

Today it is blasting and debauching our children, society and churches. If anyone doubts this statement, just read the following clipping that was taken from The Birmingham Post in 1931:

"Montgomery, November 21.—Of the 5,475 prisoners placed n Kilby Prison during the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, almost half, 2,588 are under 25 years of age, records show.

Among other facts revealed by the records are that 2,232 of the inmates are Baptists and 822 are Methodists. There is one Morman and only four Jews. A total of 1,725 are serving for violation of the prohibbition law, while several hundred others are in prison for offenses related to dry law violations. Burglary claims 472 convicts. The reports show four electrocutions and five commutations.

The above check up at Kilby for one year shows that the Baptists and Methodists alone furnished more criminals than all other churches combined, including those who belong to no church.

In the face of these facts I can't see why the churches and preachers should care to mess with the liquor question any longer and try to justify themselves by the law knowing that the Bible teaches that if we justify ourselves by the law we are fallen from Grace.

I have written these few lines hoping that they might have a little food for thought for the readers.—Respectfully, A. A. Jackson.

THANKS FROM MINER FAMILY

We desire to make this expression of our most sincere thanks for the kindness and sympathy of friends and neighbors in the community of Clanton during the illness and death of our husband and father.—Mrs. A. N. Miner and children.

MINUTES NOT CALLED FOR BY CHILTON CO. CHURCHES

The minutes for nine churches of the Chilton County Association are still at The Union-Banner office uncalled for. They are: Bethsalem, Center Hill, Jemison, Macedonia No. 1, Mars Hill, Mulberry, New Cedron, New Salem, Shiloh, New Hope.

The clerks of these churches, or someone interested, will please call at an early date and get these minutes. The churches ought to have them, and they are doing no one any good here, besides they are in the way.

Mr. Charley Cox, Chilton County's Representative in the next Legislature of Alabama, expects to go to Montgomery about Saturday of this week to get himself organized and situated for the session which begins next week.

"How did you get on with Jeanette?" asked Dick.

The ardent young lover sighed. "I started off well," he replied. "I said I was knee deep in love with her."

"Sounds all right," said Dick. "What was her reaction to that?"

The young suitor grimaced. "She promised to put me on her wading list," he replied.—Stray Stories.

Geology Professor—"What kind of rock is this?"

Student—"Oh; I just take it for granite."

EFFECTIVE control of corn acreage in 1935 is held to be essential because of the decline in corn requirements for livestock feeding since the 1924-29 period, and particularly since a year ago. As indicated in the above chart, the total number of hogs slaughtered in 1934-35 probably will not exceed 50 million head, as compared with an average of 70 million head in recent years.

Because hogs eat approximately one-half of the annual corn crop in the United States, hog adjustment this past year alone has lowered corn requirements between 325 and 350 million bushels under the requirement level of former seasons. The reduction of 10 to 15 per cent effectuated in cattle numbers by the drought liquidation under the Government drought purchase program has further reduced corn requirements for livestock feeding. A moderate reduction also has taken place in numbers of poultry, horses, and mules, which together ordinarily consume about one-fifth of the annual corn crop.

In view of these changes an acreage somewhat less than the average of recent years would meet actual requirements and would leave a reasonable margin for rebuilding the reserves now being depleted to meet drought conditions. Therefore, if farmers should follow the usual post-drought tendency and actually increase corn acreage in the spring of 1935, the largest surplus of corn over requirements ever produced in this country and relatively low corn prices might be expected.

By combining under the 1935 corn-hog production adjustment contract offered by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, farmers can hold corn acreage at a level that will avoid a return to an excessive level of production.

EVANGELISTIC MASS MEETINGS

Evangelistic mass meetings will be held each Sunday night during the month of January in the Municipal Auditorium in Birmingham by Rev. Glenn V. Tingley, local pastor of the Birmingham Gospel Tabernacle. He will speak Sunday night, January 6th on "Is Christ Coming in 1935 for His Church?"

He will answer the following questions: Is the world ripe for judgment? Are we nearing the Great Tribulation? Is it possible to know the time of Christ's coming? Will He be expected? Are the days of Noah reproduced today? Does the flood prove that Christ will take the Church in a "silent rapture?" Who makes up the Church and how many of the church will be taken? What is the significance of the Jew's return to Palestine? Does the Bible prophesy the submarine, automobile, airplane, travel, education, etc., and are they a sign of the end? Will Atheism continue to spread? Are the churches today fulfilling a form of Godliness but denying the power thereof? Have famine, pestilence, earthquake, and war been fulfilled sufficiently for Christ to come?

Musical program will be under the direction of G. P. Rockwell. Soloists will be Marguerite Maynard and Bob Meyers. The Merita Quartet will also present a number of selections and a choir of two hundred will sing "Lo Jesus Comes."

Over 6,000 packed the Municipal Auditorium and many were turned away at Mr. Tingley's first service in Birmingham. From 5,000 to 10,000 heard him each Sunday night this summer in the Legion Stadium.

MUST PAY POLL TAX IN ORDER TO VOTE THIS YEAR

Citizens Urged to Pay and Thus Help Finance Our Schools

County Superintendent of Education Luther Little, takes occasion to remind the voters of Chilton County that poll taxes must be paid this month, not later than February the first, if they would be qualified to vote during the year 1935. Mr. Little admits a somewhat selfish interest in behalf of the schools, but that is entirely excusable in his case. A superintendent, whose duty it is to help provide for the schools, should be commended for a selfish interest in forwarding the school progress.

Poll tax money goes directly to helping the schools, and that fact alone should be sufficient to induce every poll tax subject to pay up. The average citizen should have the same selfish interest for the schools as the superintendent.

However, there are other considerations that make the payment of poll tax an important duty of the voting citizen at this time. There will doubtless be many burning issues in Alabama this year upon which the voters will have opportunity to express themselves. If you are due a poll tax, it must be paid if you would keep the right to cast your vote.

Outstanding among the issues which are certain to come before the people of the state in 1935 is the question of repeal of Alabama's state dry laws and the legalizing of wines and beer. Everybody will certainly want to vote on that question. Already the wets and the drys are marshaling their forces for the showdown, acting upon the practical certainty that the legislature will submit it to the people.

In addition to the prohibition question, it is most likely the legislature will submit a number of constitutional amendments to the people for their approval or rejection.

Commenting upon the poll tax subject editorially, the Montgomery Advertiser says:

"Besides the privilege of voting, the payment of poll taxes offers citizens an opportunity to aid the educational system of Alabama, which is sadly lacking in funds at present. During the past year a total of $418,281 was turned over to the public schools from this source.

"Since the taxes must be paid sooner or later, all eligible voters should pay them as soon as possible, and not only insure themselves the privilege of voting, but also aid education when it is in its greatest need."

Many voters go wild about paying poll tax in order to vote for or against some man running for office. That is the least important privilege of voting. Expression of one's suffrage upon issues like those which will come up this year, and the aid of the schools are the most weighty reason why poll taxes should be paid.

Briefs Filed For DeKalb Contest

Crookedness In Absentee Ballot Box Charged by Hon. O. D. Street

Following final submission on argument by opposing counsel Monday to the Alabama Court of Appeals, of separate proceedings growing out of contempt citations issued by Circuit Judge A. E. Hawkins to a number of DeKalb County officials for failure to comply with his order that returns from the November general election in the county must not be formerly certified unless and until they included count of 241 absentee ballots cast, the high court gave attorneys until Wednesday morning to file briefs. Decisions will be rendered as soon as possible thereafter.

In the presenting of arguments, Solicitor Claude D. Scruggs, of Marshall County, represented the State and Judge Hawkins, while Hugh Reed, of Center, represented the Democratic nominees for county offices in DeKalb who were declared defeated by the Republican candidates, but who have filed contests claiming count of 241 absentee ballots would have shown their election. Sheriff Pope, Probate Judge Malone, Circuit Clerk Stott, Haas and Blake, were represented by Oliver D. Street, of Birmingham, Republican national committeeman from Alabama, and John Isbell, of Center.

Judge Street in his argument, charged that the absentee ballots were delivered to Judge Malone by the secre-

DRY FORCES TO RALLY HERE

Local Organization Will Be Effected At Meeting On Saturday, Jan. 19

A county-wide meeting of all the men and women who are opposed to the repeal of Alabama's dry laws, and the legalizing of beer, vine and liquors in our state, is called to meet at the county courthouse Saturday, January 19, at 1:30, 1935, for the purpose of forming a county-wide organization to prevent the repeal of our dry laws. The liquor forces have already formed their state-wide organization and will soon organize every county in the state. The issue now is liquor or no liquor. Our children and our children's children are at stake. We are fighting for our families, our neighbors, for Alabama's million and half children. Danger, misery and death lurk in strong drink. It is the mortal enemy to humanity and to civilization. No individual is running for office, and no party is involved. One issue alone is at stake: "Shall Alabama sell your boys and girls to the liquor barons for a little tax." We mean to fight for our children and our country. We call upon all who believe with us to meet us at the courthouse on the above date. We urge you to pay your poll tax NOW and be ready to help save your homes and your children, and your state. We will need YOUR help. Come.—J. Z. Mims, W. H. Gillespie, V. J. Gragg, S. J. Ezell, A. E. Middlebrooks, Percy Pitts, J. R. Mullins, W. H. Sartor, L. H. Reynolds, D. S. Robinson. 2t

Mrs. G. F. Harper Killed At Thorsby

No. 1 Hurls Body Several Yards And Death Results Instantly

Thorsby was shocked last Friday morning by a great tragedy when train No. 1 coming from the north hit and instantly killed Mrs. G. F. Harper. Mrs. Harper was on her way from her home to the store and in crossing by the depot she was observed to be walking with her head down and a smile on her face and seemingly so absorbed in her thoughts that she was oblivious to all about her and though bells were ringing and the train whistle blowing she did not realize how near she was to that fast coming train. Mrs. Harper was much loved in Thorsby and vicinity, an enthusiastic and loyal church worker, always helping in time of need, and interested in most of the organizations of the town for social betterment. The shock of her death nearly prostrated some of us.

She will be missed through all the days. Her funeral was held on Sunday at two o'clock at the Baptist church. Rev. J. W. Jones and W. P. Lowery officiated. There was a wonderful display of floral offerings. Following are some of the out of town people attending the funeral: Mr. and Mrs. Herman Harper and son, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Johnson, Miss Louise Fitzpatrick, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson, Dr. and Mrs. V. L. Wilkerson, Mr. John Harper, Miss Emma Harper, Mr. and Mrs. Williams, Mr. Charles Kenneman, all of Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Harper and children of Demopolis, Mr. Tom Harper, Mr. Jack Harper, Miss Minnie Harper all of Maylene; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Pleas Shaw, and Mrs. Pleas Shaw, Sr., of Aldridge; Mr. Jack Harper, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Harper, Mr. and Mrs. George Kendricks, Dr. and Mrs. Burke, Mr. and Mrs. Allan McNeill, all of Montgomery; Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Harris and Mr. H. B. Boyd, of DeFuniack Springs, Fla., Mr. and Mrs. John Weldon, Mrs. Calvin Weldon, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Taylor, of Wilsonville, Ala.

Athletic Program For The Boys of Clanton

Project Planned by Bernarr Macfadden, to Be Carried Out in Cooperation With the American Legion

The American Legion-Macfadden Youth Movement has been formally instituted in Clanton under direction of a committee of the Chilton County Post of the American Legion, composed of Lloyd Warr, Percy Pitts, Reuben Lowe and Mack Wyatt. Van Smith has been named athletic director of the movement under authority of the Relief Administration, through which the director is furnished and paid for his services.

A representative of the Macfadden movement was here this week and appeared before the boys of the Chilton County High School to present the proposition and enlist membership. Fifty-seven boys were enlisted, when all the application blanks were exhausted. Additional blanks will be secured as quickly as possible, and the opportunity for additional enlistments will be extended through the Clanton Grammar School.

This is the athletic program of the American Legion-Macfadden Youth Movement, which is being formed as a state-wide plan to provdie organized and supervised athletics for the boys. It is sponsored by the Alabama Department of the American Legion and various local posts as a community service and as a contribution to the healthy development of the youth of Alabama. The Alabama Relief Administration and the State Aviation commission are cooperating with the Legion in this work.

The program has been made possible by Bernarr Macfadden, one of the country's leading publishers and internationally famous as a pioneer in physical culture. Mr. Macfadden is financing all expenses of organization, training of leaders, supervision and athletic equipment. It is being established at no cost to the community or the local Legion post.

In providing for the establishment of this program Mr. Macfadden is motivated solely by a desire to serve the youth of the country and by personal knowledge of the importance of systematic physical development.

Alabama has been selected by Mr. Macfadden for the first comprehensive demonstration of a nation-wide program that he visualizes and hopes to establish. Alabama gained his attention by its airpark plan, which combines recreational facilities and landing field into a community center. As a result he felt that Alabama would be the most suitable point for launching such a program.

The athletic program of the movement is varied and flexible. It is to be adapted to the interests, needs and facilities of each individual town. It is designed to provide activities for boys of all sizes, weights and ages from 10 to 12 years old through high school age. It will be operated from the standpoint of mass participation and recreation rather than individual competition and individual attention to the development of a few outstanding athletes. Athletic participation will be carefully directed so as to eliminate all hazards. There will be no unequal competition between boys, either individually or as a group. Included on the program are such athletics as soccer ball, basketball, volley ball, soft ball, hand wrestling, stick wrestling, boxing, calisthenics, jumping, running, etc.

Leaders to handle the program are being furnished by the Alabama Relief Administration through the State Aviation Commission. The program will be established in 40 towns, providing leaders are available from relief rolls. In each town there will be a leader assigned, and up to three persons from the work relief list to serve as assistant leaders. These leaders are assigned by the county relief director and must come of relief lists.

The program was organized and established in Clanton this week by an athletic supervisor furnished by Mr. Macfadden. This supervisor will arrange all details, instruct the leaders, and place the program in full operation. From time to time hereafter a supervisor will come here to give further instruction and direction of the program.

The program is wholly a project of the American Legion of Alabama, which planned it without limitation or restriction. In each town the Macfadden committee of the local post will supervise the program and direct the work of the leaders. This committee for Clanton is composed of Lloyd Warr, Percy Pitts, Reuben Lowe and Mack Wyatt. Necessary equipment will be furnished without cost. Present plans provide for the operation of the program to July 1st, and it is expected there will be a further extension at that time if results are satisfactory. The program will be held daily in the afternoons, the location to be selected by the post committee.

This program will not be designed or permitted to conflict in any way with the work of the schools. There will be no intrusion in any way. Parents and school officials may freely welcome it as worthwhile occupation for the idle time of the boys in the afternoons.

In purpose, application and operation the program is one of unselfish service and is a tangible expression of the interest of the Legion in the youth of the state.

Survey of Chilton County Made To Establish Hookworm Treatment

Through the co-operation of the State Health Department and the local educational system, an extensive survey will be conducted in Chilton county, for the purpose of eliminating the dangers to health resulting from hookworms, according to announcement recently made by Supt. Luther E. Little.

It is the plan of those in charge of the survey to visit every school in the county, conduct a thorough examination to determine if children in these several schools are suffering from this malady, and administer treatment for the elimination of the disease. Dr. L. G. Cole, of the State Health Department, will be in charge of the survey. Assisting him will be Mrs. Sarah Crim and Mrs. Thelma Pasley, relief nurses.

The survey is expected to get under way early this week. Dr. Cole estimated that six or eight weeks will be necessary to carry the program into every community in the county.

Moving pictures are being shown which illustrate the dangers of this disease and point out methods for its elimination and prevention. Besides destroying the parasites in the bodies of those now suffering from the ailment, it is hoped that much may be accomplished in the way of educating the public against carelessness that results in the spread of the disease.

The picture films being shown for the benefit of the school children, their parents, and others interested in the betterment of health conditions in the county trace the development of the disease from the time the tiny parasites enter the food until it has lodged itself in the walls of the stomach and there set up a deadly drain on the lifeblood and vitality of the victim. Numerous dangerous diseases may result from the hookworm ailment, Dr. Cole said. Among these are tuberculosis and other diseases resulting from the sapping of the patient's resistance.

The greatest possible accomplishment that can be hoped for in such a campaign, Dr. Cole stated, is that we may educate the public in this county to take precautions against such diseases by the installation of more sanitary conditions around the home. Hookworms are a result of filth in most cases, perhaps not the victim's fault, however, he declared.

MONTGOMERY MAN NAMED SECRETARY OF BAPTIST BODY

An announcement of interest to Alabama Baptists made in Birmingham during the past week was the appointment of Dr. Fred M. Barnes, pastor of Clayton Street Baptist Church, Montgomery, as executive secreatry of the Alabama Baptist State Convention.

Dr. Barnes is widely known in church circles and has had a successful pastorate at Clayton Street Church, the membership having shown a substantial growth. It is believed that his administration as executive secretary of the state convention will also be marked by success. Dr. Barnes will succeed Dr. L. E. Barton, who has held the post several years.

Dr. Barnes will take up his new duties April 1.

GOOD FUTURE FOR BERRIES

Meeting Held by Clanton Association Last Saturday Afternoon

A very inetresting and enthusiastic meeting of the Clanton Berry Growers Association was held at the courthouse last Saturday afternoon, attended by a fine representation of members.

At the election of officers for the next year, the following results were announced: W. T. Bean, president; E. H. Headley, vice-president; J. N. Dennis, secretary and treasurer.

The following directors were elected: Royal Roper, Cleve Wyatt, and O. L. Devaughn. These, with the other officials, constitute the official board for the association.

Mr. Hayden, agricultural agent representing the L. & N. Railroad Company, was present and made some very interesting remarks concerning the association, its business, and the future outlook.

Representatives of some four or five crate manufacturers were present. Statements by these gentlemen indicate that crates will be some cheaper this year, which is encouraging to the growers.

The report rendered by Mr. Dennis, secretary and treasurer, revealed that the association is in good financial condition, with a substantial amount of cash on hand, as well as a large quantity of crates on storage, already bought and paid for.

Mr. L. E. Diefenderfer, one of the largest growers of strawberries in this district, states that indications are that the local acreage this year will be down about 25 per cent from last year. He expects the production of the Clanton association to run fifty to sixty carloads this season.

Already the growers have begun to apply fertilizer to their plants, which should be completed this month. Some new acreage will be planted this year.

DOCK AYERS DIED SATURDAY

Mr. A. A. (Dock) Ayers, age 77 years, died last Saturday afternoon at his home in Mt. Pleasant community, after a long illness. Burial was in Clanton cemetery with Spigener in charge. Brief funeral services were conducted by Dr. S. J. Ezell at the cemetery.

Mr. Ayers is survived by his half brother, Mr. J. A. Logan, of Mt. Pleasant; one half sister, Mrs. Emma Collins, of Thorsby. He was an uncle of Mrs. B. F. Massey and Mrs. Elzey Kelly, of Clanton.

SHERIFF'S FORCE IS COMPLETE

Mr. John R. Hardy, who assumes the duties of Sherrif of Chilton County on January 14, announces that he has complered his selection of deputies and assistants. The last selection made was that of Mr. Theodore Thornton, of Coopers, who will be jailor an ddeputy sheriff.

As heretofore announced, the chief deputy of Mr. Hardy will be Mr. J. A. Nivens, former chief of police of Clanton. The second deputy will be Mr. Julian Smith.

When the new administration takes up next week, Mr. Smith will take up his residence in the house adjoining the jail. Mr. Hardy will continue to live at his place in West End.

Upon retiring from office Sheriff Gillispie will live at the farm he recently purchased, a part of the Dr. Mastin property, four miles from Clanton, on the old Thorsby Highway.

NEW OFFICERS ASSUME DUTIES NEXT TUESDAY

L. H. Reynolds Will Turn Over Keys to J. Lee Smith, New Probate Judge

A number of changes among county officials wrought by the result of the election last November will take effect officially at midnight next Monday, January 14th. But it is presumed, of course, that none of the persons affected will be on hand at that hour, consequently the actual change will be made at the opening of business hours of Tuesday, January 15th.

Chief among the changes to be made will be in the Probate office, when J. Lee Smith takes the place held for many years by the veteran, L. H. Reynolds. Along with the Probate Judge there will be two changes in the personnell of the Commissioners Court. Howard Oden, of Beat 3, will take the place of H. E. Robinson, of Beat 9. John Bean, of Beat 12, will take the place of J. E. Cobb, of Beat 2.

Mr. Robinson has served only a short term as commissioner of the second district. He was apponited to fill out the unexpired term of Uncle Jim Mims, who died about a year ago. Mr. Bean, who becomes commissioner of the first district, has had former experience, having held the same office for one term of four years.

Other changes to be made are as follows: J. C. Pattillo, of Verbena, assumes the office of Clerk of the Circuit Court, succeeding J. Z. Mims. John R. Hardy will take up the duties of sheriff succeeding W. H. Gillespie.

Coming into office with Mr. Hardy will be a new set of deputies. Mr. J. A. Nivens will be chief deputy; Julian Smith will be second deputy; and Theodore Thornton will be jailer. Mr. Smith will live in the sheriff's house near the jail.

Changes in the offices of Tax Collector and Tax Assessor will not be made until the first of October this year. Meanwhile the results of the election in those cases are being contested by W. G. Culp and Akins I. Collins, Republicans, against Tom McKee and Arthur Martin, Democrats. A contest also is pending in which H. A. Harris, Republican, is contesting the right of J. C. Pattillo, Democrat, to hold the office of Circuit Clerk under the results of the election of last November.

There will be no actual change in the office of Superintendent of Education on the 15th. Mr. Luther Little merely succeeds himself, and will continue right on with his duties as if nothing had ever happened.

Two changes on the school board, as a result of the November election, have already gone into effect. S. M. Yates and C. C. Conway, former member, were succeeded by J. Pope Payne and Rev. A. C. Nelson, at the first meeting of the board after the election.

The Commissioners Court will meet on next Monday, January 14th, which will be the last session of the old board as now constituted. The new Commissioners, with the new Judge, Mr. Smith, will likely hold a business session on Tuesday, the first day of their incumbency.

New Officers Of Clanton Kiwanis

Installation Takes Place at the First Meeting of The New Year

With every Kiwanian attend by his Kiwanian-ette, and in some instances an additional extra guest or so, the members of the Clanton Club last Thursday evening started off the New Year with the annual festival occasion popularly known as Ladies Night. A total number of forty-five persons composed the group which heartily enjoyed the banquet at the Exchange Hotel.

The business of the evening was confined to installation of new officers for 1935. Luther Little retired as president, and in doing so pinned the president's button on Senator Earle Thomas. As Mr. Thomas received the gavel from Mr. Little, he in turn pinned the past president's button on Mr. Little. Dr. C. O. Lawrence was officially introduced and installed into the office of vice president.

Guests of the club for the occasion were Cohen and Lillie Stapp, of Selma. In his usual impressive manner, Mr. Stapp made the principal address of the program, outlining a beautiful word picture of Kiwanis ideals and activities.

The whole group engaged in a fun contest directed by Mrs. Luther Little, in which the missing words were supplied in a story of an automobile

JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter's Great Answer.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What It Means to Confess Christ.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What Think Ye of Christ?

The disciples had been with the Lord for several years. They had heard his wonderful words and witnessed his mighty works. Various opinions were extant about him. Since Jesus was soon to go to the cross, it was necessary for the disciples to have a definite and true conception of him. In order to help them into the right conception he provoked this confession from Peter, as the spokesman of the group of disciples.

I. Peter's Confession (vv. 13-16).

1. How provoked (v. 13). Two questions put to the disciples called forth this great confession.

a. Who do men say that the Son of Man is? (v. 13). He first inquired for the opinion of the people concerning him. It is not enough to think that he was a great teacher. Had he been content with this, he would not have been molested at Jerusalem, for this the Jews willingly acknowledged. It was his persistent claim to be the God-Man, the Messiah, the Son of God, that sent him to the cross.

b. Who say ye that I am? (v. 15). This question involved the personal opinion of the disciples. To be able to tell what others think of Jesus is not enough; there must be definite, correct, and personal belief in him. Belief and character are inseparably united.

2. What Peter's confession involved (v. 16). It was his Messiahship and Deity. The burning question of the hour is, "What think ye of Christ?" It is a question that must be answered by every one.

3. Christ's commendation of Peter (v. 17). He pronounced him blessed. He was truly blessed, for he both possessed and confessed Christ. His confession showed his touch with the Heavenly Father.

II. The New Body, the Church, Announced by Christ (vv. 18-20).

At this juncture Christ declared his intention of bringing into existence a new body. Peter was to have a distinguished place in this body. He declared that Peter should be a foundation stone in his Church. Christ is the chief corner stone upon which the Church is built. Christ's person and Messiahship were confessed by Peter and on this rock, the truth confessed, is laid the foundation of the apostles and prophets (Eph. 2:20). He further declared that association in this new body could not be broken by death, for the gates of Hades should not prevail against it.

III. The Cross the Way to the Throne (vv. 21-23).

From that time Jesus began to show unto his disciples that he must go unto Jerusalem, to suffer many things, to be killed and raised again the third day. This, indeed, startled the disciples. They did not as yet realize that redemption was to be accomplished through the sufferings of the cross. So unwelcome was this announcement that Peter said, "This shall not be unto thee." Peter later saw through this darkness to the glory of the hill tops. A new hope then filled his breast (I Pet. 1:3, 4). Christ's victory through death is yet a stumbling block to many. Many are stumbling over the doctrine of salvation through the sufferings of the cross. Salvation by blood is hated by the devil.

IV. The Grand Objective of the Members of the Church (I Pet. 2:5, 6).

It is the highest ambition of every Christian to become a working part of Christ's glorious Church, which has as its supreme design the showing forth of the glory of God. It is this that beckons the believer on to the highest and best in life. No higher motive can actuate anyone than to make manifest the glory of God. The Church, God's spiritual house, has the living Christ as its chief corner stone and head. Because of their relationship to him, the believers are living stones, deriving their preciousness from him. While the world saw no beauty or comeliness in Christ, God esteemed him precious and esteems every believer precious because of his vital union with Christ.

Belief in Christ

The condition of salvation is that kind of belief in Jesus Christ which authenticates itself in repentance for the past and an amendment of life for the future.—L. L. Noble

Plans Developing To Furnish System Of Hospital Service To The People

Doctors and Hospital Officials Preparing to Introduce Plan of Service To Large Number At An Early Date

By Victor Norris

In a land where times and conditions are constantly undergoing change, we are continually faced with the necessity of devising new methods under which to operate our business and professional life. The general mercantile store of fifty or sixty years ago is obsolete. It served a worthy purpose in its day, but in the rush of our modern life it has no place. And only a few decades ago our public school system was unknown. Few persons now over fifty years of age ever had an opportunity to attend a public school. But change of conditions demanded something new in our educational fields.

Today this is just as true of the medical profession as it was of the school system thirty years ago, so says Dr. V. J. Gragg. Clanton surgeon and physician, in a discussion of his hospitalization plans for Chilton County. The people of this county as a whole are not getting the medical attention they deserve, he pointed out, and on the other hand many doctors are having a tough time making ends meet. There must be some remedy which will be helpful to both patients and doctors.

The answer to this situation, Dr. Gragg believes, lies in a plan whereby the people may pay their medical bills while they are enjoying good health and not be faced with the unpleasant task of scuffling up funds for doctor bills when ill. Medical and doctor's bills could be made a part of the household budget instead of a harum-scarum system (where we just hope against hope that we won't be ill. As a people we are not very prone to follow the advice of the sage of old anl lay up something for the proverbial rainy day, but we have long recognized the advisability of insurances of various forms—and we pay for this protection along with other necessities in our regular budget.

Is this not applicable to a form of health insurance? Would it not be sensible to take care of our medical and hospital needs in a similar manner? Nearly always illness stops or limits the income—and the expenses pile higher and higher.

Dr. Gragg is formulating plans to furnish hospitalization to the people of Chilton County on just such a basis. Membership cards are to be sold for $12 per year, which entitles the holder's entire family to free hospitalization for several weeks. This includes board, nurses, and many other items that would run into large accounts. He also pointed out that this would in no way interfere with the patient's choice of physician, for any physician could be used. Those doctors affiliated with the institution perhaps would issue courtesy cards which would give special consideration to patients of membership families.

Long ago in Europe it was recognized that people could enjoy better health protection under such a system and as a result nearly every country on that continent has some form of health insurance. A Chinese student in this country a few years ago was astonished at the American custom of awaiting until you become ill to pay the doctor. In his land, he pointed out, people pay the doctors when they are well and when they become ill that added expense does not pile up at a time when they are least able to bear it.

In this country the system has proved very satisfactory in the form of health protection furnished by industrial units to their employes. Even in Chilton County the average family spends far more than the amount which will be charged for membership cards for hospitalization. Incorporated in the plans for this organization, which will use the Central Alabama Hospital as a center, special effort is being put forth to devise means to care for the indigent in Chilton County, Dr. Gragg said.

Another feature of the protection proposed by Dr. Gragg's plans will be an educational program to acquaint the people of the county with better practices that will mean much in minimizing disesases. At regular intervals pamphlets will be mailed to members of the organization, acquainting them with precautions to be taken to prevent seasonal ailments and cures for minor indispositions. When epidemics seem likely leaflets will be prepared and mailed in an effort to prevent the spread of the disease.

All in all this is something new to the people of Chilton County, but its possibilities and advantages are easily recognized and its development will likely meet the approval of a great number of people in the county.

SINGING SCHOOL TEACHERS ORGANIZE AT COURT HOUSE

A group of singing school teachers met at the courthouse last Saturday evening for a discussion of some plans of vital importance to the music teachers and the people of this county. The meeting was called to order at 2:30 and Prof. O. L. Devaughn was elected chairman, and Prof. Marion W. Easterling was elected secretary of the organization. The following was brought into consideration and adopted by the group:

Tuition prices will be as follows: Beginners in rudiments, 10c per day each. This means those who have accumulated no knowledge of the rudiments of music. Other rudiments lessons will be 12½ cents per day; primary harmony 15c per day; intermediate harmony 17½ cents per day; advanced harmony 20 cents per day.

Contract prices for school will be $25.00 net per week, regardless of the length of term or size of school.

All song books and text books handled by any member of this organization will be retailed at the price printed on said books. These prices seem to be within the range of everyone who is the least bit interested in schools, and i tis hoped that tuition will be paid promptly.

These matters are being printed for the benefit of the public, and especially those who are planning on having music schools taught.

The meeting was made a permanent affair to meet quarterly, and the next session will be held the first Saturday in April. An invitation is extended to all teachers who were not present to attend these meetings and cooperate with this organization. Other teachers who were present were: Profs. W. M. Devaughn, A. O. Boswell, Emmett Wilson, I. D. Huett, Lee Grant, L. T. Grant, J. M. Williams, Herbert Lowery, and C. M. Billingsley.

HIGHLAND NEWS

Our Sunday school met Sunday morning at 10 o'clock with an attendance of fifty-six. We have eighty-one on roll, however, some were absent on account of sickness.

Think everyone made a New Year's resolution to attend Sunday school and church more regularly this year and to study and learn more about Jesus and His good deeds.

We have a wonderful character to study this quarter. The thing making him so interesting I think, is because he is so human-like. We are going to find that he sometimes stepped aside for a bit but as soon as he has time to think, his faith is sufficient to draw him back again. We truly hope that everyone will strengthen his faith toward God as we continue to study this great man, Peter.

We meet each Sunday morning at 10 o'clock and extend a cordial welcome to everyone to come and worship with us. Quite a few people are moving now. We have some new families in our community and we especially invite you to attend our church every Sunday.

ARA To Aid In Terracing And Construction Projects

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 3.—Thad Holt, state relief administrator, has notified all counties that sufficient federal funds will be available through January 15 to allow ARA to aid in terracing and construction projects undertaken by counties and cities.

Under the terracing and construction program plans offered by the Alabama Relief Administration, money spent for labor taken off the relief rolls for construction projects will be matched by the ARA for the purchase of materials.

The ARA will purchase a $4,000 terracing machine for counties which agree to spend an equal amount in the employment of labor from the relief rolls.

Holt said cities could do paving under the construction provision of the agreement, getting the new streets for practically the cost of labor.

JUDSON NOW MEMBER OF NATIONAL ASSOCIATION

Marion, Ala., Jan. 8.—Judson College has been granted full membership in the National Association of Schools of Music under a new classification for schools offering a music major with the bachelor of arts degree, according to advice from Burnet C. Tuthill, secretary of the association. William S. Naylor is director of the Judson music department.

The first college to request membership in the association on the new basis, Judson was one of three admitted at the recent Milwaukee convention of the group. Though Judson has for some time held provisional membership in the national association of schools of music as a college offering the bachelor of music degree, the old degree has been dropped as unsuitable to the needs of the average non-professional musician.

The new degree involves considerably wider study in liberal arts fields than with the bachelor of music but retains intensive study of technique and theory of music. Heretofore only a few Eastern colleges offered the course.

In announcing election of the college to full membership in the association, Dr. L. G. Cleverdon, president of Judson, expressed satisfaction that Judson was instrumental in establishing the new basis of recognition and was one of the three colleges accepted at the first meeting of the association since the new field was recognized.

The music department at Judson consists of William S. Naylor, director; Miss Beverly Hester, assistant professor of piano and organ Harold M. Griffin, assistant professor of voice, and Miss Beatrice Moser, instructor in stringed instruments and theory.

Mrs. A. A. Cope, of Inverness, Ala., and Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Cope and son, William, of Luverne, are the week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Cope in Clanton.

The Story of the Bible Told in Pictures

Jesus Tempted by the Devil.—"Then was Jesus led up of the Spirit into the wilderness to be tempted of the devil. And when the tempter came to Him, he said, If Thou be the Son of God, command that these stones be made bread. But He answered and said, it is written, man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God. Then the devil taketh Him up into the holy city, and setteth Him on a pinnacle of the temple. And saith unto Him, If Thou be the Son of God, cast Thyself down; for it is written, He shall give His angels concerning Thee. Jesus said unto him, It is written again, thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God. Again, the devil taketh Him up into an exceeding high mountain, and sheweth Him all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them; and saith unto Him, all these things will I give Thee, if Thou wilt fall down and worship me. Then saith Jesus unto him, Get thee hence, Satan: for it is written, thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve."—Matthew 4: 1-11. This illustration is from Merian's story of the Bible in pictures, engraved in 1625-1630.

PEOPLE!

I HAVE FOR SALE OR TRADE

One six-room bungalow, one grocery store—all on one and one-half acres of land, nicely located. Buildings practically new. Fine for trucking or poultry raising. I think West End is making great progress. It has feed mills, grist mills, shoe shops, sales stables, etc. You people who know West End, WATCH IT GROW. I believe I am the only one who has any business property for sale or trade in West End. Take advantage of this opportunity while you have it. Inside work doesn't suit me is my reason for disposing of this property.

New Steel Revolutionizes Springing on 1935 Automobiles

FOR the first time in the history of the automobile industry a short, leaf spring has been developed that is strong but resilient. Combined with other notable developments it provides a new method of springing which with weight redistribution affords better riding qualities. It has been made possible by the development of a revolutionary new type of steel.

In the past the great difference between the higher priced cars and those of lower price was always in the matter of ride. Wheelbase was considered the explanation, but the real reason was the fact that the front springs, being shorter, were stiff. An unusual characteristic of this spring made of the new type steel, known as "Mola," which was recently developed in the engineering laboratories of Chrysler Motors, is that it uses two main leaves, each of which is wrapped around the shackle bolt. The lower leaf is segmented at the center to allow for elongation. Another feature of this spring is that the leaves are thinner at the ends than at the center. The front springs have approximately the same frequency as the rear spring. This, and a redistribution of the car weight, places approximately the same load on the front and rear springs and results in equalized spring action. With this new system all parts of the car ride the same.

The first car in the low priced field to be equipped with the new type spring will be the 1935 Plymouth, a Chrysler Motors product.

An important feature of the new steel spring is that not only is it soft and resilient, but it is also long-lived.

Further control of front end bounce is achieved by use of double-acting shock absorbers. They definitely add to the comfort of the passengers in the back seat. More positive measures have been taken in the 1935 Plymouth to eliminate side-sway by means of the torsion bar (side-sway eliminator) which acts as a third spring, to reinforce either spring when needed. It keeps the car on an even keel.

PRELIMINARY studies indicate that a substantial increase in hog income is resulting from the adjustment in hog marketings effectuated by the 1933-34 emergency hog-buying programs and the 1934 corn-hog production adjustment program of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. The graph above shows that the total estimated cost to packers for hogs slaughtered under Federal inspection during the first eight months of 1934, including the processing taxes due, was approximately $100,000,000 larger than for the corresponding period in 1933.

This represents an increase of about one-third in total cost and of more than one-half in the hundred weight cost of live animals. At the same time, the total inspected slaughter of hogs for the first eight months of 1934 was about 12 per cent under the total for the corresponding period for 1933.

A part of this gain has been due to an increase in consumer's income and to some adjustment in tonnage effectuated by the shortage of feed supplies resulting from drought, but production control under the Agricultural Adjustment Act has been a large factor. Hog prices throughout the current marketing year are expected to average higher than for several seasons.

Corn-hog farmers of the United States will have an opportunity to hold gains made this past year by cooperating in the 1935 corn-hog program now being offered by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

CHILTON-RAISED RICE

Mr. J. Dudley Collins brought into The Union-Banner office Wednesday morning a sample package of rice raised in Chilton County. It came from the farm of Peter DeJarnett, negro, of the Lily Hill community in the extreme southern part of the county. DeJarnett raised only about enough for his family use, on about a quarter of an acre.

This is an upland variety of rice and grows best on our low sandy land. The relief office intends to encourage the growing of rice next year among the families on relief projects. This rice is said to be better when cooked than the imported varieties.

JACKSON CHAPEL

So much to eat, people starving. Does that sound sensible? Under rugged individualism, prior to 1929, we had the highest standard of living any nation on earth has ever attained. Capitalism, please remember, made that standard possible for those who labor with their hands, more of the good things of life, more freedom, more opportunity than ever before. Prior to 1929 we had a government which, while imperfect, was vastly better than the overgrown, pharisee ridden officialdom of to-day.

Jesus, if on earth to-day, would have no more use for a pork barrel hiding under the name of relief than a lot of other honest people have. Those who thoughtlessly talk about redistribution of wealth, confiscating capital through taxation, and limitation of inventive genius by communism regimentation or collectivism are advocating (whether they know it or not) destruction of millions of jobs and wiping out of saving.

Henry Ford is an example of individual genius brought to fruit by Christian democracy in the United States. To snuff out the light of divine individualism in a Ford or an Edison is to destroy American civilization.

I believe we can work our own way in this country toward a real cooperative common wealth, within the constitution and with no infringement on real democracy. But I do not expect to see it for a good many years, for as fast as we begin to get our eyes open, the powers that be will probably start another war to make the world safe for dictators, and kill off or silence the young radicals. I know some of my readers will not agree with me. I am not criticizing any one, just telling my thoughts as I see them. Thanks, I will come again later.—Riley Scott.

Dixie To Have Day In Congress

South's Needs To Have Prominent Place In Coming Session

Washington, Jan. 3.—Legislation vitally affecting the South, commanding a dominant role in Congress, promises to play a prominent part in the seventy-fourth session.

Cotton grown from one end of the South to the other, comes first on the agenda for Dixie senators and representatives. Some plan to replace compulsory cotton control is certain of consideration.

Senator Bankhead, of Alabama, already is at work on a systematic production control plan, while his compulsory control act, which Southern farmers vote, 9 to 1, for continuance through 1935, faces amending to exempt farmers who produce only two or three bales.

Legislation affecting another great Southern money crop—tobacco—also is expected to come before the Congress.

The Kerr-Smith compulsory control act expires with 1935, and already a movement is under way in North Carolina for more permanent control legislation.

Flood control, public improvements for the South, freight rate differentials assertedly discriminatory to Southern states, changes in the cotton processing tax and tariff revisions were seen as other issues for the Southerners to ponder.

Some Southern states, particularly Georgia, have felt they did not receive their proper share of the last public works appropriation, and Senator George, of Georgia, is hoping to work out some plan to provide more allotments to such state.

The session will see Southern leadership in Congress increased. Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, becomes speaker of the House, and Representative Bankhead, of Alabama, the majority leader.

On the Senate side, Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, continues as Democratic leader.

Theodore Bilbo, of Mississippi, former governor of that state, and former AAA "paper clipper," will be the South's only new senator, succeeding Senator Stephens.

Senator Huey Long will be back. His recess activities in the Louisiana Legislature indicate he will continue as the stormy petrel of the Senate.

CHESTNUT CREEK W. M. U.

Circle No. 2 of the Chestnut Creek W. M. U. will meet with Mrs. Lee Grant on Friday afternoon, January 11, at 1:30 o'clock. All members are urged to be present.

NEED BUILDING-UP?

Mrs. T. E. Adams of 1205 No. Franklin St., Plant City, Fla., said: "I was in such a weakened state of health I could scarcely stand on my feet. I suffered from loss of appetite, and I was as miserable as could be—did not feel like lifting my hand to do anything. But Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery soon had me feeling fine—my appetite returned, I gained in weight and strength and was able to attend to my household duties without feeling all worn-out." All druggists.

Resolve . . . to start the New Year With a Hotpoint ELECTRIC RANGE

SOME families make New Year resolutions. Others do not. But every family—regardless of New Year philosophy—eats three times a day. And this means 1,095 meals for somebody in your home to cook during 1935! ¶ If you prepare your own meals, you will like the ease-of-operation and time-saving features of a Hotpoint Range. If you employ a cook, you will soon realize the dependability and economy which Hotpoint cookery brings. In either case, it will pay you to install a Hotpoint Range in your kitchen. The cost is small—and convenient terms may be arranged. See the 1935 models this week!

IT will cost you less than $10.00 to have a Hotpoint installed in your kitchen. Balance payable in 24 months.

BAKER SCHOOL

We had a large crowd out to our play Friday night before Christmas, which we greatly appreciate. We wish to thank the people for their co-operation with us. We realized a sum of $22.76 out of our play.

We wish to thank Mr. Tiffin for letting us use his furniture in our play. We also wish to thank the kind people of Liberty Hill for the use of the benches. Splendid music was made by Messrs. Vincent and Walter Ward and Odie Ellison. They have our thanks.

We were to give away our cedar hope chest the night of the play, but we did not get all of the tickets sold, and this prevented us from giving it away.

Listen folks! The Liberty Hill quartet is going to put on a concert out here Friday night, February 1st. So be saving your money and be ready to come. We are also planning on giving away our cedar hope chest that night. So come on; you might be the lucky one.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

In this time of our national existence, when a great many of our own internationalists believe that Uncle Sam is about to embark on a series of adventures with Europe in which he will undertake to mix in all of the troubles of the war-torn continent, it is reassuring to hear from a statesman like Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois, that such a departure, if it comes, will meet with the sternest opposition of men of all parties. The Democrats now control the United States Senate by a two-thirds vote, a number sufficient to put over any treaty proposed by the Executive Department. Over-enthusiastic internationalists have taken this to mean that an era of mixing in European affairs is at hand. They recall that the Democrats, under President Wilson, were in favor of going into the League of Nations, but were prevented from doing this because they did not control two-thirds of the Senate. But conditions are different now. In the first place, President Roosevelt so far has shown himself to be a nationalist rather than an internationalist. Again, by no means all of the Democrats in the Senate are for mixing in world affairs.

The case of Senator Lewis is an enample. This statesman is a Democrat of standing, of such important standing, in fact, that he played a big part in the election of Democratic senatorial candidates last fall. And we find that Mr. Lewis is not so strong for international agreements. In fact, he rightfully sees danger in so-called "peace pacts," and warns that the United States endangers its future by entering into an agreement for international limitation of arms. He declares that treaties are scraps of paper violated by all nations when they face emergencies, and that the United States by agreeing in advance to enforce such pacts is only building up future trouble for itself.

In a nation-wide radio address, under the auspices of the Washington Star recently, Senator Lewis asked this pertinent question:

"Why should America go into international compact to guarantee limitation on armament for foreign nations? Plain it must be that should we enter the deal and it is disobeyed by any of its parties the United States will be called on by the nations involved to lend ourselves to enforce the compact. This means war upon the United States by the nations we threaten to force to obedience or war from the nation we refuse aid in the enforcement.

"To the United States nothing but evil and danger await our entrance into any international contract with foreign nations preparing for war on each other.

"What is the military georgraphy of America? Since the opening of the Panama Canal we are as an island centered between Asia and Europe. We seek no place among either to colonize our people nor do we ask possession of foreign territory or property. Our only war danger is one to be put on us, not one we would put on another. If war is to be put on us, as intimated, then it is from among the very nations we are to be influenced by. Again we ask, Is it possible that we shall join in providing a barrier on our own defense to the assaults of those who combine to limit our protection against their attacks?"

One may ask, however, just what the United States can do safely, if it is dangerous for us to agree in advance to enforce international agreements. Senator Lewis well says: "Our duty now, while we stand aloof from foreign entanglements, is to proffer counsel and friendship wherever called on, but in no wise to dictate or direct any foreign nation as to its affairs wholly applicable to its separate interests."

Certainly at this time, when the world is filled with unrest and there is jealously and danger of war on every hand, the United States should heed the time-honored advice of George Washington that we avoid all entangling agreements. It is only by keeping our hands clear and our hearts uncommitted that we can be able, without arousing suspicion when the time comes, to offer our friendly offices to help keep the peace whenever a crisis arises anywhere in the world. It is only in this way that we can serve humanity and at the same time avoid trouble for ourselves.

"SWEET LAND OF LIBERTEE"

Fred Perkins, "small maker of storage batteries," of York Pa., returned a total income of $2,511 last year, has spent eighteen days in jail and is to be tried—not in connection with his income tax but for paying his employees slightly less than forty cents an hour. This was in violation of the "code." That is what they say. Now Fred Perkins, shop is closed and his workmen, if they have jobs, have found them elsewhere, or they are living "on relief." The allegation is that Perkins was arrested at the instance of one of the "big fellows" who make storage batteries. The law is the law and if a man violates it by paying less than forty cents an hour in the storage battery business he is lucky not to be hanged, drawn and quartered. This is the land of the free and the home of the brave—land of the pilgrim's pride and "libertee." Perkins stayed in jail eighteen days before he obtained bail—for working and giving people employment at undersized wages. —Charleston News and Courier.

"Drink," said the Irish preacher, "is the greatest curse of the country. It makes yer quarrel with yer neighbors. It makes yer shoot at yer landlord; and it makes yer miss him."—Exchange.

IS FEDERAL MONEY FREE?

One of the greatest obstacles in the way of curing the growing tax problem is the ancient human desire to get something for nothing.

That desire is at the forefront in times such as the present when vast sums are being spent for direct relief and for public works projects. Practically every state is making an effort to obtain a larger share of federal funds than neighboring commonwealths. One of the most potent "sales-talks" of high state officials is that they have been instrumental in obtaining federal grants for their constituents.

The idea has gotten around that this money is "free." And so it is—to the extent that the state pays nothing for it directly. Yet every cent of the money comes from the federal treasury—it has been made possible by federal borrowings which are secured by liens on every enterprise, every piece of property, every investment in the nation. Interest payment on the bonds must be obtained through taxation—and when the time for amortization comes, the money must also be raised by taxing the public.

Generally speaking, the federal grants are proportioned to states on the basis of population, the percentage of needy being about the same in one part of the country as another. As a result, the people of the various states will have to pay back the money they get precisely as they would if it were secured by state bonds. The only advantage the federal government has is in borrowing money at a slightly lower interest rate than a state.

This is not to argue that relief isn't necessary—it is. But it is also a fact that states are obtaining money for luxury projects which they do not need, and whose contribution to the welfare of the people is far less than it should be, in the light of their cost. Once the public learns that no one in history has managed to devise a way of getting something of value for nothing, it will demand that the states, as a whole stop looking for a financial Santa Claus, and use more common sense.

GOVERNMENT IN BUSINESS

The government's activities in making and selling electricity have had a profoundly disturbing effect on the coal business, as Mr. Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, a former coal miner, no doubt knows. As the government squanders tens of millions of dollars in constructing water power plants which are not needed, hundreds of coal miners and railroad workers are thrown out of employment to join the already formidable army of jobless men. Another and no less disastrous effect of the government's invasion of the utility field has been the discouragement it has given to private investment in utilities in communities where the market for electricity would justify expansion. No owner of utility securities can feel secure in his investment as long as the government is a potential competitor, capable of borrowing at extremely low rates and not subject to taxation.

Today, almost everywhere the investor looks for an opportunity to put his savings to work he finds the government an active or potential competitor. The government is in the flat building and house building business, the farm business, the bank and insurance business, the railroad and ship business, in addition to the power business, and this by no means exhausts the list of its activities.

The restoration of confidence in the future of the dollar, the lowering of construction costs to the point where they will invite business, and the removal of the threat of government competition with private investment are the three essentials to any substantial increase in employment. Nothing else which has been proposed will work.—Chicago Tribune.

MORE BUREAUCRACY IN SIGHT

All sorts of recommendations and proposals for legislation will be offered to this Congress. So great is the New Deal majority in both branches that some of the New Dealers themselves seem to be worried over it, and many of them would prefer a greater opposition than now seems possible—although of course, later developments may change the picture entirely.

One proposal which will bear careful study is the suggestion that all interstate corporations be compelled to take out a Federal charter. The motives given for this proposed change in our corporate structure are innocent and worthy enough. The proponents of the plans say that it would wipe out inequalities in the laws of various states and enable the Federal Trade Commission to prevent stock juggling and the "trimming" of investors. Perhaps, so and perhaps not.

But there are other things to be taken into consideration. Such a Federal economic setup would give the Federal government through the Federal Trade Commission or whatever bureau had charge, a stranglehold on American Busines. We have heard a great deal of late about the disappearance of state lines and local self government. The Federal charter idea is just another step toward eliminating our state governments and putting the entire national structure under strong bureaucratic control at Washington—another step toward fascism or communism.

If the American people are to retain any of the liberties of the earlier days of the republic, if they are to retain some measure of local government and self-control we are going to have to switch some of these days from the trend toward bureaucracy and get back to fundamental American ideals. Aside from the strengthening of bureaucratic control of Washington through Federal charters, there is something else to be considered. Most of our larger newspapers and nearly all of our weekly and monthly perodicals of general circulation do not confine their business to one state and would naturally come under Federal or bureacratic control by the charter route. It is easy to see how freedom of speech, freedom of thought and of the press might easly be controlled by bureaucracy through the Federal charter idea.

Of course, the proponents of Federal corporate control would deny any such intent. But bureaucracy is naturally autocratic and it feeds on itself. It has little patience with popular control and avoids it wherever possible. Once the camel has his nose under the tent he soon gets his entire body inside, then the single animal becomes a caravan.

The proposals of Federal charters for corporate concerns doing an interstate business will certainly bear careful study. Wonder what Thomas Jefferson would think about it were he alive today?

What A Job!

Don't give up if you haven't a job yet. There's still a chance. That is, if there are any birds around close, which annoy you by their singing. A short time ago the birds got too thick around Washington, and their singing began to get on tender nerves. They tried to get them to leave, but couldn't. Finally, one member of the "brain trust" hit upon the idea that if they (the birds) kept up so much noise that people couldn't sleep and wanted to get away from the noise, then the rule might work the other way around—that if the people would make so much noise that the birds couldn't sleep, maybe they wouud go away again. As usual, without thinking to see if the idea had one iota of reason to it, the plan was put into effect. The government got up a small army of men, equipped them with tin cans, and told them to go gather a few small stones to go in the cans. Then they were gathered together and told to rattle those tin cans for dear life, until the birds couldn't stand the racket any more, then maybe—MAYBE—they would leave. And, by the way, the rate of pay for the rock-rattlers and bird-scaring army was pegged at 40 cents per hour. Now, that is a fair sample of the brand of economy and budget-balancing efficiency that is being dealt out by the brainy boys up Washington way. Imagine—paying a bunch of men 40 cents an hour to tote buckets around with rocks in them, and rattling them to scare birds to keep them from singing. I've heard of lots of coke-eyed plans for spending money, and the present administration has shown us lots of new ones, but I believe, out of them all, this is the richest one yet. If I hear of another one soon, I'll tell you about it, but I don't expect to hear of one better than this. However, there is a plan on foot, I am told, whereby the government would send a bunch of fellows out west—on pay—to shave the thorns off all the cactus, so the cattle can eat it. So, don't give up. There may be a job for all, yet.

Who Said "Nigger"?

Personally, I take no stock in party contentions over the negro question. Really I don't believe they should vote, and I most certainly do not believe they should hold public office! However, no matter how any of us feel about this, they have their voting and office-holding privilege, and I suppose there is nothing that can be done about it. But the fact remains that the Democratic party has always prided itself on being the "White Man's Party", and time after time have thrown dust in the eyes of the Republicans about the matter. During the past few years these occasions have been less and less, until you can hardly hear it mentioned now. Inasmuch as the Southern newspapers raised such a hullabaloo over the election of Oscar DePriest some years ago, I had an article in this column a few weeks ago about the election of Arthur Mitchell, another negro, on the Democratic ticket. Of all things—a negro elected on a Democratic ticket, considering all the Democratic brethren have had to say about such. Uncles Gus and Joe defend the event by stating that they were "glad the negroes had found somewhere to go." I thought that a right weak defense, coming from members of a party that has boasted all along of their "White Supremacy". But it seem that all has not been told yet. We want to tell our good Democratic friends a few more things—they're true, too, and don't doubt it. It's going to make the going hard, I suppose, for some of those good Democrats who were always so quick to holler "nigger", but the truth is the truth, and isn't going to hurt anybody. Maybe the fellings of a few may be hurt, but that'll be easy to overcome. To begin with, there were 14 negro classmates of President Roosevelt while he was at Harvard, who brought their families along and hob-nobbed with the president and Mrs. Roosevelt on the White House lawn recently. And it is said that Mrs. Roosevelt got a great kick out of holding the hand of a little 6-year-old pickaninny and having news reel sound pictures made of the event during an Easter egg hunt last spring on the White House lawn. Congressman Gavagan, a Democrat, from New York, bemoaned the fact that the incident "did not receive the publicity is deserved in the South". (I'd like to add right here that Mr. Gavagan just doesn't know his Southern Democratic newspaper editors, if he expects them to give that event any publicity). Mr. Gavagan added, too, that "it has been increasingly evident that Mr. Roosevelt, unlike his predecessor, as well as Mrs. Roosevelt, have drawn no 'solor line' at the White House". How's that Mr. Democrat? But that isn't all, not by a long shot. When Mr. Roosevelt took office, no less than 28 white people were let go from the White House payroll, and were replaced by 28 negroes. Three of these were chauffeurs, six were messengers in the president's private office, and one was Edgar Pryor, who "was requested by President Roosevelt to take a position in the offfice of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and was employed in this same office under Mr. Roosevelt while he served under Woodrow Wilson." Too, before you can see the present Presdient, you must consult Gus Grenich or Irvin Henry McDuffie (Scotch in name, but yet a negro). McDuffie was formerly a negro barber in Atlanta. Then there is "Mrs. Allen", a colored sister, who is "Director of White Houes Cuisine", or, in plain everyday English, head cook at the White House. Further, we find Bill J. Thompkins, Recorder of Deeds in the District of Columbia. And, while President Roosevelt was governor of New York, he signed a bill (twice before vetoed by Republican governors) making possible the election of the two only municipal judgeships in the country held by negroes, outside of the District of Columbia. There are G Victor Cools and John Perscott Murchison, regional leaders for the Subsistence Homesteads Division. There are Eugene Kinkle Jones, special advisor to Secretary Daniel C. Roper; Forester W. Washington, assistant to Harry L. Hopkins, and who is the boss over numbers of white Southern girls who are employed in the office of the Federal Relief Administrator; Earl R. Moses, a member of the Emergency Relief's Research and Statistical Bureau; Robert L. Vann, Special Assistant Attorney-General; William Hastie and Theophilus Mann, attorneys in the department of the Secretary of the Interior. Remember, now, all of these are negroes, were appointed by a "White Supremacy" Democrat, and replaced white people when the present administration took office. In addition to these there are negroes in positions as accountants, auditors, clerks, stenographers, case aides, tabulators, statisticians, technical supervisors, and others too numerous to mention. The next time some wag pulls that "White Man's Party" gag on you, tell him about all this. He very probably won't believe you, because he hasn't seen anything about it in The Montgomery Advertiser, The Birmingham News, or The Age-Herald, but it's the truth, just the same. And if he has any stray money floating around loose in his jeans which he wants to bet that the above is not a true state of conditions so far as the "nigger" question is concerned, just ask him to place it on the barrel head—you can put your frog-skins down beside it, write in to get the low down from Washington, and when the evidence comes in, you can rake in the pot, sit back and stretch your legs, and retire from active life for a while. Now—Who said "nigger"—Man in the Moon.

DEPORT THE REDS

The nation is up in arms over the failure of the United States Department of Labor to deport the host of alien revolutionists who have been violently active recently. The reply to demands that all alien communits in the United States be deported is usually the explanatory statement that the government of Russia, or the goveruments of countries from which these reds originally hailed refuse to accept them and that there is no place to which they may be deported.

Recently a statement appeared in an official communist publication, addressed to "comrades" visiting Russia. It said in part: "We do not ask for any party membership cards. We are not interested in your passports; here, all over the whole Soviet Union, your passport is the fact that you are workers who fought weapons in hand against fascism." This is an open welcome to all communist revolutionists from foreign countries. The United States Department of Labor should make Russia "swallow" these words, or "swallow" the shiploads of these revolutionary agents who have been thrust on America gainst our citizens' wishes.

America in the past may have been considered the "Melting Pot" of the world, the nation in which all nationalities and all people could join in friendly efforts toward the maintenance of a free government. But it was not intended that America should become a political mad house, or a haven for all of the Old World mischief makers. We have statutes which are intended to protect the law-abiding citizens of this nation. These laws are not intended to protect aliens who strive to destroy our government. There are other laws which forbid the entrance into the United States of people who advocate the overthrow of the government. Yet scores of such revolutionists have been allowed entrance into the United States of people who advocate the overthrow of the government. Yet scores of such revolutionists have been allowed entrance freely into the country for the past two years. There are statutes which compel the deportation of all aliens who come into the country with revolutionary purposes in mind. Yet very few have been deported during the past two years. The officials of our government are sworn to defend the Constitution of the United States and to enforce the laws of our country. Some are being accused of not enforcing the laws against alien revolutionists. It is, therefore, about time for the people of America to demand action.

It is understood that Congress will shortly be asked to change the present laws governing aliens. According to one report all alien radical cases are bing catalogued in the Department of Labor by states, evidently for the purpose of having pressure brought from each state on members of Congress to liberalize the laws regarding aliens. It is understood, however, that the propaganda behind the movement will endeavor to make it appear that the laws are to be strengthened instead of liberalized. Our laws are satisfactory now, although they might be strengthened by an amendment proposed by Congressman Dies of Texas, which has been continuously sidetracked. It is feared by many that other changes made in our present laws governing aliens will tend to weaken them. Placing the sole authority over the alien question with the Secertary of Labor will not help, for the Department is apparently making few deportations under the existing laws. What we need is not more law, but the enforcement of present laws.

During the recent red upheavals throughout the nation, newspaper editors from Florida to California, and from Oregon to New York, have unanimously demanded deportation of aliens, but these reds are still with us preparing other uprisings. Congress must take this question in hand. The south is in the saddle and that section is the new battle grounds of communism. The South in Congress san help save the entire nation from these alien red intriguers. In the North, where the voting strength of aliens apparently means more to many politicians than does the welfare of the nation, political sentiment on the question is mixed.

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw— and Some He Saw Not

Dreams, dreams! How strange they seem! And what do they mean? We will doubtless never know; and we will keep on dreaming. I hope we do, for it is fun usually. There are some bad ones, but I prefer not to talk about them. Somehow I ran across more than the usual number of dream stories this week.

Judge Reynolds told an interesting one Tuesday. It happened one day about Christmas while he was lounging in front of the fire in a big easy chair given to him by his friends. Upon awakening he announced to his wife that he had visioned in his dream the absolute and certain way to restore prosperity, good times and plenty to all the world. According to his dream, it could be brought about by stopping from operation all the automobiles for just one year. I do not know what else that would bring about, but one thing is certain and sure: The money that is spent for the operation of automobiles for a year's time would feed a lot of hungry people and buy the baby a lot of britches.

John Crawford, negro, of Lomax, is a professional dreamer. He has them as regular as he sleeps. One night this week John dreamed about seeing a group of men dig up a dead man who had been buried fifteen years. Hear him tell it: "I stood and watched 'em dig, dig, dig, throwing the dirt out of the grave. I thought when the coffin was opened I would see just a pile of bones. But what do you reckon? When that coffin was opened the man sot right up, and he was as purty and fat and nice as any man you ever saw. He got out and started walking. He told me to come on. I followed after him. He was a purty man. He walked on and I followed him. We come to the river. The water was as purty and clear as you ever seed. In the river was so many ships they could not turn around. There the man left me, and I don't know where he went. I don't know if the man was white or black. It was a strange dream and I wish I knowed what it means."

The third interesting dream told me this week was related by Jean Wyatt, of The Union-Banner. His story is somewhat as follows: "One morning this week, I came to work early, as usual. After I opened the office I looked up toward the courthouse. I was amazed to see the whole western half of the county building gone, and the eastern half still standing unmolested. There was absolutely nothing left of the western half of the building. Everything had disappeared, and it was a perfectly clean place on the ground." I wonder if that dream were induced by something that has already happened, or is a harbinger of something yet to come.

Among the many virtues of Clanton's mayor, Mr. C. Fenn Jones, there is one which he regards as perhaps the most important to his life, liberty, and pursuit of happiness. He believes in and practices implicity the doctrine of being clean, neat, spic, span, and orderly in everything. Naturally, he likes to see those with whom he associates have the same ideas and practices of neatness. I do not know whether the Mayor's zeal for neatness had anything to do with it or not, but I learn that Chief of Police, John Browder, is soon to appear on duty all dressed up in a neat new blue uniform, with cap, braid, buttons, and all the usual accessories to match. Hooray for John. Don't let the Mayor outdo you at anything. For after all, what use have we for a Mayor without a good looking policeman to hold him a light?

The State Legislature at Montgomery got cranked off to a good start this week. If you want something to amuse you in your idle moments for the next, I don't know how long, start guessing every day what the lawmakers will or will not do the next day. But don't let it run you crazy. That is one more of the pleasures you should indulge in with temperance.

Jack Mims, Raymond Duffey and party are expected to arrive home from California this week. They can then make plans to use the next month resting up from their vacation. The only thing I can make out of an automobile trip from here to Los Angeles and back is that it is downright hard work on both nerves and muscles.

Beginning next Tuesday we start out with the unusual and unaccustomed experience of seeing our county government administered by a Commissioners Court that is divided politically. We have three Republicans and one Democrat composing the board, with a Democrat probate judge to do the refereeing. Let us hope they will find a friendly, peaceable and constructive relationship and disposition to start with, and keep it ever after in handling the county's business. A Commissioners Court divided politically but friendly in disposition can do better than the same body supposedly together in politics but actually crossways in personal disposition toward one another.

Last week I heard it rumored that a bill would be introduced in the legislature to abolish the commissioners court and thereby get rid of the Republican members. I asked Representative Charley Cox how he felt about the proposition. Here is what he said: "I am not in favor of legislation that will put men out of office to which they have been elected by the people. I want to see the commissioners and Judge Smith be friendly and handle the county's business in a proper, progressive and constructive manner. If the commissioners will consent to that kind of an attitude, I will be satisfied, because I believe that is what the people want and what they elected them for. If the commissioners should assume an attitude and disposition detrimental to the interests of the county and obstructive to a sound administration of affairs at the hands of Judge Smith, then I would be in favor of a remedy through legislation, and I believe the people of the county would approve of it." That is a clear-cut, sensible statement that may be taken as having teeth in it.

ORGANIZED FARMERS PREPARE PROGRAM FOR LEGISLATURE

Alabama's organized farmers have a definite agricultural program they are asking the state legislature to pass during the session this year. The program includes:

(1) Seven-month terms for rural schools.

(2) Restoration of vocational education to its original basis.

(3) Reasonable and adequate provisions for the operation of the University of Alabama, the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, and the Alabama College and for paying the full amount of existing appropriations to the teachers' colleges.

(4) That agricultural research and extension work done by the Alabama Experiment Station and Extension Service, Auburn, "be not considered as a part of the general unified educational program, but that this type of work and the agencies performing those services be considered separate and apart on their own merits."

(5) Provisions for a well-rounded research program in agriculture.

(6) Adequate legislation in order to stabilize and make permanent and secure the county farm and home demonstration agency work in each county and make a plan for reasonable and certain county financial support.

(7) Support to the governor and legislature in working out a reasonable and fair revenue program for the operation of the necessary and vital functions of the state.

The agricultural program was formulated by the executive committee of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation and about 100 farmers throughout the state who are chairmen of legislative committees of county farm bureaus.

LEADING COTTON VARIETIES.

Leading varieties of cotton for the different sections of Alabama have been announced by the experiment station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute following 17 tests conducted over a period of three years, 1932-34, inclusive.

Stating that the experiment station does not recommend varities that produce staple less than 7-8 (or 28-32) inch, H. B. Tisdale, plant brooder, named the varieties with the average yield of lint in pounds per acre and the length of staple in 1-32 inches for the three-year period as follows:

North Alabama—D. P. L., 10, 533, 31.1; D. P. L. 11, 527, 32.2; Half-and-half, 524, 26.1; Stoneville 3, 430, 31.6; Stoneville 2, 413, 32.8.

Black Belt—Half and half, 233, 26.5; Stoneville 3, 231, 31.7; Cleveland 884, 220, 33.2; Cook 1010, 218, 28.2; Cook 144 (Smith) 216, 32.3; Wilt Infested Area—Cook 1022, 391, 30.3; Cook 307-92 (Smith) 386, 28.2; Clevewilt (C. Rhyne) 383, 31.8; Cook 307 (B. Rhyse) 375, 28.1; Cook 27-54 374, 29.5.

The tests were conducted at Auburn and in different sections of Alabama on the sub-stations and experimental fields.

The Alabama Experiment Station has no cottonseed for sale.

Most of the soils in Chilton county are infested with wilt fungi. This makes it advisable for most of the farmers in this county to use wilt-resistant varieties.

The experiment station does not recommend that the farmers plant seed of varieties that have a staple of less that 28-32 inch staple. You will note that all these leading varieties except one heve a staple length of more than 28-32 inches.

Farmers who are interested in good cotton seed for planting this coming spring should make their desires known to the county agent in the near future.

FOREST TELEPHONE LINES AID IN FIRE PROTECTION

Montgomery.—The president's forestry program in Alabama has included the building of many miles of forest telephone lines by the C. C. C. under the direction of the state commission of forestry. To date 271 miles of telephone line have been constructed, and some 41 miles additional are partly completed. These telephone lines enable landowners to summon each other's assistance when fire breaks out and also permit forestry agents, patrolmen and observers to communicate with each other, thus permitting of prompt arrival at the fire front.

Fires detected and reached in their early stakes are quite easy to suppress.

A total of 9,901 creosoted poles were purchased from creosote plants in Alabama for use in line building. Forty-five wall telephones and twelve portable instruments have been bought and put into service.

The distribution of completed forest telephone line mileage by counties is as follows: Baldwin 17.3; Clarke 12.3; Cleburne 12.1; Covington 19; Escambia 22.2; Geneva 4.9; Mobile 55.8, Monroe 27, Tuscaloosa 12.3 and Washington 88.1. In addition 25 miles are under construction in Butler County and 16 miles in Baldwin County.

UNIVERSITY MAN ELECTED TO OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS

University, Ala., Jan. 8.—T. Earle Johnson, head of the public speaking department of the University of Alabama, was elected executive secretary and treasurer of the Southern Association of Teachers of Speech at a business meeting held in New Orleans. The meeting was held as a separate assembly during the convention of the national association of teachers of speech at New Orleans at the same time and attended by Johnson.

The University of Alabama professor was also selected as editor of a proposed quarterly of the southern association, which is designed to deal with special speech problems in the South, viewed from the teaching angle. The contributors are to be prominent speech teachers throughout this section, and the magazine will be the means for spreading ideas to give advance to the work of the group.

Johnson said he was particularly impressed by the progress made recently in voice scinece, and by new mechanisms which have been developed for improving and testing voice.

He will take office in April, the regular time for the annual installation of the officers of the association. The first issues of the quarterly is expected to be in May.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala., Jan. 8.—No celebration ever tendered a curly headed dimpled babe representing a new year equaled the reception given the conquering heroes of Alabama's mighty Crimson Tide which came home from the grid wars across the Rockies Saturday morning.

Although the joy was dampened to a great extent by the death of the mother of director of Athletics Henry "Hank" Crisp," the Tidesmen came back to Tuscaloosa and the campus to receive the homage due them for their glorious victory over the West's "greatest football machine."

When the signal light on the southern semaphore turned red announcing that the Crimson Tide was once more on the home block, the Million Dollar Bank struck up "Dixie" the fire siren atop the City Hall let go a blast which was heard miles around, and every factory whistle and church bell in town added to the din. Classes at the Capstone were dismissed for two hours in order that every student might be in the station to welcome home Captain Bill Lee and his men, and every school kid in town joined Tuscaloosans in showing Coach Thomas and his team what they think of the Crimson Tide of Alabama.

John D. McQueen, Tuscaloosa attorney and former president of the Alabama Alumni Association, who has delivered every welcoming address to Alabama's Rose Bowl teams, again represented the City of Tuscaloosa. Judge Henry Beacon Foster, president pro tem of the Board of Trustees, paid a glowing tribute to the Tidesmen; as did President George H. Denny of the University who was unable to make the trip because pressing business kept him home. Dr. A. B. Moore, graduate dean, was called upon to describe the game from the spectators' point of view; and members of the coaching staff and team replayed the game for those who had to be content with radio and newspaper accounts of the struggle.

After the celebration students returned to their class work, and the players went to the gym where they packed away their moleskins and took up their books once more. And that brought to a close football for the 1934 season. But the memory of the "greatest passing team in the history of modern football" will live as long as time itself.

University, Ala., Jan. 8.—Dr. Emmett B. Carmichael, professor of physiological chemistry, school of medicine, University of Alabama, has returned from Pittsburgh, Pa., where he attended the 95th meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of science, acted as delegate from the latter organization. The University chemist also served as delegate for the Sigma Xi club of the University to the 35th convention of the society of the Sigma Xi, national scholastic scientific fraternity. Dr. Carmichael reports that two chapters were approved to be located at Weslyan University and Smith College.

The convention was held at Boston December 28, to Jan. 1.

During the recent meeting the Alabama student served on the committee appointed to draw up a new constitution and led a discussion group in an open forum dealing with the honor system.

Starlin is one of the outstanding student leaders on the campus. He is also secretary to Ralph E. Adams, University executive secretary.

BIRMINGHAM MINISTER PREACH AT THE MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM

The great Municipal Auditorium of Birmingham, seating over 6,000, is resounding with songs and gospel sermons. This is not conducted by a traveling evangelist or a nationally known speaker but by a local pastor. A crowd of more than two thousand attended the opening evangelistic mass meeting conducted by the Rev. Glenn V. Tingley, chaplain of WBRC, and pastor of the Birmingham Gospel Tabernacle, when he spoke last Sunday night. He will speak next Sunday night at the second mass meeting on "Depression, Panic—into Great Tribulation?" answering the following question: How do we know the tribulation will be seven years long? By what means will the Roman empire be revived? What will be the characteristics of the anti-Christ? Will we recognize Him when He comes? Are Atheism and Bolshevism paving the way for Him? What is the abomination of desolation? What is the mark of the beast? How will it be possible to flee from anti-Christ during tribulation? What is meant by "woe unto them that are with child in those days?" Will the nations accept the rule of anti-Christ? Will Judas be the anti-Christ? Will he be accepted by the Jews? Will the anti-Christ rise in Rome? Will the economic system of the world suffer a complete collapse?

Special music will begin at 7:00 p.m. under the direction of G. P. Rockwell. Prof. A. O. Deason of Tuscaloosa will give an opening piano recital and play for the service. Soloists will be Marguerite Maynard, and R. L. Myers. A choir of two hundred will sing, "Lo, Jesus Comes." Souvenir copies of this theme song for the services will be passed out to the congregation.

Delegations were entertained last Sunday night from Opelika, Montgomery, Jasper, Oneonta, Gadsden and many other points.

BRIEFS FILED FOR THE DeKALB CONTEST

tary of the County Democratic Committee two hours and fifteen minutes prior to the postmark shown on them and that they bore the Postmaster's notation that they had been "withdrawn before dispatch." The secretary, he alleged, refused to say how they came into his possession. He charged further that some of those whose names appeared on the absentee ballots were dead, and that others had not resided in the county for more than a year. He maintained Judge Hawkins was disqualified from sitting in the contempt proceedings because he was a candidate in the general election, and that his personal interest as a candidate prevented him from legally issuing an order for count of the absentee ballots; also that he had no authority to commit the Sheriff to jail for an indefinite period, five days being the statutory limit for such commitment.

The petition for mandamus to require Judge Hawkins to recuse himself from presiding at hearing of other contempt citations issued by him, was based mainly on the contention that his candidacy in the election to succeed himself as circuit judge, disqualified him.

Judge Hawkins was present in the courtroom throughout the preceedings, as was Probate Judge Malone and Sheriff Pope.

L & N. AIR-CONDITIONING CARS

Continuing its long-time custom of affording its patrons every convenience and comfort in travel, the management of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad has just announced that as quickly as the necessary equipment can be installed the majority of the sleeping cars, diners and observation cars operating between points on its system will be air-conditioned.

Included in this program are cars in the crack Pan-American and other trains operating to and from Cincinnati, Louisville, St. Louis, Atlanta, Memphis, Pensacola, New Orleans and all immediate cities on the main lines of the L. & N. system which have not heretofore been air-conditioned, it was stated. No further arrangements have as yet been announced of air-conditioning of cars moving in through service with other lines. Sleepers operating between New York and Memphis, Birmingham, Nashville and Louisville were air-conditioned last summer.

This announcement should be of particular interest to travelers in the South where the summers are long and the temperature high.

SHERIFF GILLESPIE CLEANING HOUSE

Many Gallons of Whiskey Destroyed by Retiring Sheriff as He Makes Ready for Mr. Hardy

Sheriff Gillespie set himself to the task of cleaning house at the county jail Wednesday afternoon. Gallon after gallon of liquid evidence of varied hues and colors were poured on the ground and consumed by the flames.

For many months there has been an increasing collection of cans, bottles, jugs, and other containers which fell to the possession of sherrif Gillespie in his rigid enforcement of the prohibition laws in Chilton County. They were stored in a room at the county jail.

About noon Wednesday the campaign of destruction of evidence started. The Sheriff borrowed a hatchet from Ed Carleton, the blacksmith across the alley. Preacher Lockhart, and Deputy Ellis Ellison began to tote the cans out of the jail and the Sheriff chopped them open.

The word spread rapidly, and spectators began to assemble. Among the early arrivals were Circuit Judge Arthur Glover, Circuit Solicitor Winston Huddleston, and County Solicitor, Grover Walker.

As the high-powered liquid was poured out it began to run down the gully. It was set on fire, but the Sheriff poured it out faster than it could burn. The stream crept toward the county barn. The Sheriff stopped pouring for a while to let the flame catch up.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By ANN PAGE

PRICES on butter, eggs and meat have continued to rise with no prospect of lowering with the probable exception of eggs, which should be plentiful within two to three weeks.

Many vegetables are cheap or moderately priced, particularly white potatoes and other underground vegetables. Several varieties of cabbage, cauliflower, broccoli, iceberg, Boston and romaine lettuce, celery and various greens help to cover up the scarcity and high prices of string beans and spinach.

Grapefruit are plentiful and cheap having largely escaped cold damage. Large size eating apples predominate at present. Banana prices change little from month to month and they together with the citrous fruits and apples are the chief winter standbys.

Here are three menus made up from seasonable foods at different price levels:

Low Cost Dinner

Braised Breast of Lamb
Potatoes
Mashed Rutabaga Turnips
Bread and Butter
Baked Cereal Custard
Tea or Coffee Milk

Medium Cost Dinner

Chicken Pot Pie with Biscuit Crust
Browned Yams Creamed Onions

Prune Whip
Tea or Coffee Milk

Very Special Dinner

Stuffed Celery
Brown Chicken Fricassee
Buttered Carrots Boiled Rice
Apple and Raisin Salad

OBITUARIES — IN MEMORY

It becomes necessary for us again to call attention to the fact that we make a charge of one cent per word for all obituaries over 150 words published in The Union-Banner. So, if you want an obituary, or in memory article, published about a departed friend or relative, it must be confined to not over 150 words, or else money order for the remainder should be included if sent by mail, as outlined above.

If obituaries are sent in containing over 150 words and no money accompanies same, it will be either omitted entirely or, if possible, condensed to come within the requirement, and published.

DEKALB BALLOT FRAUDS BARED

Widespread Tampering Was Revealed by House; A Democrat Seated

Montgomery, Jan., 15.—R. L. Tolbert Fort Payne Democrat, was expected to take his seat in the House today as the representative from DeKalb County following a report of a special House committee which alleged wholsale ballot tampering in the election in that county.

Norman Wilkes, Tolbert's Republican opponent, was declared elected by the county canvassing board. Colbert contested, contending the board had refused to count 244 absentee ballots despite a court order to do so.

The special committee counted the disputed ballots in open session in the House chamber yesterday, and ruled that 92 of the 244 ballots had been altered, making them illegal. The committee said Tolbert won by 27 votes.

Six of the ballots were declared illegal because of improper marking, and 152 were listed as straight Democratic tickets.

W. C. Taylor, chairman of the committee, said it was apparent many of the envelopes containing the ballots had been opened at one end, the ballots changed, and the envelope resealed. In some instances he said resealing mucilage had fastened the ballot to the envelope so that it had to be cut away to extract it.

In most of the cases, the ballots contained a heavy cross at the head of the ticket under the Democratic rooster, but other crosses, in a different ink, had been placed opposite Republican nominees for county offices.

John J. Haynes, assistant attorney general, said every voter whose ballot had been tampered with should be summoned to appear before the committee to certify how he voted.

Claud Scruggs, attorney for Tolbert, indicated he would ask for a state inventigation, with possibility of cases being brought to Federal Court if any ballots had been delivered through the mail.

Mr. Roos wants to get acquainted with the people of Chilton County, and invites them to call around to see him. He especially solicits your jobs in his line. He is prepared to do general blacksmithing and boilermaking.

Mrs. Laura Lamar has returned to her home in Montgomery after a brief visit to Mrs. Willie P. Jones.

Farm Census Now Ready For Start

County Agent Fant Makes A Statement To Farmers of County

The nation-wide farm census under supervision of the United State Department of Agriculture will be instituted and carried out in Chilton County during the next few weeks. It is understood that the corps of enumerators for the county have already been selected and their territory assigned them, with necessary instructions for carrying out the program. The work in this county is under supervision of the headquarters office for the Sixth Congressional District in Tuscaloosa.

In a letter to the farmers of the county, the following statements are made by County Agent J. W. Fant:

"The census enumerator will call on you within the next few days. He will ask you many questions in reference to your farm operations.

"The information asked for is of vital importance to every farmer. It is of more importance to the farmer than any other group. It is the desire of the federal government to get just as accurate information as possible, and it will be to your interest to answer the question asked by the enumerator fully and accurately.

"This information is all confidential. The Census Bureau will tabulate and summarize all information, but no information will be given out from any individual farm report.

"You may obtain a copy of the questionnaire used by the enumerator from your county agent. Get your copy and study it before the enumerator calls and you will be in a better position to give him accurate information pertaining to your farm."

CHILTON COUNTY SELECTED FOR VOCATIONAL PROGRAM

Chilton County has been selected as one of the nine counties in which a program of cooperative service for rehabilitation subscribers will be carried on by vocational teachers and the local relief administration.

A joint meeting of the Directors of Relief work and teachers of Vocational Agriculture and Vocational Home Economics in the nine counties was held in Montgomery Saturday. The six vocational teachers from Chilton County attended the meeting.

At this meeting plans were made to begin a program of instruction for rural rehabilitation subscribers.

The work done by the vocational teachers is volunteer work and will be done at a time when they are not engaged in their regular work. They will cooperate with the relief workers and the farm foreman in rendering this service to the Rural Subscribers.

This report was rendered by Mrs. Calloway to the Commissioners Court at their meeting on January 7th, and ordered published by the court.

The summary of this report shows a total balance of $44,958.32 in cash on hand to the credit of all funds of the county. The amount on hand in each fund was as follows:

General fund	$26,610.17
Road fund	15,453.88

There was noted an overdraft in the gasoline fund of $1,439.48, which, deducted from the above total balance, left the amount of $44,958.32 actual cash on hand in all funds of the county as of the date December 31, 1934.

The bonded debt of the county is shown by the report as follows: Funding road and bridge bonds due January 1, 1947, with interest due semi-annually at five per cent per annum, $83,000.00.

NO MORE FEDERAL RELIEF AFTER FIRST OF FEBRUARY

Thad Holt, Director of the Alabama Relief Administration, has notified all local relief administrators that effective February 1st, unemployables will no longer be eligibile for relief from Federal funds in Alabama.

The care of unemployed has never been a proper charge against emergency relief funds which were created to care for unemployed persons whose unemployment was due to the great economic depression. Previous to the economic depression these chronic dependents were cared for from local funds, either private, public or a combination of private and public. It is the atitude of the Federal Government that continued care for these dependents should come from local sources.

Since last March Chilton County has cared for a large number of unemployable families but a recent survey has showed there were still 36 unemployable cases in the county receiving relief from Federal funds.

During the remainder of the month of January the very best effort will be made by the local relief staff to establish resources for the care of these unemployables within their own family. It is believed that in several cases relatives who are able will assume responsibility for these persons. No case will be turned over to the local governments until every other possible resource has been exhausted.

Miss Nell Ross Mullins, Ed Mullins and Aubrey Taylor visited Prattville Sunday afternoon.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED BY THE LEAGUE FOR BETTER GOVERNMENT

Executive Committee of Body Gives Views and Issues Recommendations Regarding Management of Co. Affairs

The Executive Committe of the League for Better Government in Chilton County held a meeting at the courthouse last Wednesday afternoon. Representatives from all Beats of the county were present.

After a round of discussion of several subjects mentioned by various individuals as appropriate for the establishment of a better government in Chilton County, the following resolutions were offered and adopted by the meeting:

Resolution No. 1

We believe we are justified in the expression of pride in the fact that Chilton County has, in past years, enjoyed the many benefits of a good government, administered by officials and leaders who had as their supreme purpose and gaiding motives the best service to the people of the county. This, we believe, is proven by the fact that Chilton County has, for many years, been recognized as among the first counties of Alabama in point of efficient, sound and financially secure condition.

We further believe we are justified in saying that in more recent years our county has suffered because of the fact that some officials apparently did not have uppermost in their minds their duty and obligation to render the best service to all the people. This, we think, was proven by the verdict of our people in the recent election.

It is, therefore, apparent to all that the people of Chilton County want to continue good government, economically administered to the general welfare of all, and further, that they are willing, determined, and independent enough to go a long way in order to make sure they will have the kind of government they want and that they deserve.

We, who compose this League for Better Government, are proud of the part we have had in past years in supporting men and measures that have contributed to the high standing of Chilton County as a county well-governed. We face the future with confidence in the integrity and good purpose of our people. We abide in the hope that whatever of differences may have developed among our people may be savored with the supreme importance of exercising our calm, sensible and patriotic duty to continue to devote ourselves to our duty as citizens, first of all, committed always and forever to the support of those things which mean the perpetuation of a government safe, secure and satisfactory to the largest number of our people, with friendliness for all and malice toward none.

Now, therefore, be it resolved by the League for Better Government in Chilton County, that we do here and now pronounce our stand for a continued sound, economical and progressive government by the officials whose duty it will be to administer our public affairs in the future.

We favor, advocate and urge, that as far as possible, the public works in our county be given to citizens of our county, and that money so spent in carrying on the business of the county for public works be kept within the county.

Our people have said whom they wanted to manage county affairs in the future. Politically, some of the officers are Democrats and some are Republicans. We hope that all of those officials will assume an attitude of friendliness and cooperation for the best and most equitable discharge of their duties in the most wholesome interest of all our people. Those who would build political prestige must know that, first of all, they must lay the foundation of satisfactory, adequate, efficient and universal service to those who are their fellow citizens.

We regard the spirit of harmony, friendliness and cooperation among county officials as the paramount requirement for efficiency and the full recognition of the rights of all our people. We hope those in places of official responsibility will recognize

REYNOLDS RETIRES FROM PUBLIC SERVICE AFTER EIGHTEEN YEARS

Prominent Official will Take Rest for Balance Of this Year, Following Long Period Of Service to the Public

Judge L. H. Reynolds was happy and cheerful Tuesday as he experienced the first day he has spent as a private citizen in eighteen years. As he set up temporary office quarters with his sons, Grady and Omar Reynolds, he said: "I expect to wind up personal business in the next few months and spend the balance of this year resting. I do not know yet what plans I shall have for business in the future."

The conclusion of the public career of Judge Reynolds was the outstanding occasion of the changes in county officials of this week. He has the honor and distinction of being in the public service for a longer period than any other man in the history of the county. The influence of his official career has had more to do with our county affairs than that of any man of our time. No doubt it will be many generations before his excellent record will be equaled by another.

As Judge Reynolds retires to private life, it is particularly interesting to look back over this career and review briefly the years in which he has been the most potent force in our county.

At the age of fifteen years his father placed him in charge of a large farm up in Dry Valley. He conducted the affairs of the farm until he was 23 years old, and made a success of it. He went to school only a few days.

Two years after he married he was chosen by a group of farmers to conduct a farmers store at Jemison. For a few years he managed this business successfully, and finally bought out the business himself.

In 1890 Reynolds was the leader in organizing an independent political party in Chilton County, which was successful in electing the county officials of that year.

In 1896 and 1897 he was representative of Chilton County in the legislature of Alabama. Again in 1900 and 1901 he was in the legislature. He represented Chilton County in the famous Constitutional Convention of 1901. Again in 1903 he was representative of Chilton County in a special session of the state legislature.

The independent party, of which he was the leader, joined the Alliance party which ran its course after a few years of successful political conquest. Then came the era of Populism which was successful in control of county affairs for a short time. Reynolds was the recognized leader of that movement.

When the Populist party disbanded in 1902, there was a contest in Chilton County as to whether the local party should join the Democrats or the Republicans. Reynolds advocated joining the Republicans and S. M. Adams led the group that favored joining the Democrats. In a mass meeting to decide that question Reynolds won, and carried the majority of the Populists with him into the Republican party.

As the leader of the Republican party Reynolds was first elected probate judge in 1904. He served six years and was again the candidate of the Republican party in 1910, when he was defeated by Judge Deason, Democrat.

After six years in private life Reynolds came back in 1916 again as leader of the Republican party and candidate for probate judge. He was elected, went into the probate office in January, 1917, where he remained until he turned the keys over to Judge Lee Smith Tuesday of this week.

Reviewing his political and public career briefly as he sat at his desk Tuesday, Judge Reynolds said:

"In all my political experience I never scratched a ticket until last November. I have always stood against debts, and advocated economy of government. I have always believed in having two strong political parties.

"In all my career I have tried to keep uppermost in my mind the paramount rights of the people to a good government.

"I have always advocated a free, open and fair discussion of public questions. I suppose I have engaged in more joint political discussions than any other man in Alabama. I recall that Bill Brandon and I went together one time back in the early days, traveling all over Chilton County with a horse and buggy. We debated politics against each other two or three times each day and slept together at night. At the conclusion of the campaign my side won by about 1,700 to 400. I never refused a joint discussion, and never refused to stand up and fight for the rights and best interests of my people as I was able to see them."

MR. DANIEL, LOCAL AGENT FOR SINGER MACHINE CO.

Mrs. James H. Daniel, who took over the local agency for Singer Sewing Machines here three months ago, reports that he is liking Chilton County and is well pleased with his new field.

Mr. Daniel came here from Montgomery, where he had been for the past five years, most of which time he had been with Singer. He succeeds C. Reese Mullins, former agent here. Mr. Daniel's territory is all of Chilton County. He maintains headquarters at the Dollar Store, where parts for Singer are kept at all times. Mr. Daniel himself is at this store every Saturday; the rest of the week he is traveling over the county.

Mr. Daniel, with his family—wife and two children, live in the Gowan addition, one block south of the high school.

HOSEA DOWNS HOME ROBBED

Thief is Caught Near Thorsby On The Following Morning

Fuller Samuels, negro, was placed in jail Sunday morning on a charge burglarizing the home of Dr. Hosea Downs south of Clanton Saturday night. Entry to the home was made by cutting a screen while Dr. and Mrs. Downs were at the picture show early in the evening.

Other negroes stated that Fuller saw Dr. and Mrs. Downs as they went to the show, and tried to get them to go with him to carry out the robbery. Samuels was familiar with the Downs home, having worked there in past years. When he got into the house he obtained a pass key which he figured would admit him to the place for future exploits.

The thief was caught on a freight train near Thorsby Sunday morning. He had the keys to the Downs house. None of the property he stole was in his possession, and it had not been learned Tuesday where he put the things he stole.

The principal items missed from the home were a dress suit and two pairs of pants, four shirts, four night shirts, and a Winchester shotgun.

FOOT SPECIALIST HERE FRIDAY THIS WEEK

"Treatment and Care of the Feet" will be the subject of a special event at Taylor Dry Goods Company in Clanton Friday of this week, when a personal representative of Dr. Wm. M. Scholl will be present for the purpose of examination, instruction and advice to any and all who may have any defects or ailments of the feet.

The management of the store especially invites the attention of all to this occasion, and urges that everyone interested avail themselves of the splendid opportunity thus afforded.

Instruction will be given about how to obtain relief from tired aching feet, hurting corns, callouses, bunions, itching feet and toes, weak arches, or any foot trouble. There will be no charge or obligation for securing this valuable advice.

MISS MOLLIE HANNON DIED

Funeral services for Miss Mollie Hannon, who died Monday afternoon at her home in Clanton after a long illness, were held Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock from the home, Rev. A. E. Middlebrooks officiating.

Spigener Funeral Home was in charge of burial at the Clanton cemetery. Active pallbearers were Frank Callen, John D. Mullins, Jim Wade, Warner Wingard, Claudie Pipes, and C. Fenn Jones.

Honorary pallbearers were Hugh Foshee, W. H. Sartor, E. G. Hyman, J. Q. Wade, Tom Kemp, Dr. N. S. Johnson and P. D. Wilson.

Miss Hannon is survived by a number of nieces and nephews. She had lived in Clanton for many years, enjoying the friendship and esteem of a wide circle of friends and acquaintances.

MRS. EZELL'S MOTHER DIED SATURDAY NIGHT IN CAROLINA

Mrs. M. E. Hicks, age 67 years, died last Saturday night at her home in Chesnee, South Carolina. Burial was at Chesnee Monday.

The deceased was the mother of Mrs. S. J. Ezell, who was with her at the time of her death. She had been in ill health for several months.

Advice from Dr. Ezell, who is with Mrs. Ezell, at Chesnee, says they will not be able to return home for a few days on account of business matters. Dr. L. E. Barton will occupy the pulpit of Clanton Baptist Church next Sunday in the absence of Dr. Ezell.

BILLY SMITH RESIGNS AS ACTING POSTMASTER

In a statement given out Wednesday Acting Postmaster, Billy Smith, said he has sent in his resignation as postmaster at Clanton, requesting the department to relieve him of his duties on March 1st.

Lucile Scroggins and little Douglas Williams, from Selma, were visiting home folks the past week end. They brought little Patsy Gean Broadhead home from a few days visit with Mrs. Scroggins.

LEE SMITH TAKES PROBATE OFFICE

Omar L. Reynolds is Selected as Attorney For the County

The new officers of Chilton County, who were elected last November, took up their duties Tuesday morning without any extraordinary display of ceremony. They went directly to business, hindered somewhat, though pleasantly, by the many friends who dropped in to congratulate the new incumbents.

Probate Judge J. Lee Smith, set himself to the task of carrying on where Judge Reynolds left off Monday evening, and things went along without any apparent interruption in business.

Commissoiners Court went into session shortly after noon for a brief business meeting that was soon disposed of. Charley Duke and Clint Atchison were at their usual places. John Bean succeeded Joe Cobb and Howard Oden succeeded Uncle Henry Robinson. Judge Smith presided.

The first question to come before the new court was that of calling the Board of Registrars into a five day session during January for the registration of eligible voters. This matter was quickly passed by a unanimous vote of members of the court.

The second question to arise, that of electing a county attorney, brought a division among members of the court, and was decided by Judge Smith casting the deciding vote to untie.

When the matter was called up by Judge Smith, Mr. Atchison nominated Omar Reynolds for County Attorney; Mr. Duke nominated J. Osmond Middleton. When the vote was taken Mr. Atchison and Mr. Oden voted for Mr. Reynolds and Mr. Duke and Mr. Bean voted for Mr. Middleton. Judge Smith decided the question by casting his vote in favor of Mr. Reynolds. Without taking up any further business the court adjourned.

Sheriff J. R. Hardy took charge of the Sheriff's office as cool as a cucumber. It is not a new job for him. He served a term as Sheriff of Coosa County some years ago. Since becoming a citizen of Clanton he has held a similar job as chief of police of Clanton. He already knows the ropes in running the office of sheriff.

Mr. J. C. Pattillo, of Verbena, succeeded J. Z. Mims as clerk of the circuit court. While faced with a complicated job which will require some time to get acquainted with, Mr. Pattillo was, nevertheless, possessed with his usual calm, considerate and unruffled approach. In just a little while he will have mastered the details of his office, and everything will move along smoothly.

BILLY JEAN KELLEY

Billy Jean, the six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Kelley, died Tuesday morning at the family home two miles south of Clanton. Burial was at Samaria cemetery Wednesday, with Martin in charge. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. W. Jones.

Walter Teel Hurt By Fall Monday

Now In Montgomery Hospital In A Rather Critical Condition

J. Walter Teel, carpenter of Clanton was painfully and rather seriously injured last Monday morning about 10:00 o'clock, when he fell into the large filter tank at the Clanton water works plant.

Mr. Teel, together with some of the town officials, were inspecting some timbers across the top of the tank, preparatory to making repairs, when he placed his weight against a partially rotten plank. The plank gave way, permitting Mr. Teel to fall into the tank, head first, to about 14 feet below. The water had been drained from the tank, but it was about 8 inches deep in a soft mush composed of lime and other chemicals used in filtering the water. Mr. Teel's head and right shoulder struck a large pipe that was submerged in the filtering compound.

He was taken from the tank immediately and carried to his home in East Clanton by Spigener's ambulance. Late Monday afternoon it was decided that the injuries were so serious that hospital attention was necessary, so the injured man was carried by Martin's ambulance to Montgomery and placed in St. Margaret's hospital. X-rays were taken of his shoulder and back, which revealed a badly mangled shoulder, and serious injuries to the back. The bruises on the head were not considered of a serious nature.

Late reports from the hospital say that Mr. Teel was resting fairly well and that his chances to recover were good. At best, doctors say, he will be confined to the hospital for several weeks.

League For Repeal Of Prohibition Law

"Wets" and "Drys" Are Anxious To Let People Decide Repeal of Prohibition

Montgomery, Ala.—Anticipating an early submission of the proposed liquor referendum question, Capt. J. Sanford Mullins, Chairman of the campaign, has already formed plans for carrying the fight into every nook and corner of the state before election day, it was announced here the first of this week. Capt. Mullins, author of the measure which resulted in the election of delegates to a convention in Montgomery in 1933 which cast Alabama's vote for repeal of the 18th Amendment to the Federal Constitution, has adopted the policy of aggressiveness in answering charges by those opposed to changing Alabama's prohibition laws.

The chief development of the past week, however, was the assurance given by Capt. Mullins to Governor-elect Bibb Graves that the League for Prohibition Repeal was just as anxious as any of the "drys" to carry the fight to the people and let them settle the question at the polls. This assurance set at rest some rumors that the "wets" would endeavor to thwart the new governor in his promised plan for a referendum.

It is freely predicted by those who watch events, that the "wets" will accept the statement by the "drys" that "John Barleycorn is public enemy No. 1."

"No public enemy should be permitted to roam Alabama at will" say leaders in the organization headed by Capt. Mullins. "John Barleycorn should be incarcerated, or curbed in his activities, as well as contribute to the support of state government" they declare.

It is pointed out that alcoholic beverages are sold freely throughout the state, while some of the necessities are burdened with taxes. Even carbonated drinks pay something toward supporting the government, it is asserted. Cigarettes and cigars also contribute to the support of schools and other governmental activities, while gasoline is taxed to build and maintain a public highway system. "Let alcoholic beverages join the ranks of contributors" is the plea of those who would legalize the sale of that which is already obtainable in practically all parts of the state.

In answer to the plea of Governor Miller to refrain from legalizing the sale of these beverages in order to raise funds for education, advocates of the legalized sale point out that it is not fair for all the profits in the liquor business to be used exclusively in educating the children of the liquor dealers. "Let the children of those who patronize the distiller and brewer have a share of the profits in the way of improved education facilities and better school opportunities, they say.

Within the next few days, according to Capt. Mullins, the League for Prohibition Repeal will be actively at work in every county. The question for the voters to decide, leaders say, is not "wet or dry," but temperance with taxation, or sales without taxation.

PETER'S LESSON IN HUMBLE SERVICE

LESSON TEXT—John 13:1-17; I Peter 5:5.

GOLDEN TEXT—Likewise, ye younger, submit yourselves unto the elder. Yea, all of you be subject one to another, and be clothed with humility: for God resisteth the proud, and giveth grace to the humble.—I Peter 5:5.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Why Jesus Washed Peter's Feet.

JUNIOR TOPIC—How Peter Learned a New Lesson.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Dignity of Lowly Service.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Serving Christ Through Serving Others.

I. Christ's Amazing Love for His Own (vv. 1-3).

Jesus was fully conscious of what was immediately before him. He knew that the cross, with all its shame and anguish, was upon him; he knew that his disciples would shamefully forsake him in a few hours; he knew that one of that number would be the instrument in the hands of the devil in his betrayal; he was fully conscious of his Deity; he knew that all things were in his hands. He did not withdraw his love from them because of their weakness and the shameful failure which he knew would soon be made manifest. He not only loved them to the end of his earthly ministry, but loved them unto the "uttermost." The word "end" means "uttermost." Love to the uttermost therefore means that he bestowed upon them his love, even to the extent of taking their place in death.

II. Christ Washing the Disciples' Feet (vv. 4-11).

He did not regard his hands too holy to do this menial service. The true Christian does not allow his rank in society to keep him from acts of lowly service.

1. Steps in this service (vv. 4-6).
   a. He rose from supper.
   b. Laid aside his garments.
   c. Took a towel and girded himself.
   d. Poured water into a basin.
   e. Washed his disciples' feet.
   f. Wiped them with the towel wherewith he was girded.

These steps symbolize Christ's entire work of redemption. His rising from supper represents his rising from his place of enjoyment in the heavenly glory. His laying aside his garments symbolized his putting aside his vesture of majesty (Phil. 2:7, 8). His girding himself symbolized his taking the form of a servant (Phil. 2:7). The water in the basin symbolized his cleansing blood; his washing of the disciples' feet, his actual cleansing of them through his word (John 15:3; Eph. 5:26); his taking his garments again, his returning to his place and position in glory.

2. Peter's impetuous ignorance (vv. 6-9). When he realized what the Lord was doing, he refused to have his feet washed; when he realized the peril of refusal, he desired to be fully washed.

3. The significance of this service to those participating in it (vv. 8-11).

a. It is a spiritual cleansing (v. 8). Fellowship with Jesus is possible only as we are continuously cleansed from our sins (v. 10). The cleansing here is not the washing of regeneration, but that of sanctification. He that is regenerated, that is, washed in the blood of Christ (symbolized by baptism) does not need a repetition of the act; he only needs the cleansing of sanctification, symbolized by the washing of the feet. After regeneration the believer is contaminated by its sins as he walks through this world. Christ's blood cleanses of all sins those who confess them.

b. A badge of brotherly affection (v. 14). This act showed Christ's abandonment to the service of his disciples. It is a lesson much needed today. We need more and more to practice brotherly love.

c. An expression of humility (v. 15). This was a lesson much needed by the disciples, and much needed by us today. They had just been disputing as to who should be the greatest in the kingdom. Thus their selfish ambition was expressing itself. On every hand we see manifestations of pride, vanity, and even arrogance, of those who are professed followers of the lowly Jesus.

d. Equalization (v. 16). The disciples thus stooping to serve each other in the name of Jesus Christ will have burned out of them the caste spirit.

III. An Example for Us (vv. 14-17).

The disciples of the Lord are under solemn obligation in the spirit of humility to serve each other, even as Christ served his disciples. This obligation rests upon his Lordship (v. 14). To refuse obedience to him is to set oneself above his Lord. The way to happiness is implicit obedience to the Lord.

Stop and Listen

Do we not sometimes feel, in trial or perplexity, that others might help us if they would only stop and listen? But they will not, and in their constant hurry we know it is little use to speak. Let us quote the lesson for ourselves, and give what we ask.

Your Wonderful Commission

Only God would dare to ask you to do that which is expected of you. No man would even expect of you that which God counts upon your doing.

Miss Pauline Hogan spent the week end in Prattville with relatives.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

The writer has been engaged in evangelistic work for a great many years. Under the spell of conviction which comes upon audiences where the old time gospel is preached, I have had many men and women confess various kinds of sins. They have confessed murder, idolatry, lying and every sin which can possibly be conceived except one sin. I have never heard man, woman, or child confess the sin of covetousness, yet there is no sin of which the human race has been more guilty. I seriously doubt if any human being in all the history of the world ever lived completely free his entire life of this sin.

Amid the thunder and lightning of Mount Sinai when God gave the commandments to Moses He made "Thou Shalt Not Covet" one of the ten. We read in the Bible where God classes the sin of covetousness with whoremongry, idolatry and murder. It seems to be the most subtle of all sins because often the ones who are the most guilty are the most unconscious of their guilt. The sin of covetousness has wrecked homes, damned cities, overthrown kingdoms and destroyed empires. The sin of covetousness turned Judas into a traitor and handed his name down to all generations as a synonym of everlasting obloquy. It was the sin of covetousness which made Annanias and Saphira lie to the Holy Ghost. It was the sin of covetousness which soiled the name of David, the man after God's own heart. It is the sin of covetousness in the lives of men which seems to blind them to everything that is noblest and best. It is responsible for wars, for the tramping of armies and the flowing of life blood on the battlefields of the world. The sin of covetousness is more or less connected with all other sins of which men are guilty. God save us from this terrible sin!

CONSTIPATION Can be Helped!

(Use what Doctors do)

Why do the bowels usually move regularly and thoroughly, long after a physician has given you treatment for constipation?

Because the doctor gives a liquid laxative that can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation.

Ask your doctor about this. Ask your druggist how popular liquid laxatives have become. The right liquid laxative gives the right kind of help, and the right amount of help. When the dose is repeated, instead of more each time, you take less. Until the bowels are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara, and these are natural laxatives that form no habit — even in children. Your druggist has it; ask for—

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

FARMERS MAY SIGN PEANUT CONTRACTS UNTIL JANUARY 25

The final day for Alabama peanut growers to join in the government's 1935 peanut production control program is January 25, according to Dr. S. G. Suggs, extension service representative, who is helping farmers and county agents with the peanut sign-up work.

Any grower, regardless of the county in which he lives, is eligible to sign a contract, he said. The producer who signs a contract will receive payments of not less than $8.00 per ton on all the peanuts harvested in 1934 on the farm covered by the contract, or $2.00 per acre on the 1934 allotted acres, whichever is the greater.

Producers wishing to take advantage of the peanut program are advised to see their county agents as there will be no canvassing, the program being entirely voluntary.

ALABAMA'S 1935 DAIRY PROGRAM

1. More purebred bulls from high-producing dams.
2. Weed out the "boarder" cows from the herd by keeping records and testing.
3. Raise the best calves from purebred bulls and high-producing cows.
4. Feed cows more liberally on home grown feeds.
5. Produce dairy products of the best quality in order to secure the highest prices.

Hoyt Reynolds of Selma spent the week end here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Reynolds.

HIGHER FARM INCOME EXPECTED DURING 1935

Auburn, Ala.—Indications are that farm income, which has been upward since the first of 1933, will show some increase in 1935, says the agricultural adjustment administration. "The extent of the 1935 advance over 1934, however depends upon the rate of further increase in industrial activities, a rise in national income, and recovery of foreign markets," the report asserts.

ADDITIONAL INSPECTOR FOR ALABAMA'S PARKS

Montgomery, Ala.—The development of Alabama's state park system in cooperation with the federal government has advanced to the point where the U. S. department of the interior has assigned an additional representative to assist in the inspection work. The new arrival is Mr. Webb Mulford, formerly assigned to inspection duties in Mississippi.

The department of the interior, through the national park service, has extended assistance to the state without with the party system would have been many years in reaching its present stage of development. The chief representative of the national park service in Alabama is District Inspector Thos. W. Fergerson, Jr., with whom Mr. Mulford will be associated.

Mr. Mulford, for the present at least will cover the projects in Geneva, Baldwin, Escambia and Monroe Counties, while Mr. Fergerson will inspect personally the projects in the northern part of the state. Both inspectors will maintain their headquarters at the office of the state commission of forestry in Montgomery.

POULTRY DOES BETTER ON HOMEGROWN RATION

Experiments prove that Alabama poultry raisers can save $2,350,000 by feeding their hens a simple ration of homegrown feeds rather than a "standard complex" feed.

Dean M. J. Funchess, director of the Alabama Experiment Station, Auburn, reports that hens fed a simple ration of corn meal, minerals, and skim milk produced as much as 27 eggs more than those fed a "standard complex" ration over a nine months test.

By valuing the home produced food at market prices, this gave the simplified ration at 3.6 cents a dozen greater return. From that, Dean Funches figured that the state's annual output of 42,000,000 dozen eggs could be produced at a total saving of $2,250,000 and also make use of homegrown feeds in the form of eggs.

MIDWAY-MT. CREEK CLUB

The Midway-Mt. Creek club met Jan. 12th at 2 p.m., in the club house. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. N. A. Adams. Minutes were read by the secretary.

Miss Pardue outlined the spring and summer garden, the preparation of land, the proper fertilizer to be used, the kind of vegetables to plant and when; also insect control.

Miss Pardue recommended each family having a number of small fruits growing, such as strawberries, dewberries, muscadines, grapes and figs and how to plant each. She also gave a demonstration on how to make a year around hot bed, the kind of seed to plant and when, how the bed should be renewed ready to plant again.

The next meeting will be held at the club house, February 13th, at 2 p.m.—Reporter.

HEAVENS WILL DARKEN SEVEN TIMES IN 1935

Astronomical phenomena which hasn't happened since 1805 and will not repeat until 2485 will take place this year when seven eclipses—five of the sun and two of the moon—are scheduled to dim the heavens.

The combination of five eclipses of the sun and two of the moon is very rare, according to Weatherman E. C. Horton.

Two of the seven eclipses will be visible in Alabama, one each of the sun and the moon.

On Feb. 3, starting at 10:11 a.m., and lasting until 12:30 p.m., a partial eclipse of the sun can be observed here. The eclipse of the moon on July 16 will last five and one-half hours with the total phase requiring one hour and 40 minutes.

One eclipse, which was invisible to the naked eye, occurred last Saturday. One-thousandth of the sun's diameter was covered by the moon.

The four other eclipses will occur as follows:

Jan. 19—A total eclipse of the moon visible in Asia, Australia, Indian and Pacific oceans, Alaska and the western states. It will last one hour and 27 minutes.

June 30—A partial eclipse of the sun visible in the Arctic regions only.

June 30—A partial eclipse of the sun visible in the South Atlantic ocean and in Little America.

Dec. 25—An annular eclipse of the sun. A partial eclipse of the sun. A partial phase of it may be seen in Southern South America and New Zealand.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala., Jan. 15. — When troubles come, they "never come singly." This was the experience of Madelon Colby, student at the University of Alabama. Wednesday night she left immediately for her home in Birmingham upon receiving a telegram saying that her parents had been injured in an automobile accident.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Colby of Birmingham, were enroute to Springfield, Mass., to attend the funeral of Mrs. Colby's mother. On the way they had two automobile accidents, once running over a cliff and again running into a snow bank. On reaching Springfield, they received news that Mr. Colby's mother had dropped dead two hours before while on the way to church to make a contribution of $30.

On the return trip to Birmingham the Colbys were injured in an accident that completely wrecked their new car, broke Mr. Colby's arm in two places, and severely bruised Mrs. Colby.

Madelon Colby is the only child. She is a sophomore at the University, having transferred from Birmingham-Southern, where she was a pledge of the Gamma Phi sorority. She was one of the representatives of the girl's dormitory in a recent beauty contest on the campus.

University, Ala.—Jimmy Walker, of Holt, Ala., will lead the 1935 Crimson Tide of Alabama into battle, and Riley Smith of Greenville, Miss., will be second in command. Walker, star end of the Alabama team, and Smith, quarterback superb, were elected captain and alternate captain of the tide at the annual football banquet sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Tuscaloosa Thursday, January 10.

The affair was one of the most successful ever staged. Adding to the glamour of the victory banquet was the presence of Jack Rissman, wealthy Californian, donor of the Rissman trophy awarded the Rose Bowl champions Thursday evening, and Elmer Anderson, acting president of the Tournament of Roses Committee. In presenting the trophy which consisted of a regulation size gold football suspended between two goal posts with a football map of the United States inscribed in gold, Rissman declared that Alabama proved that she was the greatest team in America. He added that the Alabama players were a team of gentlemen and that they had conducted themselves in such a manner as to bring honor upon the University of Alabama, the State of Alabama, and the entire South. After praising the Alabama team, Anderson invited Alabama to return to the Rose Bowl at the earliest opportunity.

Other speakers introduced by Bruce Shelton, publisher of the Tuscaloosa News and toastmaster for the occasion, were Head Coach Frank Thomas, Athletic Director Henry Crisp, President George H. Denny; O. B. Keeler, of the Atlanta Journal; Morgan Blake of the Atlanta Journal; Henry Vance of the Birmingham News-Age Herald. Keeler recited a poem he composed; while Vance read his poetic description of the Rose Bowl encounter.

More than 400 persons attended the banquet, and many who purchased tickets could not be served and were refunded their money. The Alabama union dining hall was decorated in crimson and white with huge footballs decorating the walls. Posters recalled the famous passing combination Howell to Hutson, while others reviewed Alabama's Rose Bowl record. The Junior Chamber of Commerce gave blankets to the players and the Tournament of Roses committee will give the 35 Alabama players Rose Bowl football watch charms.

Hugo Friedman, graduate manager of athletics, presented to the tidesmen and members of the coaching staff, in behalf of C. B. Grimes, ardent follower of the Tide who has been ill for several months, passes to local movie houses.

T. N. McVay, professor of ceremics University of Alabama, has been elected to the education committee of the American Ceremics Society. This organization sets standards for ceramics education in American colleges.

Dr. J. Brian Eby, noted consulting geophysicist from Houston, Texas, delivered an address before the Sigma Xi club of the University of Alabama Wednesday. Dr. Eby described the various instruments used by geophysicists in locating salt and oil domes.

Mid term examinations are in full swing at the University. The first semester will come to a close Saturday, January 26, when mid-term graduating exercises will be held. Prof. E. Baskin Wright, assistant professor of political science, will deliver the baccalaureate address to more than 100 graduating students.

Dr. Stewart J. Lloyd, dean of the school of chemistry, University of Alabama, is one of the leading chemists who contributed chapters to a new volume designed to classify methods and to point out possible improvements in the manufacture of explosives, dye stuffs and coal tar derivitives. P. H. Groggins, senior chemist of the U. S. department of agriculture, was editor in chief. The book was five years in the making.

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Mongtomery, Ala.—The chairmen of the new game and fish committee in the senate is the Hon. Isham J. Dorsey of Opelika, senator from the 27th district.

The committee he heads is composed of Senators T. S. Fraser, of Union Springs; H. L. Glover, of Lecroy; C. M. A. Rogers of Mobile, G. R. Swift of Atmore; W. C. Woodall, of Tallassee; T. J. Thrower, of Bradleyton; V. L. St. John of Moulton; and Webb Chestnut of Gaylesville.

The house game and fish committee was to be named when the legislature re-assembled this week.

Major B. R. Patton, camp director of the Alabama Transient Bureau at Fort Morgan, has advised I. T. Quinn state commissioner of game and fisheries, that the state transient bureau authorities are anxious to undertake a game breeding project at the site of the old fort.

Fort Morgan is well located for a game farm, Major Patton said, and he hopes a conference between Commissioner Quinn and F. F. Newcomb, the Alabama transient director, will result in the project being started.

"We are very anxious to start a project for the state, in experimenting and raising quail and pheasants to turn over to the state," said the Major. "What we intend to do if this project meets with approval, is secure all the possible data we can to hatch and cultivate these birds for your department's use. This will be done on a scientific basis and by competent hands."

Game Commissioner I. T. Quinn will leave this week for New York to attend the 21st annual meeting of the American Game Conference.

This conference is sponsored each year by the American Game Association and brings together conservation leaders from every part of the United States for a discussion of the welfare of wildlife in this country and Canada.

Commissioner Quinn is chairman of the National Committee on Wildlife Legislation and has called a meeting of this committee for Jan. 21, the opening day of the game conference. The conference will continue through Jan. 23.

League For Repeal Of Prohibition Law

Montgomery, Ala.—Anticipating an early submission of the proposed liquor referendum question, Capt. J. Sanford Mullins, Chairman of the campaign, has already formed plans for carrying the fight into every nook and corner of the state before election day, it was announced here the first of this week. Capt. Mullins, author of the measure which resulted in the election of delegates to a convention in Montgomery in 1933 which cast Alabama's vote for repeal of the 18th Amendment to the Federal Constitution, has adopted the policy of aggressiveness in answering charges by those opposed to changing Alabama's prohibition laws.

The chief development of the past week, however, was the assurance given by Capt. Mullins to Governor-elect Bibb Graves that the League for Prohibition Repeal was just as anxious as any of the "drys" to carry the fight to the people and let them settle the question at the polls. This assurance set at rest some rumors that the "wets" would endeavor to thwart the new governor in his promised plan for a referendum.

It is freely predicted by those who watch events, that the "wets" will accept the statement by the "drys" that "John Barleycorn is public enemy No. 1."

"No public enemy should be permitted to roam Alabama at will" say leaders in the organization headed by Capt. Mullins. "John Barleycorn should be incarcerated, or curbed in his activities, as well as contribute to the support of state government" they declare.

It is pointed out that alcoholic beverages are sold freely throughout the state, while some of the necessities are burdened with taxes. Even carbonated drinks pay something toward supporting the government, it is asserted. Cigarettes and cigars also contribute to the support of schools and other governmental activities, while gasoline is taxed to build and maintain a public highway system. "Let alcoholic beverages join the ranks of contributors" is the plea of those who would legalize the sale of that which is already obtainable in practically all parts of the state.

In answer to the plea of Governor Miller to refrain from legalizing the sale of these beverages in order to raise funds for education, advocates of the legalized sale point out that it is not fair for all the profits in the liquor business to be used exclusively in educating the children of the liquor dealers. "Let the children of those who patronize the distiller and brewer have a share of the profits in the way of improved education facilities and better school opportunities, they say.

Within the next few days, according to Capt. Mullins, the League for Prohibition Repeal will be actively at work in every county. The question for the voters to decide, leaders say, is not "wet or dry," but temperance with taxation, or sales without taxation.

PETER'S LESSON IN HUMBLE SERVICE

LESSON TEXT—John 13:1-17; I Peter 5:5.

GOLDEN TEXT—Likewise, ye younger, submit yourselves unto the elder. Yea, all of you be subject one to another, and be clothed with humility: for God resisteth the proud, and giveth grace to the humble.—I Peter 5:5.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Why Jesus Washed Peter's Feet.

JUNIOR TOPIC—How Peter Learned a New Lesson.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Dignity of Lowly Service.

I. Christ's Amazing Love for His Own (vv. 1-3).

Jesus was fully conscious of what was immediately before him. He knew that the cross, with all its shame and anguish, was upon him; he knew that his disciples would shamefully forsake him in a few hours; he knew that one of that number would be the instrument in the hands of the devil in his betrayal; he was fully conscious of his Deity; he knew that all things were in his hands. He did not withdraw his love from them because of their weakness and the shameful failure which he knew would soon be made manifest. He not only loved them to the end of his earthly ministry, but loved them unto the "uttermost." The word "end" means "uttermost." Love to the uttermost therefore means that he bestowed upon them his love, even to the extent of taking their place in death.

II. Christ Washing the Disciples' Feet (vv. 4-11).

He did not regard his hands too holy to do this menial service. The true Christian does not allow his rank in society to keep him from acts of lowly service.

1. Steps in this service (vv. 4-6).
a. He rose from supper.
b. Laid aside his garments.
c. Took a towel and girded himself.
d. Poured water into a basin.
e. Washed his disciples' feet.
f. Wiped them with the towel wherewith he was girded.

These steps symbolize Christ's entire work of redemption. His rising from supper represents his rising from his place of enjoyment in the heavenly glory. His laying aside his garments symbolized his putting aside his vesture of majesty (Phil. 2:7, 8). His girding himself symbolized his taking the form of a servant (Phil. 2:7). The water in the basin symbolized his cleansing blood; his washing of the disciples' feet, his actual cleansing of them through his word (John 15:3; Eph. 5:26); his taking his garments again, his returning to his place and position in glory.

2. Peter's impetuous ignorance (vv. 6-9). When he realized what the Lord was doing, he refused to have his feet washed; when he realized the peril of refusal, he desired to be fully washed.

3. The significance of this service to those participating in it (vv. 8-11).

a. It is a spiritual cleansing (v. 8). Fellowship with Jesus is possible only as we are continuously cleansed from our sins (v. 10). The cleansing here is not the washing of regeneration, but that of sanctification. He that is regenerated, that is, washed in the blood of Christ (symbolized by baptism) does not need a repetition of the act; he only needs the cleansing of sanctification, symbolized by the washing of the feet. After regeneration the believer is contaminated by its sins as he walks through this world. Christ's blood cleanses of all sins those who confess them.

b. A badge of brotherly affection (v. 14). This act showed Christ's abandonment to the service of his disciples. It is a lesson much needed today. We need more and more to practice brotherly love.

c. An expression of humility (v. 15). This was a lesson much needed by the disciples, and much needed by us today. They had just been disputing as to who should be the greatest in the kingdom. Thus their selfish ambition was expressing itself. On every hand we see manifestations of pride, vanity, and even arrogance, of those who are professed followers of the lowly Jesus.

d. Equalization (v. 16). The disciples thus stooping to serve each other in the name of Jesus Christ will have burned out of them the caste spirit.

III. An Example for Us (vv. 14-17).

The disciples of the Lord are under solemn obligation in the spirit of humility to serve each other, even as Christ served his disciples. This obligation rests upon his Lordship (v. 14). To refuse obedience to him is to set oneself above his Lord. The way to happiness is implicit obedience to the Lord.

Stop and Listen

Do we not sometimes feel, in trial or perplexity, that others might help us if they would only stop and listen? But they will not, and in their constant hurry we know it is little use to speak. Let us quote the lesson for ourselves, and give what we ask.

Your Wonderful Commission

Only God would dare to ask you to do that which is expected of you. No man would even expect of you that which God counts upon your doing.

Miss Pauline Hogan spent the week end in Prattville with relatives.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

The writer has been engaged in evangelistic work for a great many years. Under the spell of conviction which comes upon audiences where the old time gospel is preached, I have had many men and women confess various kinds of sins. They have confessed murder, idolatry, lying and every sin which can possibly be conceived except one sin. I have never heard man, woman, or child confess the sin of covetousness, yet there is no sin of which the human race has been more guilty. I seriously doubt if any human being in all the history of the world ever lived completely free his entire life of this sin.

Amid the thunder and lightning of Mount Sinai when God gave the commandments to Moses He made "Thou Shalt Not Covet" one of the ten. We read in the Bible where God classes the sin of covetousness with whoremongry, idolatry and murder. It seems to be the most subtle of all sins because often the ones who are the most guilty are the most unconscious of their guilt. The sin of covetousness has wrecked homes, damned cities, overthrown kingdoms and destroyed empires. The sin of covetousness turned Judas into a traitor and handed his name down to all generations as a synonym of everlasting obloquy. It was the sin of covetousness which made Annanias and Saphira lie to the Holy Ghost. It was the sin of covetousness which soiled the name of David, the man after God's own heart. It is the sin of covetousness in the lives of men which seems to blind them to everything that is noblest and best. It is responsible for wars, for the tramping of armies and the flowing of life blood on the battlefields of the world. The sin of covetousness is more or less connected with all other sins of which men are guilty. God save us from this terrible sin!

CONSTIPATION Can be Helped!

Why do the bowels usually move regularly and thoroughly, long after a physician has given you treatment for constipation?

Because the doctor gives a liquid laxative that can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation.

Ask your doctor about this. Ask your druggist how popular liquid laxatives have become. The right liquid laxative gives the right kind of help, and the right amount of help. When the dose is repeated, instead of more each time, you take less. Until the bowels are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara, and these are natural laxatives that form no habit — even in children. Your druggist has it: ask for—

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

FARMERS MAY SIGN PEANUT CONTRACTS UNTIL JANUARY 25

The final day for Alabama peanut growers to join in the government's 1935 peanut production control program is January 25, according to Dr. S. G. Suggs, extension service representative, who is helping farmers and county agents with the peanut sign-up work.

Any grower, regardless of the county in which he lives, is eligible to sign a contract, he said. The producer who signs a contract will receive payments of not less than $8.00 per ton on all the peanuts harvested in 1934 on the farm covered by the contract, or $2.00 per acre on the 1934 allotted acres, whichever is the greater.

Producers wishing to take advantage of the peanut program are advised to see their county agents as there will be no canvassing, the program being entirely voluntary.

ALABAMA'S 1935 DAIRY PROGRAM

1. More purebred bulls from high-producing dams.
2. Weed out the "boarder" cows from the herd by keeping records and testing.
3. Raise the best calves from purebred bulls and high-producing cows.
4. Feed cows more liberally on home grown feeds.
5. Produce dairy products of the best quality in order to secure the highest prices.

Hoyt Reynolds of Selma spent the week end here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Reynolds.

HIGHER FARM INCOME EXPECTED DURING 1935

Auburn, Ala.—Indications are that farm income, which has been upward since the first of 1933, will show some increase in 1935, says the agricultural adjustment administration. "The extent of the 1935 advance over 1934, however depends upon the rate of further increase in industrial activities, a rise in national income, and recovery of foreign markets," the report asserts.

ADDITIONAL INSPECTOR FOR ALABAMA'S PARKS

Montgomery, Ala.—The development of Alabama's state park system in cooperation with the federal government has advanced to the point where the U. S. department of the interior has assigned an additional representative to assist in the inspection work. The new arrival is Mr. Webb Mulford, formerly assigned to inspection duties in Mississippi.

The department of the interior, through the national park service, has extended assistance to the state without with the party system would have been many years in reaching its present stage of development. The chief representative of the national park service in Alabama is District Inspector Thos. W. Fergerson, Jr., with whom Mr. Mulford will be associated.

Mr. Mulford, for the present at least will cover the projects in Geneva, Baldwin, Escambia and Monroe Counties, while Mr. Fergerson will inspect personally the projects in the northern part of the state. Both inspectors will maintain their headquarters at the office of the state commission of forestry in Montgomery.

POULTRY DOES BETTER ON HOMEGROWN RATION

Experiments prove that Alabama poultry raisers can save $2,350,000 by feeding their hens a simple ration of homegrown feeds rather than a "standard complex" feed.

Dean M. J. Funchess, director of the Alabama Experiment Station, Auburn, reports that hens fed a simple ration of corn meal, minerals, and skimmilk produced as much as 27 eggs more than those fed a "standard complex" ration over a nine months test.

By valuing the home produced food at market prices, this gave the simplified ration at 3.6 cents a dozen greater return. From that, Dean Funches figured that the state's annual output of 42,000,000 dozen eggs could be produced at a total saving of $2,250,000 and also make use of homegrown feeds in the form of eggs.

MIDWAY-MT. CREEK CLUB

The Midway-Mt. Creek club met Jan. 12th at 2 p.m., in the club house. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. N. A. Adams. Minutes were read by the secretary.

Miss Pardue outlined the spring and summer garden, the preparation of land, the proper fertilizer to be used, the kind of vegetables to plant and when; also insect control.

Miss Pardue recommended each family having a number of small fruits growing, such as strawberries, dewberries, muscadines, grapes and figs and how to plant each. She also gave a demonstration on how to make a year around hot bed, the kind of seed to plant and when, how the bed should be renewed ready to plant again.

The next meeting will be held at the club house, February 13th, at 2 p.m.—Reporter.

HEAVENS WILL DARKEN SEVEN TIMES IN 1935

Astronomical phenomena which hasn't happened since 1805 and will not repeat until 2485 will take place this year when seven eclipses—five of the sun and two of the moon—are scheduled to dim the heavens.

The combination of five eclipses of the sun and two of the moon is very rare, according to Weatherman E. C. Horton.

Two of the seven eclipses will be visible in Alabama, one each of the sun and the moon.

On Feb. 3, starting at 10:11 a.m., and lasting until 12:30 p.m., a partial eclipse of the sun can be observed here. The eclipse of the moon on July 16 will last five and one-half hours with the total phase requiring one hour and 40 minutes.

One eclipse, which was invisible to the naked eye, occurred last Saturday. One-thousandth of the sun's diameter was covered by the moon.

The four other eclipses will occur as follows:

Jan. 19—A total eclipse of the moon visible in Asia, Australia, Indian and Pacific oceans, Alaska and the western states. It will last one hour and 27 minutes.

June 30—A partial eclipse of the sun visible in the Arctic regions only.

June 30—A partial eclipse of the sun visible in the South Atlantic ocean and in Little America.

Dec. 25—An annular eclipse of the sun. A partial eclipse of the sun. A partial phase of it may be seen in Southern South America and New Zealand.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala., Jan. 15. — When troubles come, they "never come singly." This was the experience of Madelon Colby, student at the University of Alabama. Wednesday night she left immediately for her home in Birmingham upon receiving a telegram saying that her parents had been injured in an automobile accident.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Colby of Birmingham, were enroute to Springfield, Mass., to attend the funeral of Mrs. Colby's mother. On the way they had two automobile accidents, once running over a cliff and again running into a snow bank. On reaching Springfield, they received news that Mr. Colby's mother had dropped dead two hours before while on the way to church to make a contribution of $30.

On the return trip to Birmingham the Colbys were injured in an accident that completely wrecked their new car, broke Mr. Colby's arm in two places, and severely bruised Mrs. Colby.

Madelon Colpy is the only child. She is a sophomore at the University, having transferred from Birmingham-Southern, where she was a pledge of the Gamma Phi sorority. She was one of the representatives of the girl's dormitory in a recent beauty contest on the campus.

University, Ala.—Jimmy Walker, of Holt, Ala., will lead the 1935 Crimson Tide of Alabama into battle, and Riley Smith of Greenville, Miss., will be second in command. Walker, star end of the Alabama team, and Smith, quarterback superb, were elected captain and alternate captain of the tide at the annual football banquet sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Tuscaloosa Thursday, January 10.

The affair was one of the most successful ever staged. Adding to the glamour of the victory banquet was the presence of Jack Rissman, wealthy Californian, donor of the Rissman trophy awarded the Rose Bowl champions Thursday evening, and Elmer Anderson, acting president of the Tournament of Roses Committee. In presenting the trophy which consisted of a regulation size gold football suspended between two goal posts with a football map of the United States inscribed in gold, Rissman declared that Alabama proved that she was the greatest team in America. He added that the Alabama players were a team of gentlemen and that they had conducted themselves in such a manner as to bring honor upon the University of Alabama, the State of Alabama, and the entire South. After praising the Alabama team, Anderson invited Alabama to return to the Rose Bowl at the earliest opportunity.

Other speakers introduced by Bruce Shelton, publisher of the Tuscaloosa News and toastmaster for the occasion, were Head Coach Frank Thomas, Athletic Director Henry Crisp, President George H. Denny; O. B. Keeler, of the Atlanta Journal; Morgan Blake of the Atlanta Journal; Henry Vance of the Birmingham News-Age Herald. Keeler recited a poem he composed; while Vance read his poetic description of the Rose Bowl encounter.

More than 400 persons attended the banquet, and many who purchased tickets could not be served and were refunded their money. The Alabama union dining hall was decorated in crimson and white with huge footballs decorating the walls. Posters recalled the famous passing combination Howell to Hutson, while others reviewed Alabama's Rose Bowl record. The Junior Chamber of Commerce gave blankets to the players and the Tournament of Roses committee will give the 35 Alabama players Rose Bowl football watch charms.

Hugo Friedman, graduate manager of athletics, presented to the tidesmen and members of the coaching staff, in behalf of C. B. Grimes, ardent follower of the Tide who has been ill for several months, passes to local movie houses.

T. N. McVay, professor of ceremics University of Alabama, has been elected to the education committee of the American Ceremics Society. This organization sets standards for ceramics education in American colleges.

Dr. J. Brian Eby, noted consulting geophysicist from Houston, Texas, delivered an address before the Sigma Xi club of the University of Alabama Wednesday. Dr. Eby described the various instruments used by geophysicists in locating salt and oil domes.

Mid term examinations are in full swing at the University. The first semester will come to a close Saturday, January 26, when mid-term graduating exercises will be held. Prof. E. Baskin Wright, assistant professor of political science, will deliver the baccalaureate address to more than 100 graduating students.

Dr. Stewart J. Lloyd, dean of the school of chemistry, University of Alabama, is one of the leading chemists who contributed chapters to a new volume designed to classify methods and to point out possible improvements in the manufacture of explosives, dye stuffs and coal tar derivitives. P. H. Groggins, senior chemist of the U. S. department of agriculture, was editor in chief. The book was five years in the making.

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Mongtomery, Ala.—The chairmen of the new game and fish committee in the senate is the Hon. Isham J. Dorsey of Opelika, senator from the 27th district.

The committee he heads is composed of Senators T. S. Fraser, of Union Springs; H. L. Glover, of Lecroy; C. M. A. Rogers of Mobile, G. R. Swift of Atmore; W. C. Woodall, of Tallassee; T. J. Thrower, of Bradleyton; V. L. St. John of Moulton; and Webb Chestnut of Gaylesville.

The house game and fish committee was to be named when the legislature re-assembled this week.

Major B. R. Patton, camp director of the Alabama Transient Bureau at Fort Morgan, has advised I. T. Quinn state commissioner of game and fisheries, that the state transient bureau authorities are anxious to undertake a game breeding project at the site of the old fort.

Fort Morgan is well located for a game farm, Major Patton said, and he hopes a conference between Commissioner Quinn and F. F. Newcomb, the Alabama transient director, will result in the project being started.

"We are very anxious to start a project for the state, in experimenting and raising quail and pheasants to turn over to the state," said the Major. "What we intend to do if this project meets with approval, is secure all the possible data we can to hatch and cultivate these birds for your department's use. This will be done on a scientific basis and by competent hands."

Game Commissioner I. T. Quinn will leave this week for New York to attend the 21st annual meeting of the American Game Conference.

This conference is sponsored each year by the American Game Association and brings together conservation leaders from every part of the United States for a discussion of the welfare of wildlife in this country and Canada.

Commissioner Quinn is chairman of the National Committee on Wildlife Legislation and has called a meeting of this committee for Jan. 21, the opening day of the game conference. The conference will continue through Jan. 23.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

Congress is now in session and the nation still survives—without inflation or any of the dire things which have been predicted. At least it survives up to this time, although there is still plenty of opportunity for mischief, if anybody has it in mind.

In spite of the overwhelming New Deal majority in the last congressional election there are many wise political investigators who believe that this is going to be a fairly conservative congress, one much more conservative than could have been expected a few weeks ago. They point to the fact that the Republicans, although hopelessly in the minority, form a pretty conservative bloc of their own. It has been a long time since the Republican representation in Congress has been as conservative as it is today. Only a few of the members labelled Republicans were elected on radical platforms. The so-called radicals either joined the New Deal party or went in on third party labels. There are a few exceptions of course, but they are pretty few this year. Of course, the New Dealers are greatly in the majority and here we must look for a lot of political irregularity if we are to find it at all. Still some of those who have analyzed the situation say that a great many conservative Democrats were elected and that the president, with his great prestige, will be able to block a lot of so called radical legislation if he chooses to do so.

It would seem that a great many battles are to be fought between the spenders and those who are said to be thinking about a balanced budget. This is not surprising. In nearly every state and congressional district one of the big issues raised by the majority was the ability of the majority statesmen to get things bigger and more expeditiously for the dear people than could be secured by the minority candidates. A great many statesmen therefore are pledged to the old idea of "spending 'till it hurts." When these issues come up it is assumed that President Roosevelt himself will be in charge of those who want to tighten the strings on the public purse. It has generally been the chief executives who have demanded care in spending money. If this be true, then it immediately becomes evident that Mr. Roosevelt with all his personal popularity and all his hold on congress has his work cut out for him. It will require all his political skill and statesmanlike qualities to come out successful. This last campaign was one in which spending was well advertised.

There are many programs for spending money which will be presented in one form or other in the present congress. Among those which are outside the ordinary run of relief and governmental expenditure, the following nine have been localized and presented to view by Oliver McKee, Jr., the well known Washington correspondent of the Boston Evening Transcript:

1. The soldier's bonus, representing an immediate outlay of two billion dollars or more. This demand comes to a head as a direct result of the lavish spending policies of the federal government.

2. The gigantic planning program of the national resources board, calling for an ultimate expenditure several times the amount of the existing public debt.

3. A farm mortgage inflation scheme, to the tune of three billions or so.

3. An additional billion, perhaps more, for the Home Owners Loan Corporation so that it may continue to save home owners in distress—at the expense of the treasury.

5 Appropriations for public works and relief that are almost certain to go beyond the recommendations contained in the budget.

6. Increases in the army and navy, with substantial appropriations for modernization.

7. Utopian schemes, like those of the Townsend $200 a month plan, under which the doors of the treasury would be opened wide to subsidize leisure.

8. Proposals to spend a couple of billion dollars to eliminate grade crossings on railroads.

9. Old age and unemployment insurance, to be largely financed by the federal government, as a substitute for the minimum federal cost involved in the plans under which the president is believed to have under consideration.

Mr. McKee continues: "This by no means exhausts the list of spending projects which will be deposited in house and senate once the members of the seventy-fourth congress have unpacked their baggage. Most of the items on the above list will have substantial support, enough at many points to transcend the loyalty of individual Democrats to the legislative program of the administration."

We are certainly going to see the battle of the century between those who wish to spend and those who wish either to save or to employ the money differently. The victory is still doubtful but it is to be remembered that spending was well advertised in the recent campaign, by those running for congress and it still pays to advertise. Meanwhile the country is still running pretty heavily into the red.

The League's Resolutions

On the front page of this issue of The Union-Banner is published a list of resolutions passed at a recent meeting of the League for Better Government held at the courthouse.

After reading and carefully considering said resolutions, The Union-Banner wishes to say that we heartily agree with every word contained in said resolutions. This preamble as well as the recommendations are full of good thought and are worthy of the careful, conscientious and impartial consideration of all the officials of Chilton County, and citizens, regardless of what political party they belong to or of what policies they have adhered to in the past.

However, if anything could be added to make this document better, we believe it would read something like this: "We believe in and will use our influence to bring about in the future the conduct of public elections in Chilton County, both primary and general elections, in such a way that the qualified voters of the county may be permitted to cast their votes free from the influence of money or any other outside agencies, as is guaranteed by the laws of our state and nation. That the casting of votes, illegal in any way, be guarded against and prevented just as far as possible in all public elections. A drastic revision, or an outright repeal, of the absent ballot law will go far toward eliminating fraud in elections in our state and county. We feel that this right is one of the most sacred rights of our people, and should be guarded just as closely and just as carefully as the handling of public money or the administering of any other duty incumbent upon a public official."

We do not write the above to detract from the resolutions referred to, but we say it because we believe this question is important and means much toward the stability and furtherance of good government in Chilton County.

Don't worry too much if Santa missed you. The old fellow has been so busy delivering all the year 'round he is all tired out.

One of our gay young friends says that when it comes to kissing fast under the mistletoe there is nothing like a stream-line mustache.

TAXES MOUNTING

Something of the staggering amount now being paid for government in national and local units can be gathered from the statement of the national industrial conference board that the American people are now paying nine and a half billion dollars in taxes, which is equivalent to one-fifth of the national income. To complete this gloomy picture, it is stated that the expneditures of the federal state and local governments each year, exclusive of debt retirements are fifteen and a half billions a year.

This means that our governments, local, state and national, are going into debt about six billions a year in addition to the staggering sum which is now being raised each year in the way of taxes. This annual excess of six billions must be paid sometime, of course, and interest will have to be paid on it, too—a lot of interest, in fact, as the total public debt is now in excess of forty-seven billions. During the past four years, the statement adds, the public debt has been increased at a more rapid rate than at any time during the history of the country, with the exception of the two years in which we were involved in the World War.

Another disturbing fact is that in spite of the many new nuisance taxes the total tax collection in the federal, state and local systems are at a lower level than in 1930, when not nearly so much was being expended for the New Deal and for public relief as at present. At that time the collections amounted to about ten and a third billions, which is nearly a billion under the present figures. Principal reasons were the decline in federal income taxes due to the decline in business, and the real property tax delinquencies.

Normally there is a fairly large margin between tax collections and expenditures the board's report points out, but this margin has been greatly widened by the federal deficits and now averages about six billion dollars. Of this amount, roughly two billion dollars is covered by non-tax receipts, such as earnings of general departments and public service enterprises, special assessments, fines, rents and interest. The balance of about four billion dollars has been reflected in increased indebtedness.

The picture is not at all an encouraging one. If the present receipts continues, and if the local governments do not "pull in their horns" so to speak, the day is coming when the debt burden will become too great and we will have a flood of bankruptcies or general nflation which is only a sugar coated word for it.

In spite of the fact that business is said to be getting better, the judgment to that effect is not being verified by any great increase in tax collections to date. As business gets better, business usually pays more taxes. Perhaps this will come later, but in the meantime it is not to be forgotten that we are facing greater expenditures and a new tax law in which rates will necessarily be increased.

The fellow who thinks that we can get to prosperity through huge governmental expenditures, and the one who believes that he can get the cream of what is going out and place the tax burden on the other fellow are in for a rude awakening. Balanced budgets and not mounting deficits point the way to prosperity. And no man has been shrewd enough, or poor enough to avoid the burden of taxation. Usually the greater the tax burden the harder the poor man is hit. These facts are worth noting and remembering.

Andrew N. Miner

While in Los Angeles, on my recent trip, I was shocked to hear of the death of one of my best friends, Mr. Andrew Miner, whom we all knew and loved as "Shorty." Having known him all my life, it is hard for me to realize that I can't saunter down the street and have a friendly confab and joke with "Shorty" for a few minutes. I have talked with many people about "Shorty's" death, and I believe he will be missed by as many people around Clanton as anyone could be. Everybody knew him, and everybody loved and respected him. Of sunny, friendly disposition, he made friends of every acquaintance. It is just a bit hard to understand the working of fate when an occasion such as the death of this man comes along. We mortals cannot understand why such men should not be left on earth to make it a better place in which to live. People such as he was are all too few, and I cannot understand why we should have to give up even one of them. He was a friend to everyone he met, ever ready to oblige with a helping hand, had a smile for everyone. In talking with a lady about his death, she said: "When we go to a garden to pick flowers, we don't select the sorry specimens, but rather we look for the flowers which look freshest, and are in full bloom. And I think God must use the same system when He goes about the business of picking flowers from His earthly garden." And so, with this thought in mind, it makes the loss of "Shorty" a little easier. I like to think that he was taken from earth because God saw in him a beautiful flower, one of the most beautiful, and, desiring only the best to bloom in heaven, He took "Shorty."

The Rose Bowl Story

Beginning next week, and continuing for as many weeks as will be needed, I intend to give a story of my trip to Los Angeles to see the Stanford-Alabama football game on January 1. I am busy as two bees in a tar bucket getting the copy ready, and after it is ready, then I will get my wife, Mr. Duffey, and Mrs. Taylor to read it over and offer any suggestions they may see fit to help make it more interesting to my readers. Then it will be re-written, using their ideas. We will try to draw a word picture of the trip, so that all who have never been to the "golden West" will have a fairly good idea of what it looks like, while those who have been out there will remember some of the scenes that will be described. We will give interesting notes made along the way, describe curious and interesting scenes we enjoyed, tell of the scenes around the Mississippi, the swamps of Mississippi and Louisiana and the plains and desert lands of Texas, the mountains of New Mexico and Arizona, the dry "rivers" in several states of the West, the mighty Rocky Mountains, the beautiful flowers and fruit groves of California, of sight-seeing trips through Los Angeles, Van Nuys, Glendale, Burbank, Santa Monica, Malibu Beach, Hollywood, Pasadena, a story of the Rose Festival on January 1 in Pasadena, a story of the game with its sea of people in Rose Bowl and the overflow crowd on the outside, the sea of automobiles, and numbers of other interesting sights too numerous to mention. Look for this story, beginning next week. It should be interesting.

Our Constitution

Nowadays we hear more and more about the Constitution of the United States. There are quite a few, I am sure, who have only a vague idea of just what the Constitution really is, how it was framed, what it was drawn up for, and what effect it has had on the life of the nation.

As a preface, allow me to state that the Republican party contends that the Democratic administration now in power in Washington has, in a way, cast the Constitution aside, and, instead of this national road map, instituted a system of trials and experiments. The Democrats do not deny that the Constitution has been disregarded, but claim that it has outgrown its usefulness, and must be replaced by something better.

To begin with, one part of the oath of the President of the United States, and all congressmen, as well as members of the Supreme Court of the United States, reads as follows:

"I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the office . . . and will to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

The drawing up of our national Declaration of Independence was, in a manner, the birth of the nation—the new nation on American soil. Even after the Declaration of Independence, it was not yet a nation, but a group of several sovereign states, which had banded themselves together to fight for their liberty from the English crown.

When they had fought together and won this liberty, they were still just a group of state. Soon, realizing that some strong bond should be drawn up between these several states, delegates were sent from each state to form such a union. The result was a document known as "The Constitution of the United States of America." In truth, there was no such thing as the United States of America until this Constitution was drawn up.

This Constitution effected the needed bond. It guaranteed to each individual state certain rights and liberties, which later became known as "state's rights," and in return for its share of safety and protection by other states, each state gave up part of its soverign rights to the "national government" — hence the national motto: "E. Pluribus Unum"—"One from many", or one made up of many parts.

This Constitution set up three national agencies for government — the congress, to consist of men selected by the people of the nation to represent them at the national capital; the President of the United States; and later the United States Supreme Court.

The functions of these three were set out, as follows: The congress was to be a law-making body, to enact such laws as the nation's people wanted. These congressmen were to "feel the pulse," so to speak, of the people whom they represented, as they were more closely connected with the people of their respective states, and would know their desires better than any other branch of the national government. The President was the chief executive, and his job, with his subordinates, was to see that the enforcement of all these national laws was carried out. When the Supreme Court came into being, its function was to see that the laws were enforced fairly to everyone, and to decide any controversies that might arise over the construction of them.

These three were to work together, each doing its own job, that the people might have fair and representative government. No one of these three agencies was to usurp any power of the other, else the government might become too centralized, and finally become a monarchy, against which the colonists had just fought a bloody war to gain their liberty. The original framers of the Constitution were very careful that no loophole be left open through which the new country might gradually creep back and become a monarchy.

Each state set up its own state government, to run as its people saw fit, and these state governments did not conflict with the national government, because state and national government rights were clearly defined. Then, and only then, was there really a United States of America.

Diplomats of the old world said that such a government could not stand. They said that the several states would quarrel among themselves, and that the Union would be dissolved. But the Constitution provided that if a state pulled out, the others might force it back, for the protection of all. Later, this phase of the new government was really tested—there was secession—but the seceding states were forced back, proving to the world that the new system was a sound one.

Since the day of the framing of the Constitution of the United States the nation has grown in power and wealth, and there are two causes for this: the national government guaranteed to every man his right to his natural liberty, and in return, exacted his allegiance to the government. The two ran together—an American was born free, but at the same time, he was a subject of the national government, and might be called upon to help protect it if he was needed. This brought about two conditions—a free, happy people, and a government backed by every person in the land. This condition has been called the most perfect governmental system ever used.

All these conditions were guaranteed by the Constitution, and under it the country has grown in wealth and power until today it is the richest and most powerful on the globe, and is so recognized by every world power.

That is what the Constitution has done for us in the past. Our statesmen have followed the unmistakable direction of this Constitution unerringly. We have NEVER departed from it—before 1933.

When President Franklin D. Roosevelt took office, he called congress into session, and asked them to abdicate their power as representatives of the people, and give this power to him, that he might make such laws as he might see fit. Right there, the people of the United States lost their representative rights, and the president over-stepped his rights as chief executive. In due time came controversies, and the Supreme Court went haywire when it recognized the will of the president as law, rather than the will of the people, and ruled these one-man laws valid.

Let's look into the matter and see just how each department has erred and to what extent. In the beginning, as stated before, the congress was to represent the people, because they were close to them and knew their needs and desires. When the congressmen gave up their power as representatives of the people, our people lost all voice in their government. This brought about a condition of "government without representation"—the very cause for which the Revolutionary War was fought. By this act, all the blood-shed and suffering of this fight for liberty was set at naught—we are back on a plane with the time before the Revolution—the only difference is that we have an American monarch instead of an English one. No matter how wise that one man might be, he cannot possibly know the wants of the whole country, and he cannot govern them equally and fairly. I believe President Roosevelt is one of the wisest men who has ever been in the White House, but no one man is big enough to govern the United States. The impractical group that he has drawn around him for advice—the "brain trust"—cannot possibly take the place of the congress. They know no more—probably less—than Mr. Roosevelt about what the needs and desires of the people are.

The same act that took the people's voice from them, then, gave autocratic power to one man. And, in so doing both the members of congress and the president, himself, have violated the very basic law of the Constitution—they have violated their oaths which they swore to when they took office.

In defending this high-handed, autocratic action, the members of the Supreme Court have likewise violated their oaths. So, a sum-up shows what we now have: A congress of traitors to their people; a president who is a monarch, if there ever was one; and a court of justice in which there is no longer justice, but obeisance to the every will of the monarch. If that isn't an autocracy, then I'd like for someone to picture one for us.

The Democrats say that the Constitution is obsolete—that it belongs to the ox-cart days. Is it out of date for a man to say who shall make his laws? Is it a better idea to have one man make our laws and set the penalty for the petty violations thereof? Is it out of date for the highest tribunal in the land to respect the highest law in the land, and to disregard the laws that they have given their oaths to uphold? Is it good policy to uproot something that has carried the nation through thick and thin for more than 150 years, and throw it over for the mere whim of a man for power? You know it isn't!

Democrats deny that we are drifting into an autocracy. Autocracy places all power in the hands of a few. What have we today? A monarch has all power to make laws as he sees fit, and set penalties for their violation. Have we not this same condition? In an autocracy, the courts are in the hand of the monarch. Does not our Supreme Court recognize our president's wishes above all?

God speed the day when America will return to the Constitution. When we will elect congressmen who are MEN—with backbone enough to demand their rights and those of their people. When we will have a president with some view of the rights of his people in mind, rather than an all-devouring lust for power. When our high courts will again uphold justice above the will of any man, no matter what his position.

In 1936 the people of this nation will have a chance to decide if they want to be peons or free men. That may seem a long way off, but it behooves every sane, thinking man and woman in America to be turning this matter over in mind. If you love life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, you will help put a stop to the unreasonable system now in use. If you follow blindly in a rut formed by prejudice, you have no idea where you are headed. Every man and woman should KNOW what is being done, without taking someone else's word for it. Knowledge is power, and once the American people fully realize the extent of the injustice being done them they will not be satisfied until it has stopped. Again I say—God speed the day!—Man in the Moon.

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw—and Some He Saw Not

Deputy Sheriff Julius Smith started in his administration Tuesday by going to bed with a good stout case of the flu. He is at the Sheriff's house, near the jail.

Billie Green, of Montgomery, was a visitor to Clanton Wednesday. Mr. Green is a brother of Mrs. Mattie Collins. He was born and reared in Chilton County, and has many friends throughout this section.

Hill Foshee, of Maplesville, was here Tuesday to witness the inauguration of the Democratic county administration. Hill said he felt like the old maid who witnessed the marriage of one of her younger and more fortunate sisters. As she extended congratulations to the bride she said with a sigh: "This is the way I long have sought, and mourned because I found it not."

Congratulations to J. Renfroe Mullins and Sons upon the excellent appearance of their new store. It is a delightful arrangement.

Dr. V. J. Gragg and Attorney J. B. Atkinson have been spending the past week on a vacation trip to Miami, Florida.

WORLD RECOVERY COMING

One of the facts on which American prophets of recovery base their predictions is that business is undoubtedly on the mend in Great Britain and that solid country is now out in front in the march toward recovery. The depression is world wide. There can be no question about this. It followed the collapse of credit inflation which came after the World War. If depression was world-wide then it is equally true that recovery must be world-wide and any signs of economic healing anywhere in the world must be hailed with satisfaction.

One of the American statesmen who has just returned from England and has noted the satisfactory signs there is Henry W. Allen, former United States senator and former governor of Kansas. In speaking of his observations in Kansas and what they led him to conclude, Mr. Allen said, in the Washington Post on his return to the United States:

"Three years ago in England the present national government came into power, a coalition party headed by Ramsay MacDonald, as a direct reaction from the instability of the Socialist-Labor Party. England was then where we are now. Relief funds ran behind millions of dollars every week. The budget was unbalanced. The administration was faced with the problem of reducing the relief costs or increasing the taxes, and the people seemed unwilling to stand for either alternative. Unemployment figures were in the millions.

"Today thre are less than 1,000,000 unemployed. As a matter of fact, there are about 800,000 able-bodied men on direct relief, cared for as helpless indigents. They receive $7.50 per week for each husband and wife, and 50 cents a week for each child. The unemployed are divided into two classes, those on insurance benefits, that is, receiving aid from funds to which they have contributed themselves, and those receiving what is politely known as 'added public assistance,' or charity.

"Recreation centers and compulsory industrial training for the unemployed sustain their morale. In this way unemployment has been stabilized at far less than normal figures, to the low degree of 3 per cent, to be exact.

"The budget is not only now balanced, but there is a definite surplus. Recently taxes have been reduced, which is welcome news in any country. Further, approximately one-half of the old cuts in salaries have been abolished, and wages are returning to good standards. Millions more men are back at work, and England has built up a great new light-industries section in the southern section. The home markets have been greatly increased. In the last 19 months 400,000 new houses have built. A mammoth slum-clearance program is under way. Communism and fascism have faded out of the political picture.

"How has all this been accomplished? By three things: First, the balancing of the budget; second, the use of the protective tariff for the first time to build up home industry; third, the new building program. All struck at fundamental defects."

Here are, of course, some very interesting observations, and the methods which were used in putting Great Britain in the forefront of the world recovery march can be studied in the United States with a great deal of interest and benefit. Certainly our government cannot manufacture prosperity by redistributing wealth and playing Santa Claus to our own people and the entire world.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

Big "Ham" Show

In connection with the new method of killing and curing pork recommended by the Alabama experiment station and being practiced by the vocational students of the County Training School, the teacher of agriculture is sponsoring a ham and middling show the latter part of February. All farmers may take part in this show. It is hoped that a large number of farmers will take part.

The time has come that we, the forgotten men of the past, must take hold of the new methods and practices that have been tested and proven. Our experiment stations do the testing and it is our business to follow the suggestions.

Rural Rehabilitation

There are forty-eight negro families eligible for rehabilitation in Chilton County. Some of the families made splendid records for themselves last year. Some failed to make impressive records one way or another. A special drive is being launched this year to get all of these rehabilitated families started off on the right foot. Those who failed last year and claimed they didn't have a fair chance because of late planting will not have the opportunity to say the same this time. Those who had a fair degree of success will have a better opportunity to become self-sustaining. Look out! I'll be around to help you.

Picture Show Etiquttie

Lest we forget, I take this means of reminding our folks tha tthere are certain things to remember while in a picture show, especially during the performance.

1. Quietly enter and pass out the same way.
2. No loud talking or hilarious laughter.
3. No cracking of peanuts or other distracting noises.
4. Be courteous to the ladies. Give them seats first. Should you have to stand, do not stand so as to obstruct the other fellow's view.

If the above rules are observed I am sure there will be no reason for complaint.—Benj. Anderson.

CHESTNUT GROVE

We are having some nice weather for the time of the year. We are glad to state that Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Anderson's baby is improving. It has been very sick.

Mr. Robert Anderson, of Atlanta, Ga., was laid to rest in the Providence cemetery last Friday. He was 82 years of age. He was a law-abiding citizen of this county for a number of years. He was never arrested and was never a witness in court. He has been a member of the Free Will Baptist church for a number of years. He had been in failing health for 10 or 11 years. He leaves a wife and several children, a brother and a host of friends to mourn his death. He is gone but not forgotten. We should all try to leave a good record behind us.

Mr. Cage Head was a guest of Mrs. Nannie C. Moore Sunday a.m.

Mr. Earl Rotenberry and family were guests at Mr. T. R. Hall's Sunday p.m.

Brother Horace Nabors filled his regular appointment here Sunday afternoon. He delivered a fine sermon. It was enjoyed by all present. We need more young people like Bro. Nabors. We would have a better place to live in. So let's all remember his appointment next second Sunday at 2:30 p.m.

MAPLE SPRINGS

The services both Saturday and Sunday were well attended. We had many visiting churches with us. We were glad to have them with us, and you are invited back any time. Bro. Carroll delivered wonderful messages both Saturday and Sunday, which I am sure all who were present enjoyed very much.

The W. M. S. Ladies held their regular meeting Thursday afternoon at the church.

The farmers are getting busy this week cutting stalks, where they can begin breaking land.

B. Y. P. U. was fine Sunday night although there were several absent who were on program. We are still pulling our B. Y. P. U. up grade. Won't you come and help us out? The subject for next Sunday night will be, "The Meaning of My Church Membership." This is a very fine subject—something we should all know. The very first topic is "What is a Church?" There are three vital reasons for church attendance. Do you know what they are? This will be discussed in the program Sunday night. Come and see what they are. I am sure your time will be well spent.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Tucker were the Sunday dinner guests of Rev. Andrew Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Devaughn had as their dinner guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Alton Harris and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Rollan.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mims were in this community Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Arnold Glenn, Miss Eloise Glenn and Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Glenn spent a while Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Lester Downs.

Rev. Joe Kelley was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Downs and family Saturday night.

We are sorry to learn Mrs. Wiley Jones is very sick. We are wishing for her a speedy recovery.

Mr. Curtis Jones left last week for Tennessee where he has joined the C.C.C. camps. Our prayers and best wishes will be for you, Mr. Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Glenn were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Devaughn.

Don't forget, the singing society meets here next Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. We invite all singers to come and be with us. Listeners are invited, too.

IN MEMORY OF MOOD McGEE

I regret very much that I have not already expressed through the papers my deepest gratitude and thanks for the many things people did for us when our dear husband and father was killed. This delay was caused by sickness of my little girl.

Mood was killed Christmas day. The car in which he was riding turned over near his home, killing him instantly. The driver did not receive any injury.

Mood was a member of the Pleasant Grove Baptist church.

He was a dear and kind husband, always ready at all times to do anything he could for me and our little girl.

I have not the words to express my appreciation for the things people did for us during the bereavement of our husband. We thank the ones who gave such beautiful flowers. We thank Mr. Cope for the efficient service he rendered.—Pearl and Helen McGee.

The Story of the Bible Told in Pictures

Jesus Drives the Buyers and Sellers Out of the Temple.—"And the Jews' passover was at hand, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem, and found in the temple those that sold oxen and sheep and doves, and the changers of money sitting: And when He had made a scourge of small cords, He drove them all out of the temple, and the sheep, and the oxen; and poured out the changers' money, and overthrew the tables; and said unto them that sold doves, Take these things hence; make not my Father's house a house of merchandise. And His disciples remembered that it was written, The zeal of thine house hath eaten me up. Then answered the Jews and said unto Him, What sign shewest Thou unto us, seeing that Thou doest these things? Jesus answered and said unto them, destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up. Then said the Jews, forty and six years was this temple in building, and wilt Thou rear it up in three days? But He spake of the temple of His body."—John 2: 13-23. This illustration is from Merian's story of the Bible in pictures, engraved in 1625-1630.

PLEASANT HILL

Our Sunday school Sunday was the best we have had in quite a while. We had a large crowd and everybody seemed to be in a good spirit. We were blessed with two new members to join our Sunday school. We also elected new officers for our Sunday school as follows: P. M. Cleckler, superintendent; Miss Lizzie Martin, secretary; Mr. S. J. Twilley, teacher of Class No. 1; Miss Daisy Martin, teacher of Class No. 2; Mrs. S. J. Twilley, teacher of Class No. 3; Mrs. O. L. Martin, teacher of Class No. 4. We invite everybody who can to come to our Sunday school, and see what we are doing. We had more visitors out for prayer meeting and B. Y. P. U. Sunday night. We invite them to come back again.

Next Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night are our regular preaching times.

Next Sunday afternoon being the time set for the quarterly meeting of the B. T. U. association, we will not have any singing at Pleasant Hill, as we are hoping to attend the association, but don't forget our other services, and we are going to have communion service Saturday night. We would be glad to have as many out as possible Saturday night. So don't forget to come to church and Sunday school next Sunday, at 9:30. Try to be on time.

NEW BAPTIST CHURCH NEAR COLLINS CHAPEL

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to announce that we have a new Baptist church about 1½ miles from the Collins Chapel schoolhouse, east. We are very proud to announce that we are having preaching every third Sunday by our pastor, Mr. Robert Cost, and we have a very nice Sunday school. Although it has just been started a short time, we hope to grow stronger. We give everyone a hearty welcome to visit our preaching and Sunday school. The name of the new church is Robinson Springs.—Secretary.

When Grady Heflin, Jr., was three years old, he sought his mother, drew her down to his level and whispered persuasively into her ear, "Tain I have a piece of c-a-t?"

Yes, mothers invariably understand. The Mother's Day offering was produced and the child was served to candy.

Better Government

We favor the principle of keeping in office those who have been elected by the people. But we regard above that the duty of those elected to render the unselfish public service and good government which they were chosen to give. There is no reason why those who were elected to serve can not do so in full satisfaction to the people of our county. We hope it will not be necessary to resort to legislative measures in order to safeguard the rights of our people for a good government. But the rights of our people must be safeguarded and preserved at all cost.

Lastly, we would recognize that the future is potent with possibilities, opportunities, and dangers. Judge Smith wants to serve the people of this county with credit to the Democratic party which he represents. Republican members of the Commissioners Court want to serve the people in a manner creditable to the party which they represent. Political ambition is to be reckoned with in future. The rights and privileges of the people of our county as a whole, regardless of politics, are the paramount consideration. When an official or a politician neglects or refuses to recognize the interests of the peopde, there is a remedy; and it is already apparent that the people of Chilton County know that remedy.

Whereas, the League for Better Government has adopted for its policy economy and efficiency in county affairs and we believe one of the best ways to promote this is by unity and cooperation of those officials charged with the duty of administering the affairs of the county, the executive committee of the League for Better Government does, therefore, resolve as follows:

1. It has been rumored that certain persons who were defeated or whose policies were repudiated in the last election are seeking to persuade certain members of the court of county commissioners to band together so as to embarass or defeat the administration assuming office on next Tuesday, and believing that unity and cooperation are essential to the proper administration of the county's affairs, and is necessary for economy and the efficient handling of the same, we call upon and urge that the members of the court of county commissioners, present and elect, work in harmony and united for the common good of Chilton County.

2. It is the spirit of the law of Alabama that no relative or a member of the court of county commissioners shall be employed by said court and it has been the practice of certain members of said court heretofore to retire so that the remaining members of the court may employ a person related to the member so retiring, hereby evading the law and doing indirectly what would not be done directly. The League for Better Government believes that such practices should be abandoned and we respectfully call upon each member of said court to refrain from such practices in the future and to replace relatives of members of the court in positions of responsibility and authority appointed and selected by such means.

3. We stand for the economical administration of the county's affairs. We believe men should be employed by the officials of the county according to their qualifications to do the work for which they are employed. Employees are paid out of the people's tax money and all taxpayers should have an equal chance in employment. We believe that when any official is elected by the people of the county that it is the duty of any good citizen to cooperate and assist such official in the discharge of his duties and that such official is entitled to this support until he has proven unworthy by his acts and conduct.

We, therefore, urge that the members of the court of county commissioners cooperate with the incoming administration to the end that the affairs of the county may be administered in an economical and efficient manner.

Resolution No. 3

We, the executive committee for the League for Better Government, in session this the 9th day of January, 1935, make the following resolutions:

First, we stand for an economical administration of the county affairs.

Second, we believe that men ought to be employed by the officials of the county according to their qualifications for the work which they are employed to do. Employes are paid out of the people's tax money and all tax payers and voters ought to have an equal chance in the work of the county.

Third, we believe it is a bad policy for commissioners to hire their kin folks to work under their supervision, at least, it is our opinion that it has proven bad in this county.

Fourth, we believe that the tax payers' money ought to be spent as far as practicable with the people of the county always having due regard for the best interest of the tax payers.

Fifth, we believe that when any officer is elected by the people of the county that it is the duty of any good citizen who stands for the best interest of their county to cooperate, aid and assist said officer in the discharge of his duties and that any officer elected by the people is entitled to this support until he has proven unworthy by his conducts and acts;

We therefore, urge the commissioners of this county to cooperate with Judge Lee Smith and assist him in every way that they can to make the new admininstration a success and we condemn any action on the part of any commissioner to try to play politics with the people's money and at the expense of the taxpayers.

It has been reported that two commissioners have said that they would only hire a certain faction of the people to work for the county. If this is true we urge these commissioners to not play politics but to hire efficient men to work for the county regardless of their politics.

It is being talked all over the county that the commissioners court might be abolished by the present legislature. We hope that our commissioners will act and represent the best interest of the people of this county and that it will not be necessary for the court to be abolished. But as the last resort, if it is the only way that the people's interest of this county can be taken care of and if the commissioners will not take care of the tax payers money and will not cooperate with the present Probate Judge in trying to give the people of the county an economical administration we urge Senator Thomas and Representative Cox to give us legislative relief.

STANTON NEWS

An invitation was given the writer and pastor to attend church for a special Christmas service on Christmas night. On entering the church a member met me at the door and asked to borrow my car for just a few minutes. A large crowd attended. I was informed that I was to preach. Service over, I noticed an unusual lingering of the people. On approaching our car, my wife and I found it loaded with every good thing to eat imaginable. We are very grateful to the Stanton people for this splendid load of helpful things. The spirit of love that prompted it is appreciated even more than the things themselves.—G. G. Williams.

Chevrolet Announces Two New Lines for 1935

The Coupe model typifies the beauty and style of Chevrolet's New Master De Luxe series for 1935. Improved performance and exceptional economy also characterize these cars.

Fleet, graceful lines also mark the New Master De Luxe Sport Sedan. Ample luggage space is provided by the built-in trunk, and a luggage compartment behind the rear seat cushion.

Another attractive model in the New Standard series is the Coupe pictured here. Numerous body and chassis refinements, in conjunction with the Master engine, unite to make these cars outstanding values in the lowest-priced field.

Typical of Chevrolet's two new lines of cars are the models illustrated here. The Master De Luxe series reveals strong emphasis on beauty and style. Mechanically, the Master De Luxe series and the New Standard series have much in common, including the Master engine, in which numerous refinements have been made to enhance performance, durability and economy. As these pictures reveal, the New Master De Luxe departs distinctly from previous Chevrolets in the striking advance which has been made in body design and trim.

We favor the principle of keeping in office those who have been elected by the people. But we regard above that the duty of those elected to render the unselfish public service and good government which they were chosen to give. There is no reason why those who were elected to serve can not do so in full satisfaction to the people of our county. We hope it will not be necessary to resort to legislative measures in order to safeguard the rights of our people for a good government. But the rights of our people must be safeguarded and preserved at all cost.

Lastly, we would recognize that the future is potent with possibilities, opportunities, and dangers. Judge Smith wants to serve the people of this county with credit to the Democratic party which he represents. Republican members of the Commissioners Court want to serve the people in a manner creditable to the party which they represent. Political ambition is to be reckoned with in future. The rights and privileges of the people of our county as a whole, regardless of politics, are the paramount consideration. When an official or a politician neglects or refuses to recognize the interests of the peopde, there is a remedy; and it is already apparent that the people of Chilton County know that remedy.

Whereas, the League for Better Government has adopted for its policy economy and efficiency in county affairs and we believe one of the best ways to promote this is by unity and cooperation of those officials charged with the duty of administering the affairs of the county, the executive committee of the League for Better Government does, therefore, resolve as follows:

1. It has been rumored that certain persons who were defeated or whose policies were repudiated in the last election are seeking to persuade certain members of the court of county commissioners to band together so as to embarass or defeat the administration assuming office on next Tuesday, and believing that unity and cooperation are essential to the proper administration of the county's affairs, and is necessary for economy and the efficient handling of the same, we call upon and urge that the members of the court of county commissioners, present and elect, work in harmony and united for the common good of Chilton County.

2. It is the spirit of the law of Alabama that no relative or a member of the court of county commissioners shall be employed by said court and it has been the practice of certain members of said court heretofore to retire so that the remaining members of the court may employ a person related to the member so retiring, hereby evading the law and doing indirectly what would not be done directly. The League for Better Government believes that such practices should be abandoned and we respectfully call upon each member of said court to refrain from such practices in the future and to replace relatives of members of the court in positions of responsibility and authority appointed and selected by such means.

3. We stand for the economical administration of the county's affairs. We believe men should be employed by the officials of the county according to their qualifications to do the work for which they are employed. Employees are paid out of the people's tax money and all taxpayers should have an equal chance in employment. We believe that when any official is elected by the people of the county that it is the duty of any good citizen to cooperate and assist such official in the discharge of his duties and that such official is entitled to this support until he has proven unworthy by his acts and conduct.

We, therefore, urge that the members of the court of county commissioners cooperate with the incoming administration to the end that the affairs of the county may be administered in an economical and efficient manner.

Resolution No. 3

We, the executive committee for the League for Better Government, in session this the 9th day of January, 1935, make the following resolutions:

First, we stand for an economical administration of the county affairs.

Second, we believe that men ought to be employed by the officials of the county according to their qualifications for the work which they are employed to do. Employes are paid out of the people's tax money and all tax payers and voters ought to have an equal chance in the work of the county.

Third, we believe it is a bad policy for commissioners to hire their kin folks to work under their supervision, at least, it is our opinion that it has proven bad in this county.

Fourth, we believe that the tax payers' money ought to be spent as far as practicable with the people of the county always having due regard for the best interest of the tax payers.

Fifth, we believe that when any officer is elected by the people of the county that it is the duty of any good citizen who stands for the best interest of their county to cooperate, aid and assist said officer in the discharge of his duties and that any officer elected by the people is entitled to this support until he has proven unworthy by his conducts and acts;

We therefore, urge the commissioners of this county to cooperate with Judge Lee Smith and assist him in every way that they can to make the new admininstration a success and we condemn any action on the part of any commissioner to try to play politics with the people's money and at the expense of the taxpayers.

It has been reported that two commissioners have said that they would only hire a certain faction of the people to work for the county. If this is true we urge these commissioners to not play politics but to hire efficient men to work for the county regardless of their politics.

It is being talked all over the county that the commissioners court might be abolished by the present legislature. We hope that our commissioners will act and represent the best interest of the people of this county and that it will not be necessary for the court to be abolished. But as the last resort, if it is the only way that the people's interest of this county can be taken care of and if the commissioners will not take care of the tax payers money and will not cooperate with the present Probate Judge in trying to give the people of the county an economical administration we urge Senator Thomas and Representative Cox to give us legislative relief.

STANTON NEWS

An invitation was given the writer and pastor to attend church for a special Christmas service on Christmas night. On entering the church a member met me at the door and asked to borrow my car for just a few minutes. A large crowd attended. I was informed that I was to preach. Service over, I noticed an unusual lingering of the people. On approaching our car, my wife and I found it loaded with every good thing to eat imaginable. We are very grateful to the Stanton people for this splendid load of helpful things. The spirit of love that prompted it is appreciated even more than the things themselves.—G. G. Williams.

Chevrolet Announces Two New Lines for 1935

The Coupe model typifies the beauty and style of Chevrolet's New Master De Luxe series for 1935. Improved performance and exceptional economy also characterize these cars.

Fleet, graceful lines also mark the New Master De Luxe Sport Sedan. Ample luggage space is provided by the built-in trunk, and a luggage compartment behind the rear seat cushion.

Another attractive model in the New Standard series is the Coupe pictured here. Numerous body and chassis refinements, in conjunction with the Master engine, unite to make these cars outstanding values in the lowest-priced field.

Typical of Chevrolet's two new lines of cars are the models illustrated here. The Master De Luxe series reveals strong emphasis on beauty and style. Mechanically, the Master De Luxe series and the New Standard series have much in common, including the Master engine, in which numerous refinements have been made to enhance performance, durability and economy. As these pictures reveal, the New Master De Luxe departs distinctly from previous Chevrolets in the striking advance which has been made in body design and trim.

DRYS VOTE NO; WETS VOTE YES

State Referendum On Liquor Control Set For Tuesday, February 26

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 21.—Amended so as to permit modificationists to vote "yes" on all three questions submitted in the prohibition referendum election, the House bill proposing the election promised by Governor Bibb Graves during his campaign, is on the Senate calendar for consuderation Tuesday morning. The original bill was so worded that both "wets" and "drys" would have been forced to vote "yes" and "no" in order to express their choice.

If the bill as amended in the House before passage by that body 99 to 2 is accepted by the Senate and approved by the Governor, the election will be held on Tuesday, February 26th.

While the modificationists can vote "yes" on all questions, the wording also gives the "drys" the privilege of voting "no" on all three questions, thus avoiding the confusion that might arise if each had to vote "no" and "yes" on the same ballot.

The ballots for this election shall be prepared and printed in all respects as ballots are prepared and printed for general elections in the counties of the state and shall be paid for in like manner as ballots for such general elections are now paid; and on the official ballot prepared for such elections there shall be printed the following words and questions in the same order as herein set forth:

Question No. 1—Shall Alabama's present prohibition laws be modified?

(Place an X opposite the word indicating your choice.)

Yes————

No————

Question No. 2—Shall the manufacture, sale and distribution of beer (malt liquors) and wine (vinous liquors) be legalized in Aalabama?

(Place an X opposite the word indicating your choice.)

Yes————

No————

Question No. 3—Shall the manufacture, sale and distribution of hard liquor (spirituous liquors) be legalized in Alabama under strict state regulation but under no condition any saloons?

(Place an X opposite the word indicating your choice.)

Yes————

No————

With the referendum bill out of the way before the end of the week and many administration measures ready for the signature of the Governor, the way has been paved for an early recess which will probably be taken the latter part of next week until after the referendum.

Before taking a recess, it is understood that several important committees will be appointed to make special study of proposed changes in the revenue law and other problems which confront the administration.

Local Leaders Plan Activity In Favor of Keeping Dry Laws

A meeting of the temperance and prohibition forces of Chilton County is called for 10 a.m., Saturday, January 26, at the county courthouse in Clanton. Special emphasis is to be placed on the matter of voting. The public generally is urgently requested to come.

A man with a message on temperance will speak at the First Baptist church in Clanton at 2:30 p.m., next Sunday, January 27.

At a meeting of the temperance and prohibition forces of Chilton County last Saturday, January 19, at the county courthouse, the following officers were elected:

Dr. S. J. Esell, of Clanton, chairman; Mr. E. H. Freeman, of Verbena, foreman; Mr. David B. Adams, Clanton Route 2, secretary-treasurer.

Several good talks were made favoring the retention of Alabama's present temperance laws. — David B. Adams, secretary.

O. O. WELDON GROCERY STORE MOVED TO NEW LOCATION NOW

The grocery store of O. O. Weldon has been moved to a new location in the Wade Building two doors east of the postoffice on Main Street, next to Yellow Front.

Mr. Weldon has enlarged his stock and is better prepared to serve his trade at the new place. He offers a full line of staple and fancy groceries, including flour and all kinds of food products.

A special invitation is extended by Mr. Weldon to his farmer friends to visit his new store while in Clanton. He guarantees to sell groceries as cheap as they can be had anywhere.

FARMERS HARDWARE COMPANY OFFERS FARMERS DELIVERY

In an idvertisement in this issue of The Union-Banner the Farmers Hardware Company makes a statement which will likely be of interest to the farmers of Chilton county. This hardware store, being located on the highway, finds that some people who drive teams to town, have difficulty in getting around through the traffic and loading on implements and other things they buy from the store. This difficulty is overcome by the delivery service that the Farmers Hardware Company offers. As explained in their adv., they will carry whatever you buy from them and load it on your wagon at the htching ground or wherever your wagon may be located. They also offer a delivery service anywhere in the county, upon the condition, of course, that the urchase is of sufficient volume to justify such delivery.

Messrs. Renfro Jones, Lester Jones, and Amon Jones, who operate the store, are always glad to have their friends call on them. Their warehouse is the old Jim Jones building, next door east of Dief's Service Station.

First National Bank Meeting

Reports Best Business In 1934 Since the Great Slump of 1929

At a recent meeting of the stockholders and directors of the First National Bank of Clanton, figures were cited which definitely indicate that business in this section is on the upward climb.

J. C. Page, cashier, declared that the bank has enjoyed the best business since the 1929 slump. Deposits were higher during last year than at any time since the depression first hit the country, he said, and he feels sure that this year will bring even greater improvement, not only to the banking business but to all other types of business throughout the country.

Believing that the banking business is a definite barometer to all other types of business endeavor, Mr. Page said he thinks that the people of Chilton County have every right to march ahead with assurance that 1935 holds much for them. For 15 years the First National Bank has been serving the people of this section and its stockholders and directors are proud that every year has brought assurance of continued faith in its policies. A constant substantial increase in the institution's business is indicative of the regard in which it is held by those who patronize it, Mr. Page pointed out.

Every member of the board of directors were re-elected and the bank will continue its service with the same staff of officials, it was announced. A substantial dividend was paid to stockholders, Mr. Page said.

With the several PWA projects that are expected to get underway in this county within the next few weeks, there is every reason to look forward with renewed hope for better business conditions during 1935, is the expressed opinion of several of the county's leading citizens. Within a few weeks work will be begun on the new city hall in Clanton, which will give employment to near 100 men for several months; the contract for the erection of a new $55,000 post office building here will be awarded in next month, and the paving of another two mile section of the Clanton-Selma highway is now getting underway.

On Thursday night of this week, January 24th, the Child Welfare Department of Chilton County will sponsor a picture show program at the Wadesonian Theatre in Clanton, the proceeds of which will be used by the welfare workers in helping underprivileged children to attend school.

The picture to be shown is "It's a Gift," starring Baby LeRoy and W. C. Fields. The program will begin at 6:45 and 8:30 o'clock. This is a comedy affording just one laugh after another. Children and grownups will enjoy it.

Don't miss this opportunity to see Baby Leroy at his best, and at the same time to help some child to attend school who cannot do so without assistance. The regular admission prices will be charged for the show.

Miss Nolan Meroney, child welfare superintendent, urges the importance of this effort on behalf of poor children, and most urgently insists that everybody who can possibly do so lend their support and cooperation by attending this picture show.

Remember the date, Thursday night of this week, January 24th.

Farmer Against City Extension

Uncle George Willis Does Not Want To Live In Clanton City Limits

Editor Union-Banner:

I wish to make a protest against the extension of the city limits to include a lot of farmers without giving them a voice in the matter.

There is no justice whatever in taking in a lot of farmers near the city limits. It will not add the least bit to their productiveness.

Mr. Fenn Jones says he is getting hearty support in the matter. Now I think, if he will look inot the issue a little closer, he will find that almost 100 per cent of his support originated in and is confined to the present city limits. The city of Clanton already owes considerable money and is planning to create an additional debt of about $40,000 and it is only natural that the citizens of Clanton would like to have some help to carry the heavy load. We have not heard of any plan to give us any benefit in the near future or at any future time. I am against the proposition unless everyone is exempted from city tax until such time as the city gives him some service in the way of water and sewer extensions, etc., commensurate with said tax.

Mr. Jones claims he has to follow the land lines and that makes it hard to avoid taking in some farms. Now I do not believe the law compels him to follow the land lines but if it does, he should treat all alike and not zig zag around some of the best farms surrounding Clanton.

Now in conclusion I wish to invite Mr. Jones to come across the creek on the north side and see if he can find any of that hearty support he speaks of. I have canvassed the situation thoroughly over here and I have only been able to find one man, a Mr. Bean, in the north-west corner of the proposed limits, who is in favor of the plan, and he has only a small patch of nut grass that got too tough for him and he ran off and left it. You are welcome to it and we will help you move it over to Clanton if you will let our cotton farms alone.—G. W. Willis.

Property Values In West Clanton

The Improvements Needed On Second Ave. Discussed By Mayor

Mayor C. Fenn Jones expresses his interest in the possible improvement of property on Second Avenue in the section known as West End, and extending to the intersection of Second Avenue with the Selma Highway.

As an initial step toward such improvement, Mr. Jones mentioned widening of the street with some additional grading that will improve the road through that vicinity.

The future interest of property owners in the West End district is made more acute, the mayor points out, by the building of a paved road along Fouth Avenue. The paved road naturally makes property on Fourth Avenue more attractive, and there is no objection to that. However, the fact remains that property owners on Second Avenue do not want to be left in a situation where all the attractiveness has gone to another section only a short distance away.

There should be no excuse for such a shift of values, said Mr. Jones, even with a paved road on Fourth Avenue. The people on Second Avenue in West End can so improve their property and their facilities as to hold their own place in the picture of Clanton.

"I do not hold out any definite program for Second Avenue residents and property owners," said the Mayor. "The question has not reached that far yet. But I do see the situation as important for the future, and I urge those who live on Second Avenue and own property there to begin to think over the possibilities of adding something of attractiveness and value to that section so they will be able to hold their own with Fourth Avenue neighbors who have the distinct advantage of a fine paved road by their doors."

Senator Earle Thomas spent the past week end at his home at Isabella. He returned to Montgomery Monday for the week's session of the legislature.

A Farmer's Thoughts

By PAUL COBURN, Tuscumbia, Ala.
County Commissioner, S. E. District, Colbert County

I wuz awake here tother night and heard it when it rained,
I heared the wind a-blowin' like a mighty hurricane,
I heared the wind a commin bout forty miles I spec,
And then it come a dash of rain and washed things off the deck.
I pulled the kivver round me tight, and listened to its roar,
And then I let my thoughts go out about the farm once more.
I thought about the hosses all down thar in the barn,
I thought about the cow and the calf the rain could do no harm,
I thought about the sow and pigs and them puppies under the floor,
I thought about the chickens and the tater house door,
And I thought about the corn and hay and plow tools in the dry;
All of them wuz settin jake from the rain up in the sky.
Then I up and thought about that mighty rushing stream,
And all the little branches that takes away my cream.
It takes away my dirt and soil and leaves me only clay,
To dig and sweat and tug and toil and git but little pay.
And then and thar I made my mind I'll go to work you bet,
I'll build some terraces big and wide and hold it back a whet.
I'll keep my dirt and keep my soil within my own control,
For if, begosh, it gets thar in the creek, it'll fill up that thar fishing hole.

LOCAL MEN VISIT CROSLEY RADIO SHOW IN B'HAM

W. H. Klinner and O. C. Bennett spent Tuesday and Wednesday of last week at the Tutwiler Hotel in Birmingham attending the Crosley Corporation's annual exposition of new models, with especial emphasis on their 1935 Crosley radios and the famous Shelvador electric refrigerators.

Mr. Bennett, who is salesman for the E. L. Klinner Furniture Co., here declares that these new models are outstanding in the development of convenient features. The radio carries five bands of receptions, getting everything from airplane broadcasts to amateur stations, in all wave lengths.

Both Mr. Klinner and Mr. Bennett were enthusiastic about the new Crosley Shelvador refrigerator, declaring that in beauty, utility and convenience it is the finest thing they have yet seen. They are convinced that when their stock of Shelvadors arrive this spring and these improved features are seen by Chilton County housewives they will meet with an enthusiastic reception.

President's Ball To Aid Cripples

Chilton County People to Take Part in Montgomery Celebration

On Wednesday evening, January 30, the people of Montgomery and surrounding counties, including Chilton, will celebrate the birthday of our great president, Franklin D. Roosevelt, at a ball at Maxwell Field. Thirty per cent of the proceeds of this ball will be presented to the president as a birthday gift to be used in research work and study of infantile paralysis, the dread disease which has taken such a heavy toll in the lives of American people and which our great president is so anxious to have stamped out. Seventy per cent of the proceeds of the ball will remain in Montgomery district to be used in providing treatment and appliances for cripples suffering as a result of infantile paralysis.

Through the cooperation of the Kiwanis and Pilot Clubs of Clanton it has been made possible for Chilton County to share in this celebration at Maxwell Field.

A special program of entertainment and fun is being planned from 8:00 to 9:00 for guests of the ball who do not wish to remain for the ball proper which begins at nine o'clock. Tickets for the ball will be sold in Chilton County at $1.00 per couple. The following committee has been selected to sell tickets in Chilton County:

Mr. J. Mell Martin, and Mr. W. M. Wyatt, Clanton; Mrs. T. B. Deramus, Verbena; Miss Sarah Hollis, Mitchell Dam; Mrs. Ethel M. Lecroy, Lay Dam; Mrs. Edith Villadsen, Thorsby; Miss Josephine Adams, Jemison; Miss Boots Potts, Maplesville.

In case one of the above does not see you within the next few days you can obtain your ticket from the office of either the Chilton County News of The Union-Banner. Any member of the Pilot Club can supply you with a ticket so do not wait for a member of the committee to hunt you up but arrange to get your ticket as soon as it is convenient.

The 70 per cent of the proceeds of this ball which is to remain in Montgomery district will be spent through the rehabilitation service under the management of Mr. E. H. Gentry of Montgomery. Mr. Gentry and the local child welfare workers will decide on cases in each county to receive help from this fund. Due to an epidemic of infantile paralysis several years ago, Chilton County has more cripples suffering from infantile paralysis than any other county in the district, therefore, Chilton County will receive more than 70 per cent of the proceeds of the ticket sale actually made in the county.

This is one of the greatest opportunities the people of this county will have to honor our great president and at the same time to have numbers of our crippled children provided for. May we not show our appreciation of this great opportunity by patronizing the ball? If you do not care to attend the ball you can find no better way to spend $1.00 than by purchasing a ticket and thus helping to restore some crippled child who has no other means of being restored to health and happiness. See one of the committee members or go to the office of one of the local papers and purchase your ticket within the next few days. Remember, every ticket sold means 70 per cent to be spent in restoring to health some child already suffering from infantile paralysis and 30 per cent to be septn in studying the causes and planning means whereby the disease may be eradicated so that future generations will be spared the suffering that is the lot of so many helpless victims of the disease now.

Clyde J. Davis, of Montgomery, was a visitor in Clanton a few days the past week. Mr. Davis formerly lived here and was publisher of The Clanton Press.

CONTRACT LET FOR CITY HALL

Mayor Expects Work To Be Started Not Later Than March 1st

"We have been building the new city hall and extending the water mains on paper for the past several months. Now that part of the procedure is finished, and I expect to see the real work of putting brick, stone and steel together start about the first of March, or soon thereafter." This was the statement of Mayor Fenn Jones Tuesday, as he summed up the situation with reference to two important public projects that have been current in Clanton for several months.

Contract has been let to Algernon Blair, of Montgomery, for building the city hall, in the aggregate sum of $22,711. The contract for extending the city water mains and increasing fire protection apparatus went to W. H. O'Toole, of Monroe, La., for the aggregate sum of $10,250.25.

Mayor Jones stated that the town has purchased the old Baptist church lot upon which the city hall will be built. This lot was obtained for about $1,200. After considering the offer for the property, the city officials found that it was so much cheaper than any other available property, they determined to complete the purchase without further negotiations.

The new city building will be a fire proof structure that will contain office quarters and ample space for housing all of the city's government activities, including fire department and everything.

The waterworks extension provides for carrying the advantages of plenty of water, together with fire protection, to many places in the city not heretofore enjoying those advanages.

These projects will be carried out through the Public Works Administration, under which arrangement 30 per cent of the cost will be a gift to the city from the federal government.

After a detailed check-up of the bargain, Mayor Jones gave the actual figures on the cost of the city hall lot as $1,114.92.

This is a remarkably low figure for this excellent piece of property, and the town was able to obtain it at that price only by taking an option on it in a deal that was initiated several months ago. Recent figures on other available property offered to the town for the city hall ranged around $2,000 for locations not nearly so desirable for the purpose.

Joe M. Holladaye, of Wetumpka, was a visitor in Clanton Tuesday afternoon for a short while. Joe is now with the Wetumpka Herald.

Plans Announced On New Postoffice

A Few of Details Are Given Out By Postmaster Billy Smith

Plans and specifications for the new post office building for Clanton have been received, according to Acting Postmaster Billy Smith, this week. Bids from contractors for the erection of the building are to be opened February 11th.

The plans of the new building show the front facing north on First Avenue with a wide entrance to the building. The exterior will be contructed of limestone and brick, the limestone to be light grey or light buff.

The building will be steam heated with a large basement housing the boiler room and large storage rooms. The lobby will be most attractive with a tile effect floor and panelled walls. Five windows for the various services include stamps, money orders, postal savings, parcel post and registered mails, with each department occupying a separate space.

Added comforts and conveniences for employees include a privte office for the postmaster, drinking fountains, wash rooms and rest rooms.

When completed, this building will be one of the most attractive and beautiful buildings between Birmingham and Montgomery and something to be proud of.

ADMISSION 10c and 25c

VERMONT SCHOOL

Due to a number of exacting duties the reporter has been forced to withhold the school's news items during recent weeks.

Our P.-T. A. met in regular session on last Thursday night, November 10th. The program committee had arranged an attractive little program to present, but several urgent business matters demanded the greater portion of the time, thus causing a postponement until our next meeting, which will be on Thursday night, February 7th. At our last meeting forty-seven parents and members were present exclusive of a large number of the younger groups, and several welcomed visitors from the Pilgrim Rest community. The P.-T. A. has two outstanding objectives at the present date: namely, completing the final installment on our desks and fitting each class room with durable shades. We have our school piano and song books, water and lighting systems, the stage and several other minor additions completely paid for, and with the two previously mentioned objectives above cleared from our records this term, we shall have reason to feel highly grateful. Some few who are patrons of our school and who are deeply interested in its welfare have manifested a somewhat indifferent attitude relative to our outside activities, especially our P.-T. A. Won't you all be just a little more responsive and join our cheerful groups and let's all go forward in the establishment of a more wholesome and attractive environment for the citizens of tomorrow, the boys and girls of today.

The boys' athletic club has received their new uniforms. Their Kelley green colors blend beautifully with the athletic colors chosen by the school. The girls purchased their uniforms several weeks ago. The boys playing their first game since the arrival of their new uniforms, marched out and won a beautiful game over the Maplesville Juniors by the score of 17 to 8. The Vermont girls also won a hotly contested game over the Maplesville High lassies, 14 to 12.

Mr. Johnson, accompanied by Coach Turner of Jemison High School, Coach Glasscock of Mt. Pleasant Jr. High School, and Mr. J. T. Cobb, star center on the third district basketball championship, (Jemison High School) team, motored to Birmingham last Tuesday night to witness the game between the Lahan Speed Brokers of Birmingham and the world's champion Celtics team from New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson attended the funeral of his good friend and former schoolmate, Byron A. Atkinson, last Sunday afternoon.

A combined examination, mid-term and monthly, will be given this week.

The entire faculty seems to be faring well in a big way the past few days. They dined Thursday night with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Giles, Wednesday night with Mr. and Mrs. Tommie J. Deason, and Thursday night with Mr. and Mrs. George Sansom, and Wednesday night, 23rd, with Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Scott.

The basketball team suffered a stinging defeat last Friday afternoon when they fell victims to the uncanny pass work reeled off by the Mt. Pleasant lads. They were up against one of the cleverest and smartest little ball teams in Chilton County and could not cope with their experience and swiftness.

Mr. Fant and Miss Pardue met with the boys and girls respectively last Wednesday. Mr. Fant selected the all-important farm topic, "Gardening", and gave a general analysis of the extreme value of a home garden. He also gave many valuable points on how to maintain a garden the entire year.

Onr north route bus driver, Mr. James Deavers, has been ill the past ten days with the flu. But we are glad to report that he is improving.

Several of our school and classmates have withdrawn since the Xmas holidays due to moving away, but we are glad to have a number of new pupils to enroll in their places.

Miss Cagle spent the past week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cagle of Mitchell Dam.

Plans are being formulated to present an entertainment by the elder men and ladies of this community at an early date. Definite announcement will be made later.

Liberty's Select All - Americans

Three southern players, the ranking stars of American football, Bill Lee Don Hutson and Dixie Howell, all of Alabama, score again in Liberty's all players All-American eleven made public by the editors of that magazine today. The trio generally credited with Alabama's victory over Stanford at the Rose Bowl, have been selected by a majority of the players against whom they played as being the best men for their respective positions.

The Liberty all players all-American is made up of the following players:

Ends, James Moscrip, Stanford, Donald Hutson, Alabama; guards, William Bevan, Minnesota, Charles Hartwig, Pittsburgh; tackles, William Lee, Alabama, James Steen, Syracuse; center, Elmore Patterson, Chicago; quarterback, Edward Goddard, Washington State; halfbacks, Robert Hamilton, Stanford, Millard Howell, Alabama; fullback, Francis Lund (C) Minnesota.

Fifteen hundred and forty intercollegiate players from ninety-three major universities voted, according to Norman L. Sper, who conducted the selection for Liberty.

"Every one of the fifteen hundred and forty players were 'playing judges' who eye-witnessed and participated in football combat with the men they chose," writes Mr. Sper. "We have no opinions in the judging of the all-American teams. We merely record the final choice of hte players themselves. These individuals should be in a position to know, for they have received the hard knocks and know the values of one player against another—that is, the players they have opposed.

"The importance of this vital point was brought home when honors for the quarterback position were decided upon. The honor to be named quarterback on Liberty's 1934 all-players all-American team goes to Edward Goddard of Washington State.

"The football exploits of this player from the Northwest corner of the United States may never have been brought to the fans' attention in other sections of the country, but nevertheless his value as number one quarterback is established as statistics by the players will prove."

Three major upsets are contained in the Liberty selection this year. Goddard, Hamilton and Patterson had not been named previously in any all-American selection. Bobby Grayson, Stanford, and Buzz Borries, Navy, on the second and third teams respectively, are also in the nature of upsets having been included on the first teams of various other "expert" selections. However, it is pointed out, that only players themselves are responsible and that neither Grayson nor Borries ranked as high for their positions as did those to whom the awards were made.

Gold footballs will be sent to each of the players selected for all-American honors.

In addition to the all-American team, a second and a third team were selected and a list of honorable mentions.

The Story of the Bible Told in Pictures

Christ Calms the Storm.—The subject of this illustration, from Merian's story of the Bible in pictures, engraved in 1625-1630, is taken from an incident related in the first three Gospels. According to Matthew the story reads, "And when He was entered into a ship, His disciples followed Him. And, behold, there arose a great tempest in the sea, insomuch that the ship was covered with the waves: but He was asleep. And His disciples came to Him, and awoke Him, saying, Lord, save us; we perish. And He saith unto them, Why are ye fearful, O ye of little faith? Then He arose, and rebuked the winds and the sea; and there was a great calm. But the men marveled, saying, what manner of man is this, that even the winds and the sea obey him!" After the voyage, which probably was on the sea of Galilee, Christ landed in the country of the Gergesenes, where He cast out devils from two men.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

COTTON CROP IS 10,500,000 BALES

Cotton production for 1935 has been fixed by Secretary Wallace at 10,500,000 bales of 500 pounds each.

This was the figure set under provisions of the Bankhead cotton production control act.

An additional 700,000 bales not sold during 1934 was added to the 1935 figure.

The 1935 quota represented an increase of approximately 1,244,000 bales over 1934. The 1934 quota was 10,476,000 bales of 478 pounds net weight.

The quota in bales of 478 pounds net weight and last year's carry-over would bring the total to 11,700,000 bales.

Secretary Wallace also announced that under the voluntary cotton adjustment program producers would be allowed to make an additional cut in acreage up to 35 per cent of their basic acreage and receive additional benefit payments.

Under the adjustment program as originally announced farmers were asked to reduce acreage between 25 and 30 per cent.

If cooperating producers take advantage of this offer and a majority of those who did not sign contracts heretofore come into the program approximately $130,000,000 in rental and benefit payments will be paid out under the voluntary program.

Wallace expressed the belief that not all of the 700,000 excess tax exemption certificates from 1934 would be used this year.

FARM WAGE INDEX UP

The index of farm wages was 86 on January 1 compared with 81 a year ago and with a pre-war base of 100, according to the bureau of agriculture economics.

Rates per day without board ranged on January 1 from $2.40 in New Hampshire down to 70 cents in South Carolina, and averaged $1.26 for the United States as compared with $1.34 on October 1 and with $1.21 on January 1, 1934.

The supply of farm hands was reported at 104.1 per cent of normal on January 1, compared with 104.1 on October 1, and with 108.7 on January 1, 1934.

A colored preacher down south was trying to explain the fury of hell to his congregation.

"You all is seen molten iron runin' out of a furnace, ain't you?" he asked.

The congregation said it had.

"Well," continued the preacher "dey uses dat stuff fo' ice cream in de place what I'm talkin' 'bout."

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala.—The field staff of the state department of game and fisheries secured convictions in 2,764 cases during the quadrennium beginning Oct. 1, 1930 and ending Sept. 30, 1934, a report released by the department shows.

Fines totaling $21,657.42 were collected as a result of these convictions, divided as follows: $7,394.16 in 1930-31; $5,028.18 in 1931-32; $4,455.77 in 1932-33, and $4,779.31 in 1933-34.

The most violation was hunting without a license and fines were collected from 1,194 persons for this cause during the four years, the report states. Ranking second was hunting without a permit and 49 persons were hailed into court to receive fines for this violation.

Convictions were obtained in 230 cases for killing squirrels out of season; 122 for fishing without a permit; 100 for shooting over baited fields; 72 on the general charge of violating the game laws; 69 for taking under-sized fish; 66 for poisoning streams; 60 for taking fish in an illegal manner; 59 for seining; 45 for trapping without a license; 44 for killing non-game birds.

Forty charging non-residents with fishing without a license; 37 for dynamiting fish; 36 for the unlawful use of nets; 30 for killing deer out of season; 30 for killing migratory fowl out of season; 30 on the general charge of hunting out of season; 29 for obstructing streams; 27 for selling game; 21 for holding squirrels in captivity; 20 for operating illegal fish traps; 18 for killing turkeys out of season; 18 for killing quail out of season; 16 for killing doves out of season.

Fourteen for having over the bag limit in possession; 12 for shooting fish; 12 for possessing game out of season; six for holding fur-bearing animals in captivity, five for trapping without a permit; five for killing fur-bearing animals out of season;; two for destroying bird nests; one for having over the creel limit; one for hunting wild hogs illegally.

The report stated that the abolition of informer's fees tended to reduce the amount of fines collected for the game law violations and, due to lack of revenue, the department was forced to drop seven wardens during the summers of 1933 and 1934, which also affected its income from this source.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala., Jan. 21.—The University of Alabama, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Alabama College, and Mississippi State College are all eagerly awaiting one of the real educational events of the year: The visit and addresses of Dr. Henry C. Sherman, executive officer of the Department of Chemistry, Columbia University, Dean Agnes Ellen Harris of the University of Alabama, said Friday morning.

Dr. Sherman is coming to Alabama for the meeting of the Alabama Education Association and will be at the University of the evening of March 27 and on Thursday, March 28. On Friday, March 29, he will be guest speaker before the meeting of the Alabama Home Economics Association and the Alabama Dietetics Association in Birmingham.

The new arrangements for teaching physical diagnosis at Alabama have been made in response to a movement among medical schools generally for a more comprehensive instruction in physical diagnosis and introductory medicine in the second half of the second year, Dr. Graves points out. He added that it is believed that the improved course at Alabama will be equal to that given in the best medical schools elsewhere. The buses will leave the University at 12:15 each Tuesday during the last eight weeks of the second semester. The time consumed in the trip to Birmingham will be used on the buses as a traveling study tour. Dr. Calloway will also assist on other days in the courses of introductory surgery and in pathology.

Dr. Stuart Graves, Dean of the University of Alabama School of Medicine, will address pre-medical students at Birmingham-Southern College and at Alabama College in February. He will also address the pre-medical group at Alabama Polytechnic Institute on March 4th.

Dr. Dorothy Stimson, Dean of Goucher College and former president of the National Association of Deans of Women, will address a convocation of women students at the University of Alabama on February 4, Dean Agnes Ellen Harris announces. Dean Harris at present heads the National Association.

Dean Harris has been closely associated with Dr. Stimson in the functioning of the National Association, and states that Miss Stimson is one of the truly great women in America today. Not only is she an outstanding educator and a scholarly woman but she is deeply interested in the education of women. Her sister, Julia C. Stimson, is the only woman to hold a commission in the U. S. Army. She is a major.

Dr. Stimson is an M.A. and Ph. D. of Columbia. She has held numerous chairs at Goucher, including that of acting president in 1930. She is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and is author of "Gradual Acceptance of the Copernican Theory of the Universe." She also held a Guggenheim Fellowship.

Dr. James Lamar Callaway, a native of Clanton, Ala., now acting resident in Medicine in the Duke Hospital, Duke University School of Medicine, has been appointed instructor in medicine and pathology in the University of Alabama School of Medicine, Dr. Stuart Graves, Dean of Medicine, announces. Dr. Callaway will assume his duties with the opening of the second semester on January 28.

Dr. Callaway transferred from Alabama to Duke in the fall of 1931 and graduated from the latter institution with the M.D. degree in 1932. From October, 1932, to June, 1933, he was a Fellow in dermatology and syphilology in the Pennsylvania Graduate school of Medicine. In July, 1933 he went to Duke to spend a year as interne in the Duke University Hospital.

In July, 1934, he became assistant resident physician in Duke Hospital, and has recently been acting as Resident in Medicine.

Upon completion of his half year at Alabama, Dr. Callaway will begin a three-year appointment under Dr. Stokes at the University of Pennsylvania as an instructor in dermatology and syphilology in the Pennsylvania Graduate School, on completion of which he will be a candidate for an M.S. in dermatology. Dr. Callaway has been assisting Dr. Julian Ruffin this year in the course of physical diagnosis at Duke.

He will act as executive of the new course in physical diagnosis to be given to Alabama second year men, during the last half of which the sophomore class will commute once a week to Hillman Hospital, Birmingham. There they will be divided into small groups for instruction in history taking and physical diagnosis in the wards and the out-patient department under Dr. James S. McLester, Dr. James B. McLester, Dr. Edgar Givham, and Dr. Callaway from two to four p.m. From four to five o'clock the whole class will meet for a clinic. From five to six Dr. George S. Graham, pathologist at Hillman, will give instruction in pathological anatomy correlated with clinical histories.

University, Ala., Jan. 21.—Mid-term commencement exercises will be held at University of Alabama Saturday, January 26th at 8 p.m. One hundred and eight students are candidates for degrees. The commencement address will be delivered by Prof. E. Baskin Wright of the department of political science.

PARK AREA IS ENLARGED AT WEOGUFKA MOUNTAIN

Montgomery, Ala.—With the recent acquisition of additional lands Weogufka state park in Coosa County now includes 809 acres, according to Colonel Page S. Bunker, state forester, in charge of the state and federal work of developing Alabama's forests and parks. The new areas occupy the summit of a ridge running southward from Weogufka Mountain for a distance of about two miles. It is expected that the road which now reaches the top of the mountain from the north will be continued down the south side through the newly acquired land to give better access to the park from the south and southwest.

Weogufka state park is one of the most attractive areas in Alabama. With the completion of the developments now under way it undoubtedly will be one of the chief points of interest to tourists, campers and recreationists. Further additions to the park may result from the federal acquisition of submarginal lands in that locality.

Doctors Know!

. . . and they use liquid laxatives

You'd use a liquid, too, if you knew how much better it makes you feel.

A liquid laxative can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation.

Just ask your own doctor about this. Ask your druggist how popular liquid laxatives have become. The right liquid laxative gives the right kind of help—and the right amount of help. When the dose is repeated, instead of more each time, you take less. Until the bowels are moving regularly and thoroughly without aid.

People who have experienced this comfort, never return to any form of help that can't be regulated! The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara, and these are natural laxatives that form no habit. It relieves a condition of biliousness or sluggishness without upset.

To relieve your occasional upsets safely and comfortably, try Syrup Pepsin. The druggist has it.

WITH exports of pork and lard from the United States still remaining at a low level, a large increase in hog production is not warranted at this time, according to officials of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. Exports of pork from the United States showed a slightly upward trend in 1934, but this was offset by a decline in exports in lard. Annual shipments abroad remain at about three-fourths of a billion pounds, as compared with nearly two billion pounds in the early post-war period. The decline during the ten years from 1923 to 1932, as indicated by the above graph, has been equivalent to about nine million hogs.

Great Britain, the principal market for pork products, continues to restrict pork shipments from non-empire countries, including the United States, by means of import quotas. Germany, second ranking buyer of hog products, limited monthly lard imports in 1934 to 40 per cent of the volume imported during the corresponding months of 1931-33, and during the latter part of the year imposed restrictions on conversion of German money into foreign exchange that caused further reductions in lard imports.

The 1935 corn-hog production control program now being offered by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration is designed to help farmers keep hog numbers in line with the current low level of export trade.

SALE OF "BLIND-MADE GOODS"

The Study Club will hold a sale of "blind-made goods" on the last Thursday in January. This is quite an urgent work and a mute appeal to those of us more fortunate.

The sale of these goods will make it possible to give twenty-seven blind seamstresses regular work.

The products are standard in quality, price and workmanship. All above the actual cost of the material goes to the blind workers.

The sale of articles will be held at the Taylor Dry Goods Store, January 31st. Those who help make of it a sucess will remember there was another;

"Who, of old, didst love His hand to help and lay
On the dull vacant eyes the craved for light."

Mrs. HUGH JONES,
Chairman of Committee.

The P.-T. A. is requesting that we do not forget the Founder's Day Program to be held at Chilton County High School at three o'clock on the second Tuesday in February.

YELLOW FRONT PUTTING ON BIG CLEARANCE SALE NOW

The Yellow Front Stores, at Clanton and Maplesville, are announcing in this week's Union-Banner their Big Clearance Sale. In making the announcement the managers of these two stores say:

"We must make room for new spring merchandise. To accomplish this we are offering our winter stocks at Clearance Sale prices. Outfit the family for the remainder of the winter at these amazing values while they last."

Turn to their big adv., on another page of this paper, and see what some attractive bargains they are offering.

OBITUARIES — IN MEMORY

It becomes necessary for us again to call attention to the fact that we make a charge of one cent per word for all obituaries over 150 words published in The Union-Banner. So, if you want an obituary, or in memory article, published about a departed friend or relative, it must be confined to not over 150 words, or else money order for the remainder should be included if sent by mail, as outlined above.

If obituaries are sent in containing over 150 words and no money accompanies same, it will be either omitted entirely or, if possible, condensed to come within the requirement, and published.

FARM CENSUS

At the request of County Agent, J. W. Fant, we call special attention of the farmers of the county to the farm census to be taken this year. Mr. Fant is anxious for all farmers in the county to furnish the information requested, in order that full credit may be given the county by the government in determining the future status of agriculture based upon the facts compiled in this census.

Each farmer will be requested to fill out a blank by the census taker. Mr. Fant has a few of these sample blanks on hand. He wants to give them out to farmers in order that they may study it and be able to furnish the information readily when the census taker calls on them.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By ANN PAGE

EGGS are somewhat cheaper due to slightly increased production. Butter too, is a bit less expensive as the recent high prices greatly curtailed buying. Meats continue to rise in price, particularly pork and hindquarter cuts of beef and lamb. Veal is reasonable and forequarter cuts of beef and lamb also.

Ducklings are attractively priced and fowl, roasting and frying chickens have changed little in cost.

Grapefruit, navel oranges, and apples are the chief fresh fruits available and all are moderately priced. Potatoes, cabbage, kale, various greens and root vegetables are within the reach of modest budgets. Cuban grown tomatoes are in the barg... class.

Here are three menus at different price levels made up from seasonable foods:

NEWLYWEDS HONORED AT MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

Mr. and Mrs. Burl Martin were the inspiration of a lovely miscellaneous shower when Mr. and Mrs. Ellis (Dick) Martin entertained in their honor Tuesday evening, January 18.

The guests registered in the bride's book. Then each was asked to write advice to the bride in it, which caused much merriment when read aloud.

Radio music was enjoyed throughout the evening. The guests were invited to the dining room where many useful presents were presented to the honoree. Each gift was opened and passed for inspection.

Mrs. Martin, lovely in a queen blue crepe, made on princess lines, thanked each one in her sweet and graceful way for the many gifts.

At a late hour refreshments were served by the hostess and her sister, Mrs. P. A. Garrett. Those enjoying the charming hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Martin were Mr. and Mrs. O. I. Payne, Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Killingsworth, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. "Hide-Out," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture that shows at the Wadesonian Theatre in Clanton Wednesday, January 30th, is one of those rare entertainments you like to see often, but do not see often enough.

This picture is brought here under auspices of Circle 1 of the Baptist W. M. S. It is the story of the reformation of a jolly playboy-racketeer through his unwilling precipitation into the midst of a rural atmosphere.

Our price of cream for last Saturday was 27 cents and prices today show that Cream is STEADY and will probably hold good for some time.

We are increasing our force this week in order to get your money out to you as quickly as possible. Help us to make this a BANNER Cream day for Chilton County.—REMEMBER WE WANT 1,000 POUNDS BUTTERFAT, for which we will pay the market price.

THERE'S a pleasant, friendly atmosphere about the Hotel Molton—a delightful informality and unobtrusively efficient service that appeals to discriminating guests. COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

The writer would like to suggest to his readers that they read the first five verses of the third chapter of Second Timothy. The inspired writer tells about the conditions which will prevail at the close of this age before the second coming of Christ. The writer does not contend that the presence of the conditions described mean that Christ is coming soon, although he is rather inclined to believe this. He does mean to say that the conditions described in those verses will prevail just before our Lord returns.

Jesus Christ is coming back again some day. No man knows when He will be here. That is a secret which was locked in the bosom of the Father. But He is coming sometime. Just as certain as He went away just that certain He will come back again. His first coming was a literal coming. His going away was a literal going. His coming back will be a literal coming back.

The writer is able to count something like one hundred and fifty prophecies which have been literally fulfilled. The prophet said that Jesus would be born of a virgin. This was literally fulfilled. The prophet said that He would be sold for thirty pieces of silver. This was literally fulfilled. The prophet said that He would be betrayed by a friend. This was literally fulfilled. The prophet said that a potter's field would be bought with the price of His blood. This was literally fulfilled. The prophets say that Jesus Christ will come back again. This will be literally fulfilled.

The question is often asked, "What good is the doctrine of the second coming of Christ? I am going to die anyway before a great while." Death is not the second coming of Christ. It is the very opposite. When Jesus comes again He will raise the dead and translate living saints. Almost every Christian grace in the New Testament is mentioned in connection with the second coming of Christ. If we are exhorted to be patient it is because Jesus is coming soon. The New Testament states specifically that this doctrine has a purefying influence in the heart of a Christian. When we celebrate the Lord's supper we are to show forth His death until He comes. Early Christians who were looking for the return of our Lord turned the world upside down and were so loyal to Him that they were willing to give their lives for the Savior.

Lesson for January 27

PETER'S DENIAL

LESSON TEXT—Mark 14:27-31, 54, 66-72.

GOLDEN TEXT—Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall. 1 Corinthians 10:12.

PRIMARY TOPIC—When Peter Did Wrong and Was Sorry.

JUNIOR TOPIC—When Peter Failed.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Be Prepared to Meet Temptation.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How Jesus Is Denied Today.

A better statement of the subject would be "Peter's Downfall." From the height of fellowship with God which Peter enjoyed when he confessed that Jesus was the Messiah, in Matthew 16, to the depth of emphasizing a lie by means of foul oaths is a long way, but the steps were quickly taken, for the time was short. The presentation of this lesson should be done in such a way as to be a solemn warning to Christians today. In order that we may be saved from such a fall, let us study carefully the steps in Peter's backsliding.

I. Over-weening Self-confidence (vv. 29-31).

Jesus had issued a solemn warning, even a prophecy, of the backsliding of all the disciples. Peter's unwillingness to face the cross alienated him from Jesus, and when apprised of the fact that the disciples would all forsake Jesus, Peter declared that Jesus was mistaken, saying, "Although all shall be offended, yet will not I." Our condition is most perilous when we are most sure of our safety.

II. Sleeping at the Post of Duty (vv. 32-37).

Peter and two others were privileged to be near to Jesus in the hour of his anguish. The favored three were commanded to watch, but in one short hour the very one who was so confident of his self-sufficiency had fallen asleep instead of watching. The only way to escape from backsliding is to watch. The one who overrates himself under-rates the power of the devil.

III. Neglect of Prayer (vv. 38).

The legitimate inference from the Lord's words, "Watch and pray," is that he had commanded them to pray as well as to watch. The reason there is so little prayer on the part of Christians is due to the fact that there is a lack of the sense of need of God's help.

IV. Service in the Energy of the Flesh (v. 47).

When they came to arrest Jesus, Peter took a sword and cut off an ear of the servant of the high priest (John 18:10). He was zealous for the Lord, but it was zeal without knowledge. Even in his outward zeal for his Lord he made a bungling job. If he had been in downright earnest he would have cut off the man's head instead of his ear. This is characteristic of much of the service rendered today by Christians.

V. Following Jesus Afar Off (v. 54).

Christ's rebuke for taking the sword and the awkward position in which Peter's act had placed him caused him to follow Jesus afar off. This rebuke widened the breach between Peter and his Lord. Following Jesus afar off got him into further trouble.

VI. Seeking Comfort Among the Lord's Enemies (v. 67).

This fire was built by those who had come unsympathetically to witness the crucifixion and even to mock in this tragic hour. For Christ's disciples to warm themselves at the enemies' fire, to get comfort from the things prepared for the satisfaction of his enemies is sinful. Peter not only tried to get comfort by using that which the enemy had prepared for themselves, but he engaged in conversation with the enemy and they that stood by declared that his speech betrayed him. Multitudes of professing Christians have grown cold while sitting around the enemies' fire. It would be infinitely better to freeze to death in Gethsemane than to keep warm around the enemies' fire.

VII. Open Denial (vv. 68-72).

Step by step Peter went downward until the words of a servant girl provoked open and blasphemous denial. Peter's trouble began when he shrank from the cross. It was that shrinking which separates him from contact with his Lord. Only the one who has been in touch with the Lord can back slide. Many of the so-called backsliders have never been born again; they have simply returned to their own way.

Conscience

The men who have done the most for any noble cause have been the men who have heard, and who have been prepared to listen to, the "still small voice."

Great and Good

Living unto him is caring with all your heart for the things that are great and good and broad and godlike.

Live Truly

If we live truly, we shall see truly. It is as easy for the strong man to be strong as it is for the weak to be weak.

Hope

Hope is the kindly instrument of God for rescuing mankind from inactivity, and inactivity is sister to stagnation.

Register Your Baby Campaign

Montgomery, Ala.—A registration of every baby born within the state during the last twelve months will be undertaken by the Alabama state board of health, with the cooperation of the Alabama relief administration and the bureau of the census. This registration will be checked against the existing records to make doubly sure of their accuracy.

Dr. J. N. Baker, state health officer, says that in his official capacity he has found that a surprisingly large number of parents fail to realize the vast importance of proper birth registration. The birth certificate, is, in reality, the tiny newcomer's first citizenship papers. Upon it depend the right to enter and to remain in school for the legal number of years the right of inheritance, the right to vote, to marry, to travel abroad, to receive insurance monies and certain other forms of compensation, the right to buy sell and hold property—so many of the rights and privileges which are often taken for granted.

Within a short time cards will be mailed to every home in Alabama asking that all births which have occurred within the past twelve months be duly listed. These cards will require no postage and the sponsors of the "register your baby" campaign ask that they be fully filled in and promptly mailed. Similar campaigns are being conducted in many other states and Dr. Baker is anxious that Alabama make the best possible showing.

Parents cannot be too strongly urged to cooperate in this "register your baby" campaign. Even though certain that previous registration has been made, this is an opportunity to be doubly sure that all Alabama babies, born within the last twelve months, are safeguarded by a most important legal record, a record permanently kept in the archives of the state, and one to which reference may be necessary many years in the future, a record, also, which should be correct to the most minute detail. In the excitement of having a new baby in the family, parents sometime overlook, or take for granted, the mandane matter of registering that baby's birth. Yet the few minutes required for registration may prove to be of colossal importance in later years.

Service, school and business organizations are lining up solidly behind the campaign and the indications are that Alabama will make an excellent showing among her sister states when the cards have been distributed and returned. Parents, anxious to secure for their babies all the safeguards possible will lend their earnest cooperation and the campaign gives promise of a complete success.

EXPRESSION OF APPRECIATION

While we are unable in this way to express our sincere appreciation to our friends and neighbors for their kindness during the sad hours of our mother's death and burial yet we feel through this letter we should like to express in some measure our genuine appreciation and profound gratitude to every one who contributed in any way to help and comfort us during this bereavement. We want to assure every one that we will always cherish the memory of every kindness shown.

A Prophecy Fulfilled

Fifty years ago Bell prophesied that telephone lines would some day interconnect the cities of America. Today, the whole world is at your fingertips by telephone.

This remarkable achievement did not just happen. It was brought about through years of research and invention by a large group of Bell laboratory workers, scientists and others, aided by the army of 270,000 Bell System telephone workers and the 800,000 investors who supplied the money.

It is the united effort and support of these million or more people that makes possible a telephone service international in scope and unsurpassed in quality, dependability and low cost. And telephone service in America is low in cost. For example, in the evening after 8:30 you can make most station-to-station calls over a distance of 75 miles for about 35c; 150 miles, 50c; 275 miles, 75c; and the farther you talk the lower the cost per mile.

That more than twenty-five billion local and long distance calls are made every year by the American people is proof of the value and importance of the service in the every-day social and business life of the nation. Such wide-spread and general use is evidence also that the Bell System is rendering a service satisfactory to the public in quality and cost. This is in keeping with the Bell System policy of furnishing the most and the best service possible at the least possible cost.

Baptist Ladies Bring Rare Picture To Wadesonian Next Wednesday January 30th

"Hide-Out," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture that shows at the Wadesonian Theatre in Clanton Wednesday, January 30th, is one of those rare entertainments you like to see often, but do not see often enough.

Driven From New York

Robert Montgomery plays one of his most whimsical roles as "Lucky" Wilson, the racketeer who, driven from his favored New Cork haunts by the relentlessness of the law, realizes he has not discovered life and love until he finds himself nestling in the bosom of a simple farmer's family.

Maureen O'Sullivan, as Pauline, the farmer's daughter, is more winsome than ever in her role.

Whitford Kane, for thirty years one of the leading character actors of the London and New Lork stage, carries off signal honors as Farmer Miller. It is his first screen role and as a reward for his performance he has been given an important part in Greta Garbo's latest picture.

Elizabeth Patterson, veteran 'screen mother,' appears as Maureen's mother, and Mickey Rooney, 12-year-old comedian, is seen as her mischevious and inquisitive younger brother.

Cast Uniformly Good

Other performances deserving of praise are given by Edward Arnold, C. Henry Gordon, Edward Brophy and Muriel Evans.

"Hide-Out" was didected by W. S. Van Dyke, better known for his epical pictures of South Sea, African and Arctic life. With this, his latest, he proves his capability to handle any kind of picture given to him for direction and to handle it well.

The story, an original by Mauri Grashin, was adapted for the screen by Albert Hackett and Frances Goodrich.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my sincere thanks to our many friends who lent a helping hand during the sickness and death of our loving daughter and sister, Mrs. Flora Mae Lowery. Words can not express our tender feeling toward all. We pray God's blessing on each and everyone.—The Family.

We are glad to know that Miss Mamie Edwards is back at home and very much improved after staying several days in the hospital.

PLYMOUTH SHIPS 11,730 UNITS FOR NEW RECORD

Detroit, Jan. 18. — The Plymouth Motor Corporation shipped 11,730 new 1935 cars to dealers in the United States during the week ending January 12, to establish a new all-time record for a week's domestic shipments, D. S. Eddins, president of the corporation announced today.

Eddins said that the previous peak week for Plymouth shipments was the week ending June 30 of last year, when the corporation shipped 11,490 units.

"Plymouth sales also climbed to record heights for this time of the year," he said. "Our dealers delivered a total of 5,017 new cars at retail during the week. This was more than three times the number delivered during the corresponding week a year ago."

Eddins revealed that Plymouth sales for the first two weeks in January this year totaled 8,993 units, compared with 3,317 units in the same period of 1934.

"Plymouth already has received orders for nearly 100,000 new cars," he said, "and the plant is operating at capacity to meet the demand."

SALE OF "BLIND-MADE GOODS"

The Study Club will hold a sale of "blind-made goods" on the last Thursday in January. This is quite an urgent work and a mute appeal to those of us more fortunate.

The sale of these goods will make it possible to give twenty-seven blind seamstresses regular work.

The products are standard in quality, price and workmanship. All above the actual cost of the material goes to the blind workers.

The sale of articles will be held at the Taylor Dry Goods Store, January 31st. Those who help make of it a sucess will remember there was another;

"Who, of old, didst love His hand to help and lay
On the dull vacant eyes the craved for light."

Mrs. JOHN VANDERVEER,
President Study Club,
Mrs. HUGH JONES,
Chairman of Committee.

The P.-T. A. is requesting that we do not forget the Founder's Day Program to be held at Chilton County High School at three o'clock on the second Tuesday in February.

ENTERPRISE NEWS

We are trying to get a sanitary water supply out here. I think it is very necessary, because someone may have colds, small pox and other contagious diseases, and go drink out of the well bucket or dipper and some of the germs may get into the bucket then when it goes back into the well the germs will get into the water and other children may catch the disease. The people should take a great interest in this plan because it will be a benefit to their children.

Enterprise boys won a victory over Cooper Jr. High School Friday, January 17, with a score of 18 to 6.

The Enterprise boys have been successful in winning seven consecutive games this year.

IN MEMORY OF OUR SISTER

On last Saturday, January 19, the death angel visited the home of Kanie Lowery and bore away his loving wife, Flora Mae. She was only 19 years of age, just in the bud of life. Like a flower that bloometh but soon fadeth away. She joined the church when quite young and until her death lived a consecrated life. One whom others might walk in her footsteps.

She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, Kanie Lowery; little daughter, Francis Virginia; a father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Peters; five sisters, Mrs. Grover Bolton, Mrs. Grady Martin, Mrs. Lena Vinzant, Maryline and Sophia Mae Peters; five brothers, Dick, Frank, Alvin, Jimmy and Wilbur Glenn Peters; a host of relatives and friends.

The remains were laid to rest in Archie's Chapel cemetery Sunday at two o'clock with Bro. Payton officiating.—A Sister, Mrs. Grady Martin.

HIGHLAND SINGING SOCIETY

Our singing society met Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock with a small crowd on account of bad weather and so much sickness. Although we had a good singing. The opening song was led by the chairman, Mr. E. T. Weldon, after which prayer was led by the Rev. T. W. Billingsley. The following directors sang two songs each: Messrs. Soverign Dickey, Fonzie Coe, Coy Lockhart, Herman Culpepper, William Cox, Misses Gladys Wyatt, Geraldine Payton, Susie Wainwright; pianoists for the afternoon was Dessie Wyatt. Closing prayer was led by Mr. M. D. Dickey.

We were glad to have the visitors with us and invite them back again. Let's all remember that next Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days. Everybody comie.

NEW SALEM SOCIAL CLUB

The New Salem Social Club held its meeting at the home of Mrs. Hubert Smith, the 16th of this month. An enjoyable time was had by the small crowd attending.

The first Sunday in February, our regular preaching day, each member of the church is asked to bring whatever he can for the young minister from our church who is attending Howard College.

Next month we are to meet at the home of Mrs. Cora Smith, who lives at Thorsby. We cordially invite each of you to attend our meetings on Thursday before the third Sunday of each month. We truly hope that you will come.

PLEASANT HILL

We had a wonderful message delivered to us Saturday night Sunday and Sunday night by our pastor, Rev. W. E. Robinson. Those who missed these services surely missed a blessing. We also had a good Bible school Sunday morning. Although on account of the shower of rain our crowd was smaller than usual. But we believe our crowd will be larger next Sunday and we urge each and every one to come out next Sunday and let's put something in our Bible school and I am sure we will get something out of it.

Our B. Y. P. U. is getting along fine. However, we haven't been carrying on a B. Y. P. U. very long. But each member seems to be getting more interested all the time.

Let's all try and come to Sunday school next Sunday, as we have several new books yet. We hope there will be enough present next Sunday so as to give them all out.

On January 13th, God in His goodness and mercy, saw fit to call from our midst Mrs. Perlie Easterling. We wished for her to recover, but God knew best and we hope our loss is heaven's gain. She suffered over two weeks with pneumonia and an abscess We did everything for her we knew to do, but all was in vain. Now let us look to God as the author and finisher of our faith, knowing that He doeth all things for the best to them that love Him.

If paying an old age pension of $200 will restore prosperity why not give us $1,000 a month and maybe we will be rich enough to drive a Rolls Royce?

A Harvard professor tells us that the country is undergoing a bloodless revolution. If this be true, blood will be the only thing that has not been spent.

A misanthropic Arkansas Cityan, father of several children, was asked if he was going to a certain wedding. "Certainly not," he said sourly. "I went to a wedding once, and just see what happened."

A Washington newspaper man, working on the bankers' convention there recently, lent a visiting banker taxicab fare without security. Now you see why newspaper men so seldom build up a competence.

It is predicted that the new congress will go even farther than the president in all kinds of expenditures. But when everybody hangs up his stockings who will do the filling.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

Once more we are in the midst of a fight to secure American adherence to the World Court through a resolution adopted by two-thirds of the Senate. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee by a score of 14 to 7 has voted to report out the resolution for debate and action on the floor of the Senate. The proponents of the resolution believe that they have enough votes to pass it, and they hail the vote in the committee as the first sign of victory.

Even the most enthusiastic World Courter must admit, however, that the victory was only a Phyrric one at best. For along with the reporting of the resolution went this statement which seems to revive the substance of old Reservation Number Five, which provides as a price for our adherence that the Court shall not render an advisory opinion in any matter in which the United States has or claims an interest without our consent. In order to realize the importance of this provision, if it is enacted, as it undoubtedly will be, because a majority of the Senate is said to favor it, we must go back to the World Court fight during the Coolidge administration. At that time the World Court resolution was pushed through the Senate but with it went Reservation Five providing that, if we join the Court, it must agree in advance not to pass on any matter in which the United States has or claims an interest. So important was this reservation regarded by World Court members that they would not accept our membership under such conditions. The anti-Court senators will attempt to see that the substance of the resolution is still binding.

Now since some of the questions in which we have or claim an interest are the war debt question, American tariffs, immigration, disarmament, and so on, it is evident that some of the members of the Court at least expected to settle some of these questions for us and didn't want to be bound in advance. Can you imagine what sort of chance a war debt, or an immigration question, from our standpoint, would have in a court made up against us and in which we could have but a single vote?

With the substance of this reservation preserved as it should be, it is easy to see, therefore, why a reporting out of the World Court reservation favorably, by the committee, is not as big an internationalist victory as appears at first glance. For if the World Court didn't like our independent attitude in the first place, what reason has there been for a change of mind? If they can't run our own business for us because of a pesky advance understanding, why play with us at all?

The old warriors in the Senate, who by their masterly strategy defeated American membership in the League and thereby rendered an invaluable service to the peace and independence of the country, are against the resolution in its entirety and properly so. As Senator Johnson of California said, when the resolution was reported out: "The fundamental problem of when to join the League of Nations Court still remains. I am, of course, opposed to going to the League of Nations by the front door or the back door or otherwise, and I am opposed to our going into the League Court."

What Senator Johnson says is true. The fundamental problem of whether to join or not still remains. But it ought to be easier to solve now than ever before. Never has the League's reputation for enforcing its rules and aiding peace sunk so low as at present. When opposed by one major power, whether a member or not, it has been helpless. It has been most successful in questions such as determining the "color of ink and the breadth of pen wipers" in international conferences. It failed in Manchuria and it has failed elsewhere. Only the other day when the senate had reported out the world court resolution, word came to us that Italy and France had completed an agreement in Europe, destined to settle the fate of Austria and the future conduct of four or five other minor powers. Provinces in Africa were parceled out and handed from France to Italy "without the consent of the governed" as a part of the bargain by which Italy agrees to "take aim" when France says so. Italy was given the right to go as far as it pleased in fighting Abyssinia, not in the interest of democracy, but for foreign trade and African booty. In all of this the League of Nations was not consulted. Its name was scarcely mentioned in disposing of the fate of Central Europe, and the soil of Africa. Nobody thought of the world court either kindly or otherwise. Yet the internationalists

THE ABSENTEE BALLOT APPROACHES DEATH

The absentee ballot, that instrument which has caused more dissatisfaction in recent elections than any other device ever before contrived, promises to continue for a while yet in the spotlight of Alabama politics. Its remaining span of life appears, however, most likely to be short. If the expressions of leading newspapers may be taken as any accurate index of the sentiment of State leaders, it is almost certain that the present legislature will remove the absentee ballot from its place in our election laws.

Heralding the approach of death for the absentee ballot, The Montgomery Advertiser says:

The absentee ballot is on its way out. Its departure will be a compliment to morality and civilization, even though it will involve some incenvenience to honest voters who are unavoidably detained away from their places of voting on the day of election.

But in the end honest voters must accommodate themselves to the idiosyncrasies of those who peddle their votes to the highest bidder. Regrettably there is always a highest bidder.

Absentee voting, unfortunately, must at least go in the interest of common decency.

With somewhat the same tone of resentment against the evil practices which have grown up with the absentee ballot, The Selma Times Journal says:

The violent outburst against the "absentee ballot law" bespeaks an incapacity on the part of the state to control and regulate an important political service, where self-seeking politicians are involved. The "absentee ballot law" is a provision of great public convenience and usefulness as many thousands of good citizens who have availed themselves of it, are ready to attest, but a large number of counties and communities have permitted its wanton abuse and all kinds of election frauds have been committed in marking and counting the absentee vote. Evidence of these damning facts and pervisions of the law has let loose a volume of public resentment and condemnation against it, provoking the cry to wipe the law, root and branch, from the statutes.

A way might be found to preserve the law and brings about it reasonable and decent enforcement, but those who are now inveighing lustily for its abrogation, appear to believe that our election officials are too pliant, if not too corrupt, to be trusted with the handling of absentee ballots in a hotly-contested election. It cracy itself, when no way can be found to restrain people from defrauding one another when public office is at stake.

TAXES, MORE TAXES

If a man making $40 every week found only $31 in his pay envelope with a notice explaining that $9 had been held out for taxes, he would not be long in demanding, through his public officials, an explanation of where the money went and why. He would pay more heed to economy promises of office seekers, and he would hold them responsible for their expenditures. It is not improbable that if taxes were so collected, the people would soon have better and much more economical government.

Yet in effect this is what happens. A tax analyst writing in the Chicago Daily News has traced the expenditures of an average $40-a-week Chicagoan to see just how much of his spending goes for taxes. The situation in Illinois is not essentially different from Indiana. In buying food, the sales and processing taxes are added to that part of the cost of growing, manufacturing, handling and selling that is charged to taxes. He figured that about $125 a year goes to the landlord for taxes, or, if the man lives n his own home, a similar amount in direct taxes. The search went to the source of purchase. In addition, the gasoline, tobacco and other excises were considered. The figures bear out the general average of statistical experts, who estimate that about 20 per cent of the people's income goes for taxes.

Families in the lower income groups pay a larger proportion of their income in taxes because more of it goes for living expenses. In the higher groups, the federal and state income taxes enter to increase the drain. It is only the middle group that pays the minimum. The system works because of the skill of politicians in concealing the collection. They dare not take it directly from pay checks, but permit the citizen to believe that he pays little tax. They work from within, like the termites that destroy the inner structure of a house before the occupant knows that they are busy. They encourage the delusion that only the well-to-do pay heavy taxes. Most of their articles have, however, become familiar through abuse. The usual course is to exploit the taxpayer until the truth comes to him, when he rises and casts the burden overboard. Government is then reduced to its natural function, and the battle between the people and the politician is resumed.—Indianapolis News.

PRIMARY REFORM

A general revolt against the direct primary system of nominations is indicated by the response obtained by the Texas Weekly to its suggestion that Texas substitute party conventions to name two candidates for each office, for the first of its two primaries, and let these candidates fight it out in a single primary.

The Syracuse Herald in New York, the Aberdeen Word in Washington, the Charleston News-Courier in South Carolina, the Dayton Journal in Ohio, the Atlanta Journal in Kentucky and the Des Moines Register in Iowa will hail the suggestion of a mixed convention and primary system as good ones for their own states, as do other papers in the states mentioned.

"This is no Texas disease, all the states are afflicted by it," says the Atlanta Journal, while the Charleston paper says the "present primary offers opportunity only to lightweight politicians."

The fault of the primary system, these commentators agree is that it gives no scope to party leadership. This has been noticeable in California, where every primary brings forth complaints that the best equipped men in the state do not seek office and that there is no way to draft them. Suggestions for reform of the California primaries have not roused much enthusiasm among the politicians, but if Texas and a few other states revamp their systems, perhaps something can be done here. It needs to be.—Los Angeles Times.

TO WEST COAST AND BACK

(Part I)

I have been asked by several of the readers of The Union-Banner to give an account of my trip to the West coast to witness the Stanford-Alabama football game on January 1. Different people want to know different things about the trip. Some want to know the cost, some the distance, some the nature of the country traveled over, some want a full description of the trip in general, and a great many fans want to hear some first hand information about the football game, itself, some of them to clear up particular happenings in the game on which they were not exactly clear.

In giving this account, I want to give due credit to Mr. Raymond Duffey, of Mt. Creek, Mrs. Tom Taylor, of Clanton, and to my wife, for their help in preparing this article. Notes were made of the most interesting points on the trip, yet there were quite a few instances where notes were not made, and each of these have added points that they have remembered, and interesting things they noticed. You know it has been said that "two heads are better than one", and by the same rule, four heads would naturally be better than one.

Several pictures were made on the trip, and I have them here at The Union-Banner office, with notations made on each to explain where it was made, and what it is supposed to depict. This is an interesting collection, and I will be glad to show them to anyone. The pictures are numbered in order, beginning with the start of the trip, and following the line of travel all the way out to the coast. In some places the weather conditions would not permit the use of my camera, but in most of these cases I managed to get picture post cards of the most interesting sights, and have inserted them in the proper place in order to give a fairly accurate pictorial history of the trip.

On the trip with me were my wife and baby daughter, seven years old, Mrs. Taylor, and Mr. Duffey. All of us enjoyed the trip, but I think Baby Bettye must have enjoyed it most of all. She took in all the sights, sang, whistled, read her story book, looked at her picture books, played with her toys that Santa Claus brought to her at Breckenridge, Texas, and when tired of it all she could curl up and go to sleep—something the rest of us could not do. In the summer of 1930 I took my wife and Bettye to Los Angeles, but in the four and a half years since then the nature of the towns has changed quite a bit, so that this trip was almost as new to me as to anyone in the party, even those who had never seen the far West. There were many exciting experiences, and all in all, it was a wonderful trip, every day bringing new sights and new wonders to look at and ponder over.

Each day brought new scenes and new wonders, all blending together to go to make up a kind of kaleidoscopic view of the western part of our country. Wonders performed by the work of man's hands blended with nature's handiwork to unroll before us a wonderful panorama, as we sped along. But we must get along with the real story.

We left Dief's Service Station in Clanton at 4:15 a.m. on Sunday, December 23, taking the road to Selma, where we halted long enough for a cup of coffee, and to ask the way to get out of that town on Route 80, which transcontinental highway has been called "The Broadway of America". Of course we had a few hours of driving in the dark on this first morning, but we all knew just about what kinds of scenes we were missing, as it was in our home state. The sun came up on us not for from Demopolis, and we stopped at Livingston for breakfast.

Having fed up and gassed up, we took off again. On into Mississippi, through Meridian into Morton, where we found our first detour of some 20 miles, coming back to the highway a short distance east of Jackson. On to Vicksburg, slowing down to have a look at the National Military Park on the bluff overlooking Vicksburg and the mighty Mississippi River, the "father of waters". I think our readers would like a few words in description of this park, as it is very beautiful, and carries with it a wealth of historical importance.

In western Alabama our attention was drawn to the great number of dead animals on the side of the road. Many dead birds were to be seen along the route, too. Rabbits, cats, dogs, cows, a horse or two, owls, hawks and buzzards were to be seen quite often. In addition to all this, we noted a great number of hawks, owls and buzzards sitting in trees or flying around. Many old rusty steam shovels were to be seen along the road, which we presumed had been worn out building the road, and were left where they had last seen service. The dirt in western Alabama is of a gray tint, and where we were forced to leave the cement for a bit we found that this dirt was very slick, like soapstone, even when covered with only a heavy dew. I wonder just how bad it would be after a rain. Nearly all houses all along the line were dressed for Christmas, as well as the cars we met. We noted several wrecks along the road, including two or three wagons.

Upon entering Mississippi, the nature the country soon changed to swamp land, with ponds of water bordering the road for miles on miles. Planked walks and drives extend from the highway to the homes, and on nearly every porch may be seen a pair of hip-length rubber boots. Moss covers the trees in this swamp region, covering both body and limbs. It is a dreary looking sight. About 10 miles east of Vicksburg the highway enters a rolling sections of country, through which the road is cut, and is very beautiful.

Now to the Vicksburg region. The Vicksburg National Military Park is one of the most beautiful and interesting sights to be seen on the whole trip. The Act of Congress establishing this park was signed by President McKinley on February 1, 1899. The park commemorates the campaign, seige, and defense of Vicksburg from May 18 to July 4, 1863, in the Civil War. This park contains 1,322 acres, and great areas of it are literally wrapped with grave stones and markers. One side of the park is bounded by Confederate Avenue, which follows closely the Confederate trenches and line of defense. Another side is along Union Avenue, and follows the Union trench and line of attack. Numerous bronze tablets dot the hill sides, to tell of the military tactics used at the several different points. There have been erected 128 guns, and the historical and descriptive tablets number 898. The story of the battle, recorded in bronze, granite, and iron, is illustrated by 172 portraits of the officers under whose direction operations were carried on. The national government has erected a great monument, 16 states have erected state memorials, and 230 monuments and 274 markers have been erected by various patriotic bodies, individuals, etc. All in all, this park is said to be one of the nation's most interesting historical points of interest.

One thing I almost forgot to mention about Mississippi, although one is painfully reminded of it quite often in crossing this state. It was here that we first came face to face with the sales tax . Everything we bought, from meals to gasoline, carried a sales tax. Like the Scotchman said: "It isn't so much the money as it is the principle of the thing." Add to this the nuisance of having pennies enter into every transaction. The sales tax doesn't amount to so much money, but it becomes very bothersome to have to figure out that sales tax every time you buy something For instance, if you stop to have your oil changed in your car, you don't pay $1.50, as you do here, but it is $1.54, "tax and all", as they will tell you. If you eat a 40-cent breakfast, you pay 41 cents. Outside of the crooked, bumpy roads, the detours, the generally swampy, dreary nature of the country, the high gas rates, and the sales tax, Mississippi seems to be a fairly decent place to be in, but if you'll take my view of it, it is a much better place to be from.

This brings us to the Mississippi River, "The father of waters", where we will take up our story next week.—Man in the Moon.

O HAPPY DAY!

On January 1, 1835, exactly 100 years ago, there occurred an event which probably no man now living will see repeated. That was the complete extinction of the national debt. Every dollar the government owed was paid in full on that happy New Year Day.

Andrew Jackson was president. He greatly felicitated the country at large, and himself in particular, upon this auspicious occasion. In his message to congress, December 2, 1834, he said, foreseeing a reduction in taxes: "Every dimunition of the public burden arising from taxation gives to individual enterprise increased power and furnishes to all members of our happy confederacy new motives for patriotic affection and support."

Presently there was a surplus, and congress eagerly grabbed it and distributed it on the basis of representation between the states. The agreement was that the states were to return this money in case the national government ever demanded it, but since that day, 1837, to this day no such demand has been made.

When Martin Van Buren succeeded Jackson in the presidency he, too, worried over a surplus, not, as might be supposed, because the people were being overly taxed, but because he feared it would be a temptation for congress to spend it in foolish ways. In his messages he solemnly warned congress not to make itself ridiculous in any such fashion. He had no sympathy with Alexander Hamilton's idea that a national debt was a national blessing. That, to him, was fundamentally wrong. But he found a surplus offered troubles of its own.

Both Jackson and Van Buren were Democrats of purest ray serene. Jefferson was their political prophet. They believed in bothering the people with as small taxes and as few laws as possible. Every man, they thought, should be free to work out his own destiny.

Truly their successor in the White House, in 1935, as he turns back the pages of history to the year 1835, must sigh to think how times have changed. And all the people sigh with him.

RELIEF FOOD WASTE

Thoughtful citizens who have never been able to reconcile themselves to the New Deal policy of ploughing under foodstuffs when needy families were crying for food, and of destroying cotton crops while the poor required clothing, probably imagined that the limit of legislative and administrative inanity had been reached.

They were mistaken. A committee of New York Board of Aldermen, investigating the failure of food relief agencies to function properly, has made the startling discovery that while thousands have been in need for food, surplus supplies of potatoes, cabbage and canned beef shipped there by the federal Emergency Relief Administration have been lying untouched in warehouses. That is not all. No less than 1,400,000 pounds of potatoes have frozen in a corrugated iron warehouse in Brooklyn and 7,000,000 pounds more are believed to be in the same condition.

Still the record of red tape and inefficient bureaucracy is not complete. There must be added the fact that 9,000,000 pounds of cabbage were shipped to New York by the Federal Relief authorities, although the city authorities asked for only 300,000 pounds. When protest was made they were calmly told to convert the surplus into sauer kraut, although they had neither the authority nor the facilities for doing so. In spite of the protests of the local agency, 4,000,000 pounds of roast beef were sent to New York. To cap the climax, 11,000,000 pounds of veal lying in the Bronx Terminal Market cannot be distributed because those in charge lack machines for cutting it.

If this is not a shameful state of affairs and one bordering on criminality, then words have no meaning. The city, state and federal boards of administration are blaming each other. Commissioner Hodson of the department of welfare says his organization is "hide-bound" by regulations and that the obligation is only "to provide families with enough to keep families alive and in a reasonable state of health, but not enough to maintain a decent standard of living."

It is hinted that the aldermanic investigation will be followed by a federal inquiry. It is difficult to see how it can be avoided. Is the disgraceful state of affairs in New York being duplicated in other communities? The confusion, lack of cooperation and all-around stupidity disclosed in the New York case seem to be characteristic of many of the alphabetical agencies.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

JOYS OF EDITING

Some people wonder if country newspaper editors do not have a secret ambition to get into the daily field. Maybe some of them do, but we don't. Here's what we would miss should we hold the important and lucrative position of writing editorials for the Kansas City Star, St. Louis-Globe Democrat or any other metropolitan paper. No one would ever come in and say: "Edgar, you're all wrong on what you said about me." Or maybe it would be, "Mr. Blanton, that was a mightly fine idea you had." And again, "I lake the way you are getting out the Democrat." The personal touch and acquaintance a country editor has is worht far more than the reputation, power and salary of the big newspaper writers. In spite of what many people think, it really is a pleasure to have readers come in and complain about something the Democrat has said. The only way a wrong can be righted is by knowing a mistake has been made.—Edgar Blanton in Shelbina, Mo., Democrat.

PAYS TRIBUTE TO KELLER

The Rotary club of Andalusia set aside Tuesday as "Keller Day" and the program was devoted to paying tribute to him, in the various phases of his life while in Andalusia.

C. L. Martin spoke of Mr. Keller's church life, saying that he took his place in the church immediately after his arrival in this city, about 16 years ago. He was made superintendent of the Sunday school a short time afterwards and served faithfully and efficiently for more than ten years in that capacity. He has been teacher of the Baraca Class most of the time for the past six years. His going will be a great loss not only to the Baptist Church but to all the churches in this section.

Guy Wilder talked of Mr. Keller on the golf course. He was described as a good sport; able to lose as well as win, always playing the game fairly and squarely, just as he does the game of life. He said that the golf course was a fine place to learn what is really in a man and that Albert Keller always made 100 per cent.

Robert Albritton in speaking of him as a citizen said that Albert Keller was ever ready to go out after any and all things which seemed good for his community, his state, and his country, and that he never faltered in his efforts to procure the best for those in whom he was interested. He said, "Albert Keller is truly a gentleman and a scholar."

L. E. Brown spoke of Mr. Keller as an educator, pointing to the wonderful progress which the school system of the county has made under his leadership. He pictured the little one-room schoolhouses as they existed fifteen years ago as compared with the fine, comfortable consolidated schools now in use. Not only has advancement been noted in this line but in all lines as pertain to the county school system.

He paid tribute to the sterling qualities of Albert Keller and for the unusual strength of his convictions.

At the conclusion of the program Mr. Keller was presented a handsome brief case, as a token of the high esteem with which he is held by the entire membership of the club.

In expressing his appreciation, Mr. Keller said that he appreciated the good things which had been said, and that he appreciated the friendship and good will of his fellow men more highly than wealth and that it would have been impossible for him to have accomplished these things for Covington County schools had not the citizens cooperated with him. He urged that the office of County Superintendent always be kept out of politics and that the Health Unit never be given up, as it is an important factor in the education of the children of this county.

Albert Keller is now state superintendent of education of Alabama, to which office he was elected last November.

UNSHACKLE BUSINESS

Common sense demands that first things be attended to first.

And the first thing this country needs is to unshackle business from unnecessary curbs and unburden it of fears and uncertainties resulting form fiscal experiments and government competition. When it is freed of these handicaps business will be in a position to go ahead and absorb millions of men now unemployed.

Job insurance is not a cure for unemployment. At best it is only a palliative.

Great Britain's unemployment insurance system, which has been in operation since 1911 and on a broader scale since 1916, was swamped by the wave of unemployment that set in about 1820 and has had no effect whatever in providing work for the jobless.

The only cure for unemployment is employment—and employment is created by the free flow of capital through the arteries of industry and commerce.

When business has picked up to the point where it can support the contributions necessary to set up in this country and adequate unemployment insurance fund, will be the proper time to introduce this desirable and eventually inevitable reform.—Detroit Free Press.

KING VIDOR'S 'OUR DAILY BREAD'

"Our Daily Bread," is King Vidor's powerful human drama, scheduled to be shown at the Wadesonian Theatre in Clanton Thursday, January 31, under sponsorship of Circle No. 1 of the Baptist W. M. S.

Although Vidor has been making his own productions for years, this is the first time he has done his own financing, which puts him definitely in the independent producer class, along with Samuel Goldwyn, Darryl F. Zanuck, Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford and other producers who release through United Artists.

Vidor established headquarters in Hollywood at the United Artist Studios, where he shot his interiors. Most of the picture, however, was taken on location at Tarzana, the Edgar Rice Burroughs ranch in the rolling San Francisco Valley, where the largest set built this year was constructed.

The Story

The story concerns an average young city couple, down on their luck, who take a new lease on life and love when they find themsleves transplanted to a farm, and surround themselves with a group of disinherited folks, like themselves, from all walks of life.

Expecting to find peace and happiness close to nature, they are surprised to encounter emotional conflicts more stirring than any that confronted them in the whirling vortex of the city. Their love is threatened by a beautiful, unscrupulous blonde who enters the picture and causes an upheaval in the lives of the sweet, devoted little wife and all those around her.

Unusually Large Cast

The cast, headed by Karen Morley, Tom Keene, Barbara Pepper, John Qualen and Addison Richards, is an unusually large one, boasting forty speaking parts and hundreds of minor players.

Some conception of the magnitude of the situation can be gleaned from the fact that a restaurant, equipped to feed three hundred persons a day, and a hospital to take care of emergency cases were installed.

At Last---Real Thrift In Government

Declaration of Governor Eugene Talmadge of Georgia, at Beginning of Second Term, Is Heartening to Taxpayers

[EDITORIAL IN THE ATLANTA GEORGIAN, JANUARY 19]

It's the custom of political leaders to make campaign promises of strict economy in government. Carrying out these pledges usually is quite another thing.

Governor Talmadge is one public official who promised an administration of rigid economy and then proceeded to give Georgia just such an administration.

Money has been saved in nearly every department, and the state is better off financially than it has been for many years.

Beginning his second term, the Governor renews his pledge of government thrift. In his inaugural address he was quoted as saying:

The only way I know that a government can help the people is to stay out of business and be a fair referee between the people and let the citizens do the business, and then take just as little toll as you can out of their property for government."

A good American doctrine!

And the Governor added:

"The only way to have an honest government is to keep it poor. You can't help the people by giving them something. You weaken their soul and their heart, and dry up their muscles; but if you save them something, you encourage them to go on, branch out in business and hire people.

"What we want in Georgia is a busy, prosperous, happy, God-fearing people."

The Governor urged the General Assembly to maintain this policy of economy and non-meddling. The Georgian believes—and certainly hopes—that the Legislature will co-operate in these worthy purposes. The policies of the Talmadge administration, perhaps the most important of which was "keeping the state government poor and honest," were ratified overwhelmingly at the polls last fall. The Assembly should carry out this mandate. It should join the Governor in keeping expenditures to the absolute minimum required for efficient service.

The era of lavish governmental largess SHOULD be over.

Railroad Men To Have Gathering

Safety Rally To Be At The Courthouse In Clanton Friday Night

Railroad employes of Clanton, Ala., and vicinty will hold a safety rally at the courthouse starting at 8:00 p.m. Friday evening, January 25, according to Dan Hogan, who is chairman for the occasion. An outstanding feature of the meeting will be the reception by radio of addresses by two railroad presidents, James B. Hill, of the Louisville & Nashville, and Fitzgerald Hall of the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis. The addresses which are to be broadcast at 8:00 p.m. will be interspersed with musical numbers.

The two railroad presidents will make their addresses from the War Memorial building in Nashville through the facilities of radio station WSM. Prior to the broadcast a one-act safety drama will be presented on the stage of the Nashville War Memorial for several thousand employes of the L. & N. and N. C. & St. L. Railroads and their friends.

Local meetings similar to the one in Clanton, Ala., are to be held at more than a hundred places on the two railroads. Each meeting will be provided with a radio set by local representatives of the National Life and Accident Insurance Company, through whose radio facilities the broadcast is being made.

Last year a similar broadcast was made and letters were received from listeners in all parts of the United States and Canada, voicing approval of the program. The railroaders are inviting their families and friends to tune in on WSM (650 kilocycles) at 8:00 p.m., January 25, to enjoy this year's program with them.

Reduction of injuries to railroad employes is the primary purpose of the broadcast. Last year, Mr. Hill, then president of the N. C. & St. L. Railway, challenged the Louisville & Nashville to a contest in 1934 to determine which road could reduce employee injuries by the greater percentage. The N. C. & St. L. Railway won the contest by having reduced injuries to employes by 51.4 per cent.

School Load Is Up Receipts Down

Revenue Should Be Increased Three And One Half Cents Per Day

Montgomery, Ala., an. 19.—If the school revenue were increased three and one-half cents per pupil per day, each of Alabama's 650,000 school children would be guaranteed a normal term, H. G. Dowling, president of the Alabama Education Association, said in Tuscaloosa Saturday.

Mr. Dowling was discussing a statement of the increase in the school load and the decrease of school money as given out last week by Dr. E. L. Morphet of the State Department of Education in Montgomery.

According to this statement the school load has increased 7.4 per cent since 1929-30. Reports from all sections of the state indicate a substantial increase in attendance again this year. It seems safe to assume that the attendance for the current year will be at least 10 per cent greater than in 1929-30. On the contrary, school receipts for last year were $5-107,000 less than that year, the year preceding the onslaught of the depression. This loss is divided into $2,138,538 state money, and $2,969,094 local money.

"The loss in local money," explained Dr. Dowling "is a fact of special importance, and indicates the tremendous drop in property assessments, since practically all the local school revenue is derived from the county-wide and district property tax. When to this loss is added the loss in the state public school fund, also derived from the property tax, the total loss from this source is approximately $3-500,000. Evidently Alabama must follow the example set by other states in providing a larger per cent of school money from the state treasury than it has done heretofore."

WALTER TEEL BROUGHT HOME FROM HOSPITAL SUNDAY P. M.

J. Walter Teel was brought home from St. Margaret's hospital, Montgomery, last Sunday afternoon, after being there nearly a week. He was hurt Monday of last week when he fell fourteen feet into the filter tank at the city water works.

Mr. Teel has been placed in a plaster paris cast, all the upper part of his body, and is said will have to remain this way for eight weeks. His back and right shoulder were pretty badly bruised and broken up in the fall.

His general condition seems to be good now, and unless he suffers a back-set some way, will be on the road to recovery soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Mims and daughter spent the past week end at Lay Dam with Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Hardy.

On Saturday, January 26, a clothing leadership school was held in Clanton. Miss Dorothy Dean, clothing specialist from Auburn gave very interesting and useful demonstrations on alteration of plain patterns and fitting a plain pattern. The leaders will give these demonstrations in the community clubs in February and March.

Whether you are interested in making your garments, in buying them ready-made, or in having a dressmaker make them for you, it is important for you to study clothing construction. The housewife should plan wisely and buy economically. Serious problems develop in selecting, altering and fitting garments. These demonstrations will help in solving these problems.

NEW GROCERY STORE OPENED

Wade Will Open Up Another Business Next To the Hill Grocery Co

Announcement is released this week that the new Sanitary Grocery and Market, the second link in the Wade chain, will be ready for business in the next few days. The location is on Second Avenue (Main Street) at the place recently vacated by Ben's. This is right in the heart of Clanton's busiest business district, and holds promise of being one of the city's leading marts.

The new Sanitary Grocery and Market will be under the same management as the Wade Grocery and Market, which has enjoyed such a splendid patronage in Clanton since its opening a little over a year ago. Backing up the Wade business activities are the young, hustling and energetic spirit of Jim and Jack Wade, as they advance toward a place of comfortable security in Clanton's commercial operations, supported by that old veteran of many seasons, their father, J. Q. Wade.

Arthur Broadhead, Urshall Mims, and Howard Parrish will be in active charge of the new Wade store. It will be among the very finest food dispensing establishments in Clanton. With every possible facility and convenience brand new, these hustling boys will be able to render a service that is sure to command the patronage of a large and ever widening circle of friends and customers.

The new place will be ready for business during the coming week, just as quickly as the refrigerating apparatus and other facilities can be fully and properly installed. "We are not in any particular hurry to get started," said Jim. "We want to be fully and completely ready when we open, and then we will be prepared to show our customers the finest and most convenient store and market in Clanton. We will have our big announcement in the papers next week. Watch for it and be ready to visit our new place."

ANOTHER SHOE SHOP OPENED IN CLANTON

Chilton County Shoe Rebuilders is the name of a new shoe repair business opened in Clanton this week. Mr. John Schmith is proprietor of the business. The location is on Sixth Street south of the courthouse, in the building formerly occupied by Clanton Mattress Factory.

Complete new and modern machinery for doing all kinds of shoe repair work has been installed. Mr. Schmith is a workman of long experience in the shoe business. Among his specialties is making shoes to order, in such cases as that of cripples, where a peculiar or odd design of shoe is required to meet individual conditions.

Mr. Schmith recently came into this community as he was traveling over the country looking for a location to go in business. After spending a while here he decided he liked Clanton better than any other place he had been, so he has located here permanently. He lives on the place of Dr. S. J. Ezell, south of Clanton on the highway.

An invitation is extended to everybody by Mr. Schmith, to patronize his business. He promises to render the very best of service on all orders entrusted to his care. He will be glad for you to visit his place of business and get acquainted.

More Improvement Projects Underway

Much Work Will Be Done By Government and Locally During the Coming Several Months, Says Mayor Jones

Impending possibility of a number of public improvement projects of great importance in the Clanton vicinity, under the federal program, was revealed by Mayor C. Fenn Jones this week, following a conference with Mr. Paul S. Haley, of Auburn.

Mr. Haley is state land planning consultant, under the national resources board. He was here a few days ago, and called upon Mayor Jones for a discussion of possible projects that may be included in the federal program.

After his conference with the federal expert Mayor Jones stated that he visioned many public improvements for this community that may be included in the program of public works for the next year. As instances of the work that may be included, Mr. Jones mentioned the extension and opening of several streets in different sections of the city, such as Eighth Street from the top of the hill into Mill Village; and the same street south across the swamp; the extension of Sixth Street north from the C. Reese Mullins place, to connect with the old highway near the county bridge, and into Mill Village; possibly an additional street approach to the Reynolds addition; a street or road east and west connecting the Mill Village with the Airport community; and last but by no means least, the problem of additional building facilities at the Clanton Grammar School.

Mr. Haley has already furnished Mayor Jones with the necessary blanks for listing such projects as he deems advisable under the contemplated program. This will be done in the next few days, and the Mayor gives assurance that Clanton and vicinity will have the advantage of every possible opportunity to participate in such work as may be allotted here.

Incidentally Mayor Jones mentioned that the extension of the city limits of Clanton will have an important and far-reaching influence upon the ability of the town to take its part and secure the advantages of this program. "Clanton will have its own part of the obligation to assume and carry out," he said, "and our ability to expand and take our part will be measured by the extent to which we are willing and able to provide the necessary potential resources. This can be done only by a more complete consolidation of the interests of all the people of this community, a great number of whom are essentially residents of Clanton, but actually are just outside the city's established and very limited borders."

All things considered, it must be granted that activity in this vicinity will be keen during the coming year. We already are assured of the construction of the new city hall, extension of the water system, and building of the new postoffice; these together with paving of an additional sector of the Selma Highway. Adding to these the possibility of further public improvements as above outlined, it indicates that 1935 will be a year of much ado in Clanton and vicinity.

With the public works program swinging into accomplishment as appears highly probable, it is reasonable to assume that many private developments of property owners and business concerns will be a natural consequence. As already stated some weeks ago, the old Mullins corner will take its rightful place as one of the most important business locations with a new modern building which will arrive in 1935, many years overdue.

Frank Boswell Deputy Warden

Placed Back on Same Position Held Under the Graves Previous Term

To the consolidation with departments of the State government of various offices and bureaus, provided for in bills already enacted into law or pending before the legislature—Gov. Graves through the exercise of his authority as Alabama's chief executive, is about to add another, it was learned yesterday.

That consolidation which, it is understood, will be made effective within the next few days, will be the merging of the offices of the Physician-Inspector of state prisons, and Warden of Kilby Penitentiary.

In other words, Dr. H. G. Camp of Jasper, recently appointed physician-inspector, to succeed Dr. G. M. Taylor, will also serve as warden at Kilby, succeeding Warden George P. Walls, it is reported.

It was also learned that Frank A. Boswell, Jr., of Elmore, will serve as Deputy Warden under Dr. Camp. Mr. Boswell was deputy warden of Kilby Penitentiary during Gov. Graves's first administration, and is rated as one of the most able and competent prison executives in the state. He has the reputation of being especially proficient and successful in the handling of convicts; dealing with them firmly, but at the same time always sympathetic and fairly.

Gov. Graves announced yesterday that he will reappoint as State Superintendent of Banks, J. H. Williams, who is now head of the state banking department.

Mr. Williams, whose new term of office of four years will begin Feb. 1, was in the banking business in Marshall County, when he accepted an appointment to the department staff in 1929 as a state bank examiner.

Following the resignation of D. F. Green as deputy state superintendent of banks, Mr. Williams was appointed on Nov. 15, 1932, to succeed him.

He was appointed state superintendent by former Gov. B. M. Miller, to fill the vacancy created by the resignation from that office, March 31, 1934, of H. H. Montgomery.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCE

The first quarterly conference of Chilton Circuit will convene with the Pleasant Grove church, seven miles southwest of Clanton, on the second day of February, 1935. Our beloved president of the Alabama conference of the M. P. church, J. S. Eddings, D. D., will be with us. Everybody is invited to come and be with us. All official members are urged to be present.—J. S. Johnson, pastor.

For Extension Of City Limits

Citizen Believes that Enlarged Border Would Be Great Benefit To All

Editor Union-Banner:

I was at first displeased with the idea of extending the city limits of Clanton, and felt that the town was large enough. Especially was I opposed to it because it would cost me a few more dollars tax.

But since I have reconsidered the matter and talked with some of my neighbors I have changed my mind. I thought about the time my house burned and how the town sent the fire force out to my place, and they did all they could to save my house. They did not wait to see if I was paying city tax or not; neither did they ask me to pay for their services, although it did cost the town money.

Now, I realize someone has got to pay the expenses of the town, and I never liked the idea of being a free rider. I always feel better if I am paying my part.

I have watched Clanton grow for the past thirteen years. I remember when the sidewalks and streets were paved, how some people kicked and growled; but the town went ahead, and everyone has enjoyed having the good sidewalks, and like to go to town since the streets have been fixed to keep down the dust and mud.

We would not have the town back like it was fifteen years ago for anything. I do not know of anything in the way of improvements the town has done for the past five years that we would want to change.

Now, I think our councilmen have done well, and I have every reason to believe they will continue their good work. If they want to extend the city limits and build a city hall, I have no kick coming. So let's get behind the burden and do our part. It will make it light for all if everyone helps.—Yours for better times and a better town.—W. A. Crowson.

HOSEA DOWNS IS ENDORSED

Expected To Be Approved By High Officials at Washington Soon

In a news dispatch from Washington Wednesday, and printed in the Birmingham Age-Herald, it was stated that Congressman W. B. Oliver on Tuesday recommended the appointment of Hosea F. Downs as postmaster at Clanton.

Selection of a permanent postmaster here has been expected for some time past, as the list of three eligibles under the civil service regulations was established some time ago. H. F. Downs, J. Hugh Jones and Reuben W. Lowe were in line for the appointment.

The announced endorsement of Congressman Oliver for Mr. Downs gives practical assurance that his appointment will be made as soon as the wheels at Washington have time to turn around to it.

Acting postmaster Billy Smith, who has been serving for about a year since the retirement of W. M. Bean, has already sent in his resignation to take effect March 1st.

Along with the announcement of Mr. Oliver's endorsement of Mr. Downs here, it was also stated that the Sixth District Congressman had at the same time endorsed R. E. Bowdon, Jr., for postmaster at Calera.

The bride and groom entered together and the vows were spoken in the presence of a group of relatives and immediate family of the bride.

The bride, an attractive brunette was becomingly gowned in a spring traveling suit of navy blue with accessories of navy blue. She wore a corsage of pink rosebuds.

OUTLOOK FOR THE SCHOOLS OF ALA.

State Superintendent Keller Believes Conditions of Schools Better

At the end of his first week of active duty, Alabama's new State Superintendent of Education, J. A. Keller, was quite optimistic regarding the outlook for the schools.

"I have the utmost confidence in Governor Graves and in the present legislature," said Superintendent Keller. "Governor Graves not only has pledged a seven months minimum term for all schools, but has shown by his action on many occasions that he is vitally interested in seeing all the children in the state of Alabama have the best educational facilities possible. Governor Graves knows that the schools are facing serious problems, but he also knows the situation in the state well enough to be able to find the solution to those problems."

Mr. Keller pointed out that he knows and has already talked in person with at least sixty per cent of the present legislature. "These men were elected by the people to solve the problems being faced by the state and their respective communities. They well know that their task is a serious one. However, they have the right attitude. They know that they must get down to fundamentals before any real solutions to the problems at hand can be found. I believe that every member of the legislature is vitally interested in schools. With such interest and with such splendid cooperation between the governor and the legislature, the problems are really already on their way toward solution."

Superintendent Keller believes that the attitude of the people of the state toward the schools is quite different from that of two years ago when the situation first became acute. "During 1932-33 the people did not fully understand conditions which existed. They thought schools could be continued in some way. They looked only at the lump sum spent for education and thought that further economy should be possible, despite the fact that teachers in all sections of the

JEMISON HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Quite a few boys in the agricultural classes of the Jemison High School have decided to enter an essay contest now being conducted in the vocational high schools throughout the State.

Sponsored by the Alabama Future Farmer Chapters, in cooperation with the Chilean Nitrate Education Bureau, Inc., the contest, like last year, is intended to develop interest in and encourage study of the rare elements in crop production and animal nutrition.

Last year eleven boys in this state won prizes for their essays. Two of those prizes were won by Jemison students. This is encouraging to the boys and some splendid essays should be written for this year's contests.

Most farmers know that plants need phosphrous, nitrogen and potassium, and for that reason purchase commercial fertilizers. However, a number of experiment stations are finding that additional amounts of other elements are often needed on some soils, and with wifferent crops. These elements are called "Rare Elements" and include magnesium, boron, calcium iodide, copper and zinc. A contest of this kind inspires study on this very worthwhile subject: "The Value of the Rarer Elements in Plant Growth and Animal Nutrition."

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala. — The state department of game and fisheries reports that a total of 3,113,494 bass and bream were planted in Alabama streams during the quadrennium beginning Oct. 1, 1930 and ending Sept. 30, 1934.

This total represents 856,554 bass and 2,256,940 bream taken from state hatcheries at Eastaboga and Aliceville. The plantings were divided as follows:

1930-31—146,204 bass, 33,225 bream, total 479,429; 1931-32—152,775 bass, 787,890 bream, total 940,665; 1932-33—196,825 bass, 641,875 bream, total 838,700; 1933-34—360,750 bass, 493,000 bream, total 854,700.

The figures for 1933-34 are not quite complete as a few fish remained to be shipped at the time the report was submitted by the hatchery officials. Neither do these figures include millions of fish reclaimed from drained areas and overflow waters and transplanted by the field staff of the department.

Five or six hatcheries, each larger in area than those now devoted to fish culture by the state, are considered essential by the state game and fish authorities to produce the number of fish Alabama should plant annually in its public waters.

No report is yet available on the number of fish planted in the state during the past four years by the federal hatcheries.

Representative John Chichester, of Birmingham, a member of the Jefferson county house delegation, has been appointed by Speaker Harry Walker, as chairman of the house committee on game, fish and fisheries.

Representative A. B. McPhaul of Seminole, the house member from Baldwin County, was named vice-chairman.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

The Adult Schools

In checking over the attendance of the adult schools, it is found that only one is really holding its own. In other words, only one has a very large enrollment and a sturdy attendance. Hats off to the adult school at Riderville, and to Miss Rosa Roland, the instructor, down there. They are really making things hum. Those people are taking advantage of all opportunities for self improvement.

The other schools are maintaining a fair enrollment but there is room for much improvement. It is a mystery why people will not take advantage of these rare privileges to really help themselves. Any person, no matter how old he may be, who cannot sign his name, write a letter or even read the Bible with every possible chance to learn to do so and will not even attempt to learn should be ashamed of himself. There may be some excuse for not knowing how to do these things, and I doubt that, but there is no excuse under the sun for a person not trying.

Let me appeal to you, friend and brother, that it is of vital importance that you start not because 'ole man' opportunity is 'ball headed.' Once he passes, he is never caught again. Learn to read, write and spell this year. There may not be another chance.

Those people in Clanton seem to be making splendid progress under Mrs. Jackson. Here is hoping that the enrollment will swell and that the attendance will get better.

All is Well at Training School

Everything is moving along lovely at the Training School. A few pupils fell out after the Xmas holidays on account of illness, but were back for the mid-term examinations. The boys are continuing their drive in terracing land, renovating orchards and beautifying the campus.—Benj. Anderson.

The music entertainment at the home of Obie Smith was enjoyed by a large crowd. The music was played by Mr. and Mrs. Smitherman, Jasper and Lonnie Cleckler, and Hosea Smitherman.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Seymour spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Nummy.

Mr. R. E. Smitherman spent last week with his mother of Cane Creek community.

Uncle Peter Weldon of Cane Creek was a visitor in Clanton Monday. Mr. Weldon wants to find a good, reliable farmer who wants to rent a one-horse farm on halves. He has a good place, with 15 acres of fresh land, and as much more as would be wanted. He wants a farmer who has plenty of hoe hands, and is prepared to hustle. He offers a good house for the party to live in. Prefers a man who can run himself, but could help a little if necessary.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

Some time ago when the writer was in Great Britain he herad an interesting story. A poor young man who had spent his short life in wickedness and sin was found by a London clergyman in a garret. The man had been made most miserable by an accident. He had found a stray leaf torn from the New Testament. This caught his eye. It was part of a chapter in Romans. He saw as he had never seen before his frightful condition and realized he was a lost sinner. The leaf had been torn after the verse which says "for all have sinned and come short of the glory of God." The man was left without hope. The clergyman explained to him that Jesus Christ was wounded for his transgressions and bruised for his iniquity and that his debt had been paid. The man was saved. The Word of God had convicted him of his sin but he did not have the word that told him the way out of his hopelessness and ruin. The minister brought him this word and he was saved.

One time twenty-two China Inland Missionaries sailed on Steamboat Lammermuir to China. The crew on the boat were godless men and they did not like to have so many Missionaries on board. The crew had been used to cursing. The Mossionaries sang the gospel. It is said that the godless men were attracted to the Missionaries and a number of them were saved. There is great power in gospel singing. With every great spiritual awakening there is always a revival of singing. A few years ago when the Welsh revival broke out somebody asked Dr. Campbell Morgan if the Welsh revival would reach London. Dr. Morgan said, "You will have to learn to sing if the revival gets here. You ought to hear the Welsh people sing." The Christian religion is a religion of song. Jesus puts music into the hearts of the redeemed.

CONNELL INFANT DIED

On Sunday night, Janaury 20, a little baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Tony Connell, which passed on to that heavenly home. It seems so hard to give it up, but the Lord's will must be done. We should not grieve dear loved ones for it is only a little angel at rest.

She leaves to mourn her loss, a broken-hearted father, mother and one small brother. Funeral services were conducted Monday evenng, January 21, at the family home by Rev. W. E. Robinson. Burial in Mt. Springs cemtery. Weep not, loved ones, for our loss is heaven's gain.—Written by an aunt, Mrs. Ethel Headley.

REGISTER YOUR BABY

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 29.—This admonotion is the slogan of the campaign being conducted in every county in the state by the Alabama State Board of Health, with the co-operation of the Alabama Relief Administration and the federal Bureau of the Censusu, in an effort to secure a complete record of every baby born in the state during the past twelve months.

State laws require that every doctor or midwife who attends a mother at a birth promptly make a report of such birth to the health department, and this is usually done. On occasions, however, there is a failure to make the proper report, with the result that there is no permanent record of the birth, and no birth certificate is later available. Many times, during the life of the average man, it becomes important, even vital, to establish his age.

Early in February the Bureau of Census, with the aid of the Postoffice Department, will distribute to every family in the State a card on which a few simple facts are to be filled in, and the card dropped, without postage, in a mail box. The principal effort is to get all parents to whom babies have born within the past year to fill in these cards and mail them. The simple act makes sure that the child reported is then properly recorded and a certificate of birth, the newcomer's first citizenship papers, will be easy to secure. A complete response to the call is sought by Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, who is anxious that Alabama make the best possible showing with other states conducting a similar campaign.

Eleven Years Of Rural Service

36,750 Rural Customers Now On Company Lines

December 31st, 1934 your company completed the eleventh year of its rural electrification program, initiated for the purpose of making the conveniences of electric service more generally available to residents of rural areas in Alabama and to further the development of our state's agriculture.

In 1934 when your company began this work, the only facts available were that rural people wanted electric lights in their homes and that the company wanted to make the service available. However, it was found that use of lights alone would not make the service economical either to customers or to the company.

Therefore the first problem was to obtain information as to what farm uses electricity could be adapted satisfactorily and economically. This was done through co-operative experimental and research work with the State Agricultural Experiment station, State Agricultural Extension Service, Farm Bureau Federation and farmers throughout Alabama.

Information was obtained with reference to more than 100 different uses of electricity in rural homes and on farms. With this at hand the program was begun and carried on aggressively.

As a result of this work, electric service has been extended to more than 24,000 customers in small rural communities and along more than 2,000 miles of state highways. These customers were entirely without electric service prior to the extension of our lines. They would still be lacking in electrical conveniences except for the company's activity in behalf of rural electrification.

Today your company is servicing rural customers in 64 of Alabama's 67 counties. There is no community of 500 or more in this area which does not enjoy the conveniences of electricity. Outside of urban areas, as defined by the Federal Bureau of Census, your company is now serving 36,750 customers.

At the outset of the rural program average use of electricity by rural customers was 400 KWH a year. Despite the fact that many of the best rural lines have been transferred from the rural rate classification, present average use on the remaining lines is 973 KWH a year, or two and one half times the use in 1924.

Although expansion has been continuously to a lower density of customers per mile of line and the company has borne the entire investment of the lines, there has been a continuous reduction in rural rates. At present rural lines are serving less than 4 customers per mile of line. In November 1934, the average rate per KWH paid by the 8,329 customers was less than 5 cents per KWH.

Many Improved Appliances - To See Service During 1935

Children Need More Light In February

February, the shortest month of the year, often proves to be the darkest too. Twilight falls early. Many days are cold and rainy; long evenings must be spent indoors.

As any mother knows, such close confinement is very difficult for children. They must be amused. They must be kept busy. And this means playing with toys on the floor, looking at picture books, drawing, coloring, and the like.

What a tax on little eyes—if the lighting is not ample for easy, restful seeing!

In many homes children play in the "danger zone" of poorly lighted living rooms—try to read or look at books far from a lighting fixture — strain their eyes needlessly in many other ways.

Children do not know this danger. But you, as a mother or father, should take immediate steps to prevent it.

A few extra lamps in the living room, a new outlet or so in the nursery, another table lamp — these things means so much to your children.

Let us tell you how little they cost.

245 New Industries

During the past decade, under the leadership of Thomas W. Martin, the Alabama Power Company has aided directly and indirectly in the location of 245 new industries in this state, manufacturing 105 different products with approximate capital investments of $73,000,000; a total of 27,819 employees, receiving over $23,000,000 in salaries and wages annually.

Attractive Stock Of Modern Merchandise Available For New Year

More labor saving electric appliances will be used in Alabama homes during 1935 than during any year in Alabama history. This is strongly indicated by the substantially improved demand which has marked the first month of the New Year.

Anticipating far more widespread use of all kinds of electric equipment, your company has made arrangements to assemble an unusually attractive stock of the most modern merchandise. Ranges, refrigerators, water heaters, washing machines, embodying the latest innovations and improvements together with a wide selection of small appliances, will be available to our customers.

With electric appliance prices far below peak levels, with easy financing terms, and record low rates, the time has come when almost any family in Alabama can afford these conveniences.

Appliance sales in 1934 exceeded those of 1933 by $492,192. Refrigerators sold in 1934 numbered 4,254 compared with 2,385 the preceding year. Range sales were 1,269 compared with 318, water heaters 629 compared with 86 and washing machines 659 compared with 52.

New Use For Southern Pine

Added to the recent discovery that a first class quality of newsprint can be made from Southern pine, comes the announcement that a synthetic silken yarn can be produced from the same source, and it, like the newsprint, comes from the experimental laboratory of Dr. Charles H. Herty, at Savannah. With great newsprint and rayon industries based on Southern pine and furnishing a new source of income for this section, in the future when the South recounts its benefactors, Dr. Herty will stand out prominently among those who lead the list.

Highlights Of 1934

Taxes of Alabama Power Company amounted to over $2,000,000.

Salaries and wages paid totaled approximately $2,900,000.

Persons employed numbered about 1,900.

Customers served numbered 105,000.

Supplies and materials bought, chiefly from Alabama industries and firms, cost approximately $1,500,000.

PLANT IRISH POTATOES EARLY ADVISES WARE

The Irish potato, one of Alabama's leading food crops, should be planted early, advises L. M. Ware, of the Alabama Experiment station.

"The two varieties most commonly grown in Alabama are the Cobbler and the Triumph. If certified seed can be purchased, use them; they cost more but are worth more.

Before planting, the land should be well prepared, the rows opened, and the fertilizer applied and well mixed with the soil. An application of a 4-10-7 (N-P-K-) fertilizer used at the rate of 1500 pounds per acre (135 pounds for 1300 feet of row) will furnish the proper amounts of fertilizer ingredients in the right proportions. If this grade of fertilizer cannot be obtained from local dealers then 1800 pounds per acre (160 pounds for 1300 feet of row) of a cotton fertilizer analyzing 3-8-5 will furnish about the same ingredients. Should one prefer to mix his own fertilizer, then for each 100 pounds of fertilizer required mix 60 pounds of acid phosphate, 8 pounds of nitrate of soda, 6 pounds of ammonium sulphate, 20 pounds of cotton seed meal and 14 pounds of muriate of potash.

Potatoes should usually be planted 16 inches apart in 3-foot rows, and the seed cut into 1 ounce pieces. Should one wish to make large yields, the size of the seed may be increased to 1 and one half ounce pieces and the space between pieces reduced to 12 inches.

COTTON STORED WORTH $61,200,000

R. J. Goode, commissioner of agriculture, reports that cotton stored in Alabama warehouses the first of this year was worth approximately $61,200,000. There were 987,002 bales in storage in the state compared with 796,173 bales one year ago.

The value of the cotton in storage is worth over $19,000,000 more than at the same time last year.

EULOGY OF THE DOG

(By Sen. Geo. G. Vest, of Missouri)

Gentlemen of the Jury: The best friend a man has in this world may turn against him and become his enemy. His son or daughter that he has reared with loving care may prove ungrateful. Those who are nearest and dearest to us, those whom we trust with our happiness and our good name, may become traitors to their faith. The money that a man has, he may lose. It flies away from him, perhaps when he needs it most. A man's reputation may be sacrificed in a moment of ill-considered action. . . . The people who are prone to fall upon their knees to do us honor when success is with us may be the first to throw stones of malice when failure settles its cloud upon our head . . . The one, absolute, unselfish friend that a man can have in this selfish world is his dog.

Gentlemen of the Jury: A man's dog stands by him in prosperity and in poverty, in health and in sickness. He will sleep on the cold ground when the wintry winds blow and the snow drives fircely, if only he can be near his master's side. He will kiss the hand that has no food to offer; he will lick the wounds and sores that come in encounter with the roughness of the world. He guards the sleep of his pauper master as if he were a prince. When all other friends desert, he remains. When riches take wings and reputation falls to pieces, he is constant in his love as the sun in its journey through the heavens. If fortune drives his master forth an outcast in the world, friendless and homeless, the faithful dog asks no higher privilege than that of accompanying him to guard against danger, to fight against his enemies; and when the last scene of all comes, and death takes the master in its embrace and his body is laid away in the cold ground, no matter if all other friends pursue their way, there by the graveside will the noble dog be found, his head between his paws, his eyes sad, but open in alert watchfulness, faithful and true even to death.

FORESTRY'S OPPORTUNITY IS UNDER FEDERAL AID NOW

Montgomery, Ala.—The president's constructive attitude toward developing Alabama's economic possibilities affords the state the opportunity to establish a solid foundation for permanent forest industries furnishing employment to many thousands of Alabama's citizens, points out the state commission of forestry. Pulp mills, sawmills, turpentine stills, lumber yards and the remanufacture of forest products, together with the vast field of employment in the building industries, comprise major sources of material prosperity in any state. Alabama is peculiarly fitted by natural and geographic conditions to reach a very high state of development of such economic features. The main thing for the public to see to is that the raw material, that is, growing timber, is continuously available. This is the objective of forestry, and is the principal theme in the president's program of reforestation through the various federal laws and agencies with which the state commission of forestry is cooperating.

Apart from the essentially economic considerations, many vitally important civic and cultural benefits are furthered by the president's program through the development of scenic and recreational areas as state parks. These parks comprise large tracts of forest land so improved by engineering and landscaping that they constitute accessible and enjoyable centers for outdoor recreation and attractive objectives for tourists and vacationers. The development of such areas is more intensive than in the case of economic forest tracts, and, in the main, is directed toward accentuating their natural beauty and rendering it more available to enjoyment by the public. Many of these parks are being developed by CCC camps under the direction of the commission of forestry. A prerequisite condition of park development in this manner, however, is that the land be owned by the state. Effort is now being made to provide for the acquisition of areas in every major section of the state upon which to continue and extend the work of the CCC camps. Action toward this end is being considered by the Alabama Legislature now in session.

ATTENTION CREAM SHIPPERS

We must have 1,000 pounds butterfat this week. Due to cold weather last week we fell a little short of our goal, but expect to reach it this week.

Why waste your time saving butter when you can get more money for your cream with less trouble by selling to us. Market today is firm and outlook for better prices very promising. If you are a shipper, bring it to us any day of the week. If you do not get enough to ship, bring to us on Saturdays.

Remember, we pay highest market prices.

Alpine News

We have had lots of sickness in our community. Since the weather has changed t oa warmer degree everybody is on the mend.

In spite of the cold wind last Saturday night a large number of people attended the picture show at Alpine, sponsored by Bro. Paul Oden, showing the "Life of Christ." It was of great interest as each form of picture was illustrated by Bro. Oden.

A collection of $4.00 was made to the interest of showing these pictures to other churches.

We are glad to have Miss Pardue to demonstrate canning beef in our community this week. Every farmer should store this item in their pantries.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends and relatives for their kindness shown us during the illness of my wife and the death of our darling little baby girl. We especially thank Rev. W. E. Robinson for his words of comfort. We also wish to thank each and every one for their beautiful floral offerings. May God's richest blessings rest upon each of you is our prayer.—Mr. and Mrs. Tony Connell.

Mrs. Sam Cope and daughter, Sarah, have returned from a visit to relatives in South Alabama.

WHEN YOU TAKE A LAXATIVE

. . . use a spoon

It isn't what brand of laxative you take that's so important—it's the form. A liquid laxative can be taken in any required amount. If only a little is needed, you need never take a bit too much.

Doctors favor the easily measured liquid laxatives. Instead of any form that does not encourage variation from the fixed dose. A fixed dose may be an overdose for you—or your child.

Always remember this one thing about constipation: the secret of any real relief is reduced dosage.

Give the bowels only as much help as may be needed, and less help as the need grows less. You will find Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin an excellent aid in regulating the bowels. It contains senna and cascara (natural laxatives) and it will clear-up any bilious, sluggish condition without upset. Delightful taste, and pleasant action. Your druggist has it.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

There has been comparatively little heard of late of the proposed reorganization of the Republican party. Leaders seem to be content to go along with things as they are and to wait for political developments. To one who looks at the political situation calmly this seems like a sensible thing to do. Republicans, it would seem, will be in much better position later on to decide upon what they want, if anything, than they are at present. One thing is certain, many of the present leaders say. No matter what happens, the task of rebuilding the party will not be delegated to those who, when the firing was hottest, were either silent on the sidelines or busily engaged in rendering aid and comfort to the enemy. Those who did not shun the smoke of battle will be given something to say about it.

But perhaps another reason why we don't hear so much now about Republican reorganization is that a new problem is arising. That problem concerns the future of the majority party and just what is going to happen. Some Washington political observers tell us that many of the wise Democratic chieftains are not so much interested in what the Republicans will do, as to what is apt to happen to the other party. At present the administration seems to be riding high, and the influence of President Roosevelt with his party leaders and Congress seems to be more potent than ever before. But there are certain clouds on the horizon which might develop cracks in the united front. Whether they will develop into anything serious or not remains to be seen. What seems to be imminent is not the organization of a brand new young man's militant liberal Republican party but the rise of one or more parties that are more liberal than either of the two major organizations are at this time.

For example: Progressive party members in Congress have put a movement on foot for a national progressive organization. There has been named a full slate of progressive candidates for organization in the House, all from Wisconsin, and Representative Withrow, chairman of the progressive conference has been quoted as explaining:

"This action will serve to establish the identity of the progressive party, and at the same time form an organization under which liberal members of both House and Senate may join in action toward liberal legislation."

This is only one sign of the times. There is the growing Farmer-Labor party in Minnesota, the Sinclair and various other liberal movements coming out of California, and last but not least the Huey Long movement in Louisiana. That Mr. Long intends to remain active as a leader in the coming campaign must be evident to any who have listened to his "share the wealth" speeches over the radio. Mr. Long handles his own rumored candidacy for the Presidency by stating that the way to avoid his elevation to the executive chair, assuming that the statesmen desire to avoid it, is to enact into law the proposals which Mr. Long is now advocating. If this is not done, it is broadly intimated in Long quarters that there may be something doing in 1936. No real political leaders, of course, now expect Mr. Long to capture the Democratic or Republican nominations in 1936. But the question is whether this will stop Mr. Long and his followers. His words are appealing to a great class of our people and it must be remembered that there are a lot of folks in America who do not possess $5,000, even if they do have a radio and an automobile.

The reason many majority leaders are said to be interested in these things is that any independent liberal movement, even one among Republicans, will take votes away, not from the Republicans, but from the majority party. The New Dealers got most of the liberal votes last time. Those who voted the Republican ticket against all temptations were the kind who stay put and who are not apt to be led off by an independent movement. The winners, though more numerous, present no such cohesive front. No man can predict what will happen politically in the next two years. But the conditions are all set for complications. That is why the leaders are so anxiously scanning the horizon just now and are looking in a different direction than was the case a few months ago.

THE POOR YOUNG PROFESSORS

Are they disillusioned, the 1,000 or so forward-looking young lawyers and economists who, dashing to Washington in the first flush of the New Deal, came to be known as the Junior Brain Trust (sometimes caled the Children's Crusade)? Will they surrender their high duty of making America over, or will they submit to the humdrum regimentation of the Civil Service and wear alpaca coats?

These questions are pondered by George Andrews in the New Outlook for December. Mr. Andrews believes that enough has happened to convince the Junior Brain Trusters that a certain lush Golden Age of the New Deal has gone, perhaps never to return. If these young men are trickling back to their schools and colleges, their under-professorships and their authoritative fireside dissertations, it is not without cause.

These are the valiant souls who staffed 50 per cent of the AAA and much of the NRA, PWA, and FERA. Indeed, almost all the alphabetical key places were catpured by the invading postgraduates before Congress had a chance to parcel out the jobs among the faithful who for so many years had eyed wistfully the Promised Land. Not Reds were they, but hard-working, earnest devotees of charts and graphs who yearned eagerly to plan everything for everybody.

But what have they seen? They have beheld the NRA tossed as wreckage upon the economic sea, its codes twisted and warped. They have seen idyllic Section 7 (a), hope of industrial Elysium, sadly discredited. They have seen the Consumers' Advisory Board dwindle and fade; their gallant hero, Rex Tugwell, become just another administration advisor, and their patron saint, Felix Frankfurter, no more than a name suggestive of gustatory gratification. They have seen, at close range, the operations of Farleyism, which is the exact opposite of the ideas of the Young Brain Trust.

If there is bitterness in the hearts of the fledging planners it is because they expected too much of the New Deal, or was the New Deal at fault in holding out too great hope of a re-made America. It is well to consider the causes of the Young Professors' disillusionment, for there is just a possibility that a time may come when the nation which the Brain Trust planned to remake will have to weigh carefully the exact accomplishments of the New Deal.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

FACTS ABOUT LEAGUE, COURT

An American statesman who has long favored American adherence to the World Court is quoted by one newspaper as stating that the effort to get the United States into the world tribunal is to complete cooperation of the effort to substitute right and justice for force and terror, and to substitute law for anarchy in international affairs.

All of which is beautiful if true but its reasoning is about as full of holes as an overworked pincushion.

It has never yet been demonstrated that the League has been a cooperative organ to substitute right and justice for force and terror. The League is not an organization of high minded philanthropists seeking to bring justice into the world, neither are the delegates to the League Court unbiased jurists seeking fairly to enforce international law. Every novice in the study of world politics knows better than that. The League is a meeting place of politicians. It is dominated by France and its allies, as is the World Court. No decision gets through which is not approved by France. Many judges and delegates are politicians of the great powers. They are not inspired by any idea of world justice. They seek merely as representatives of their own governments to further the policies of their own nations, policies which were handed down centuries ago and have nothing to do with justice. They are based on national self interests, not on an internationalist desire to do some slumming.

Again, there has been no evidence to indicate that the League and its Court have substituted law or anarchy in international affairs.

In the first place there is no international affairs.

In the first place there is no international law by which the League Court is governed. That has been repeatedly pointed out by distinguished internationalist lawyers as one of the Court's weaknesses. The only law which the powers recognize is that based on self interest and nationalist desires. That policy or decision which suits the purposes of one power is regarded by that power as right, just and legal.

There has been no substitution for anarchy. As a matter of fact there has been more international anarchy in the world during recent months than ever before in peace times. You can find it in China, in the Balkans and all over the world, except in the United States, which is fortunately isolated by two great oceans from the rest of the world.

A great many Americans who believe in our membership in the League and its Court have the foolish idea that European politicians at Geneva are well meaning, unbiased statesmen who are anxious and willing to do the right thing but won't know how to do it until Uncle Sam comes there in the shape of Santa Claus or Pollyana. Nothing could be further than the truth. If Uncle Sam enters this organization of politicians his children will live to rue the day many times. For he will be surrounded by men who know exactly what they want.

Entrance of the United States into the World Court means first: that our men and resources can be utilized to settle the quarrels of Europe and Asia, quarrels in which we have no real interest; and second, that we have submitted to international control many American policies which we have formerly regarded as our own. Our real internationalists realize this. They have been against most of these Americna policies from the first. That is why those who know what it is about are so anxious to get us into the European maelstrom.

Those who do not know what it is about can be excused on the ground of innocence and maudlin sentimentality.

Usually the fellow who tells you something for your own good is really doing it to please his own vanity.

Most folks are not so particular about the money standard as they are about getting some money of any old standard.

It is a good thing a lot of women don't have sense of humor or they wouldn't have picked the husbands they did.

The old fashioned woman who used to get a kick out of a gmse of drop the handkerchief now has a daughter who is captain of the girls' boxing team.

WHY WORRY?

The New Deslers seem to have it figured out like this: The next generation will pay for the relief of this generation and since birth control is spreading there won't be any next generation, so why worry.—Fairbury Journal.

TO THE WEST COAST, AND BACK

(Part II)

Leaving Vicksburg, we came to the big Vicksburg bridge, which spans the mighty Mississippi. However, the "old Mississipp" wasn't so mighty, but looked to be very shallow, as we rode across it, high above, on the fine government bridge. We saw a steamboat or two, reminiscent of "the good old days" when most of the shipping for the middle section of this country was done by water. They were puffing and tugging around very busily, and every once in a while one of them would give forth that low, haunting moan from its whistle, so characteristic of the Mississippi, and its many stories of the "Steamboat Bill" type. We noted the high banks on each side of the river, built there to keep "ole man river" in his place. A few years ago the Mississippi went on a grand rampage and spree, killing hundreds of people, and causing all kinds of damage, and the government has built these big banks there to keep down a recurrence of this calamity.

The bridge, itself, is of steel and concrete, but is not finished yet. It carries a double line drive for automobiles, as well as a railroad. The unfinished part is on the west end. I was told that when this structure is finished, it will have cost about eight million dollars. I paid $1.70 to cross it.

On into Louisiana, or "Lousy Anner", the land of "Kingfish" Huey Long. People can say what they may about Huey Long but there is one thing we must hand him the prize for—he certainly built roads in Louisiana. From the time we rolled off the end of Vicksburg bridge until we crossed the line into Texas we had nothing but a cement road to drive on. All in all, Louisiana has the best section of "The Broadway of America", or Road 80, that we found between Clanton and the Santa Monica Beach, on the edge of the Pacific. And this road is especially smooth and straight, and the paving is of the best. Although the road is lined on both sides with boggy, snaky looking lagoons, with palmettos in abundance, and moss covered trees on every hand, which would give one the impression that Louisiana is one big hog-wallow, yet you can put your foot on the floor, with your accelerator under it, and feel free that you will not feel so much as one little teeny-weeny bump. I can't say too much for Louisiana's roads, so far as Road 80 is concerned. However, I don't think I would like to branch off out into that mud on either side, if it is just one-tenth as slippery and sticky as it looks to be.

The first sign I saw in Louisiana read as follows: "Kum Inn—Every brand of beer, wine or whiskey to be had is here". And that just about tells the story all across the state. It seems that every other store, no matter what kind, carries an open bar along with it. Even small wayside filling stations far out in the country, away from all towns, have their small bars, where you may buy a nip. In other words, Louisiana is "wide open". The only restriction of any kind on the sale or consumption of liquor is that the bars are not allowed to open on Sunday. At all other times, he who has the price can step high, wide and handsome.

Shortly after dark we reached Shreveport, and found a nice tourist camp, putting up there for the first night. In fact, we stayed in a little town called Bossier, but it really is a part of Shreveport. The Red River cuts this town open. That part of it on the east side of the river is called Bossier, while Shreveport is on the west side. It was here we came to know the handiness of natural gas for the first point on this trip. This closed the first day's travel—484 miles. After a light meal we talked ourselves off to slumberland, as we reviewed the day's drive with its strange sights, and wondering just what the morrow would bring.

Monday morning we were up early, crossing the river on the beautiful Long-Allen bridge, so named for Huey Long and Gov. O. K. Allen. I had taken the precaution to fill my tank with gas before turning in the night before. And, by the way, I might note that during the preceding day I had bought gas at Monroe, La., for 17½ cents, and at Shreveport for 16½ cents.

Leaving Shreveport, we noticed a large cemetery, and the strange part of it was that it seemed to be right in the heart of the business section of the city. There is nothing much of note from there to the Texas line, some 22 miles from Shreveport. We were to "go some" before crossing the line of Texas on the west side.

The first town of note that we came to in Texas was Longview. In the summer of 1930, when I was through Longview, it was nothing more than a wide place in the road, but now it is one of the busiest oil towns in all Texas. For miles and miles west of Longview, the tourist sees a sea of oil wells. In fact, the highway is lined from Longview to Gladewater, with small huts in which people make their homes, or which serve as temporary office buildings for the number of companies doing work there or holding oil concessions there.

Along here we noted several pipes running straight up out of the ground for several feet, and these were topped off by big flaming torches. We asked about them and were told that they were pipes leading from the oil levels; that natural gas forms over the raw petroleum in the ground, and that the operators pipe this away, lest it explode and ruin the well. And, rather than loose all this gas in the air, it is lighted, and burns itself out harmlessly. Millions of feet of this gas is so wasted, and I couldn't help thinking how we people around Clanton would like to have some of that gas around here with which to cook, and heat our homes.

On through Mineola, out onto the smooth plains of Texas we sped, stopping here and there to make a picture or two. On to Dallas and the edge of the cattle country. From Dallas to Fort Worth there is a 4-lane driveway for the full 34 miles. If a fellow wants to speed, that is the place for him to go to, for here the officers want everyone to keep going at top speed. If you want to mosey along at a speed of about 40 to 50 miles per hour, you are supposed to stay over next to the railing at the edge of the road; but if you are ready to travel then you may pull over in the second line and you will not be molested, whatever your speed, unless somebody honks at you; here the sky is the limit.

At Fort Worth there is a sign which reads: "Welcome to Forth Worth—Where the West Begins". From there on the growth is more and more sparse, until it just about plays out not far west of this point. Only scrubby bushes and grass cover the ground for miles and miles.

Between Fort Worth and Mineral Wells we saw some of the prettiest grazing lands imaginable, with big flocks of "white faces" cropping away at the grass. This is really a cattle country. I had promised to show our "first-trippers" treeless plains near Edgewood, but I suppose my memory must have played a trick on me, for we traveled for many miles before my treeless plains prediction came true. The region around Terrell, Texas, looked best for farming. The land here is really black—not like our black land, but such black as might result if one should mix soot with water.

Mineral Wells, the home of "Crazy Water", finally came into view. My passengers were very much interested in seeing what this town looked like. Minerals Wells boasts one of the prettiest hotels in the west—the Baker. A short distance beyond Mineral Wells we began to strike the real desert country, with its cactus, mesquite, cat-claw, and other desert growth, together with great curious looking rock formations. This is a beautiful country to travel through, bue we kept the old V-8 hustling in order to get to some other kind of country in which to spend the night.

About 20 miles west of Mineral Wells, Road 80 makes a division. That part of it which goes by Cisco is marked "80-S" and the other prong of it, which goes through Breckenridge and Albany is marked "80-N". We took the "80-N" or northern route, stopping at Breckenridge for the night. After getting the ladies placed in a nice tourist camp, Mr. Duffy went with me to have my oil changed and car greased. Right here I want to tell on Mr. Duffy, too. He is the greatest moving picture fan I know of. Nothing would do him but that we must go to a show, while the work was being done to our car. It was in this town, too, that we began to notice that nearly every man wore a white or gray hat. Mr. Duffy took a count, and found that nine out of every ten men wore hats of this kind. We asked a few people why this was true, and I think the answer one girl gave us was the best. She said she supposed everybody wore them because everybody else did. That finishes the second day, with a mileage of 333.

Santa Claus came to baby Bettye in Breckenridge, and she awoke Tuesday morning to find her stockings bulging with toys. On Monday before she had seen old Santa trying to get into the top of a chimney near Longview, and she couldn't figure out how he got into our cabin, which had no chimney. She finally decided he must have come through a window.

Leaving Breckenridge we ran into a dense fog near Abilene, which slowed us quite a bit, and it was well past sun-up when we reached that city. Abilene is a beautiful place, with wide, clean streets. As we stopped for breakfast, we noticed a veritable cloud of sparrows, which settled in the trees near by.

Leaving Abilene we noticed several rabbits dead on the road, and a curious thing was that we always saw them in pairs. No live rabbits, nor animals of any other kind were to be seen. We saw several dead skunks, and one desert wolf. Although the weather was quite warm, yet we saw no snakes.

This was Christmas day, and everyone seemed to be taking the holiday. We had quite a bit of trouble getting gasoline and eats. There was very little traffic, and we saw no signs of drunken drivers. This was a surprise to us, as lots of store windows were displaying liquor and wine. However, the laws in Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California are different from those in Louisiana. Whereas, in Louisiana one can buy his beer, wine or liquor and drink it right out on the side-walk, yet in these other states, the seal must not be broken. You can buy your strong drink in any quantity you wish, but you must not break the seal until you are at home with it.

In central Texas we found several new sections of fine road, with one or two short detours, where road construction was going on. However, none of these were bad. Several big oil refineries were to be seen, with their big flocks of storage tanks. Mr. Duffy called them "tank orchards".

Space will not permit more of the story this week, so we will take up here, in next week's issue.—Man in the Moon.

WHAT WAR VETS THINK

One class of citizens in the United States not fooled by the blandishments of those who would commit us to international political tribunals are the veterans of our foreign wars. These sturdy soldiers have been "across" and they know what it all means. Consequently they are in favor of Uncle Sam's remaining at home to mind his own business and to reinforce that by building up his defensive armaments.

Consequently it is not surprising to note that the other evening, in the nation's capital, the World War veterans denounced proposals for American entry into the League Court and called on Uncle Sam to keep out of foreign entanglements. National Commander Jas. E. Van Zandt, of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, said, in a written statement:

"Adherence to the so-called World Court is merely a subterfuge for entrance to the League of Nations through the back door, and is so intended by those un-American propagandists who attempt to force the issue through deliberate hired misrepresentations to the public at large."

Continuing, Commander Van Zandt said:

"To commit the United States to adherence to the World Court is to cast aside the constitutional policies under which has been builded a just and powerful and prosperous nation in the short span of 150 years."

There is no reason to believe that our entrance into the World Court will avoid a world war. It is much more apt to involve us in a war if one comes about. We have no interest in European political questions involving European minorities. We have enough troubles at home and it will be well if we keep our statesmen busy here and center our attention on looking after Americans first. That has been our policy during most of our national existence from the time of Washington and Jefferson down to the present. Under it we have generally prospered. A great many of our troubles, especially those of recent years, have been due to our taking too much interest in the affairs of Europe.

The trouble with a lot of fellows is that the things they learn by experience are the things they ought not know.

"VICTORY" FOR LEAGUE

One of the comments frequently heard on the part of the internationalist press is that the Saar election was a "victory for the League of Nations." Just how this conclusion is arrived at is a little obscure. It is true that the League succeeded in conducting an election which was free from charges of irregularity, although it was in great part turned over to neutrals because the League was an interested party in the case. That there was no dispute in the result of the ballot is little to wonder at due to the fact that about nine out of every ten Saarlanders who cast a ballot voted in favor of Germany. It is only close elections which cause trouble.

The result in the Saar could hardly be called a victory for the conduct of the territory by the League during the past fifteen years. During that period of time the League has regulated and governed the Saar and the voters were to decide whether their country was to go back to Germany, become annexed to France or continue under the League. France, realizing the fight was hopeless, withdrew as a claimant and exerted its energies to help the League. And yet ninety per cent of the votes were cast against the League. Not strange, perhaps, in view of the German patriotism of the Saarlanders, but certainly not convincing as a victory for the League.

It is to the League's credit, of course, that a fair and peaceful election was held although the League itself had comparatively little to do with the voting. But the result was certainly not a "victory for the League" in any tangible form.

Railroads Make Safety Records

"Great strides have been made in making railroad operation safe both for employes and patrons during the last few years, and the worst records now are better than the best ten years ago," said James B. Hill, president of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, in a radio address before several thousand railroad employes at Nashville, Tenn., Friday evening. "In the period of the past eight years personal injuries to employes have been reduced on the Louisville & Nashville Railroad from 2,715 in 1927 to about 293 in 1934," he pointed out.

Mr. Hill's address was included in the program of a huge safety first rally broadcast from Station WSM and to which thousands of employes of the L. & N. and N. C. & St. L. railroads listened by means of radio receivers installed in meeting places in hundreds of cities and towns on both lines. President Fitzgerald Hall of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railroad represented his road on the program.

Railroad employes of Clanton, Ala., met at the courthouse and held a local safety meeting preceding the broadcast. Addresses were made by Mayor C. Fenn Jones and L. E. Diefenderfer, D. Hogan acted as chairman for the occasion.

In appealing to railroad employes to take greater care of themselves and their associates, Mr. Hill said: "Safety practices is a result of a condition of mind. As a man thinketh, so is he. Primitive men did not have to be told to flee from the lion in the jungle. The lesson of that danger was well learned out of a destructive experience. No one need tell you that the wheel of a rtain will crush you mercilessly if it catches you unawares. Such dangers are apparent and of them you need only such reminders as to insure against thoughtlessness or chance-taking. There are other dangers not so apparent, which become evident only after a bad accident or are made known through constant foresight and vigil.

Safety work, therefore, seems to divide itself into two groups of activity. The first is to determine all of the hazards of railroad operation, apparent and hidden, whether in the physical lay-out or the rules and conditions under which men work, and to correct them where possible; and second, to remind men of those hazards and inspire them to be careful. This is a large task which must be intelligently pursued and presented to the eyes, ears and reason of men."

Mr. Hill said that he wanted to make his listeners feel that there is actually something intensely real in safety work and wanted to arouse interest in the workers to cause them to study the methods which are already successfully pursued by others. "Few men are now injured," he said, "freight moves much faster without damage and the passenger train is far the safest of all passenger travel."

"A passenger in his proper place on a passenger train," he pointed out, "is freer from danger of accident than he is in his own home." He added that "during the last 17 years the Louisville & Nashville Railroad has carried more than 168 million passengers on its trains without the death of a single one as a result of a train accident."

Last year the employes of the N. C. & St. L. challenged the L. & N. employes to a contest to determine which road could reduce the number of accidents by the greater percentage. The N. C. & St. L. won the contest and Mr. Hill concluded his address by saying "The Louisville & Nashville employes now challenge the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway employes to renew the friendly contest and rivalry in safety first work for the year 1935."

President Hall of the N. C. & St. L., who followed Mr. Hill at the microphone, congratulated his fellow workers on their excellent safety work in 1934, during which his road suffered only 34 employe accidents and ranked "a very close" second among all the railroads of its class. "In 1935," he said, "we expect to be first. Nothing less can ever satisfy those of us who make up the Dixie Line."

President Hall spoke pridefully of the record set by the 254-mile P. & M. Division of his road which passed through the entire year of 1934 with but one reportable accident to an employe.

In accepting President Hill's challenge, President Hall said that he is not so much interested in which road wins the contest "as I am that every railroad employe has a genuine pride in the operation of his company, in part at least, to show the great American public that in spite of unfair critics railroading is the safest and finest treatment in both regulation and taxation than it is now being accorded."

MOLTON HOTEL

FIFTH AVENUE AND TWENTIETH STREET

THERE'S a pleasant, friendly atmosphere about the Hotel Molton—a delightful informality and unobtrusively efficient service that appeals to discriminating guests. While Molton service is punctilious, it is entirely lacking in that stiff formality one often finds in larger metropolitan hotels. That's why the guests who stop here once, feel like they're coming home when they return to see us.

IRISH POTATOES

The Alabama Experiment Station recommends planting certified seed and using 1,500 pounds high grade fertilizer per acre for best results.

A recent summary of 11,000 tests of certified and uncertified seed showed that the certified seed produced an average of 46 bushels per acre more potatoes than uncertified seed.

Why sacrifice this 46 bushels per acre trying to save less than $5.00 per acre by planting uncertified seed?

Planting the best seed and using the right kind of fertilizer makes each acre do its best.

I will have a car of certified Bliss Triumph seed before February fifteenth and will appreciate your order. I also carry stock of Armour's high grade potato and truck fertilizer; also best wilt resistant cotton seed.

Lesson for February 3

PETER'S RESTORATION

LESSON TEXT—Mark 16:17; Luke 24:34; John 20:1-10; John 21:11-19.

GOLDEN TEXT—He saith unto him the third time, Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me? Peter was grieved because he said unto him the third time, Lovest thou me? And he said unto him, Lord, thou knowest all things; thou knowest that I love thee. Jesus saith unto him, Feed my sheep. John 21:17.

PRIMARY TOPIC—When Jesus Helped Peter Try Again.

JUNIOR TOPIC—What Peter Learned When He Failed.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Prove Our Love for Christ.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Test of Loyalty.

As there were seven definite steps in Peter's downfall, so there are seven definite steps in his restoration. These steps in both his downfall and his restoration were most strikingly presented by G. Campbell Morgan at the Bible conference in Northfield in 1898.

I. Christ's Prayer for Peter (Luke 22:31, 32).

Little did Peter realize the testings through which he would be forced to pass. Christ revealed to him that Satan desired to have him to sift as wheat and informed him that he had already prayed for his abiding faith. We see thus that before Peter fell the Lord began the preparation for his reclamation. The Lord knew that soon he would have to announce to him that before the cock crew he would deny him thrice.

II. The Look of Jesus (Luke 22:61, 62).

This look was not one of contempt, but one, doubtless, filled with pity and pain. It revealed the heart of God. It brought to Peter the full consciousness of his cowardice and disloyalty and his blasphemous words of denial, while at the same time displaying Christ's love and pity.

III. Christ's Message Through the Women (Mark 16:7).

The Lord's message was "Go tell my disciples and Peter." Had the message merely been, "Go tell my disciples," Peter would have believed himself not included. The message indicated that Christ had particular consideration for him and loved him still. What new hope filled Peter's heart as he heard this message from the risen Lord is seen in his words: "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which, according to his abundant mercy, hath begotten us again unto a lively hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead" (1 Pet. 1-3).

IV. A Personal Interview With the Risen Lord (Luke 24:34).

The declaration is here made that the risen Lord had appeared to Simon. The nature of the conversation is hidden in mystery. It may be that the Lord reminded him of his boasting self-confidence, his warming himself at the enemies' fire and his blasphemy, but only to assure him of his unchanging love and that the Cross which he shunned was the very means of covering up his grievous sins (Luke 24:34; cf. John 20:1-10).

Peter's Open Confession of Love (John 21:11-17).

The disciples had gone back to their fishing. As they returned weary and hungry Christ invited them to breakfast. In connection with this ministry of providing food and warmth, Jesus, by skillful questions, induced Peter to confess him three times. A vital step in Peter's restoration was his professing anew his love for his Lord. What marvelous grace, that the one who had across the fire of the enemy denied his Lord should now across the fire prepared by the Lord thrice confess his love for his Lord.

VI. His Word Given Back (John 21:17, 18).

Instead of putting poor Peter on probation before giving him anything to do, he immediately brought him back into fellowship with his Lord in service. It was because Peter passed satisfactorily the examination and the Lord saw his real love for him that he permitted Peter to begin his work.

VII. Willingness to Suffer for Christ (John 21:18, 19).

While Peter had now openly confessed Christ and had received at the Lord's hands his work, he needed to be made willing to drink the bitter cup of suffering for his Lord. Jesus made it clear to him that he was to follow his Lord in crucifixion. He was now willing to suffer the shame of the cross for the glory of God. Peter, with the other disciples, later counted it joy that they were counted worthy to suffer (Acts 5:41). It was the Cross of Christ over which Peter blundered. After his restoration his greatest happiness was to suffer for Christ's sake.

The Story of the Bible Told in Pictures

Jesus Walks on the Water.—Following the feeding of the five thousand, Jesus prepared to depart across the sea of Galilee. "And straightway Jesus constrained His disciples to get into a ship, and to go before Him unto the other side, while He sent the multitudes away. He went up into a mountain apart to pray: and when the evening was come, He was there alone. But the ship was now in the midst of the sea, tossed with waves: for the wind was contrary. And in the fourth watch of the night, Jesus went unto them, walking on the sea. And when the disciples saw Him walking on the sea, they were troubled, saying, It is a spirit; and they cried out for fear. But straightway Jesus spake unto them, saying, Be of good cheer; it is I; be not afraid."—Matt. 14: 22-23. This illustration is from Merian's story of the Bible in pictures, engraved in 1625-1630.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH
Dr. A. E. Middlebrooks, Minister

Next Sunday is the first Sunday in the second month of the new year. Some of our people have come to church during January who have not been coming. If you have not begun, start in next Sunday and have a perfect attendance record during February.

We are featuring "Highway Month." On the highway of life we have all kind of experiences and meet all types of folks. Along the way we find those who have wrecked themselves and those who have been wrecked by others. In February, Alabama will vote on whether or not we shall permit to return one of the greatest robbers, enemies and wreckers on life's highway.

Sunday at 11:00 the Sacrament of the Lord's supper will be observed. The pastor will speak for eight minutes on the theme—"A Wreck on the Highway." The theme for 7:00 is "A Toboggan Slide Off the Highway." Be at church school at 9:45 and at and at 11. Join your family and friends in the church auditorium for an hour of worship, communion and fellowship. Epworth League at 6:15.

Be found in church Sunday.

POPLAR SPRINGS

Last Saturday and Sunday were our regular preaching days at this place. Services were well attended both days.

We had a real good lesson in Sunday school last Sunday. We also have a good lesson for next Sunday. Everybody should go to Sunday school for it is time well spent.

On Sunday at 2:00 p.m. the singing society met in regular session. There was a very good congregation with a fair class and we had some good singing. Mr. W. M. Devaughn had a good supply of the new books, which added interest to the singing. The singing was presided over by Mr. Dock Harris who sang the opening and closing songs. Those directing were: W. M. Devaughn, Jesse Jones, Herbert Lowery, L. T. Grant, Lathan Wilson, Raymond Gilliland, and Lee J. Grant. Special songs were arranged by W. M. Devaughn and L. T. Grant. Jesse Jones and W. M. Devaughn sang a duet which was enjoyed very much. Everybody has an invitation to come to our singing every fourth Sunday afternoon. You are always welcome and we appreciate your help.—Secretary.

OVER A HUNDRED NEW VOTERS REGISTERED IN FIVE DAYS

Completing a five-day session at the courthouse Tuesday night the Chilton County Board of Registrars reported enlistment of 124 new voters in the county during the brief period. This number, it was stated, was far in excess of what was expected.

On the last day of the session Tuesday people were still coming in surprisingly large numbers, indicating that there are yet a great many people of the county who are eligible to register and become legal voters.

Interest in registering, payment of poll tax and voting is intensified at this time on account of several important questions that will come before the electorate of the state this year. Principal among these issues is that of a referendum upon Alabama's prohibition laws.

This will be passed upon by the people on February 26th.

BLIND MADE SALE

The sale of "blind-made goods" to be conducted by the Study Club at Taylor Dry Goods Store on Thursday will be on display from 9 a.m. to 4:30. Members are urged to make this sale a complete success. As stated last week, it enables at least twenty blind women to become self-sustaining. Surely it is not a small thing to foster such an ambition and prove an inspiration to the "dull vacant eyes that crave for light."

The slogan chosen by the state federation is: "Every club woman in Alabama own an article made by a blind worker."

Outlook For Schools

state were being paid at starvation levels. Many people seemed to think that educational appropriations would continue to be paid in spite of the fact that there were not sufficient funds in the treasury of the state to make this possible.

"Today the people of Alabama well understand the seriousness of the problem faced by the schools. They know that normal terms were impossible in most sections of the state during 1932-33, simply because the necessary funds were not available. They know further that normal terms were possible last year only because approximately $2,00,000 in federal relief funds were made available for salaries of teachers, and that normal terms will be impossible again this year unless financial relief of some type is provided."

The biggest problem being faced just now, according to Superintendent Keller, is getting through this year. "If we can just see our way through the present year without letting the schools close, we have the pledge of the governor and the legislature, that normal terms will be provided, beginning next year." Superintendent Keller admitted that the way through this year is not yet fully clear. Some of the schools closed early in December and others would have closed shortly thereafter, but for the promise of Hon. Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, that sufficient relief funds would be made available to keep the schools in session to last through the month of January.

However, the federal regulations are so stringent this year that many school administration and teachers have become somewhat discouraged over the prospects. Salaries of the teachers are not only limited to $60 per month, but only teachers who have no other substantial source of income are eligible. Moreover, the Boards of Education are expected to borrow what amounts to one-third of next year's revenues. Many superintendents have frankly raised the question as to whether observing these regulations would not put the schools in their counties in such a predicament that normal terms even next year would be impossible. Borrowing against the revenue of some future year to meet the operating expenses of the present year has always been considered an undesirable financial policy.

"Despite these difficulties," stated Superintendent Keller, "we hope to work out a plan that will keep the schools operating this year for a full normal term. It is our hope that the present rigid interpretation of the federal authorities regarding borrowing will not be strictly applied, thereby jeopardizing normal terms again next year. We are working hard on these problems and hope soon to see our way through the present haze to the realization of the pledge made by the governor and legislature for another year.

"One of the bright spots in the present complex is the splendid and wholehearted cooperation provided by Hon. Thad Holt, director of the Alabama Emergency Relief Administration. Mr. Holt from the very beginning has shown a keen interest in and appreciation of the difficulties faced by the schools. Without his splendid cooperation we could have very little hope for finding a satisfactory solution to the problems of the immediate future.

"The situation faced by the schools in Alabama is very little different from the situation which has existed in other states. Many of these states have now solved their problems and Alabama can similarly solve its problem. Mississippi passed special legislation about two years ago which has already put its schools well on the road to recovery. West Virginia has recently provided nine-months terms for all children, rural and city alike. Virginia and North Carolina have set up a minimum eight-months term. Alabama may not be able to go as far as eight months at present, but the least we can do is provide a seven months term.

"Since 1929-30, the revenues for the elementary and high schools in Alabama have decreased more than $5,000,000. During that time the school load has increased nearly ten per cent. To restore 1929-30 appropriations and allow for the increase in school load would take $6,500,000 for the elementary and high schools alone. However, salaries and expenses have been reduced so drastically that normal terms for all schools could be provided if only approximately $3,500,000 of the lost revenues could be restored. Not only have appropriations to the colleges been cut 30 per cent, but actual payments have been reduced another 40 per cent. The colleges could probably get along very well with the 30 per cent cut from 1929-30 appropriations, if only present appropriations could be paid in full."

Supernitendent Keller believes firmly in building from the bottom up. He does not believe in destroying what has already betn established at the top, but, rather, in strengthening the foundations while preserving the rest of the structure. "Elementary schools in Alabama have long been seriously neglected. We must have better and stronger elementary schools, but we cannot stop with elementary schools, or even with high schools. It will be my policy to do everything possible to strengthen the elementary and high schools, yet preserve the splendid work now being done in colleges."

"I want to cooperate in every way possible with every agency by making available all facts regarding the schools of the state. When people know the facts they can solve the problems. There can be some economies in education through reorganization, but the way toward the solution will not come from wild schemes not based on facts. For example, abolition of all state support for higher education would not make available sufficient funds to operate the public elementary and high schools, contrary to the theories advanced by some. In fact, funds used for the support of all higher education in the state would not only be sufficient to operate the elementary and high schools about two weeks."

Superintendent Keller proposes to set the example of economy and efficiency for the public elementary and high schools and colleges by taking certain desirable steps toward reorganizing the state department of education. "I believe firmly in a strong state department of education and in the value of the leadership provided by the department of education," says Superintendent Keller. "However, I believe the department can be made even more efficient, can exert even better leadership, and that perhaps some economies will be possible if the organization is changed so there will be fewer divisions instead of more. In due time I shall announce my plans for reorganization of the department."

BIG INDIAN POTATO

Prof. G. G. Williams of the County High School left with The Union-Banner last Friday afternoon the largest thing in the way of a potato that we have ever seen. It was an Indian potato and weighed twenty-nine and 3-4 pounds. It is 38 inches long, or would be if it were straightened out, and is 25¼ inches around at the largest place.

The potato was dug on the farm of Mr. Trull Smith, near Evergreen church in Autauga County. It grew in the hard clay and was about one foot from the top of the ground.

The Indian potato, sometimes called the hog potato, grows wild, the vines resembling sweet potato vines very much. As yet no use has been found to put them to. Prof. Williams is going to experiment with this one and see if cow feed cannot be made from it.

The potato will be at the Banner office for a week or so, for all who wish to come and look at it.

CHEVROLET IS IN THE LEAD FOR '34

Ford Runs Second In Figures On All Sales for Last Year

Final returns tabulating automobile registrations in the United States for the year 1934, showed that Chevrolet was leader in passenger cars as well as commercial cars. Chevrolet nosed out Ford on the home stretch by 33,634 cars, having a margin of 4,378 in car sales and 29,256 lead in the truck field. These figures are quoted from Automotive Daily News of February 2.

In January of last year in the passenger car field Ford got away to a lead of 18,605 units. In February Ford increased this lead to 32,584. In March Chevrolet was in the top hole for the month, but Ford was still in the lead by 17,968 units.

In April again Chevrolet forged into the lead, and the month ended with the Ford margin cut down to 16,460. Hard pressed to hold their dwindling lead, Ford dealers in May came back with a rush that increased their lead over Chevrolet to 36,669. Then the battle was on in earnest with both companies running neck and neck in June. Chevrolet got a small edge for the month of only 192 units.

In July the tide shifted to Chevrolet. August also found Chevrolet leading for the month. This found the two companies going into the last quarter of the year with Ford leading by a margin 21,218 units.

During the last quarter Chevrolet held the lead in each month with the exception of October when Ford broke into the lead by a margin of 565 units. At the end of October the Ford lead again stood at 20,809.

In November Chevrolet made sharp inroads in the Ford leads, and cut the difference down to a mere 7,297. During December Chevrolet completely wiped out the Ford lead, and copped the lead for the entire year in the passenger car field by a margin of 4,378 units.

In combined passenger car and truck sales Chevrolet piled up a total of 692,440, against Ford's 658,806, giving a margin in favor of Chevrolet of 33,634 cars and trucks.

This was a magnificent race between America's two outstanding automobile manufacturers, with the two organizations showing an admirable amount of grit and tenacity when the tide swung with them or away from them. It is this kind of fighting that has made the automobile industry great. We look forward to an equally clean and exciting battle in 1935.

THE FAIR STORE BANKRUPT

Burial Insurance Law Held Invalid

Judge McElroy Renders Decision on Question Monday of This Week

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 5. — The question of whether burial insurance firms are subject to the general insurance laws of the state or to other acts relating to this form of insurance, will be decided Friday by Judge Russell McElroy, of the Jefferson Circuit Court.

Judge McElroy Monday held that the 1935 burial insurance act was unconstitutional and invalid and at the same time upheld acts of the 1932 legislature in repealing all burial insurance acts as passed by the 1927 and 1931 legislatures.

The decision was in the case of W. C. Vice, Woodlawn funeral director, to enjoin the Brown Funeral Service Home from exercising privileges granted under the 1935 act.

The ruling, it is understood, is not decisive of the Brown Funeral Service Home's right to do business as it is now being done.

STATE LEGISLATURE IS TERMED 'UNIQUE'

Montgomery, Jan. 29. — Alabama's 1935 legislature was characterized as "unique" today by Jacob Baker, assistant federal relief administrator, on a hurried trip through Southern states.

"There isn't anything like it in the United States," he said, "with the possible exception of Huey Long's Louisiana dictatorship."

Mr. Baker paid his trip to Alabama had no especial connection with the passage of Alabama's "New Deal" laws, and declined to comment on whether the law granting Governor Graves $2,000,000 to match federal funds would guarantee continued federal aid to schools.

"That is a question to be settled by Harry L. Hopkins in Washington," he said.

The remains of Robert Newton Wilkins were laid to rest at Bethsalem last Sunday afternoon, the funeral being conducted at 2 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. W. P. Lowery. Rev. J. W. Jones assisted. Spigener was in charge.

I. S. Lavine New Mgr. At Mazar's

Assumes Management of Popular Dry Goods Store In Clanton

Mr. I. S. Lavine, formerly of Birmingham, assumed management of Mazar's Store in Clanton Monday of this week, succeeding Mr. Lewis, who has managed the establishment since its opening here early last fall.

Mr. Lavine, a young man of ripe experience in the mercantile business, upon assuming his duties here said: "I had the choice of three towns in which to acquire an interest in a mercantile business, and I chose Clanton as the most desirable for the future. In recent years I had made casual observations of Clanton and my impressions of the town and community were good. I am delighted to say that since I cast my lot here and have begun to get acquainted with people, my first impressions of the desirability of the community have been strengthened."

Mazar's is among the largest dry goods stores in this section of Alabama. It is located in the W. M. Wilson building now owned by Renfroe Mullins. Last summer the building was completely remodeled and renovated by the present owner, with a most attractive arrangement of show windows. It is one of the best business locations in Clanton.

This week the new manager is very busy getting the large stock of the store properly classified and assorted. After a few days he expects to be ready to swing into a program of intensive business operations that promise a future of gratifying success in this territory.

Mr. Lavine wants to get acquainted with the people of Clanton and Chilton County. He says, "I have cast my lot in Clanton for the future. I will bring my family here to live. I want to make a success of my business; but I want to be more than a mere merchant interested in making money. I want to be a really useful citizen of the community."

We extend a hearty welcome to Mr. Lavine, and we know that we will be joined by the many other persons who share with us our hopes for a bigger and better town in the future. Business men and citizens with the spirit and ideals of Mr. Lavine are the people we like to see come into our town and community.

Old friends passing on the street in Clanton Tuesday morning were shaking hands with that good old genial man of God, Rev. R. M. Honeycutt of Jemison, who was down here attending to some business matters. In conversation with a representative of The Union-Banner Rev. Honeycutt stated that his birthday was drawing nigh. The thirteenth of February he will be 90 years old. In spite of his age he is enjoying fairly good general health.

Other old people noted in Clanton Tuesday morning were Uncle Wash Wilson of Maple Springs community and Riley Robinson of Providence. It is good to see these old people still able to walk around glibly and indulging in what is their greatest delight—shaking hands an dtalking with their friends.

While here Mr. Conway announced that a fall and complete line of groceries has been added to the stock of the Jemison Hardware Company, and he wants everybody in the Jemison trade territory to know about it, extending an invitation to all of them to come and trade with this old reliable concern.

In its grocery department, Mr. Conway states that this concern is prepared to handle country produce either in large or small quantities. He would be glad for all farmers who have produce to sell or trade to come to see them.

Wade's Grocery Open To Trade

Brand New Equipment Makes Store Here Very Attractive

Wade's new store, the Sanitary Market and Grocery, is now open for business. The location is on Main Street, next to Hill's in the building recently vacated by Ben's.

This is the second store of the Wade chain in Clanton, and will be conducted under the same management as the first store. On the back page of this paper appears a large advertisement this week telling of the special food values that are being offered at the Wade stores.

The Sanitary Market and Grocery is a brand new place from cellar to attic. All new and modern equipment has been installed, including refrigerating apparatus of the most modern type.

The management and personnel of the new store will appreciate a visit by everyone to their new store. And, of course, those who want to keep on trading at the first Wade Store will continue to receive the same efficient courteous service as has marked the policy and made the success of that store for the past year.

RED CROSS MEMBERSHIP WAS 214 IN ROLL CALL

Final tabulation of reports of workers in the Red Cross Roll Call of last November has been made by J. Mell Martin, chairman of the Roll Call Committee for Chilton County. The quota of members assigned to Chilton County by National Headquarters was 500, and it is therefore obvious from the report of Mr. Martin that our county has not attained half of its quota.

Miss Annie Ruth Meadows, of Montgomery, has returned home after a visit with Miss Alene Foshee.

Array Of Notable Talent Will Be Shown At Wadesonian Theatre

Despite the fact that the title role is carried by a sixteen-year-old girl, an all veteran cast brings RKO-Radio's version of the celebrated novel "Anne of Green Gables" to the screen.

Anne Shirley, Tom Brown, O. P. Heggie, Helen Westley, Sara Hayden, Gertrude Messinger, Murray Kinnell and Charley Grapewin comprise the cast. Each has a background of years of acting experience, although youth predominates in this roster.

Miss Shirley, who plays the Anne Shirley of L. M. Montgomery's story, has been acting before the camera since she was three years old. That means thirteen years of screen experience, during which she played important roles in scores of films.

Brown, at twenty-one, has almost that many years of acting experience to his credit. He was carried before stage footlights by his mother when he was six months old, and has been a part of the theatrical business ever since.

Heggie made his acting debut some thirty years ago in Australia. He has been featured and starred on the London and New York stages. Ever since the screen became audible he has been a ranking character favorite in pictures.

A founder-member of the New York Theatre Guild, Miss Westley has played featured parts in more than forty of that organization's productions. She is now one of the Guild's managing directors. Roles in several recent films, among them RKO-Radio's "The Age of Innocence," have spread her fame as a character comedienne to the screen.

Sara Haden's mother was an actress and she followed in her footsteps, her experience including Broadway and London stage success. Recently her work in pictures has won critical and audience acclaim, her work in support of Ann Harding in "The Fountain" winning exceptionally high praise.

Like Anne Shirley, whose "bosom friend" she plays in the film, Gertrude Messinger started acting at the age of three. She has been playing featured roles in pictures ever since.

Murray Kinnell and Charley Grapewin both are character veterans with brilliant stage and screen records.

MRS. J. R. TAYLOR DIED

Mrs. J. R. Taylor, age 62 years, died at the home of her son, L. Roy Taylor, 901 Highland Avenue, Montgomery, last Wednesday morning, Jan. 30, after a long illness.

She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. E. D. Hand, Clanton; Mrs. A. L. Taylor, Coopers; Mrs. W. I. Smith, Athens; and Mrs. W. W. Allen, Coopers; three sons, A. J. and B. L., of Coopers; and L. Roy Taylor, of Montgomery; two sisters, Mrs. F. A. Waters, and Mrs. W. B. Edwards, both of Fayetteville and M. M. Hammond, of Sylacauga.

Funeral services were held at Chestnut Creek church Thursday at 11 o'clock a.m., with Rev. J. W. Jones officiating, assisted by Rev. J. D. Hughes and Rev. Leak, of Montgomery. Spigener Funeral Home was in charge of the burial.

Mrs. Taylor was preceded in death by her husband, Uncle Bob Taylor, only five weeks ago. He died at the same place on December 27, 1934, while attending his wife who was seriously ill at that time. Both had made their home in Coopers for the past twenty-five years.

"Voice of the Sky" Visited Clanton

Talks From Airplane For Popular Gasoline and Motor Oils

The people of Clanton enjoyed a unique and interesting exhibit Monday when the "Voice of the Sky", a big white airplane advertising Woco Pep motor fuel and Tiolene Oil paid us a visit for about an hour.

The "Voice of the Sky" was piloted by Lieutenant C. H. Biggs, who holds the rank of First Lieutenant in the Army Air Corps Reserve. He has flown commercial planes for several years.

William Brown, Jr., was in charge of electrical and radio apparatus of the machine, and made the announcements from the air as the big white plane circled over the city several times.

When they had finished their maneuvers the announcer stated that the plane would land at the airport to gas up and take off on the journey to another city. Through the powerful loud speaker from high up in the air he placed an order with the Woco Service Station to meet the plane at the airport with forty gallons of Woco Pep.

Quite a number of spectators were on the airport field to witness the landing and get a close up of the "Voice of the Sky." This was one of the most interesting events ever brought here, and was hailed by everybody as the first talking airplane on our record.

ISSUES WARNING TO TAXPAYERS

Collector Will Not Be Able To Extend Time as Much as Heretofore

Tax Collector Will Culp this week issued a warning to the taxpayers of Chilton County that they can not expect to have as much extension of time in the payment of taxes this year as they have had in recent years.

Explaining the situation further, Mr. Culp said: "The law under which extension of time for payment of taxes has been made for the past two years has expired. It was a special act of the legislature which was made for only two years duration.

"The collection of taxes now goes back under the regulations of the old law which was in operation before the special law was enacted.

"Under the provisions of the old law, which will apply this year, about April the first will be as long as extension of time can be granted. Therefore, all taxes not paid before that time will have to become subject to the penalties and extra costs provided by law.

"All taxpayers are given this notice in order that they may know of the regulations to be imposed and have an opportunity to take care of their taxes without having the extra costs and penalties of delinquency applied to them.

"I will give every favor I can under the law, but it is not possible for me to make extensions as I have done in the past two years."

Twenty Thousand Dollar Loss Is Partly Covered By Insurance

Fire completely destroyed Collins Chapel Junior High School building early Monday morning. The fire was discovered shortly after 5:30 o'clock and by 6:00 or a little after it was completely in flames and was soon in ashes. Nothing was saved except the seats in the newly constructed auditorium. The auditorium was being used for the first time this year.

The loss was estimated at about $20,000. Insurance was carried by the state covering its interest in the building, amounting to some over $9,000. The county's and community's interests were uninsured.

The future plans for the school have not been announced.

B. K. McMORRIS DIES OF ATTACK OF PENUMONIA

Judge Bolling W. McMorris, 62, a member of one of the oldest families of Wetumpka, died at 12:05 a.m. Wednesday at the home of his brother, S. J. McMorris, after a brief illness of pneumonia. Judge McMorris came to Wetumpka last Tuesday night on business, and was ill when he arrived. Business necessitated his going to Enterprise on Wednesday, which he did against the advice of his physician. His condition grew rapidly worse upon his return, pneumonia setting in. His death was a great shock to hosts of relatives, and friends, who had always liked and admired him for his genial disposition and fine personality. Upon a recent visit to Wetumpka it had been their joy to renew his acquaintance and friendship.

Bolling Kavanaugh was the second son of the late Captain and Mrs. Charles K. McMorris. He was born on March 12, 1872 in Wetumpka, and received his early education here. He won an appointment to Annapolis and graduated from that naval academy in 1894, and ranked second in his class. He received a commission as assistant engineer in the Navy and was sent to London with Asst. Engineer J. M. Hudgins. While in London he took a special course in engineering at the Central Technical Institue and Guilds.

Upon the outbreak of the Spanish American war, Judge McMorris returned to the United States, and served as an officer of the line. He was sent back to England and was one of the three American officers who received the cruiser "Amason," which had been purchased from Brazil. The ship was delivered at Gravesend, England, renamed "New Orleans." He resigned from the navy in 1901, and returned to Elmore County.

Back to his beloved Wetumpka, Judge McMorris took up the practice of law, and identified himself with all things for the growth and uplift of this community. He moved to Birmingham in 1913, and in 1916 he assisted Gen. Robert E. Steiner and Col. Bibb Graves in organizing the First Alabama Cavalry, and served as commander of a unit of that organization throughout the World War. As commander of the first battalion, 117th Field Artilery, he was honorably discharged in 1919.

He again returned to Alabama, and was appointed circuit judge of the 19th Judicial Court, which is this district. He was nominated to succeed himself in 1920.

He moved to St. Louis in 1923, and accepted a position as general counsel for a large insurance company, which position he held at the time of his death. He was married to Miss Florence Robinson, of St. Louis, in 1929.

Judge McMorris was a great believer in and contributor to civic and fraternal organizations. At one time he was grand keeper of records and seals of the Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias. He was also prominent in Masonic, Odd Fellows, and Red Men's organizations.

The funeral was held at 3 p.m. from the residence of S. J. McMorris on Thursday. Rev. W. C. Cowart, pastor of the local Methodist church, was the officiant. McMorris-Harden was in charge.

The pall-bearers were:

George B. Smith, Henry C. Bloxom, E. J. Cain, C. T. Reneau, L. G. Sedberry, H. A. Robison, L. R. Robison, Gordon Robison, Lamar Cantelou, J. M. Holley.

The deceased is survived by his grief-stricken wife, one brother, S. J. McMorris, and a number of nieces and nephews.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Wells and son, "Snooks," of Selma, spent last Friday with relatives and friends in Clanton. Mr. Wells, some years ago associated as publisher of The Union-Banner, is now foreman of the composing room of Selma Times-Journal.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala.—Six oil paintings executed by Kelley Fitzpatrick of Wetumpka have been presented to the University of Alabama through the public works of art administration. The paintings, 30 by 36 inches, portray a cotton cycle and were exhibited in Montgomery before they were brought to the University. They received favorable comment in the state capital. The subjects of the pictures represent planting, chopping, picking, ginning and warehousing. The pictures will be exhibited at Doster Hall at the university.

A. Leo Oberdofer, former president of the Alabama Bar Association, will be the guest speaker at the annual banquet given for pledges of all Greek letter social fraternities, it was announced by James Permutt, Birmingham, president of interfraternity Council. Among the guests at the banquet will be President George H. Denny of the University; Dabney S. Lancaster, dean of men; assitant dean James H. Newman; and R. K. Bell, assistant to the dean of men and supervisor of dormintories. About 300 men are expected for the banquet. Arrangements are in charge of William Hawley, Bessemer, chairman; Robert Sturdavent, Birmingham; and Blaine Brownell, Birmingham.

The Crimson cage quintet is rapidly rounding into the championship form of 1934 under the careful tutelage of Coach Hank Crisp. James Walker, grid captain for 1935, and Jim Whatley, both all-Southeastern players kept off the basketball court by football until New Year's Day, have gotten the feel of the basketball again. The showing of the Tide has improved steadily since they dropped a few games by one point to the strongest teams in the conference early in the season.

The Tide has games scheduled with Tennessee at Knoxville on Saturday, February 9, and with Kentucky at Lexington the following Monday. The game with Kentucky, who is considered one of the outstanding teams in the conference, is expected to be a particularly crucial one.

MR. A. B. DEASON DIED

On last Tuesday, January 22, God sent a death angel to bear away our loving son, Andrew. His death came as a shock although he had been in failing health for some time.

God transplanted his wife to His kingdom seven years prior to his going away, and his little girl several years before.

Besides his father and mother, three brothers and three sisters, he is survived by four sons, Lafayette and A. W. of Eufaula, Ala.; Alvin, of Quantico, Va.; and Woodie, of Asheville, N. C. All of his sons attended his funeral, with a beautiful floral offering.

His body was laid to rest in Sardis cemetery with Martin in charge. We thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness.

The following friends acted as pallbearers: John Minor, Dud Headley, Jim Fisher, Vernon Klinner and Arthur Carter.—His Father and Mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Deason.

Get Out The Vote Is Cry Of Wets

"Get out the vote" will be the cry of the modificationists from now until the polls close on February 26th, it was announced at headquarters of the modificationists in the Exchange Hotel as the dead-line for paying poll taxes ended last Friday night.

From every section of the state come reports indicating that a large majority will be piled up on election day—if the voters go to the polls. The size of the majority for legalizing the sale of alcoholic beverages depends upon the interest taken in the election on February 26, leaders declare.

Observers who have watched political trends for more than a quarter of a century are prone to indulge in a bit of retrospection as they recall the stirring days of the 1909 campaign which ended on November 29th of that year with a majority of more than 26,000 against "forever" prohibiting the manufacture of alcoholic beverages, or permitting the sale of such in this state.

Continuing the retrospection these observers point out some of the similarities as well as differences revealed in this comparison.

In 1909 it was a long campaign, while the present campaign will not exceed six weeks from start to finish.

In 1909 the campaign was marked by bitterness—perhaps more bitterness than marked any campaign in the history of the state with the possible exception of the "Kolb Jones" campaign in the 90's. In the present campaign there is nothing of bitterness revealed on either side of the question at issue.

In 1909 it was an "off year" and many voters had failed to pay poll tax as the special election was not anticipated in time for payment. In the present campaign the voters had ample time within which to qualify.

In 1909 vast sums were raised and expended by both the "wets" and the "drys". In the present campaign both forces conbined could not finance a real city campaign in any large municipality.

In 1909 there was a vast army of orators appealing to the voters from every school house, pulpit and political platform. In this campaign there are very few speakers, and the old-time oratory is missing. It is taken for granted that the voter has made up his mind. It is now a question of getting the vote out.

In 1909 the governor, the late B. B. Comer, took a very active part in the campaign. In the present campaign Gov. Graves is taking no active part in the campaign, contenting himself with having made good his promise to submit the question. He is devoting his energies to legislation aimed at speeding economic and industrial recovery.

Miss Eloise Jones from Alabama College was at home for the week end.

Mrs. A. S. Prince spent Thursday in Birmingham.

Mesdames J. Watts Moore, Frank Callen and John Deramus were shopping in Birmingham Thursday.

Constipated?

The doctors say . . . Use liquid treatment

Here is the soundest advice anyone can give on the subject of laxatives. It is based on medical opinion. We want you to have the benefit of this information no matter what laxative you may buy:

The secret of real relief from constipation is reduced dosage. You can't regulate the bowels unless you can regulate the help you give them. That is why doctors use a liquid laxative: the dose can be measured to a drop.

Avoid laxatives that you can't cut down in dosage; especially those that seem to require larger doses than when you began their use.

Under the doctor's care, you usually get a liquid laxative. The right liquid laxative gives the right kind of help, and the right amount of help. Smaller and smaller doses—until you don't need any.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara—natural laxatives that form no habit.

COTTON FARMERS GET CHECKS

Auburn, Ala.—The first checks totaling $77,282.53 were issued on January 16 to 20,054 members of the 1933 cotton producers' poll upon applications for the 2-cent advance on their participation trust certificates under the 12-cent loan plan.

These are the first checks to be issued to poll members since arrangements were made to apply the 12-cent loan plan to equities held by members of the poll. Additional checks will be issued at the rate of approximately 20,000 a day until all applications now approved are taken care of.

Dr. W. L. Parrish, veterinarian, left Monday morning for Auburn, where he will spend this week taking a special course in veterinary medicine and practice.

LEGUMES ON ALABAMA FARMS

Auburn, Ala.—A total of 6,482,300 pounds of winter legume seeds were used by Alabama farmers in the fall of 1934, according to figures from county agents. This is an increase of 461,666 pounds over the record year 1933.

Of the seed used in the fall of 1934 hairy vetch constituted 2,006,684 pounds; Austrian winter peas, 4,200,300 pounds; crimson clover, 154,715 pounds; and Hungarian vetch, 53,700 pounds.

A total of 308,300 pounds of home-grown winter legume seed was used in the fall of 1934. Of this amount 123,450 pounds was Austrian peas; 120,100 pounds was crimson clover; and 64,750 pounds was hairy vetch. Crimson clover gives most promise as a winter legume, the seed of which can be saved on the farm. Of the 154,715 pounds of crimson clover used in the state 120,100 pounds was home-grown seed. Interest in saving seed of hairy vetch and Austrian winter peas is still in an experimental stage and somewhat risky for most farmers. Those farmers interested in saving seed for these crops should first consult their county agent.

HONEY PLENTIFUL

There is a surplus of honey on Alabama farms, reports Prof. J. M. Robinson, head of the entomology department of Auburn, who suggests that farm women use more honey in their cooking, of custards, pies, and cookies.

POTATO GROWERS DESIRE AID

A potato advisory committee representing producers in 16 states has recommended to the Agricultural Adjustment Admnistration a number of principles it desires incorporated in a national program for potatoes. The committee has requested the Adjustment Administration to aid in drafting a tentative bill which the committee will submit to congress.

The advisory committee which made its recommendations to the agricultural adjustment administration represented growers from: Alabama, Maine, North Carolina, Virginia, New Jersey, Maryland, South Carolina, Ohio, Kansas, Michigan, Louisiana, Connecticut, New York, Florida, North Dakota, and Minnesota.

NO ACREAGE CUT IN TIMEBER

Montgomery, Ala.—The acreage cut in cotton has a direct antithesis in the public policy toward areas devoted to timber production, observes the Alabama Commission of Forestry. Instead of there being too much land growing forest trees, it has been demonstrated during recent decades that there is too little acreage used for this purpose; and efforts are being made by public and private agencies to increase materially the acreage of productive forest land.

Various procedures are being advocated and followed to bring about increased growth of forest trees. Among such proposed measures is the withdrawal from cultivation of numerous tracts of land which obviously are below the margin of arable character.

These are generally referred to as submarginal lands. It is expected that discontinuance of farming on these areas will be followed by their reforestation. The most certain way of bringing the timber production to the country more nearly to the point where it will match the consumption is for landowners in general to accord better protection and management to their woodland areas. These procedures are not at all difficult, requiring in the main merely more intensive supervision and personal alertness and diligence on the part of the owners, tenants and employes.

CLANTON, ALABAMA

Is Your Child's Birth Registered

Montgomery, Ala.—The farmer registers his pedigreed livestock, the motorist his automobile, the citizen his eligibility to vote, the dog fancier his canines—but how many parents are absolutely sure of the registration of their children's birth? Is the proof of human birth, then, so much less important?

While pedigrees are invaluable to stock breeders—and such papers enhance the money value of all purebred animals—of far greater importance to the human being is his proof of birth. So many events of his life hinge thereon. When your baby is registered with the rightfully named "vital statistics" division of the state board of health, he literally has his citizenship papers. He is entitled to attend school, to vote, to marry, he has proof of inheritability and of eligibility for compensations of various sorts.

The need for proof of birth arises in many unexpected places, and lucky is the one who can call upon the state board of health office to give a certified copy of his birth certificate. He suffers no delays which might prove embarrassing and costly in obtaining evidence of his legal status.

The federal bureau of the census is giving parents of babies born during the last twelve months an opportunity to check the accuracy of their registration, and to establish first records by mailing in the census cards being distributed by mail carriers, at no cost for postage.

Cooperating with the buerau in the "register your baby" campaign are the Alabama state board of health and the Alabama Relief Administration and the federal bureau of the census. If the postman misses you, there are more cards for distribution at the board of health office, 519 Dexter Avenue.

State Income Tax Due March 15th

Chairman Henry S. Long, of the State Tax Commission, has called attention to the fact that income tax returns for 1934 must be filed with his department on or before March 15. Failure to file by that date imposes a penalty of 25 per cent of the tax due, plus interest at 8 per cent.

Returns must be made by all unmarried individuals with incomes of $1,500 per annum or over, and all married persons whose income is $3,000 or more, including non-residents with incomes derived from sources in this state; and by partnerships and corporations, both domestic and foreign doing business in Alabama.

Retuns have already been mailed to all taxpayers who filed last year, and any who have not received them may obtain returns upon application to the State Tax Commission.

The new head of the income tax is Gunter O'Rear, former federal income tax employe, who resigned his post with the government to take charge of the enforcement of the state income tax. Mr. O'rear is a native of Walker County. Roy C. Billings, chief of the income tax division under the Miller administration, and thoroughly familiar with all angles of the state law, has been retained as Mr. Orear's principal assistant. The field force of the income tax division has been strengthened, and is busily engaged in rounding up income tax delinquencies who failed to come across last year, as well as in collecting the 1934 tax now due.

Alabama's income tax is in the second year of its existence, having been levied by vote of the people in an election July 18, 1933.

Attention is called to the fact that the state income tax applies to employees of the state counties and municipalities and their agencies, with the same force as to any other individuals. Employees of the state and its subordinate branches are exempt from federal income tax, but not from the state tax.

J. H. JACKSON FAVORS THE REPEAL OF PROHIBITION

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please allow me a small space to say a few words? As we are to have a chance to vote on prohibition question soon, I really rejoice to see the people have an opportunity which has been kept from them by the dry class. But we should be thankful that we have people at the head of our government who are willing to let the people speak for themselves. I truly thank God for such people.

I do not believe in such unjust and oppressive laws. It is without Bible authority; and I believe when the people of Alabama get a shot at the prohibition laws they will kill them two to one.

I am surprised to see the church people make such a desperate fight to retain the present prohibition laws. It makes me think of the 23rd chapter and 35 verse of Matthew, which says: "That upon you may come all the righteous blood shed upon the earth from the blood of righteous Abel unto the blood of Zacharias, son of Bachacias, whom ye slew between the temple and the altar."

The Bible does not justify the present prohibition laws. They should be repealed, and the penalties placed where they belong. The people will do this when they get a chance.

Now, we know that wine or strong drink are the same when it comes to getting drunk. We all must admit that it is bad to be deceived and overcome by wine. But the prohibition law forbids any person possessing anything that looks like, tastes like, or smells like intoxicating liquors. If a person possesses any of the abovementioned, he is a criminal according to the prohibtiion law, and is subject to the penalty, which ranges from fifty dollars to a year in the penitentiary, which is the lowest fine. This is not for drunkenness but for possessing.

Listen, brother, did you know that wine is the most sacred symbol mentioned between the lids of the Bible? Jesus, in speaking of this wine said: "For this is my blood of the New Testament which is shed for many." Now, brother, how can you abuse this drink and put heavy penalties on your fellow-man for possessing this symbol? And how can you drink it in remembrance of your Redeemer and then put a penalty on someone else for possessing the same? Would you call this class preference? Can you support laws like that and believe that this blood was shed for you? Think these things over when you vote.

DO YOU NEED PEP?

Mrs. R. H. Hanner of 2910 Norwich St., Brunswick, Ga., said: "I started taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery because my system lacked strength and I thought this tonic would build me up. I took one bottle and soon felt myself growing stronger—I gained in every way."

New size, tablets 50 cts., liquid $1.00. Large size, tabs. or liquid, $1.35. All druggists.

Write Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.

Well, says one, it was not wine they used at the Lord's supper, and we use the same called juice. Well, let's read the 11 chapter of I Corinthians, where Paul warned the brethren not to come together to be drunken at the Lord's supper. This proved that it was intoxicating wine.

Personally, the drink question does not worry me, but I hate to see my fellow-man punished by a law that is without Bible authority.

Pardon me. I believe in the day of judgment the class who support such laws as the present prohibition laws will be judged as greater criminals than those who violate it.

Yours for repeal, and placing the penalties on real crime and let God's word be the judge as to what is a crime.—J. H. Jackson.

Yawn and The World Yawns With You

LOOK at the baby in this picture. You yawned didn't you? Why? Simply because one good yawn deserves another. Or if you prefer to be psychological, it's a reflex action.

At any rate, when the baby in this picture made his debut on a car card in New York's crowded subways in behalf of a well-known 99.44 per cent pure soap, it was remarked in an equally well-known newspaper column that everyone who looked at the baby yawned. And if you don't care to take the columnist's word for it, try it on your friends.

Give me a chance to demonstrate our new 1935 line, and make you an appraisal for you before you buy an automobile or truck.

HOG numbers in the United States follow closely the changes in corn production. Since 1920-21, as indicated by the bottom line in the graph above, there have been three peaks of heavy hog slaughter—the marketing years of 1923-24, 1928-29, and 1933-34. The increases in hog slaughter during these years can be traced to the big corn crops during the periods beginning in 1920, in 1928, and again in 1932, as shown by the top line above.

Over a period of years, a change of one per cent in corn production has been followed by a corresponding change of about one per cent in the number of hogs slaughtered under Federal inspection. Moreover, changes in corn production are closely associated with changes in the weight per hog marketed through the following year.

Because of this fundamental relationship, effective control of corn acreage is a vital factor in controlling hog production.

The 1935 corn-hog contract now being offered farmers provides control of corn acreage and, therefore, will be doubly effective in preventing excessive hog production during the next year or so. Lack of adequate acreage control in 1935 not only would result in a large surplus of corn and low feed prices, but undoubtedly would be followed in 1936 and 1937 by heavy hog feeding and relatively low hog prices.

To the People Who Owe Me:

You people who owe me accounts that are past due, please try to settle this at once, as I am very much in need of the money, and unless the accounts are paid at once I will be obliged to place them in the hands of a collector. This will cause you to deal with other parties.

POOR OR

Fant Advises On Proper Fertilizer

Fertilizer costs Chilton County farmers many thousands of dollars each year. According to experimental work done by the experiment station approximately half of the money spent for cotton fertilizer is wasted.

It is my estimation that 35 per cent of the farmers of this county use the well known 3-8-5 fertilizer for cotton. This formula will make good cotton, but it has been learned by experiment that a fertilizer containing 6 per cent nitrogen, 8 per cent phosphoric acid, and 4 per cent potash (6-8-4), will make enough more cotton than 3-8-5 per ton of fertilizer used to pay for the fertilizer. It will cost very little more than 3-8-5 per ton.

The reason for this difference is the fact that 3-8-5 is not a balanced fertilizer, and 6-8-4 is the proper mixture for cotton.

Using this mixture at the rate of 40 pounds per acre this analysis would furnish for the cotton plants: Twenty-four pounds nitrogen; 32 pounds phosphoric acid; 16 pounds potash.

To home mix this analysis fertilizer the following materials could be used: 150 pounds 16 per cent nitrate of soda; 200 pounds 16 per cent superphosphate; 30 pounds 50 per cent muriate of potash.

If the above fertilizer were mxied at the factory 20 pounds of filler would be used to bring it up to 400 pounds. The 380 pounds of home-mixed is worth as much as the 400 pounds of factory mixed goods would be.

All the superphosphate and potash and one-fourth of the nitrate of soda should be put in the ground before or at the time of planting. Side-dress with three-fourths of the nitrate of soda when the cotton is thinned and free of grass.

Most Profitable Fertilizer for Corn

The best fertilizer for corn is a good crop of vetch or Austrian winter peas turned under two or three weeks before planting the corn.

If you do not have peas or vetch planted the next best fertilizer is nitrate of soda applied at the rate of 100 to 200 pounds per acre 40 days after the corn is planted.

Another loss sustained by Chilton County farmers is due to poor varieties of cotton and corn. Below are listed the highest yielding varieties in the experimental work recommended for this county:

Corn—Whatley's prolific, 35.5 bushels per acre; Hastings profilic, 34.5 bushels per acre.

Cotton—Cook 1022, 390 pounds per acre, 30.3-32 inch staple; Cook 307-92 (Smiht), 386 pounds lint per acre, 28.2-32 inch staple; Cleve Wilt (C. Rhyne), 383 pounds lint per acre, 31.-8-32 inch staple; Cook 307 (B. Rhyne), 375 pounds lint per acre, 28. 1-32 inch staple; Cook 27-54, 374 pounds lint per acre, 29.5-32 inch staple.

When planning your crop for 1935 why not get the best seed and fertilizer available and make better crops at less cost per bushel or pound of lint.—Yours very truly, J. W. Fant, county agent.

Why Vote Three Noes On Feb. 26th

One of the greatest moral and economic issues ever presented to Alabama voters to decide will be settled by you on February 26th. In the interest of helpless children, our entire citizenship, our homes, our churches, and civilization itself, I shall vote three noes February 26th, for the following reasons:

1. Because I have children and want them to grow up sober and useful citizens. Every parent should protect the environment under which his children grow up. No good parent would want his children to grow up among rattlesnakes.

2. Because other parents have children I want to see protected from the hurtful and debauching influence of strong drink. I must cast my vote against anything that hurts innocent and helpless children, and protect their bread and clothes from the brewer and liquor vendor.

3. Because I want to protect the suffering hearts of wives, fathers and mothers from drunken husbands and sons. Fathers, mothers, wives and children must pay the price of strong drink in suffering and shame.

4. Then I vote three noes for the sake of thousands of drunkards who hate strong drink, and who themselves vote it out of their way every chance they get. It is our duty to put strong drink as far away from these as we can, and make it just as easy as we can for them to do right.

5. Then I will vote three noes for the sake of sober men, women, boys and girls, lest many of them be tempted and fall into the slavery of strong drink.

6. Because the liquor business is wholly wrong from every standpoint. We do not need repeal, but enforcement.

7. Because if Alabama spends her part of the three billion dollar national drink bill, it will take seventy million dollars away from our grocery, clothing, drug, harware and other stores. It is an indisputable fact that money spent for strong drink can not be spent for other things. If repeal will bring prosperity, it will be to the brewers and the sellers at the expense of all other forms of legitimate business.

8. Because repeal will not promote temperance as our "wet" leaders preach. A "new" thing is under the sun when the brewer turns saint and would promote temperance. When prohibition went into effect there were 177,000 saloons in this country. Today, after two years of repeal we have 700,000 saloons. This looks like promoting temperance, with a three billion dollar national drink bill in 1934. — S. J. Ezell, chairman, anti-repeal forces of Chilton County.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank many of our friends who lent a helping hand toward us during the illness and death of our father and husband. He was 78 years of age. Left to mourn his loss are his wife, Mrs. Carrie Walton, Genie and Pete Abbott, several grandchildren, a host of friends. We thank those for the beautiful floral offering. He was loved by everybody that knew him.—Written by a granddaughter and Genie Abbott.

Meet the Best-Dressed Singer in America!

By Alice Blake

THE recent selection of Gladys Swarthout, glamorous singing star of radio's Beauty Box Theater, as the best-dressed singer in America, brings to light the fact that Miss Swarthout is to a great degree dictator of her own wardrobe. She has two rules: elegance for evening; dash and originality for daytime. Her likes and dislikes are definite and her designers follow the cue.

Her taste for elegance in fabrics led to the creation of a tea gown in a Fortuny fabric that dates in color and line to the Renaissance. Her love of lavish furs resulted in the beautifully matched sable wrap, with a spray of perfect sable tails falling from her neck in front like a bib.

Dashing indeed she is when she arrives at rehearsal in a black Persian coat with a wide red leather belt held together by an amusing clasp—a mask, if you please. The hat she wears with it is one of Schiaparelli's most engaging creations, with a tower of a point, and two long ties that hold it to the head.

Elegant At "Mike"

During the broadcast she again becomes elegant simplicity either in a chartreuse evening gown of pebbly crepe or something similar. She stands before the microphone, the lines of her gown falling away from her figure into a fan-shaped train that accentuates her lovely back and the natural grace of her carriage.

Her coiffure is her own invention. After months of experimenting, she finally found the style that suited her best, and now she never deviates from it.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala.—The list of courses to be offered during the 1935 session of the University of Alabama summer school has been expanded considerably and the faculty has also been increased, Dr. John R. McClure, director of summer school, announced here. The 1935 session will consist of the usual two terms. The first term will begin June 10 and will end July 19. The second term is scheduled to open July 20 and will be brought to a close with commencement exercises on August 23.

Summer school authorities also announced that the summer school catalogue will go to press in February and will be available for distribution in early March.

The program for the 1935 session of the summer school has been considerably expanded on account of the fact that the 1934 summer school enrollment almost reached the pre-depression level. Last summer the total enrollment was 2,044 different individuals, representing an increase of more than 50 per cent over the previous summer.

Advance reservations for dormitory rooms and summer school correspondence indicate that the enrollment in the forthcoming summer school will show a substantial gain over last summer.

BOB JONES

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

Some time ago it was my privilege to visit Eton College near London. This is a preparatory school for boys located in the shodow of Windsor Castle. It was founded by Henry VI in 1440. The original benches are in the building. On the walls of the rooms are cut the names of all graduates. Milton's name is there. The name of Gladstone and fifteen other prime ministers of England are there. The school has always given emphasis to religion. Twice each day the student body assembles in the chapel for religious services. Our guide showed us the block at which boys kneel to take their whippings. The one sin which is not tolerated is the sin of lying. The young people of the world need to relearn the lesson of truthfulness. I am not an old man, but when I was a boy in school lying was not tolerated. We told the truth regardless of the consequences. I am not a pessimist about the youth of the world, but I am convinced that young people as a whole do not have the same regard for property rights that young people had when I was a boy, nor do they have the same regard for truth.

Standing recently at the tomb of Susanna Wesley there came to my mind Paul's letter to Timothy where he says in substance, "Timothy, I know you are a good man because you had such a good mother and such a good grandmother." Only a woman of Susanna Wesley's character could produce sons like John and Charles. It takes great women to produce great men. In the sight of God sin is the same whether it is committed by man or woman. As far as world consequences are concerned, it is worse for women to be sinners than it is for men to be sinners. The world might hold together if all men were bad provided all women were good. The world could not hold together if all men were good and all women were bad. If I were a woman I had rather be the mother of a man like John Wesley or Charles Wesley than to be a queen on a throne. The greatest privilege that God ever gave a woman is the privilege of being a good Christian mother. The need of our modern world is consecrated, Christian motherhood.

The writer knows something about brotherhoods. However, he is convinced that the greatest brotherhood in the world is the brotherhood of saints. We have seen Christian groups in many lands. There are no ties as strong as the ties of real Christian experience. A man knows nothing of Christian courtesy, who does not know anything about fellowship with Jesus Christ, our Lord.

Recently the writer had the pleasure of visiting the home of John Wesley in the city of London. Wesley was not only a great preacher, but he was a statesman. Some of the modernists speak of Wesley as a modernist. He was not a modernist. Wesley took the people back to an authoritative Bible and to a real Christian experience. Wesley was persecuted by the ecclesiastical leaders of his day. Now he is honored by men everywhere. Wesley was, no doubt, sustained by the fellowship which he had with the little group he gathered about him, the group who had a similar experience and who understood what Wesley meant.

In one cemetry in London sleeps the dust of Bunyan, of Isaac Watts, of Susanna Wesley, and other great Christian leaders. I walked recently among these tombs. The day before I had been to Westminster Abbey, where sleeps many of England's illustrious dead. When the trumpet sounds, and the dead are raised, Bunyan, Isaac Watts, Wesley, and other saints like these will take the front seats and many of the kings and statesmen of earth will stand in the rear, if they are there at all.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION AT LIBERTY HILL CHURCH

Signs Of Times Are Pointed To

Editor Union-Bannre:

Here are some important questions:

1. Did you ever find out if these are really questionnaires that seem to stand foremost in everybody's mind, bringing clearly to the attention of the Bible readers the prophecy of Zecheriah 14:6-7, "And it shall come to pass in that day that the light shall not be clear nor dark; but it shall be known to the Lord, not day nor night; but it shall come to pass that at evening time it shall be light?"

2. At present, the smoke screen is thrown about almost everything. Is there any business or professional life that is not screened against some class of people?

3. Where there is no vision the people preish. Proverbs 29:18. Is this "a day neither dark nor light?"

4. Is this a day of knowledge, truth and honor? My version is: "There hasn't been so much ignorance, or darkness or superstition in the world since the grand old Saint of God—even Moses—wrote the laws." Ask almost any person any question about the affairs of county, state or nation and he or she will say, "I don't know." You may ask about church and community and be surprised to find that some of the leading citizens can't tell you who their pastor is, when an important question concerning the community is to be settled, as what is best in this event or that.

5. Is all this relief work for the best or not?

6. Is it building strong-handed citizenship or taking it away?

7. If the government's plan of insurance is safe or best, or even these old line insurance companies, how much do they collect annually in your town and how much do they pay back?

8. Is it to the best interest of the farmer for the farm bureau to organize as it did and fill the warehouses, bins, sheds, elevators and barns with grain and cotton to bring over against the new crop as "overproduction" to stabilize prices, heading up in Auburn and sending agents and workers to every county in the state to take care of the farmers' interests?

9. The day seems neither clear nor dark. We think we have great knowledge. If so, where is the light?

10. Is this the day of tribulation spoken of by Jesus? Matthew 24:21?

11. Is the day dawning on the world when "a Godly sorrow for sin and true repentance" is near a dangerous weakness?

12. Is the climax reached when "He that is unjust, let him be unjust still; and he that is filthy let him be filthy still? Revelations 22:11.—Respectfully, E. H. Littlejohn.

Rub on VICKS VAPORUB

Often, "mere colds" have serious consequences. It is dangerous to neglect a cold—equally dangerous to experiment with half-way measures.

Feel safe! Use Vicks VapoRub—the proved external method of treating colds. No risks of constant internal "dosing", which so often upsets delicate digestions and lowers resistance when most needed.

DOUBLE DIRECT ACTION

Just rubbed on at bedtime, VapoRub fights a cold direct—two ways at once—by stimulation and inhalation. This combined poultice-vapor action loosens phlegm—soothes irritated membranes—eases difficult breathing—helps break congestion. Often by morning the worst of the cold is over.

The Story of the Bible Told in Pictures

Resurrection of Lazarus.—Lazarus of Bethany, a brother of Mary and Martha, was ill, and his sisters sent to Jesus to tell him of their brother's illness. When Jesus came to Bethany He found that Lazarus had been buried four days earlier. Martha went to meet Jesus, and told Him that had He been there her brother would not have died. "Jesus said unto her, I am the resurrection, and the life: he that believeth in Me, though he were dead, yet shall he live. And whosoever liveth and believeth in Me shall never die . . ."—John 11, 25-26. Jesus asked where Lazarus had been buried. He was taken to the grave. "And Jesus lifted up His eyes and said, Father, I thank Thee that Thou hast heard Me. And I knew that Thou hearest Me always: but because of the people which stand by I said it, that they may believe that Thou hast sent Me. And when He thus had spoken, He cried with a loud voice, Lazarus, come forth. And he that was dead came forth, bound hand and foot with grave clothes. Jesus said unto them, loose him, and let him go."—John 11: 41-44. This illustration is from Merian's story of the Bible in pictures, engraved in 1625-1630.

Mr. Kenneth O'Barr returned to Thorsby last week from Cullman where he has been working for some months.

Mrs. A. P. Villadsen and Miss Jenny Robinson made a trip to Birmingham last Saturday.

Mr. Leroy Petersen, while playing basket ball last week, had a fall which resulted in a broken arm.

Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald is still in Birmingham under treatment and observation.

Mrs. M. J. Soberg is feeling pretty well these days and will soon be up in her wheel chair. The Rev. Lawrence Stanley is improving but is still very weak from an attack of the flu, but hopes to be in his church next Sunday.

Miss Jessie Martin was the guest of Miss Edna Raybon Sunday.

Miss Bonnie Honeycutt of Atlanta, Georgia, visited friends and relatives in Thorsby a few days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Jackson went to Anniston Sunday to visit Mrs. Jackson's father, who has been ill for some time.

Miss Josephine Billingsley spent Sunday with Miss Julia Pratt Johnson.

The Collins Chapel school building was burned to the ground early Monday morning. The cause of the fire is unknown. They will attempt to carry on the school work in the church building and vacant houses nearby. Very little of the furnishings were saved. The valuable seats in the auditorium and also the drop curtain were saved and other things that were in the auditorium. All the rest, books, and desks were a total loss.

Mrs. Lawrence Stanley wishes to thank the many friends who have been so kind to them during Mr. Stanley's illness. There have been so many deeds of kindness that she will be unable to answer each one individually.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S RALLY

The Young People's Rally will be held at Chestnut Creek church next Sunday afternoon at two o'clock, February 10, 1935. All organizations are urged to be represented so we can make plans for the year's work and get our new officers for the coming year.

All churches of the Chilton Association are urged to be represented. The devotional will be given by Mrs. L. D. Hughes and we expect to have some more good speakers.

Baby Chicks, ready for delivery next week.—J. L. Ruffin, Clanton.

JEMISON NEWS

The school organized a social service club last week. The aim is to make better citizens. It is a step toward student government.

Officers elected were: President, Ernie Lee Robinson; vice president, J. T. Cobb; secretary, Willie C. Clements; treasurer, Mary Nell Lowery.

Various service squads were appointed, serving one month each. The patrol squad directs traffic in the halls at the ringing of each bell, the assembly squad sees that every one is seated correctly in the auditorium and leave the room in order. There are other squads.

With our unknown future before us, we are hoping to have a grand success.

The basketball team played Montevallo at Calera last Tuesday night. Jemison was victorious with a score of 28-12.

The girls team played Calera Tuesday night. The girls won 10 to 11. The boys team played Calera here Friday night again. Jemison won 22 to 20.

There will be a game with Montevallo Saturday night. The admission is 10c. Everynoe come and back the teams.

The F. H. A. club is planning on initiating 26 new members into the club Wednesday. The older members will be glad to see them accept the rules and customs of the club.

UNION GROVE

Editor Union-Banner:

Allow me a small place in your paper to say a few words from Union Grove, as I never see anything from here. Things are not dead up here yet.

We have had lots of flu around here, but everything seems to be better at this time. By the way, what do you think I saw yesterday? Nothing but Harlem Daniel and some nice young lady from up about Falkville.

Well the good ladies of this community are giving a hen and paying on our piano for the church at Union Grove. Please bring the hen to "Pump" Robinson's store by Friday at 9 o'clock, or to W. J. Vinzant at Jemison.

Next Saturday night and Sunday are our regular preaching days.

I want to ask all singers to come and be with us on Sunday evening at singing, as the singing society meets at Union Grove at 2 o'clock. All who like to sing be sure to be with us. Our Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. are still doing fine; so come and be with us.

VERMONT SCHOOL

Our regular meeting of P.-T. A. will be held tonight (Thursday) at the school building. Our last meeting was declared one of our best, but we hope to make this one even better if possible. Several items of great importance will be up for discussion, and we want all members of our association and all friends and patrons of the school present to voice their opinion. A brief, but interesting little program is being prepared by the program committee.

We are glad to announce that the number of cases of flu is gradually diminishing. Several of our schoolmates have returned to their classes, after being out several days with the above malady. Especially are we glad to have Mrs. Johnson back. She was victim most of last week with a severe attack of both flu and cold.

Miss Cagle is directing her Jr. III English class in the publication of a school paper. From present appearances it looks like it's going to be a real treat, cleverly arranged. Their biggest difficulty is finding an appropriate name. Send in your suggestion if you have one.

Those who were able to attend school on last Wednesday week, had a great time snow-balling. Much delight was had in "shellacking" Mr. Johnson and Miss Cagle.

Our attendance has been off about 30 per cent for the past two weeks, due to much illness from the flu epidemic.

The Enterprise boys won over our team again last Friday afternoon by the count of 15 to 10. Both teams were more or less off form, for many crip shots were missed which should have been converted into points. The Enterprise boys gave our team a sound lacing on December 14, by the score of 37 to 9, but they met this time a team whose defense had tightened and they were compelled to forego a runaway count as they had previously registered. The Enterprise girls went down to a 29 to 1 defeat on our trip over there, but yesterday they were forced to cancel their game due to vaccinations. Both of our teams will play Maplesville there on Wednesday night of this week. Results will be given in next week's paper.

The community girls, outside of school, have been visiting us recently, affording our girls basketball practice.

The Jr. III girls gave a banquet last Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Scott, honoring both the boys and girls athletic clubs. Various games were played, following this were refreshments of cake and hot chocolate.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson spent the past Saturday night and Sunday with his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Duffee, Birmingham, Ala.

The boys athletic club are busy selling garden seed. They are receiving a commission on all sales and will appropriate these proceeds to their athletic activities.

Don't forget folks, big entertainment at our school next Saturday night, February 9. Admission 10c for school children and 15c for adults.

PLEASANT HILL

Sunday was another day well spent with us. We had a good attendance at Sunday school and every body seemed to be in high gear. We are glad to see so many getting interested in church work, for just what we put in our churches is what we will get out of them. And I would say to the fathers and mothers, let's more of us go out and carry our children next Sunday and help to make our church an interesting place for them, as well as us.

We are glad to report our B. Y. P. U. is still getting better. We had a splendid program for Sunday night. Everyone seemed to enjoy it.

Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Cleckler and children spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Pearlene Robinson, in the Pleasant Grove community.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Twilley and children, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Martin and children had dinner Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cleckler.

We are sorry to report several cases of the flu in our community and we hope for each of them a speedy recovery.

Don't forget our Sunday school each Sunday. Visitors are always welcome at our church.

On last Tuesday afternoon quite a few gathered at the home of Mrs. S. J. Twliley and enjoyed a quilting party. The afternoon was spent in quilting, laughing and talking until a late hour then refreshments were served to the following: Mrs. W. T. Davis, Mrs. Sophia Cleckler, Mrs. Willie Brasher, Mrs J. B. Gunn, Mrs. Howell Robinson, Mrs. Otis Davis, Mrs. S. J. Twilley, Mrs. O. L. Martin, Miss Ollie Bell Davis, Mrs. B. L. Cleckler, Miss Daisy Martin.

Mr. Floyd Smith, director of work of the Chilton Relief office and who makes his home at the Exchange Hotel, spent Sunday in Prattville with home folks.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

One of the principal contentions of the internationalitsts during the debate on the resolution for American adherence to the World Court has been that membership in the league court and the participation in the manufacture of advisory opinions will not mix the United States into the affairs of Europe. A little examination of the contention proves that it is illogical to say the least. In the first place, the rendering of an advisory opinion for the league is intended to lay down a course of conduct for the league. It presupposes that the opinion will be enforced by the parent political body. If advisory opinions are not to be accepted and enforced, then what is the use of rendering advisory opinions?

And to go further, what is the use of the United States' joining in the first place? The court clearly intends that its opinions be accepted by the league and the league must intend to enforce them if they are accepted. Now the real reason the Europeans have for getting the United States to take part in the court is that this will enhance the chance of the enforced acceptance by the contending nations of the opinions handed down. In other words, the United States is rich and powerful and our resources are counted on in the enforcement of advisory opinions.

Now if there is a recalcitrant nation or group of nations, as is more likely, which refuses to accept the decision of the court and league, there are two ways in which the "laws" can be enforced. The first is by so-called economic sanctions and the other is by war. Economic sanctions seem wise and peaceful at first glance, but they are not. Many authorities believe that the application of economic sanctions, if carried out effectively, means suffering and starvation on the part of innocent women and children in the so-called misbehaving countries. Now most nations will fight before they will permit their innocent ones to be slowly eliminated by lack of food. That is why economic sanctions are expected to lead to war, the second weapon of those who would enforce court opinions. And all Americans who are old enough to remember the second decade of the twentieth century want nothing to do with war unless we are the subject of attack by an alien or domestic foe.

Of course it may be maintained, after rendering the advisory opinion, we will not have to help enforce it if we don't want to, because we have no membership in the league. Can you imagine what sort of embarrassing position such an incident would place us in? We help to render an advisory opinion, and then refuse to do our part to help enforce it? It is easy to visualize what a cry would go up from Europe if we should take any such position. In assisting to render an opinion, they would shout, we are morally and ethically bound to help enforce it. Else what business have we got there in the first place? They called us Shylocks because we refused to cancel the billions of debt which Europe rightfully owed us and agreed only to cut it in two. Can you guess what sort of names they would take pleasure in thinking up and hurling at us if we should default on our opinion after rendering it? The fact that it was a purely European problem in which we had no interest wouldn't make any difference. They would immediately call attention to the fact that we were over there anyhow. And what support they would have from our internationalist busybodies at home!

Of course the danger of getting involved in European politics, in which we had no business, as outlined above, by participating in the League Court, is not the only one. There is the danger that European nations, lined up solidly against us on certain questions, such as the Monroe Doctrine, international debts, immigration, etc., would "settle" American issues in which they had no business. Space here is too limited to discuss that possibility although it is well known to those who have studied the league and the league court.

Suffice it to say that the argument that we will not get involved in European affairs by joining the court and rendering advisory opinions needs a whole lot of proving before it even looks plausible. The only safe way to keep out of European entanglements is to stay at home and mind our own business.

SOMETHING WRONG

Something seems to have gone wrong with the collegiate plan for increasing the foreign market for cotton. According to Frederick Gardiner, Associated Press financial writer, "foreign buyers have been snubbing the South's number one product in the world market and threatening to upset calculations as to how fast the country, through its production restriction plan, could reduce its burdensome surplus."

The American production has gone down through crop control, it is stated. Exports last season fell about a million bales, which was not regarded with emotion, but exports for this season have declined, it is estimated, nearly two million bales. This is not so good and deserves some study.

Some of those in charge of the present program say the decline has been due to decreased consumption abroad, especially in Germany, and to the troubles of the gold bloc countries.

But others not in charge of the government program, who claim to know something about cotton, think that the collegiate program, directed from Washington is responsible. Our going off the gold standard was supposed to increase rather than decrease our exports to gold-standard countries, so why blame the gold standard?

The crop in America was decreased to raise the price of the product. But the plan has served also to stimulate foreign agriculturists. With the price higher and America producing less, these foreign cotton growers have increased their output, growing cotton much cheaper than America can. As a result, nations which formerly bought large quantities of our cotton are now buying cheaper from producers alien to us, and will buy more if the present program continues.

The South voted for new ideas in agriculture even if it doesn't like them. It has been able to "dish it out," it ought to be able to "take it."

TARIFF STILL IMPORTANT

Although we hear a great deal nowadays about international issues of many varieties, comparatively little is being said on Capitol Hill in Washington about the tariff. Yet that issue remains as vital as ever, as a great many Americans realize.

Many manufacturers and labor leaders, representing industries which have been protected by the Smoot-Hawley tariff, realize that the industries will go out of business if the tariff is removed.

At this time there are few free traders in America, but two schools of thought on the tariff. One of them believes that we ought to reduce our tariffs on certain commodities in the interest of foreign trade. They claim that if we import more goods the people in alien nations will take more of our produce and some American industries, including farming, will be benefitted.

The other group believes that lowering our tariff on protected articles below the point of easy importation will ruin many of our own industries and injure the markets of our farmers a great deal more than these will be helped by any markets secured abroad. They point out that American workers are the best fed and best paid in the world and that the rendering jobless of one American skilled worker cuts off more demand for goods than is created by giving jobs to a half dozen poorly paid European or Asiatic workers.

That weight of the argument seems to be decidedly with them is true, especially in view of the fact that the low tariff advocates in America have so curtailed American farm production in certain crops that European, African and Asiatic farmers are being stimulated to raise more, with the result that there is a smaller and not a larger market for American farm produce abroad.

That the argument of the protectionists has great weight is evidenced by the fact that congress has failed to alter the Smoot-Hawley tariff was denounced from one end of the country to the other by the opposition as an "iniquity." The opposition has now become the majority party and an overwhelming majority party in congress. Yet the Smoot-Hawley tariff remains untouched and unscathed. There's a reason.

TOM REED AS A PIKER

Back in those palmy days of cast-iron dogs upon the lawns and twittering sparrows in the streets, Portland's famous son, Thomas B. Reed, uttered his classic reply to the fuss-budgets who cavailed in fear at a billion-dollar national budget: "It's a billion-dollar country."

From the Speaker Reed's time on, this squelcher has been a maxim-silencer to those who have objected to "progress." A billion-dollar country has appealed to the strutting nationalism of the land as a phrase deftly smoothing the way of unbounded opportunity and accomplishment. And the steps successively taken to make this a two-billion dollar country have received sanction in the philosophy quietly propounded by the man from Maine who first so plausibly condoned a freer spending national policy.

But in the light of the President's budget message, Speaker Reed, the expanisionist, is seen to have been a mere piker. We do not reckon income and expenditures nowadays by a single billion; we do not even reckon the national deficit by a single billion. The national debt, that even in 1917 was hardly more than a billion dollars, has grown to such proportions that it will be over thirty-one billions by next July 1, and by the same time in 1936, over thirty-four billions of dollars. The Congress is asked to provide for the fiscal year 1936, not a single billion dollars, but eight and a half billion. This year's gross deficit will be, we are told, nearly five billion dollars; last year it was just under four billion dollars; next year it will be over four and a half billions.—Portland Express.

FIGURES DON'T LIE

Accurate figures prove that federal, state and local expenditures have reached a level of more than 500, compared with a pre-war level of 100. Tax collections are as high. Yet prices received by farmers today, compared with pre-war, are two per cent higher than in 1910-1914, standing at 102. Real wages of labor in industry are 121, compared with tax collections at a peak of more than 500.

These figures indicate clearly how excessive the costs of government have become, adding greatly to the cost of all articles and pyramiding the final charge upon the consumer for all goods.

In view of these things, no good purpose will be served in adding further to these costs, by appropriations of billions of dollars for non-self liquidating projects which cannot be used under present conditions. The need is to bring present costs into line with present incomes; spending merely widens the gap and makes inflation more inevitable.

Because of this fact, President Roosevelt's message cannot be judged until the facts are known. The facts that count, the financial facts, still are unknown.—Syracuse Post-Standard.

Our advice to the job-holding Democrats: reap, for the winter is coming.

TO THE WEST COAST, AND BACK

Part III

About 200 miles this side of El Paso the nature of the country began to change. We came to what is known as the Texas "bad lands." A scrubby growth covers the ground, which is quite dry and crackly. Millions of acres of this land is under fence, and some cattle were seen. There are few houses to be seen, and these are mere herder's huts. In every little town, there is a windmill at every house. Soon we came to the rolling mountainous section of west Texas. Some of the mountains look as if they might have been volcanoes at one time, as their tops resemble great craters. The last 25 miles of road, entering El Paso, is lined on both sides with big trees—in some places there is a double line on each side. Before reaching this section, however, we had one good joke to help while away the hours. My wife had been telling us all the way how she was going to eat all she wanted of "good tender Western steak." Mr. Duffey and Mrs. Taylor contended that Western steak was tougher than our native stuff, but the madam didn't think so. Finally we passed a big drove of cattle, and lo, behold, there was one old steer chewing away on an inner tube that some motorist had discarded. Many were the times the madam heard about it, and Bettye reminded her many times about those "good old inner tube sandwiches."

Shortly after night fall we made El Paso, found a nice camp, and put up for the night. After a good supper, we decided to go across the Rio Grande into Juarez, in old Mexico. While we were having our supper, we met a young man from Alabama, whose former home had been at Bessemer. He seemed very glad to meet "home folks."

Crossing into Juarez, we parked our car and took a turn about the city, buying souvenirs, and seeing the place. It was quite dingy looking, but, although it was Christmas night, very few drunks were to be seen, and none of these were Mexicans—all Americans who had crossed over to carouse around for a while. Having seen all we wanted of this, we started back across. I tried to drive back to the American side over the same bridge I drove in over, but a Mexican soldier stopped me and tried to tell me that I would have to take the other route. I suppose I would have been there arguing with him yet if an American hadn't come along and straightened things out for us. I could not understand him, and he couldn't make out what I was saying, so we were just about at a stand-still so far as talking was concerned. We were talking all right, but neither of us seemed to be saying anything. We were finally straightened out by an American, and I got back across into El Paso, only to get lost again. While running around in circles, trying to find our way back to our camp, we ran upon a big Christmas tree, all rigged out with lights, and everything, and in changeable colors. This was something really pretty. This was by far the most interesting day of the whole trip, so far.

One thing I forgot to mention in telling of the west Texas plains—the tumble-weed. This is a curious growth, a big barrel-like plant, with very little root. When the wind blows strong, as it often does, these big weeds roll along the ground like barrells, and fill the ditches on both sides of the road. We stopped and made a picture of Mr. Duffey all bogged up in these.

Once having found our way back to the cabin, we put in for the night. Mrs. Taylor's supper had made her quite ill, and she suffered almost all night. She says she will never forget Christmas night, 1934. On this day we made 503 miles.

We left El Paso early Wednesday morning, and had breakfast in Las Cruces, New Mexico, some 40 miles west. They really know how to charge for eats in that place. We had changed our watches in El Paso, running them up one hour, to make up for the difference in Central time and Mountain time.

In the desert west, we saw many dead cows which had perished for lack of water. Some of this territory is quite mountainous, and some of it is level, but all of it seems to be part of great ranches. At Clinton, New Mexico we made our first round-up picture, where cowboys were getting ready to make a shipment of cattle. After this we struck another stretch of road which seemed perfectly straight for miles on miles. It was perfectly level, but we seemed to be going up hill all the way.

Along here we began to get into the real cactus country. We had seen quite a bit of it in spots back in Texas, but now we began to see several different varieties. There were the small, ball-like cactus plants, some which looked like pine-apples, some looked like nail kegs, or barrels, some slim and had a twisted effect, like lightning rods, and there were the big giants, the king of the cactus family. The prettiest of the whole lot, however, is a type which looks like a bush with ice frozen all over it. This is really a pretty plant, and we stopped and made a bunch of pictures among some of these plants. These pictures, however, were made beyond the first range of mountains.

When I was in the west in the summer of 1930, all of this desert country was very dead looking—no blooming cactus—just a dead plain, with the bare, dead looking cactus rearing its head like ghostly reminders of a God-forsaken region. But now, right in the dead of winter, the cactus region west of the mountain range is a regular flower garden, with blooms of all kinds on the cactus and other desert growth. It is really beautiful, and looks like spring time.

Going into the real Rockies, we came to Coolidge Dam, a beautiful structure, built by the government to impound water for irrigation purposes. A small hydro-electric plant is here, too. The water above this dam is caused by melting snow, and is indigo blue.

One thing I forgot to mention—just before we got to the mountains, we saw cotton pickers at work. Imagine, picking cotton on the day after Christmas. That was a real sight to our whole party, who were used to seeing bare cotton fields after October.

We left Coolidge Dam late in the afternoon—too late to make any picutres, planning to make these pictures on the return trip. On into Globe, with its big government copper smelter. There was nothing much to see here, though, so we went on to Miami to put up for the night, after having made 342 miles. During this day, too, we were stopped at the New Mexico-Arizona line for inspection by Arizona authorities. They wanted to see my proof of ownership of my car. I didn't have it, but the soldier in charge of the point of inspection was a pretty nice chap, and let me by without any trouble. A little further on down the road we had to unpack our luggage for general inspection, for fruits, etc.

On Thursday morning we were up early and on our way, crossing over the last main section of the Rockies. A few miles from Miami, we came to a tourist camp in front of which stood a sign, as follows: "Top of the World," and I really think it was the truth, as this place is many thousands of feet above sea level. Not far from here we went through a short tunnel, and started down on the far side. This ride down to the plains on the west side is certainly one of natural grandeur. Great jagged cliffs jut out over the highway all the way down the winding slope. There is no guard rail along the side of the road, and one can see the bottom of the canyon, hundreds of feet below. If a car should leave the road anywhere along here, it would be smashed as flat as a tin plate, and the road is very narrow all the way down. Numerous curves may be seen, and as we looked down we saw cars and trucks miles below us on the drive, so far away that they looked like toys. I remember one big red oil truck, in particular. It looked to be about four inches long; after driving for something like 30 minutes we met this truck, and it was about an 8- or 10-ton affair, with a double tank trailer. As one looks out over this yawning chasm of nothingness, he realizes his smallness all over anew as never before. To attempt to describe this scene in words is a futile attempt—it cannot be done. To fully realize the magnificence of it all, one must see it, and then he can hardly believe his eyes.

Once again on the plains, we stopped to make some pictures in the desert, which, at this point was a regular flower garden. There was an interesting event here. Although we were miles from a house, so far as we knew, yet while we were making these pictures, a beautiful white Persian kitten came to us. It was very friendly, and we took it up and made several pictures with it. When we were ready to leave, it wanted to get into the car and go with us, but there was no room. We wondered where it came from, and where it would go. We supposed that it must have been lost from another group of tourists.

Out into the open desert again, we came to "the desert zoo", a kind of "dividing of the ways," as the road forks here, one leading to Globe, and the other by Tucson and Douglas, Arizona. We had our breakfast here, and took a turn about the grounds, looking at the different animals, birds and reptiles there. They had several kinds of monkeys, a porcupine or two, wild hogs, eagles, owls, hawks, rattle snakes, bull snakes, one of the species of the caraculla (a big desert lizard), the Gila monster,, the highly colored and much dreaded snake-lizard of the desert country, said to be the most poisonous of all North American reptiles. There were several kinds of pigeons and other birds there. One other bird is deserving of especial mention—the road runner. This bird, we were told, never flies, and I can believe that, too, for he is plenty fast on his feet. His pet fancy is to run down and kill snakes, no matter what kind or size, he kills every snake he sights. You may know that he is very fast on the ground, as natives of this section say that a snake has no chance to get away, once Mr. Road-Runner spies him. This bird looks a little like our kildee, and squeals like him, but boy, how he can run.

Leaving this point, we found the country under fence on both sides of the road for miles and miles. We ran into a farming section not far from Phoenix, and I don't think I ever saw as many sheep in all my life as we saw in single droves here. Great stacks of baled hay were to be seen, too. Along about here we ran into a bunch of multi-colored rocks. Some of them would be of black and white, all in one rock, with no seam to show where they were separated. We tried breaking up some of these rocks, but it was no go.

Coming in close to Phoenix, we saw orange and lemon groves, with the fruit hanging on the trees. In Phoenix, while waiting for a car greasing and a change of oil, Mrs. Taylor called the home of her uncle, Mr. David B. Askins, who is a rural letter carrier there.

We decided to try to make Indio, California, our stop for the night. At the California line we had to undergo another inspection, and so it was dark when we got into Indio, and, although there were numbers of tourist camps there, with hundreds of cabins, we could not get one because the government is constructing a great irrigation aqueduct through the length of the Imperial Valley, and there are hundreds of workers in there who keep all cabins rented by the week. In the Imperial Valley, the climate is the same as that of Egypt, and is said to be the only region on the North American continent with this distinction. In this valley, and nowhere else in America, is grown the Egyptian white date, a species much finer than the regular date, as grown in other sections of this country. Finding no cabins, we drove 42 miles to Banning, with the same luck. On to Beaumont, where we could find no double cabins, nor find two cabins in any one court, so we were forced to put the women in the party up at one court, and Mr. Duffey went with me to another court for the night. We went out for a bite of supper, and I bought a dozen of the biggest California seedless oranges I ever saw, (picked that afternoon). I paid only 20 cents for them, and then the seller thought he was getting a big price for them. That was all for that day. We had made 410 miles, in spite of all of our stops.—Man in the Moon.

BRAZIL TRIED IT TOO

News from Brazil may be read with mixed emotions by some of the members of the American Brain Trust. In dealing with its coffee crop Brazil has followed methods antedating, but similar to, those of the AAA in the United States. Coffee could not well be plowed under, but there could be effort to restore prices in world markets by burning a part of the crop. That has been going on for five years and the National Coffee Department in Rio de Janiero has been rejoicing at the results obtained. So much for AAA jubilation. But there is another aspect of the situation which is not likely to inspire glee.

While one department of the Brazilian government has been undertaking to limit production of coffee, another has been urging measures that would endanger consumption. The Foreign Trade Council of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs is trying to make yerba mate, sometimes called the tea of South America, popular in the United States. The Paraguayan government is similarly engaged. It has even sent mate to the American War Department to be given to soldiers at Fort Benning, Ga. Brazilian coffee interests well may wonder what would happen to them if, instead of its second cup of coffee, the American nation should take a cup of mate.

It goes to show that as long as the world is filled with a number of things effort to control anyone of them is not as simple as it might seem. There may be comfort for Brain Trusters in Part One of this tale from Brazil. There is little to cheer them in Part Two.—Boston Transcript.

CAN'T CHANGE PEOPLE

The result of the voting in the Saar is indicative of one thing at least, and that is the wisdom of the United States in its policy of avoiding all imperialism. The practice of imperialism, as it is known in Europe, calls for political and territorial aggrandizement. The case of the Saar, although not coming directly in the category of imperialism, indicates the fallacy of attempting permanently to transfer the territory and affection of an alien people to another country. It just cannot be done successfully no matter what nation tries it.

Back at the close of the World War the Saar was in dispute. Although predaminately German in population, the French laid claim to it. Some of the French politicians argued that there were 150,000 Frenchmen living in the Saar and that the country therefore had some claim to it. There was a bitter battle and in large part due to the influence of President Wilson, the French plan was defeated. The Saar was indeed detached from Germany but instead of going to France was handed over to the League of Nations for control during the next fifteen years. At the end of that time the inhabitants were to vote whether they want to go to Germany, to France or to continue under the League.

During that fifteen years the Saar was under control of the League and closely connected with France. The League has been and virtually is dominated and controlled by France and its allies. Again, the Saar is close to France and has been doing a great deal of business with that country. It has been very easy to pass from one country to another and every effort was made to bring about closer relations between France and the Saar.

For economic reasons it would have "paid" the Saar to have annexed itself to France or to have continued under the League. These two bodies had more to offer than Germany. In addition a ruler had arisen in Germany who was not popular with some elements of the population. There seemed every reason why German prestige should decrease. Yet, when the election was held, the Saarlanders remembered their Germanic origin. They voted ten to one in favor of returning to Germany as against remaining under the League and 200 to 1 for returning to Germany as against going to France. The 150,000 Frenchmen in the Saar whom the French politicians claimed to have 15 years ago had shrunk to a little more than 2,000.

The lesson is easy to see. Blood is thicker than water, is thicker even than business. Every attempt in Europe or elsewhere for centuries to detach a slice of native territory from one nation and attach it to another, where the people belong to the race of the former country has failed. One may propagandize, in schools, churches and through newspapers; languages and literatures may be changed, but the result is always the same—failure. Poland is an eloquent example, and there are many others.

The United States has chosen wisely in avoiding an imperialistic course. We have been predominately the strongest nation on the western continent. There has not been a time during the last three-quarters of a century when we could not, by force of arms, have increased our territory at the expense of others. But we have not done so. Here is the best indication that Uncle Sam is not imperialistic. It is also proof of the fact that Uncle Sam has been eminently wise in this respect.

An enjoyable, though most informal party for the young society set was given by Miss Mary Courtney Jones at her home on Friday night. This informal gathering was to welcome Misses Helen and Mary Newell, most attractive additions to the social life of Clanton's young people.

Our Ladies Guild met at the home of Mrs. Hugh Jones on Friday afternoon. This was the initial meeting and its organization was most successfully carried out. Ten charter members were enrolled, including members from Marbury and Thorsby.

Rev. Father Cazalas, pastor of the Clanton Parish, opened the meeting with prayer, invoking divine guidance upon the work.

Mrs. Hugh Jones was made temporary chairman. Miss Daniels of Marbury acted as secretary, and read the call of the meeting. Father Cazalas gave a short and most inspirational talk as he introduced the speaker in the afternoon, Rev. Frances J. Foley, of Boston.

Father Foley's address was most pleaingly given. The central theme of his topic was "Catholic Action." This he outlined briefly in a learned review, explaining it to be as old as the church itself, the driving power which makes the principles of Christ prevail through Catholic activity in the scores of social movements now sweeping through the Catholic world, the laity participating with the hierarchy, the offering self to Christ as His lay apostle. Father Foley closed his beautiful appeal with his good wishes as benediction upon the Guild.

May its success be equal to that of The History Club of Frederick Ozanam, pioneer of Catholic action.

After the usual routine of organization the following officers were elected:

Rev. Father Cazalas, spiritual adviser.

Mrs. Hugh Jones, chairman.

Mrs. C. F. Hofer, Marbury, vice chairman.

Mrs. James Parr, secy-treas.

Mrs. John Browder and Mrs. Hofer assisted the hostess in serving refreshments. The Guild will hold its next meeting with Mrs. John Browder.

PETER PREACHES AT PENTECOST

LESSON TEXT—Acts 2:22-23, 36-42.

GOLDEN TEXT—Then Peter said unto them, Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost Acts 2:38.

PRIMARY TOPIC — When Peter Preached a Great Sermon.

JUNIOR TOPIC—What Peter Preached at Pentecost.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Story of a Wonderful Day.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Source of Spiritual Power.

In teaching this lesson it is essential that the full meaning of Pentecost be apprehended. It is desirable, therefore, that the entire second chapter of Acts be brought into view.

I. The Day of Pentecost Fully Come (vv. 1-13).

1. The significance of the day (v. 1). Pentecost is from a Greek word meaning fifty. It was the feast held fifty days after the wave sheaf offering (Lev. 23:16). The wave sheaf typifies the resurrection of Christ (I Cor. 15:20-23).

2. The gift of the Holy Spirit (vv. 2-4). On this day the Holy Spirit descended upon the disciples. This does not mean that the Spirit was not in the world before this, for throughout all the ages he has been in the world, giving light and life to it.

3. Upon whom the Spirit came (v. 1; cf. 1:13-15). The twelve and others, both men and women, to the number of one hundred twenty, which shows that the gift of the Holy Spirit was for all believers, not merely the apostles.

4. The marks of the Spirit (vv. 2-4). These marks were external and internal.

a. External.

(1) The sound of a mighty wind (v. 2). This is suggestive of the mysterious, pervasive and powerful energy of the Spirit.

(2) Tongues of flame (v. 3). Each of the one hundred twenty was crowned with such a tongue for witnessing.

(3) Speaking in foreign tongues (v. 4). This miraculous gift characterized the apostolic age, but no authentic case has been reported in modern times.

b. Internal. This is seen in the transformation wrought in the disciples. Peter, who shortly before this cowered before a Jewish maid, now with boldness stands before the chief rulers and declares that they have murdered their King, and are guilty before God.

5. The effects (vv. 5-13).

a. The multitudes were filled with amazement and wonder.

b. Some mocked and accused the disciples of being intoxicated.

II. Peter's Sermon (vv. 14-47).

Peter's sermon is as wonderful as the gift of tongues. It demonstrates the presence and power of the Spirit because he was a Galilean fisherman, without literary training. His homiletical analysis is perfect.

1. The introduction (vv. 14-21).

a. Defense of the disciples against the charge of being drunk (v. 15). He cited Jewish custom, showing that they would not be drunk at such an early hour of the day.

b. A scriptural explanation (vv. 16-21). He showed that this was a partial fulfillment of Joel's prophecy (Joel 2:28-32).

2. The proposition, or theme (v. 36). This was the messiahship of Jesus. The argument which followed proved that Jesus was the Lord upon whom they were to call in order to be saved.

3. The argument (vv. 22-36). It was threefold.

a. From Christ's works (v. 22). He was approved of God among the Jews by his miracles, wonders, and signs, with which they were familiar.

b. From his resurrection (vv. 23-32). The Old Testament Scriptures had foretold the death and resurrection of Christ (Ps. 16:8-10). The disciples themselves were living witnesses of Christ's resurrection (v. 32).

c. From his ascension to the right hand of God (v. 33). The proof that he had ascended on high was the wonderful miracle of the Spirit's operation in their midst (John 16:7).

4. The effect of the sermon (vv. 37-42). Many people were convicted of their sins; some three thousand repented and were baptized. The evidence that the coming of the Spirit was real was:

a. That they continued steadfastly in the apostolic teaching (v. 42).

b. They continued in fellowship with the apostles (v. 42).

c. They continued in prayer (v. 42).

d. They gave their possessions to sustain those who had need (v. 45).

e. They lived gracious lives (vv. 46, 47).

Source of Disorders

An improper use of time is the source of all the disorders which reign amongst men. It is a treasure which we would wish to retain forever, yet which we cannot suffer to remain in our possession. This time, however, of which we make so little moment, is the only means of our eternal salvation.

GHOST BANDITS

Vester Hayes, 10, of Maplesville, this week is nursing head injuries inflicted on him Saturday night in Birmingham by a pair of 'ghost' bandits.

As he was going to the home of his brother, W. T. Hayes, at 221 12th av. n, Hayes passed near the Jewish cemetery.

Suddenly two figures stepped from the darkness and struck him on the head. When he regained consciousness he found his pocketbook and $2 gone.

Young Hayes then went back to the street car line and rode to the downtown store where his brother is employed. The brother took him to West End Baptist Hospital where he was treated for a deep scalp cut.

Police are looking for the "ghost" bandits on a description furnished them by the victim.

FRANCHOT TONE SCORES IN NEW TYPE OF ROLE

Drama . . . pathos . . . human interest . . . and a fair sprinkling of wholesome humor — all these are to be found in the new picture, "Straight Is the Way," which on February 14 will be at the Wadesonian Theatre.

It is a story that requires the services of finished actors, for it is the gripping drama of the travails of one of New York's East Side families — and of the problems of life and love that entangle a returned ex-convict who is determined to keep to the straight and narrow path.

Another Step Upward

Franchot Tone tops the cast with his portrayal of Benny, the boy just out of prison. It is entirely new characterization for Tone, one proving his ability to handle difficult dramatic roles, and should boost him a notch higher toward stardom.

May Robson, as the aging mother who fears the return of her boy to his old habits, gives a performance equalled only by her work in "Lady For a Day."

Gladys George, recently of the New York stage, makes her screen debut as Shirley, the girl who tries, but fails, to win back Benny's love. She brings a new type of "vamp" to the screen and we predict bigger things for her.

She Remained Faithful

Karen Morley, after a too-long abscene from pictures, makes a triumphant return as Bertha, the girl who has been faithful to Benny through his long imprisonment.

Other good performances are contributed by Jack LaRue, C. Henry Gordon, Raymond Hatton and William Blakewell.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH
A. E. Middlebrooks, Minister

In spite of all the sickness in the community the attendance at the services of the church has been excellent since Christmas. Each Sunday brings new faces and the return of those who had dropped out. Last Sunday the church school had the largest attendance it has had in several months.

Wednesday night of this week the church school staff met in a worker's council meeting and after the supper furnished by the Philathea Class, of which Miss Emma Sue Morris is the teacher, plans for the church school were discussed.

Dr. Middlebrooks will preach next Sunday morning on the theme, "Codes of Character on the Highway," and Sunday evening at 7:00 on the theme, "A Highway Sign—America's idol No. 1." The Epworth League will meet at 6:15 with Vernie Teel as counselor. The church school session will begin at 9:45 a.m., with Prof. L. C. Warr, general superintendent, and D. W. Waite, general secretary, in charge.

The public is cordially invited to all these services.

Alabama Man Wins Cup State Gets the Credit

This picture gives further evidence of returning prosperity, especially in Alabama, as a man from this state won a National Trophy Cup for showing the largest percentage of increase in his business.

This is also encouraging news, because Mr. Cooper, left in the picture, sells a high grade quality line of Overalls and Union-Alls, which shows that people in Alabama have never gotten far away from quality, even during the past three years.

The other man in the picture is L. C. Staples, President of The H. D. Lee Merc. Company, largest manufacturers of Work and Play Clothing in the country.

In commenting on winning the cup, Mr. Cooper says there is no place in the U. S. A. where the people appreciate quality, more than they do in Alabama.

Lee Overalls and Lee Union-Alls are handled locally by The Alex Sterns Company.

KIWANIS CLUB TO AID AGRICULTURE

Prominent Leaders Will Be On Program For Meeting Thursday

The subject of agriculture will have the attention of the Kiwanis Club of Clanton at its weekly meeting Thursday night at Exchange Hotel. The program will be in charge of the committee on Agriculture, of which County Agent J. W. Fant is chairman.

Two of the outstanding agricultural authorities in Alabama will be guests of the club, J. L. Liles, county agent of Jefferson County, and Dr. M. F. Jackson, agricultural agent of the Tennessee Coal Iron and Railroad Company, of Birmingham. They will discuss subjects in connection with the agricultural program of Kiwanis.

Mr. Liles is chairman of the Alabama Kiwanis District Committee on Agriculture, and Dr. Jackson is chairman of the International Kiwanis Committee on Agriculture.

Five of the objectives adopted by the Kiwanis Club of Clanton this year directly concern the advancement of agriculture in Chilton County:

1. To hold at least two meetings with farmers of the county during the year.
2. To carry a group of farmers to Auburn during the spring.
3. To erect signs designating five farm projects that are sponsored by the Kiwanis Club.
4. To assit in a rally of 4-H Club boys and girls of the county.
5. To impress farmers of the county with the importance and advantages of joining a farm organization.

Local activities of Kiwanis toward the advancement of agriculture are built around the international objective to promote better relationship and more friendly understanding between rural and town people.

FORMER AUTAUGA CITIZEN KILLED BY TRAIN IN KANSAS

News was received here the first of this week of the death of George Williams, a former resident of the northern part of Autauga County and well known in the southern part of Chilton County. He was killed by a train near his home in the southern part of the State of Kansas Saturday. Burial was there Sunday.

George Williams was about 66 years old. He was a native of Autauga County and spent the earlier part of his life near old Tyus postoffice in that County. He moved to Oklahoma 26 years ago, where he lived until last year when he moved across the line into Kansas. He visited relatives in the southern part of this county last year and attended a reunion at the home of Lewis Williams some time last August or September. He is survived by four brothers: Henry Williams of Billingsley; Lewis Williams of Verbena Route 1; John Williams of LaGrange, Ga., and Jimmie Williams of Thorsby. There is one sister, Mrs. Nevvie Johnson of Oklahoma.

Suggestions For Fertilizing Cotton

Offered By J. N. Dennis, One of Our Leading Farm Authorities

On page sixteen of the February Progressive Farmer, Prof. M. J. Funchess, director of the Alabama Experiment Station, recommends the use of a fertilizer containing 36 pounds nitrogen, 48 pounds phosphoric acid and 24 pounds potash per acre as one of the most profitable and best balanced fertilizers for cotton in our territory.

This may be obtained by the use of 600 pounds of Armour's Big Crop 6-8-4 per acre, or if you prefer home mixing use 50 pounds sulphate of amonia, 250 pounds 20 per cent superphosphate and 50 pounds muriate of potash well mixed and put out at or before planting time, then side dress with 150 pounds nitrate of soda soon after cotton is chopped and cleaned of weeds and grass and you will be pleased with the results.

If in doubt about how you will be able to properly balance your fertilizer consult your county agent, your agricultural teacher, or if more convenient for you I will be glad to assist you in finding and securing the most profitable and best balanced mixture for your crop.

Let's plant fewer acres in cotton, use the best seed obtainable, fertilize liberally with a properly balanced fertilizer and make every acre do its best in order to be able to grow more acres in food, feed and soil building crops, enabling us to maintain the fertility of our soils and live better at home.—J. N. Dennis.

The children are enjoying the stories told before and after each study. They are working for the story book to be given each child attending ten or more of these studies.

We invite you to come each Wednesday evening at seven o'clock. At the Seventh Day Adventist church.—A Member of the Study.

HOSEA DOWNS TAKES CHARGE OF POSTOFFICE MARCH FIRST

Mr. Hosea Downs stated Tuesday that he has received his credentials from Postmaster General Jim Farley authorizing him to take charge of the Clanton postoffice as postmaster at the close of business on Thursday, February 28th.

NEW THEATRE TO BE ERECTED HERE

Location Will Be On the Highway Next To Dixie Cafe

A new and modern picture show theatre for Clanton within the next few months is assured in the announcement of Mr. C. W. Wade this week that he has bought the property upon which to build such an enterprise. The location will be on the now vacant lot south of the Dixie Cafe fronting east on the highway.

Mr. Wade stated that his plans are to begin within a few weeks to erect a new brick building fronting thirty feet on the highway and extending one hundred feet back. Seating capacity of the new show house will be upwards of one thousand, which includes a second floor balcony seating about 300.

According to Mr. Wade, his new place will be built and designed to conform to the most modern plans for sound picture production, and all equipment and mechanisms will be employed to make it one of the best entertainment places in this part of Alabama.

When asked about continuing his present theatre in Clanton after the new place is completed, Mr. Wade said he did not have any definite plans made. He intimated that he will work out a program whereby he will show strictly first-run pictures at his new place and continue his present show house for the exhibition of pictures and programs for later releases.

During recent months the patronage of the Wadesonian Theatre has been up to its capacity, and many times beyond. Thus it is indicated that this community will support another show place, and Mr. Wade, sensing this opportunity, has taken the steps necessary to fill this demand.

OLD BIRMINGHAM HIGHWAY PLAN

Steps were taken yesterday by the Board of Revenue for surfacing with asphalt the old Birmingham Highway to the Montgomery County line, a short distance north of the Tyler Goodwyn Bridge across the Alabama River. The baord appropriated $5,400 as its part of the project, the money being taken from the road and bridge fund. The appropriation was conditioned upon the city surfacing with like material North Court Street and other links of the highway within the corporate limits of Montgomery.

A similar project has been started by Elmore County authorities in cooperation with the state and the federal emergency relief administration, which are also cooperating with this county and city in paving this end of the road. The Elmore project extends from the Montgomery County line to Millbrook. No provisions have been made for improving the road north of Millbrook, it was announced by the state highway officials.—Montgomery Advertiser.

MUSIC APPRECIATION CLUB HERE SPONSOR 'STRAIGHT IS THE WAY'

The Music Appreciation Club of Clanton is sponsoring the picture, "Straight is the Way," at the Wadesonian Theatre tonight, Thursday, February 14th. There will be a good comedy. The public is urged to help out the club by attending this picture.

Riley Robinson of Providence, Beat 16, was 84 years old on Monday, February 11th, having been born in 1851. In celebration of this event as well as paying respects to the faithful companion who has been joined to him over 60 years, all the children met at the old family home last Sunday and had dinner together. The three living daughters, all present, were: Mrs. Beanie Bates, Mrs. Francis Bates and Mrs. Filey Wyatt. The living sons were all present—Rev. W. W. Robinson, R. M. Robinson, C. H. Robinson and John Robinson. Besides the children, a number of grand children and great grand children were there to enjoy the fine dinner and contribute toward the happiness and enjoyment of the aged couple. There were about thirty present in all.

Horrible Death For Boy, Age 13

Jesse Knight Dragged Nearly A Mile Through the Swamp

Jesse Knight, age 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Knight, of Samaria, met a horrible death last Thursday afternoon when he was dragged about three quarters of a mile through a swamp by a run-away mule. The youth had been plowing the mule. When it was time to quit plowing in the late afternoon, it is supposed the boy attempted to ride the mule to the house. In some manner he became entangled in the plow gear. The mule became frightened and ran away, dragging the boy through the woods.

Jesse was a student at Thomas Jr. High school. When he came from school Thursday he went to the field where his father was plowing. He took the plow to work in his father's place until night. After his father left him in the field no one saw him until he was found dead after the fatal accident.

His body was horribly torn, bruised and cut as it was lashed against trees and pounded against the ground as the mule made his wild flight through the woods. The boy's foot was fastened in one of the trace chains.

Funeral services were held at Samaria Friday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Buford Lawrence. Martin was in charge of burial arrangements. The deceased was a member of the Baptist Church at Highland.

He is survived by his mother and father, two half brothers, one brother and one sister.

EXPECT MONEY FOR THE CITY HALL AND WATERWORKS SOON

Mayor C. Fenn Jones stated Wednesday that all papers, contracts, specifications, etc., concerning the new city hall and waterworks extension have been completed and sent to Washington. He expects the town to have the money in hand in the next ten days, and work on the jobs to start as soon as the contractors get on the ground with equipment.

Dry Forces Will Meet In Clanton

Friday Morning At 10 o'Clock At Chilton County Courthouse

All dry forces in Chilton County are asked to come to Clanton on Friday morning at ten o'clock for a rally in the fight for children, women, good government, sobriety, safeness, business and morality. Mrs. Lamar Smith, president Alabama Women's Temperance Union will make a brief address followed by Mrs. Mary Ogden Armour, national lecturer on temperance. Mrs. Armour is rightfully called "the Georgia Cyclone" in that with undisputable facts she sweeps away every excuse to repeal Alabama dry laws.

This is an opportunity that every citizen should grasp to hear these two nationally known figures. Indifference upon the part of the good citizens of this county may lead to the repeal of our state dry laws and turn this state over to the element who would debauch its men, women, children for personal gain or for a pittance of revenue promised schools.

Let Friday morning show where we stand on this vital matter.

4-H Club Visits Cotton Mill Here

Over Six Hundred Boys and Girls Carried Through Textile Plant

Through special arrangements with Mr. Homer Roberts, mill superintendent, the farm and home agents arranged a visit to the Alabama Mills, Incorporated, at Clanton, Alabama, for the 4-H Club boys and girls in Chilton County.

From February 5th to the 13th over 600 boys and girls visited the mill and studied the processes through which cotton is carried from the bale of cotton to the bale of cloth.

Only two boys were found in this group of 600 pupils who had ever seen inside of a cotton mill.

The following teachers accompanied the pupils from the different schools:

Maplesville, J. E. Daniel.

Thorsby, Mrs. Katie Cobern Williams.

Thomas Jr., Mrs. Clara Vines and G. C. Weldon, Jr.

Mt. Pleasant, J. L. Wilson and Mrs. Dody Wells Brown.

Stanton, Howard Boockholdt.

Union Grove, Mrs. Nettie Glasscock and G. C. White.

Collins Chapel, H. G. Daniel and Simuel Mims.

Concord, W. T. Bean and Edward Glasscock.

Cooper, H. A. Harris.

Vermont, R. B. Johnson.

We want to take this opportunity to express our appreciation for the cooperation of the mill officials, teachers and bus drivers in carrying out this project.—J. W. Fant, Ruth Pardue.

TEEL-McKEE MARRIAGE

The marriage of Miss Evelyn McKee to Mr. J. L. Teel was solemnized at 2:30 o'clock last Thursday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom L. McKee, on Lay Dam road. The ceremony was pronounced by Rev. W. S. Cox.

After the ceremony the happy couple returned to their new home in Clanton. Their many friends extend congratulations and best wishes for their future happiness.

American Legion Meets Fri. Night

State Commander Pritchard is Coming Here To Discuss Bonus Payment

Chilton County Post of the American Legion has invited our able State Commander W. S. Pritchard, of Birmingham, to speak to the ex-service men of Chilton County at 7:30 p.m. on Friday evening, February 15, 1935. At this occasion it is hoped that every Legionnaire and every ex-service man in the county will be present.

It will be recalled that our state commander at the last National Convention at Miami was the author of the resolution adopted at this convention calling upon Congress for the payment of Adjusted Certificates which are commonly known as the "bonus". Commander Pritchard is unquestionably the best posted man in the state on this proposition and will discuss the reasons why the "bonus" should be paid at this time.

Remember the date, Friday night, 7:30 at the courthouse in Clanton, and bring a buddy with you.

Mrs. W. W. Fox and Mrs. Claude Goodman spent the week end in Birmingham.

VOTE NO! NO! NO! FEBRUARY 26

Think for yourself if a wet promises that if we repeal our liquor laws there will be no saloons. In every state in this nation where the liquor laws have been repealed the old fashioned saloon has come back.

The United States Department of Justice shows that there were 177,000 saloons when prohibition was ushered in. The Internal Revenue Department of the government shows that on June 30, 1934, there were over 700,000 saloons, or four times as many as there were as in pre-prohibition rays. In addition to the open saloon, it can be bought in most any public places as hotels, cafes and filling stations, etc.

The state liquor control system is now being tried in Virginia. The first four months intoxication has increased on an average 71.1 per cent in thirteen principal cities, and driving while drunk has increased on an avtrage of 53.3 per cent. Bristol, Pulaski and York Counties have already voted to dispense with the state control system.

Vote "no" on all three of the propositions because it is wrong to encourage in any way any business that destroys or impairs physical, mental or moral health, happiness and prosperity of a people.

Vote "no" because the liquor business is wrong in principle and practice; that is, it is wrong both morally and economically.

Vote "no" because it is wrong to make liquor, buy it, sell it, drink it, or give it away.

Vote "no" because it is wrong for the state to license a wrong, or go into the liquor business, or seek to finance its affairs with liquor money.

Vote "no" because it is poor economy to get a dollar for revenue and put out two dollars in costs.

Vote "no" because the ones you have heard talking on the other side either drink it or want to drink it, or hope to make money out of the ones who drink it.

Vote "no" because the church is against it.

Vote "no". It should be made hard for the person who does wrong, and easy for them that do right.

Vote "no" because it is better to do right, than be popular with liquor folks.

Vote "no" because you live with your conscience, look folk in the eye, and stand before God in the last.

Vote "no" because the blessed book says, "Woe unto him that giveth his neighbor drink, that puttest the bottle to him, and makest him drunken (Heb. 2:15)." "Look not upon wine when it is red. At last it biteth like a serpent and stingth like an adder (Proverbs 23, 31 and 32.)" "Abhor that which is evil; cleave to that which is good." (Rom. 12:19). The above words were written centuries before there was such a thing as distilled liquor. What would the inspired writers say about it today?

Surely vote No! No! No!—Public Committee Against Repeal.

LITTLE WILL NOT BE IN HIS OFFICE SATURDAY

County Superintendent Luther Little will not be in his office next Saturday, on account of being called to Montgomery to a meeting of an important educational committee.

Mr. Little regrets that he must be away from his office on a Satday when so many people want to see him on business, but he felt that he should go to Montgomery next Saturday on account of the great importance of the subject to be considered.

TWO BASKET BALL GAMES HERE ON THURSDAY NIGHT

Two basketball games are scheduled at the High School gymnasium for to-night (Thursday) of this week.

The first game will be the High School boys against the Fire Department team. The second game will be the girls team of Clanton against the girls team of the High School.

A PROCLAMATION BY GOV. GRAVES

America Should "Respect All Fear None and Be Always Ready"

Believing that America should "respect all, fear none, and be always ready," and believing further that one of the surest ways of obtaining and maintaining international security, peace and good will is to be prepared to meet any emergency which may arise in our national life; and

Believing further that America should at all times maintain an army, navy and marine corps and air forces to full treaty strengths; and

Believing further that Alabamians should at all times possess all obtainable facts relative to such great issues as national defense, and believing that it is a duty of our people to inform themselves on such issues thereby reinspiring themselves through what they learn to a greater patriotism; and

Whereas patriotic organizations throughout the United States and the State of Alabama during the period from February 12 through February 22, 1935 plan public exercises whereby a message will be conveyed to the people of our land illustrating the needs for an adequate national defense and an army, navy and marine corps and air forces to full treaty strength,

Now therefore, I, Bibb Graves, governor of the State of Alabama by virtue of the authority vested in me under the Constitution, do hereby declare the days from February 12 through February 22, 1935, inclusive, national defense week; and do hereby call on all citizens of Alabama to aid the American Legion, reserve officers association and other patriotic organizations with their message of education and patriotism. Given under my hand and the great seal of the State of Alabama at Montgomery, on February 8, 1935.—Bibb Graves, Governor of Alabama.

ILLNESS FATAL FOR DR. O. S. JUSTICE

Dr. O. S. Justice, widely known and prominent citizen of Elmore County, died at 11 p.m. Sunday at his home at Central, where he had practiced medicine for 50 years. He would have been 75 in May. His health had been failing for several years and he had been in a coma most of the time since he was stricken when in Montgomery about one week before the Christmas holidays.

Besides a medical career of a half century, Dr. Justice leaves behind years of public service in the legislature of Alabama. He served two terms of four years each in the state senate and another term in the house, and was the author of several bills designed to improve the health conditions of the people of Alabama. Dr. Justice, while a member of the legislature, also displayed strong convictions for certain principles in government which he deemed essential for a successful and progressive democracy. He had been a warm friend for many years of many of Alabama's leading public officials and other citizens.

Following his attack here just before Christmas, Dr. Justice was taken to St. Margaret's Hospital, where he remained until about three weeks ago.

He was for several years health officer of Elmore County. He had been a member of the Alabama Medical Association for many years. Born in Coosa County, he moved to Elmore in early manhood. He was a graduate of the Alabama Medical School located at that time in Mobile.

Surviving are two daughers, Mrs. B. Frank Ellis, of Central, and Mrs. Gaston Harden, Montgomery; five sisters and three grandchildren.

The funeral will take place at 11 a.m. today from the home, the Rev. A. F. Howington, pastor of the Methodist Church of Eclectic, officiating. Burial will be in the Central Cemetery, McMorris, of Wetumpka, and Harden, of Eclectic, in charge.—Montgomery Advertiser.

GRAND JURY WAS IMPANELED MON.

Two Murder Cases Among the Problems On Docket for Investigation

The Grand Jury of Chilton County was impaneled Monday morning by Judge Arthur Glover, of the Circuit Court, and instructed to begin its investigation of all alleged violations of the law that may be brought to its attention.

Judge Glover, sitting on the bench here for the first time since his election last November, delivered his charge to the jury in a calm, deliberate and impressive manner, clearly and concisely outlining to the jury their duties under the law.

Grady Heflin, of Clanton, Cashier of the Peoples Savings Bank, and member of the City Council, was chosen by the court to act as foreman of the grand jury.

Other members composing the jury are R. D. Woodson, Tom McKee, Elbie Deason, Ed Wagoner, Willie H. Wilson, John D. Armstrong, J. Frank DuBose, F. E. Neely, Lon C. Keen, Worth Foshee, William H. Abney, Will L. Ruddick, Joseph A. Davis, Charlie J. Mitchell, Luther T. LeCroy, George W. Porter, Ed Y. Conway.

Sheriff Hardy nominated J. L. Easterling to serve as bailiff of the grand jury, and he was sworn in by Judge Glover. Just before noon the members of the jury retired to their room to begin deliberations. Circuit Solicitor, Winston Hudleston, and County Solicitor, Grover Walker, are directing the inquiries of the jury.

In addition to several minor matters of alleged violations of the law, there are two important murder cases to be investigated by the present grand jury. The mysterious and unexplained death of Joe Reynolds will come up for unraveling. The body of young Reynolds, a resident of the Clanton Mill Village, was found on the railroad tracks here some months ago.

Another murder case to come to the attention of the jury is the alleged slaying of C. A. Johnson by Dan Lockhart, near Billingsley some months ago.

These cases, together with the routine duties of investigating the county jail, almshouse, county offices, etc., are expected to take practically all of this week.

J. H. Limbrick Killed By Train

Accident Happened At Billingsley Last Thursday About Noon

Rev. J. H. Limbrick, age 58, widely known Methodist minister, and County Commisisoner of Autauga County, died about noon last Thursday, the result of injuries sustained when he was struck by a northbound M. & O. train at Billingsley.

The accident happened near the Billingsley School as Rev. Limbrick, alone in his car, was driving across the railroad tracks. Suffering a broken neck and fractured skull he died a few minutes later while en route to Maplesville where he was being taken by the train crew to meet a Martin ambulance to be brought to the hospital in Clanton.

Rev. Limbrick lived in the Indian Grave community just across the line in Autauga County. Although he was born and lived all his life in Autauga County, he was well known in Chilton County. He had been pastor of several churches in this section, among them the Walnut Creek church, near Clanton.

He is survived by his widow; two sons, Curtis, of Kansas City, and Aticus, of Billingsley; one daughter, Miss Sarah Maude Limbrick; his stepmother, Mrs. Mary Limbrick; one brother, T. E.; two half brothers, W. F., of Billingsley, and Martin, of Montgomery; five sisters, Mrs. Celia Gray, Clanton; Mrs. Ella Thrash, Mrs. Nita Thrash, Mrs. Sadie Benson, and Mrs. Alice Williams, all of Jemison.

Funeral services were held at the Pleasant Hill Church in Autauga County Sunday at eleven o'clock. Martin & Sons were in charge of burial arrangements. The Masonic burial ceremony was rendered at the grave. The funeral was preached by Rev. T. C. Cassady, of Montgomery.

SYMPATHY

The death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugie Williams and carried away their precious little son, Jerome, who was loved by all who knew him. Our loss is heaven's gain.

Think of Jerome not dead, but liveth on, for here there is no abiding stay. Look to the future where the sundered ties of earth are re-united. Into each life some rain must fall; some grief provoke a tear; but on through the parting clouds at last the rainbow will appear. So may the sunshine filter through the clouds that over shadow you. May God's richest blessings abide with the bereaved ones.—A Friend.

Pete Jarman, of Montgomery, formerly Secretary of State, was a visitor to Clanton Saturday and Sunday. His many friends here were glad to see him.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

Rev. M. A. Hopkins, native Tennessean who is working as a missionary under the Southern Presbyterian Board in China, and who is professor of Biblical Theology at the North China Theological Seminary located at Tenghsien Shantung, China, addressed the students and faculty at the Bob Jones College recently. He gave as the aim of the North China Theological Seminary:

"The Bible — undiluted, undiminished, and undiscredited — for China.

"The Bible — before all human philohophies and speculations and social panaceas — for China.

"The Bible—with its own sovereign emphasis on what the living God deems essential—for China.

"The Bible—God's most ancient yet most modern revelation of the way of eternal life—for China.

"The Bible—the handbook of the supernatural and the searchlight of all superstitions—for China.

"The Bible—the basis and capstone of all education from kindergarten to university—for China.

"The Bible—the divine spring of all true prayers, whether individual, social, or national—for China.

"The Bible—the original and utterly reliable source book of knowledge about the Lord Jesus Christ—for China."

It is a great joy to the writer to know that the North China Theological Seminary stands in the very heart of China uncompromisingly for the authority of the Bible and the gospel message. Our information is that this institution is doing a wonderful work. The Christian people of this nation who believe in the old time religion should give their money for the carrying on of an orthodox missionary program in foreign lands. Modernism has done enough harm in this country. It has emptied our churches and made atheists out of many boys and girls who have attended colleges, and it has been respnosible for the behavior which has produced so much looseness. As far as the writer is concerned, he refuses to contribute any of his money for a modernistic missionery program at home or abroad.

ALABAMA GIRLS VIE FOR STATE HONORS IN ESSAY CONTEST

A 1935 high school essay champion is to be crowned in Alabama.

Miss Rosa Miller Hobbs of Selma, 1934 state title winner must yield her throne to another student of this state who will be selected within the next three months.

Full details of a contest, which again will be open to high school students enrolled in home economics courses, has just been received by teachers of this town. The contest not only is state-wide, but national in scope, it is said. It is sponsored by the live-stock and meat industry through its organization, the National Live Stock and Meat Board. The topics for essays will deal with phases of the subject of meat.

University scholarships will be the goal of students who enter. They will be given the opportunity to compete against girls in other states for sectional and national honors. Last year the national championship went to Miss Anne Oczkewecz of Everett, Wash.

Prominent home economics authorities will select the winners according to the contest announcement. In a similar event last year, Dr. Louise Stanley, chief of the bureau of home economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, was chairman of the judging committee.

Dewey Rockett returned from Birmingham Tuesday night. He was in a hospital for a minor surgical operation a few days.

MONEY ASKED FOR POSTS

Washington.—Approximately $500,000 in new construction at Fort McClellan and Maxwell Field, in Alabama, was recommended to the house military affairs committee Friday by Gen. Douglas McArthur, army chief-of-staff.

Of the sum $270,000 would go to McClellan for new barracks, officers' quarters, fire and guarthouse, warehoose and telephone communications.

Maxwell Field was designated as needing $188,500 for a gymnasiom, modern radio station, hangars and telephone commonication.

FARMERS DEFRAUDED BY CHANGE OF MULE TEETH

Auburn, Ala.—Dr. C. A. Cary, state veterinarian, has issued a warning to Alabama farmers to be careful about depending upon the teeth of horses and mules determining their ages.

Dr. Cary declares that many farmers are being "outrageously defrauded" by horse and mule dealers and shippers changing the animals' teeth so that they appear much younger than they really are. He gave an example of one mule that was bought as a 6-year old and it was found to be 20 years old.

A bill is now before the state legislature making it "unlawful to transport or move in any way for any purpose into Alabama any horses, mules, or other solipeds that have had any of their teeth burned cauterized, or changed in any way to make them look younger than they are". It also prohibits state dealers changing the animals' teeth.

MACHINERY REPAIR IS IMPORTANT JOB

One of the most important jobs on Alabama farms at this time is getting farm machinery ready for work before the spring rush begins, declares J. B. Wilson, agricultural engineer, Auburn.

The first step is to inspect all machinery carefully, he says, and make an inventory of repairs needed and the parts to be replaced.

Parts should be ordered as early as possible so they will arrive before the machines must be used, he explains, and the repair work scheduled so that the machinery to be used first will be repaired first.

LEONARD DOUGLAS WYATT

Leonard Douglas, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wyatt, of Concord, died last Saturday. Funeral services were at Concord Sunday conducted by Rev. Grady Williams. Martin had charge of burial. The child was born January 12th this year.

SCREW WORMS MAKE EARLY APPEARANCE

Auburn, Ala.—Screw worms have already appeared in Florida this year, according to reports reaching Dr. R. S. Sugg, extension livestock specialist, who warns Alabama farmers to be on the lookout for the pest.

"No one knows how serious the screw worm infestation will be this spring and summer but it is probable we will have some trouble with them," Sugg declares. "It would be advisable to keep the cows, just before and during calving season, in small pastures where they can be given daily attention. As the calves come treat the navel with some fly repellant, as pine tar oil, and castrate when two or three days old. Put pine tar oil around the scrotum to keep flies away. See the calves every day until they heal up. If there is any dehorning to be done do it now before warm summer weather."

EARLY GARDENS PROFITABLE

Early garden vegetables, such as cabbage, lettuce, onions, spinach, kale, mustard, beets, carrots, peas, and Irish potatoes should be planted during February, says Julian Brown, extension horticulturist, Auburn.

"By planting these early, farmers will have a supply of fresh vegetables in March, April and May," he advises.

To obtain high quality vegetables, they should be planted on the best soil available and fertilized heavily. Applications of stable manure and high-grade commercial fertilizer, together with thorough preparation and tillage of the soil, will pay big dividends.

BIRTHDAY DINNER AT THORSBY

The children of Mr. J. H. Collins of Thorsby gave a birthday dinner at Mr. Collins' home in Thorsby last Sunday. The occasion was in honor of the birthday of both Mr. Collins and the children's grandfather, Uncle Akins Mims, of Chunchula, Ala. Uncle Akins was 85 years old and Mr. Collins was 68 years old. Besides these two gentlemen eleven others were present consisting of the children and grandchildren of Mr. Collins and Mr. John T. Mims, of Thorsby. There was a total of thirteen present.

C. E. Stapp, of Selma, was a visitor to Clanton Monday. To one who might not know him, his extensive hand-shaking would indicate he is some politician come to town. But everybody knows Cohen, and all understand that his hand-shaking is not political, but just the good old fashioned friendship which he shares with us all.

AN OLD TIMER WRITES OF THE COUNTY POLITICAL SITUATION

Editor Union-Banner:

By the way of review we wish to indorse your editorial on the League for Better Government, particularly what you said relative to vote buying and vote selling. What you said should be spoken in thunder tones. How can we ever have a satisfactory administration while votes are bought sold, or fraud practiced. No party can boast of victory with that kind of stigma trailing after it. The League for Better Government calls on us now to all cooperate. Then we think of the struggles of the Republican party to bring our county to its present good condition, with no one to say, "Let's all cooperate."

Then the article by Rev. Hull on prohibition came straight from the shoulder. We know it cut close and hit hard. But truth will prevail. Go back and read it again. More than forty years ago the last public saloon disappeared from our county. Back in the days of the saloon the automobile was not dreamed of.

How would it do now to have the two mixed up on the highways? Conditions are bad enough now without adding the saloon to our other troubles. It seems like we heard the program in 1932 was to kill the 18th amendment, but not bring back the saloon. The amendment was killed and now we have seven hundred thusand saloons. At that rate the saloon must be on the way back. Individually we are against the saloon. We remember it in the olden time. Strong drink is an evil. We are against it. It's sale is an evil. It brings trouble, sorrow, suffering, want. If it should be voted back, then when it brings on us all it's attendant evils, we can say we did what we could to prevent it.

Rev. Littlejohn's article contained much food for thought.

Hard times are still with us and will be until the buying power of the masses is restored. As long as we destroy our crops, slaughter hogs to create high prices for the producer. How can the consumer buy? He can't do it. So it is hard times.—An Old Timer.

IN MEMORY, MRS. W. H. HARDEN

Mrs. W. H. Harden, age 45 years, died at the home of her father, Rev. J. D. Hughes, last Tuesday, February 5th.

She is survived by her husband and one son, of Birmingham; father and mother, Rev. and Mrs. J. D. Hughes, of Verbena; three sisters—Mrs. W. M. Devaughn of Clanton Route 2, Mrs. H. J. Taylor of Cooper, and Miss Claudia Hughes of Verbena; two brothers—C. D., and L. D. Hughes of Verbena.

She was buried at Chestnut Creek Baptist church where she was a member. Rev. J. W. Jones, pastor, officiating. J. Mell Martin was in charge.

Her leaving us took the first link out that family chain. We are so lonely here withou ther, but the Heavenly Father's will be done. We want to live nearer Him each day, so we'll be ready when he calls us for that reunion over there.

'Neath the mound of blooming roses,
Cold in death, our darlings lies.
But her spirit's with the angels
In that home beyond the skys.
She is sleeping over yonder,
In a churchyard by the way.
Only sleeping till the dawning
Of the resurrection day.

Donald Comer Is Anti-Repeal

Donald Comer, son of ex-Governor Comer, and Alabama mill magnate, in an appeal last Sunday to keep the repeal referendum free from personal animosities and bitterness voiced his opposition to repeal and the licensing of strong drink in Alabama in strong words that should make every business man, and every good citizen think carefully about how he votes.

Mr. Comer said:

"The Legislature of Alabama has provided the machinery that is to permit the citizens of this state to express their wishes on the continuation or not, of our prtsent dry laws," said Mr. Comer. "The campaign is going to be short, and I hope it will be free from those things which tend to stir up personal animosity and bitterness.

"In discussing this matter heretofore, I have always recognized that friends may, and do differ as to the best way to handle this question. The argument that has least appealed to me, however, has been that of license and tax money to flow into government treasuries for the privilege of making, distributing and selling intoxicating bevorages. It always has appeared to me inconsistent to speak of educating against the harm of alcohol, when at the same time the state is, for dollars, licensing the traffic in that very thing.

"I will always vote against legalizing for dollars, the making and selling of beverages that intoxicate and brutalize. I shall always vote against the state making this traffic respectable by license, and I am perfectly willing to bear my share of any additional taxes that may come because of this position."

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our friends and neighbors for their kindness during the recent illness and death of our beloved mother, Mrs. Emma Cox. We thank the ones who gave the flowers. May God's richest blessings fall upon each and everyone, is our prayer.—The children.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kilgore have moved to town. They would be glad for any of their friends to call by to see them. They have rooms with Mrs. G. W. Golson.

The Story of the Bible Told in Pictures

Christ Blesses Little Children.—"And they brought unto Him also infants, that He would touch them: but when His disciples saw it, they rebuked them. But Jesus called them unto Him, and said, Suffer little children to come unto Me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God. Verily I say unto you, Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child shall in no wise enter therein."—Luke 18: 15-17. We find the same in Matthew 19: 13-15, and in Mark 10: 13-16. This illustration is from Merian's story of the Bible in pictures, engraved in 1625-1630.

Lesson for February 17

PETER TEACHES GOOD CITIZENSHIP

LESSON TEXT—I Peter 2:11-17; 4:1-5.
GOLDEN TEXT—Love worketh no ill to his neighbor: therefore love is the fulfilling of the law. Romans 13:10.
PRIMARY TOPIC—A Letter From Peter.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter Becomes a Teacher.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Makes a Good Citizen.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Responsibilities of a Good Citizen

In order to get an intelligent grasp of today's lesson one must get a view of the entire Epistle as to its purpose and method. The purpose was to establish all who were passing through suffering and testing (see 1:7; 3:14; 4:12; 5:10-12).

The principles of Christian behavior set forth in this text are of a broader scope than citizenship. They embrace.

I. Behavior as Pilgrims and Sojourners (vv. 11, 12).

Christians are really sojourners on the earth. They have not their permanent home here. They are journeying through the earth on their way to their eternal home in the heavens. Their heavenly citizenship (Phil. 3:20) should constrain them to the maintenance of conduct consistent with their high calling.

1. Abstain from fleshly lusts (v. 11). The term "lusts" here includes the entire army of unclean forces springing from our carnal natures. They are enumerated in Galatians 5:19-21.

2. Behavior among the Gentiles or heathen (v. 12). The word conversation here means behavior. Christians are under obligation to so live as to render it impossible for the world to speak evil against them as evil-doers.

II. Behavior as Citizens (vv. 13-17).

While the Christian's true citizenship is in heaven, he has a responsibility as a citizen on the earth during his earthly sojourn. He should be in submission to properly constituted authority.

1. Obey all requirements of civil rulers (v. 13). Fidelity to Christ is shown by loyalty to civil authority. The intelligent Christian recognizes the necessity of government and graciously submits to those in authority over him, regardless of the form of government. His duties as a citizen he performs as the Lord's free man, not through servile fear. Government even of a low order is better than anarchy. Free submission to governmental authority puts to silence the ignorance of foolish men (vv. 15, 16).

2. Honor all men (v. 17). The Christian sees in every man the image of God and will, therefore, give him the honor due him. This applies to all relations wherein we touch human life.

3. Love the brotherhood (v. 17). The brotherhood is composed of those who are children of God by faith in Jesus Christ.

4. Fear God (v. 17). This means to recognize God's sovereignty, righteousness, and holiness, and properly to reverence him.

5. Honor the king (v. 17). This had a peculiar significance at the time this was written, because in all probability the wicked Nero was then reigning as the emperor.

III. Behavior in a World of Opposition (I Pet. 4:1-5).

1. Arm for the conflict (v. 1). Christians are engaged in a tremendous conflict with evil forces within and without. Satan and his angels are bent on the believers' defeat and destruction.

2. The salutary effect of suffering (v. 1). Suffering has a remedial effect upon God's children. The one who suffers with Christ as an example will have the consciousness that it is his identity with Christ that calls forth the opposition of the world.

3. God's will the regulating force of his life (v. 2). The will of God, not the lusts of the flesh, is the directing force of the believer's life.

4. The consciousness of a wasted life (v. 3). Looking back upon a wasted life in serving the lusts of the flesh will move one to give no more time to serving such a master.

5. The attitude of the world toward the one who separates himself from it (v. 4). The world speaks evil of those who will not go its way. The world not only wonders at the life of the Christian who separates himself from its pleasures, such as dancing, card playing, wine drinking, etc., but will heap upon him nicknames of reproach.

6. Account shall be given (v. 5). The Christian should so live as to be able to render a good account to God.

Fellowship With God

Every mental movement and religious activity of life should be a heartfelt plea for deeper and sweeter fellowship with God.

Need of the Day

The greatest need of today is a renaissance of character among the people of this distracted earth; a renaissance of that quality of character which recognizes obligations as an honest man recognizes his debts, and of the quality of faith that gives us the desire and the courage to help instead of to hide.

Belief Imperative

An optimistic view of life is a hollow sham unless it is based on a belief in human immortality.

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala.—Ray P. Holland of New York, editor of Field and Stream, says that game species, other than wild waterfowl, are on the increase in the East.

Mr. Holland and his son, Robert, a West Point graduate now connected with the national parks service, spent the past week hunting quail on the Shedd plantation near Gastonburg in Wilcox County.

The Field and Stream editor is an enthusiastic hunter and travels thousands of miles each year to enjoy the sport. In his capacity as editor he dictates the policies and superintends the publication of one of the largest and most widely read sportsmen's magazines in the United States.

His observations lead him to believe that most game and game bird species, with the notable exception of ducks, are steadily increasing in his section of the country. He said this is particularly true of deer, pheasants and the Hungarian partridge. Neither the pheasant nor the partridge has been propagated succesfully in the South.

He recalled approximately deer were killed in one year in Pennsylvania and did not seriously deplete the supply. This was two seasons ago when the state opened the season on doe deer in order to thin out the deer population. Ordinarily, he said, between 15,000 and 16,000 bucks are killed a year.

Mr. Holland described the increase of pheasants in some sections of the East as "phenomenal" and asserted that the Hungarian partridge is more plentiful in Saskatchewan and Alberta than the prairie chickens has ever been.

He was immensely pleased with Alabama's report on the increase of wild turkeys. He said all of the states that have copied Alabama's "gobblew law" have shown increases in their turkey crops.

Discussing the possibility of a moratorium on duck hunting next year, Mr. Holland expressed fear that, in the event the season is closed, the "good hunters will stay at home and the bad ones will go out and kill the ducks."

LITTLE JESIA KNIGHT DIED

Last Thursday evening about five o'clock little Jesia Knight met his fatal doom as he started to ride his mule to the house from the field where he was plowing, and got his foot hung in the trace chain, and it drug him one mile. He was twelve years old. He was the son of John Knight, of Clanton. And since it is God's holy will we must be parted for a while in sweet submission. All as one we said goodbye for a little while, but we didn't say goodbye forever.

Weep not, loved ones, for our loss is heaven's gain. He leaves to mourn his loss his father, mother, sisters and brothers and a host of relatives and friends.—Written by his aunt, Myrtle Knight.

Mr. George W. Porter of Beat 12, is having an experience this week trat has never been his before. He is 50 years old, and is serving his first summons to court as a member of the grand jury now in session.

But we are hoping to have them with us next Sunday. We are also glad to say we still have B. Y. P. U. here every Sunday night that the weather will permit us to go.

Listen, folks, next Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night are our regular meeting days, and our pastor, Rev. W. E. Robinson, will have charge of each service, and it will be well worth your time to visit at Pleasant Hill church and see what we are doing. While our church is getting better every Sunday, let's keep it going. We had a new member in our Sunday school last Sunday. Why shouldn't we think our church is growing?

Bird Day Observ'd In Ala. March 1st

Montgomery, Ala.—Bird Day, originated in this state 28 years ago, will be officially observed by Alabamians on March 1.

The date for the observance was announced by I. T. Quinn, commissioner of game and fisheries, after a conference with J. A. Keller, state superintendent of education. The commissioner at the same time suggested a program for school and club use.

"Bird Way, since Alabama originated the idea in 1907, has been one of the media by which an ever-growing interest in bird protection and conservation has been brought about," he said.

"The entire program of conservation as it relates to wildlife forms, including birds, is very largely a matter of education and an official observance of Bird Day awakens greater interest among boys and girls of school age in wildlife conservation."

Pointing to the fact that between 20 and 30 Alabama cities and towns have been designated as bird sanctuaries, Commissioner Quinn said that Bird Day also serves as an inspiration to civic clubs to throw barriers of protection around song and insectivorous birds.

"One or more persons may be found in every community who can talk interestingly on bird life," asserted Commissioner Quinn in outlining a Bird Day program. "Wherever possible a community program should be arranged and the parents of school children should be invited to take a part."

The suggested program and questionnaires:

1. Address by competent persons on the following subjects: (a) The value of birds to agriculture. (b) The recreational value of birds. (c) Our winter visitors.
2. How does the state protect the birds?
3. What can the citizen do to increase bird life in his community?
4. What are some common enemies of birds?
5. What are the attributes of true sportsmanship in hunting?

Legion Sponsored Fiddlers Contest

The Chilton County Post of the American Legion sponsored a fiddlers convention at the courthouse last Saturday night. Only a small crowd was out, but a good program was rendered. Percy M. Pitts was master of ceremonies for the occasion. The judges were Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Lowery and Mr. A. P. Vinson.

Each of the contestants rendered two selections in the first part of the program, after which several of the entertainers were recalled for an extra selection, to aid the judges in their decision.

The program was as follows:

H. A. Lee, violin, and Herman Lowery, guitar, two selections, the titles of which we did not get.

Lexie Mims, violin, Armon Mims, guitar and little Miss Lexie Mae Mims, mandolin—"Coal Mine Blues" and "Down Yonder."

Herman Lowery, violin, and Alfred Penton, guitar—"Down Yonder" and "Five Foot Two."

Archie Cleckler, violin, and Theron Ellison, guitar—"Dill Pickle Rag" and "I Don't Love Nobody."

C. N. Elland, violin, and Kermit Lowery, guitar—"Arkansas Traveler" and "Soldier's Joy."

Kermit Lowery brought out his guitar and sang "New River Train" and "Listen To the Mocking Bird."

Everett Cleckler (a young lad), violin, and Archie Cleckler, guitar—"I Don't Love Nobody" and "Down Yonder."

"Red" Cleckler, violin, and Archie Cleckler, guitar—"50 Years Ago" and "Sallie Johnson".

The judges asked for four recall numbers, as follows:

Archie Cleckler, violin, and Theron Ellison, guitar — "Italian Dream Waltz."

C. N. Elland, violin, and Kermit Lowery, guitar—"Old Hen Cackle".

Everett Cleckler, violin, and Archie Cleckler, guitar—"Bully of the Town."

"Red" Cleckler, violin and Archie Cleckler, guitar—"Alabama Girl."

The judges retired to make their decision, and while they were out, the audience was entertained by a selection by H. A. Lee, violin, Herman Lowery, guitar; also two selections by Archie Cleckler, violin, and Herman Lowery, guitar.

The judges awarded first prize to Archie Cleckler and second prize to C. N. Elland.

MT. PLEASANT

Mt. Pleasant basketball boys won another game Friday from Calera Jr. High School with the score 29 to 11. This marks the 11th victory for them without defeat thus far.

Coach Glasscock has done an excellent job of coaching this season. Taking only one regular player from last year's team, he has been successful in building up a winning team from otherwise inexperienced material. Mt. Pleasant does not have any outstanding star this year, because each player has been a star on his own position. The team is very evenly matched.

The following make up the squad: Earl Melton, George Chambers, forwards; Julius Traywick, guard and center; Chester Jones, Wilton Massey, Hubert Duke, guards. Since midterm exams, Vernon Collins, last year's star center, has been eligible to play.

EVAN PARRISH ADDING IMPROVEMENTS TO STORE

Mr. Evan Parrish, manager of the Southern Seed & Plant Company, is adding many improved facilities to his store in Clanton in order that he may be able to fully meet the demands of a rapidly growing business.

Catering to the needs of the farmers in this territory with a popular line of seeds, feeds, fertilizers, and other farm necessities, the business of Mr. Parrish has in recent years grown to be one of the most serviceable institutions ever established in Clanton. The hundreds of farmers who have become customers and regular patrons of the store have found that it meets their needs in a complete and satisfactory manner. Therefore the number of customers has increased greatly.

In order to meet the increased demands that are being made upon the business Mr. Parrish is now engaged in improving the store by addition of necessary fixtures and appliances that will enable him to continue to give satisfactory service to a larger number of customers.

Mr. Parrish conducts a cream shipping department in connection with his business, which has proven very popular and of much advantage to many farmers. During recent months he has paid around $300 each Saturday to farmers who bring in cream for shipment.

In the seed department there may be found every kind of thing that can be grown in the country. In order to simplify the problem of handling and dispensing such a wide variety of seeds, a display system is being installed, which enables the customer to see just what he is buying. Everything is labeled, easily read, and you know what you are getting when you get it.

Some idea of the demands that are being made upon the business may be gained by the statement of Mr. Parrish that he employs as many as ten people on Saturdays to wait on his trade.

Southern Seed & Plant Company has become widely recognized as an institution of really valuable service to the farmers. Mr. Parrish says, "I appreciate the confidence and patronage of the many farmers in Chilton County. I started out in a small way to be of service to them. As my business grows, I expect to increase my facilities so I shall be able to continue the service which the farmers may expect and demand of the business."

We Did It! And We Thank You!

We've been talking to you about bringing us cream and reaching a goal of 1,000 pounds in one Saturday. Well, we did it last Saturday, and our records show a total received of

1,069 Pounds

We appreciate that, and we think it further proves that we are satisfying our customers, and that our prices please.

Let us explain to you how to get standard cream cans for as little as 10c a week.

When it looked like Uncle Sam would join the World Court, the brass band at Geneva started to practice playing "Santa Claus is Coming to Town." But since the senate got in its work, the band has started rehearsing: "What'll We Do When the Rent Comes Around?"

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catts is quoted by one newspaper as stating it is about time to get rid of those senators who voted against the World Court. Maybe some of these senators think it is about time to abolish Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt as an international educational feature.

One of the popular songs of the day is: "On the Good Ship Lollypop," and that's about all Uncle Sam will have left if he gets in any more naval conferences.

The administration is getting ready to spend $4,800,000,000 to get the boys off the benches by Christmas. It is to be hoped that they will have better luck than Henry Ford did when he spent money trying to get the boys out of the trenches by Christmas.

A New York woman recently shot her husband just for fun—but it was for the fun he had been having with other women.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

A few weeks ago the Supreme Court of the United States handed down a decision fixing certain phases of the balance of power between the executive and legislative departments. The decision is one which will go down in history as a great American judicial achievement. A few days ago the United States Senate, in defeating the resolution for American adherence to the World Court, rendered a service to the American people equally wise, and equally fundamental.

The success of the American nationalists was all the more remarkable because they seemed to be leading a forlorn hope. At first, onl a handful of senators could be counted on as opposing the World Court resolution. Men like Senators Borah and Johnson, who had rendered heroic and patriotic service in the League of Nations fight, fifteen years ago, are not to be downed so easily. They started a real campaign and around them, both inside the Senate and out, rallied the Americans who still believed that men like Washington and Jefferson know what they were talking about. Almost without money and other material resources they carried the day, a tribute to the sound public sentiment of the American people. The decision of the senate was in line with the finest traditions of that body. No matter whether we agree with some of the senators or not on all issues of the day, it must be admitted that they fought like the Websters and Bentons of the earlier days.

It is to be remembered, however, that the votes against the World Court did not come from any one school of political thought or any one section of the country. Men opposing the court come from the West, the Middle West, the North, the South and the East. Conservative Delaware and conservative Rhode Island joined with liberal Montana, liberal Washington, and agricultural Iowa, to oppose the resolution.

In order to prove the diversity of location of these anti-World Court senators, it is only necessary to examine the list. The list is worth repeating again because the senators who withstood pressure of various kinds deserve an honorable place in the American records. Here is the list:

Bone, Washington; Borah, Idaho; Bulow, South Dakota; Carey, Wyoming; Coolidge, Massachusetts; Davis, Pennsylvania; Dickinson, Iowa; Donahey, Ohio; Frazier, North Dakota; Gerry, Rhode Island; Gore, Oklahoma; Hastings, Delaware; Johnson, California; La Follette, Wisconsin; Lewis, Illinois; Long, Louisiana; McCarran, Nevada; McGill, Kansas; Metcalf, Rhode Island; Murphy, Iowa; Murray, Montana; Norbeck, South Dakota; Norris, Nebraska; Nye, North Dakota; Reynolds, North Carolina; Russell, Georgia; Schall, Minnesota; Schwellenbach, Washington; Shipstead, Minnesota; Smith, South Carolina; Thomas, Oklahoma; Townsend, Delaware; Trammell, Florida; Walsh, Massachusetts; Wheeler, Montana; and White, Maine.

Senators who were paired against the court were: McAdoo, California and Overton, Louisiana.

Despite all statement to the contrary, the great amount of propaganda which has deluged the American people on international relations during the past ten years, has been favorable to the League of Nations and the World Court, not opposed to it. Those who stand with Washington and Jefferson against entangling alliances have had no funds with which to carry on a campaign. Concerted efforts to mix the United States into European affairs have been carried on almost constantly from New York and other centers by various international organizations. They have been apparently well supplied with money. But their efforts have been unavailing against sound American judgment.

There are, of course, some honest Americans who sincerely believe that the way to promote peace is to have Uncle Sam help settle the European quarrels. These may now be assured that Uncle Sam is in splendid shape today to do his part in promoting peace, a condition which we all desire. He can offer his friendly effort whenever the occasion warrants it, without being under obligation in advance to use his force in trying to put over a political decision which may or may not be just. With his hands untied, perhaps he can render some real service without threatening the rest of the world with military or economic sanction.

PRICE FIXING

In the first of a series of Washington hearings on the pending revision of the NIRA, a pronounced majority of the business executives who spoke were strongly in favor of a retention of price fixing or control in the codes. That is not surprising, as it has been the indicated attitude previously. But it is an extremely important issue for the consuming public, and doubtless will prove important to industry in a way that seemingly is not suspected now.

For price fixing, or control that amounts to it, is in the great majority of instances a dangerous detrimental procedure hurtful to the consumer, restrictive of public demand for commodities, a brake on production and therefore eventually injurious to business as a whole. The only possible exceptions are those industries which, by the nature of their services are public utilities in fact if not in name and on that account, subject to public regulation in the public interest.

The president himself, in his radio address of September 30, raised the serious question as to whether the codes had not "gone too far in such matters as price fixing and limitation of production," and the further "serious question as to the wisdom of many of these devices to control production or to prevent destructive price cutting which many business organizations have insisted were necessary, or whether their effect may have been to prevent that volume of production which would make possible lower prices and increased employment."

Undoubtedly revision of the recovery act along the lines here suggested would stimulate consumer demand and take a brake off recovery.

TO THE WEST COAST, AND BACK

(Part IV)

Friday morning, December 28. Inasmuch as we were only about 85 miles from Los Angeles, we took our own good time about getting up and away. Stopping at Redlands, Calif., we had breakfast, and I went with Mr. Duffey to get a shave. With all due respects to our local cafes and barber shops, that was the best breakfast and the smoothest and best shave I have ever enjoyed.

After Redlands, we came to Pomona, 35 miles from our goal. There is one thing I have to say for this town of Pomona—it is very beautiful, with its palm-lined streets, but it is the hardest town I have ever seen to get out of, that is, along any certain road. From Pomona there are a half dozen ways of getting into Los Angeles, and they all look alike. Nearly all California's roads are paved, and on nearly every corner in this town we saw signs pointing this way and that to Los Angeles. It was very confusing. We finally got away on the San Fernando route, and by and by reached Los Angeles, itself, the fifth city in size in the United States, and boasting nearly two million people in the city proper, not counting any of its many boroughs. It has several names—The Queen City, City of the Angels, Strand of Paradise, the Sunshine City, and others. It looked just like many other cities I have seen, except for the size, and the semi-tropic growth around there.

Of course we would have to get lost to begin with, but, after all, we at least had that bother off hand and didn't have to worry with it any more. Finally we got on the main drag of the city, Sunset Boulevard, and went out to Angelus Temple, in the northeast part of the city, after making our way through the Chinatown section. That Chinatown was something!

We were taken through Angelus Temple and the Bible school building alongside it, all of which is run by Aimee Semple McPherson. Mr. Duffey took quite a few notes on the temple, among them the huge unsupported dome, the largest of its type in the country, the big auditorium with a ground floor and two balconies which, all together, seats 5,300 people. We were taken to the "miracle room," where there is to be seen every kind of brace, cast, etc., from plain crutches to full body casts and braces. There was to begin on January 1st the annual convention of Foursquare delegates which would convene at the temple. My wife and Mrs. Taylor were delegates to this convention from the Clanton Foursquare church.

Through with the trip through the temple, we met Essie Binkley Locy, who conducted two revivals in Clanton in 1929, and went with her to her home in Burbank, a few miles away. Here she keeps a home for homeless girls and children, known in the Los Angeles district as Sunshine Home.

From here we phoned to the home of Mr. J. B. Champion, a former Verbena boy. Mr. Duffey had written to Mr. Champion that he was to attend the ball game, so they were expecting him. Appointment being made with Mr. Champion as to where we would meet him, I found Mrs. Locy's brother, and he piloted us all down to meet Mr. Champion. I needed a pilot—I could do fine in this big city with him along to tell me which way to go, but without him I was like a blind dog in a meat house—I knew where I wanted to go, but I couldn't get there. I saw no more of Mr. Duffey until Friday morning, January 4, the day we set out for home. Mrs. Taylor went to the home of Miss Earlmeda Hagenbaugh, where she stayed while in the city.

After I left Mr. Duffey with Mr. Champion, my pilot, Mr. Binkley, helped me, and we went out to "see the town", inside and out. I don't suppose I saw it all, but I saw enough, and there was one strange thing I want to tell about. A week or more before I left here our local Wadesonian Theatre showed "Big Hearted Herbert", starring Guy Kibbee—and while riding around over Los Angeles that night we passed the Broadway Theatre, one of the biggest in the city, and lo, behold, "Big Hearted Herbert" was showing there. Imagine, our Clanton theatre showing a picture two weeks ahead of one of the biggest in Los Angeles, when the picture was filmed not over six miles from the Broadway, and Clanton is something over 2,000 miles from there. That was just a bit hard for me to understand. I think that is some kind of a boost for Mr. Wade and our local theatre. Who can say that we never see any new pictures?

After spending the night with Mrs. Locy, at her Sunshine Home, we called Mr. Binkley again and he took us, the wife, Bettye, and myself, to see some other sections of the city. We went through Burbank, El Monte, Glendale, Hollywood, Beverley Hills, Pasadena and others, and finally out to Van Nuys, where we were to spend two nights with Rev. and Mrs. E. A. Wicks, who conducted a revival here in 1931.

Leaving my wife and baby at the Wicks home, I set out, with Mr. Brinkley, to get my ticket to the football game. I tried at several places in downtown Los Angeles, where tickets had been sold, but there were "sell-out" cards sticking up at all of them. Finally we went to Pasadena, to "general sales headquarters." Here I had some real luck. When I reached this place only 72 tickets were left, and they were all box seats, going at $5.50 each. I asked the good-looking sister at the window if I could get a seat in the "Alabama section," explaining that I had come all the way from Alabama for the game. She had none of this kind, but was very nice about it. Said she: "You people ought not to have such a popular team. This thing is a sell-out for the first time in the history of Rose Bowl. No, I can't give you a seat in the Alabama section, but I'll do the best I can—I'll give you one of the best seats there are in the bowl, just because you have come so far to see the game." I stood around a bit, wondering if I was to be foolish enough to give $5.50 to see a football game, and I suppose other people began to find that nearly all the tickets were gone, for they began to come in and buy in blocks of from two to eight tickets each. I saw at once that if I was to see the game I would have to act quick, so I told her to pass out my ticket. It called for Box 3 in Tunnell No. 21. I had to wait until the day of the game to realize how really lucky I was, and what a good seat she had given me. I'll tell you about that later.

We passed the time away, during the rest of Saturday, Sunday and Monday in attending services at Rev. Wicks' church, and at Angelus Temple, and in sight-seeing tours over the city. On Sunday night we met some other friends who had been in our home several years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Moss, who live in Burbank, and on Monday we went to stay with them until time for us to return home.

I want to describe the parade of the Pasadena Rose Festival and the Alabama-Stanford game in this week's issue, and to do so I must get going, as space will not stretch.

Rev. Wicks called for us at the Moss home at six o'clock on Tuesday morning, January 1, to take us to the home of Miss Hagenbaugh, who was to take us, with Mrs. Taylor, to Pasadena to see the parade. Miss Hagenbaugh knew the ropes, having seen the spectacle in past years, so she gathered up a bunch of boxes and took them with us, for us to stand on in order to look over other people's heads. We really needed them, too, as we found out, once in Pasadena. She drove all around and came into Pasadena from the south, knowing that the crowd would begin packing in from the north end of town. By 9:30 we were all set, and pretty soon the parade started. That was a spectacle I will never forget. As far as my eyes could see, both ways, the broad main street of Pasadent was packed with a squirming, seething mass of humanity. The official estimate was that a million and a half to two million were there, and I can believe every word of it. Stores, hotels and cafes were renting standing space in their windows; the side streets were packed and jammed all the way down the several miles the parade was to pass.

With the parade beginning, all officials came first, directly behind a flock of motor cops, who cleared a path in the street wide enough for the parade to pass throug. Harold Loyd was Grand Marshal of the festival, and rode in the first car. Following came various floats from cities, civic bodies, commercial institutions, schools, colleges, etc. In all there were 62 floats and 20 bands, and the whole line was something over five miles long. I have prepared a scrap book showing a number of the floats, and from this you may get some idea of the magnitude of the affair. It is impossible to describe the scenes in words, but these pictures will help, for anyone interested in seeing just what some parts of the parade looked like. One could not help wondering just how much labor, painstaking care, and actual money had been spent to make all this possible.

My wife had not been feeling the best, so just before the parade was over she became quite ill, and we had to take her to a nearby cafe-drug store for first aid, and missed one or two of the floats and one or two of the bands. We had seen enough, however. The parade over, my wife insisted that I go on to the ball game, as it was now past 1:00 o'clock. It was about three miles to the bowl, and the streets were packed and jammed the like of which I have never seen—all going one way. After about an hour's drive in this heavy traffic, Miss Hagenbaugh put me out pretty close to the bowl, after showing me where to wait for her after the game, to return home.

During the parade, as the Stanford University float passed, there was great applause, and some guy with a fog-horn voice yelled: "Where is Alabama?" Some fellow just behind me answered him: "They're over at the bowl waitin' for you Stanford guys. You'll see too much of Alabama before sun down." I imagine that Stanford rooter remembered those words later.

When I was shown to my seat, I found that I had a front line box, about the 35-yard line on the west (Alabama) side of the field. I was about 25 yards from the side-line. I think the whole Pacific division of the U. S. Navy must have declared a holiday, and came to the game. And—were they yelling for 'Bama? I really believe there must have been at least 3,000 sailors just back of me—everything from admirals to deck-swabbers, with leather lined throats which they were making the most of.

Alabama was represented (musically) by the Pasadena High School band, 240 strong, all dressed out in crimson and white, and they were certainly making the welkin ring. I believe that Alabama had fully as many, if not more rooters in the stands than did Stanford. Stanford is situated at Palo Alto, in western-central California. There are several big universities in the state, and every one of these had representatives there who wanted to see Alabama beat Stanford. I arrived just about five minutes before the kick-off, and settled down for a big afternoon. I had it, too.

I will be forced to save the story of the game, and the return home, for next week, for lack of space.—Man in the Moon.

No matter which side wins, it's always the taxpayers who lose the war.

THAT MYSTERIOUS 244

Editorial From DeKalb Times of January 31 Explains DeKalb County Racket About Fraudulent Election

The mysterious box, containing the mysterious 244 purported absentee ballots, which has caused so much furore since the general election, has been given sufficient publicity, it would seem, yet a brief and authentic history of this unspeakable piece of fraud will do no harm.

This lot of ballots was taken to the postoffice in Fort Payne on the eve of election, by Mr. H. U. Gilbert, secretary of the Democratic Campaign Committe, and there postmarked by the postoffice authorities. Mr. Gilbert then withdrew the ballots, each having been stamped and bearing the stamp, "Withdrawn before Dispatch," and "lugged" them to the Probate Judge's office. When Mr. Gilbert pushed the ballots through the window at the Probate Office, Judge Malone inquired: "What are you doing with my mail?" To this query Gilbert made no explanation, merely evincing nervousness by "swallowing" and "gasping" and getting away as quickly as possible. The delivery of these ballots was made at 4:45 p.m.

This lot of ballots, over which such a bitter controversy has raged, was rejected by the officials in charge of the absentee ballots, for perfectly valid reasons: They were not legally mailed as required by Section 406 of the 1923 Alabama Code, which states that an absent voter must request an absentee ballot (after having made required affidavit) and after having voted same must return it, together with oath, in a sealed envelope to the Probate Judge by mail. How strange it is that these more than 200 absentee ballots would, in violation of the law, be returned to Mr. Gilbert or some one other than the Judge of Probate!

It is known, too, that a number of purportedly absent persons, who, it was claimed, voted those ballots, were dead, still others were known not to be out of the county, and others personally requested that absentee ballots, which had been voted for them, be rejected, as they were not absent from the county, and intended to vote in person on election day.

An absentee ballot is subject to challenge, as is any other ballot, and when the ballots referred to were challenged, no one sought to prove their genuineness — hence their rejection (Section 500, 1923 Code). In rejecting this lot of absentee ballots, the election officials acted within the law; in truth, had they been counted the law would have been grossly violated. The history of these much disputed ballots was cloaked in extreme suspicion from beginning to end—the gesture of mailing them by a person or persons in Fort Payne, their strange and unlawful delivery to the Probate's office, and every other procedure by which they were handled—all branded them with fraudulence in its most decomposed form. The Democratic leaders know they weren't legal in any phase, and to force their tabulation into the election records of this county is a disgrace that will haunt her good name for generations to come.

The mysterious ballots in question were taken to Montgomery and used to seat Mr. Tolbert in the Alabama House of Representatives Although the Democrats claim that some of them had been "tampered" with, and with insinuations directed at the Republicans —Sheriff Pope has a receipt, signed by the Sergeant-at-Arms by whom the ballots were taken in charge, stating that the box had not been opened nor any seals broken.

All legal absentee ballots, which were voted on November 6th, were counted and included in the election returns and official count, but this "mystery lot" could not be accepted as legal by the election officials. Can they be blamed for its rejection?

Even more hideously dishonest than the above account of the disputed absentee ballots, was the voting, by Democrats, of hundreds of forged qualification certificates on November 6. Many of these certificates were held by the Republicans after the voters had used them to vote the Democratic ticket, and will be exhibited to those who may be skeptical of this charge. Attorney Scott, when interviewed by a Birmingham Post representative, made the outrageous statement that these certificates were voted by Republicans—that Republicans had books of them at the various voting precincts on the day of election, and that some Democrats procured them from Republicans and voted under them. Such audacious loquacity! And coming from Attorney Scott, who, from his long professional career, knows, no doubt, the value of correct statements! When the light of truth is thrown on their misdeeds, the Democrats, vermin-like, scurry away for cover.—The DeKalb Times.

PREVENTING WAR

In a leaflet purporting to be a digest of a sermon preached by Dr. Malcolm L. MacPhail on Armistice Day, November 11, the Doctor is quoted as saying: "If the love of money is not the root of all evil it is surely at the root of most of this human cry about preparedness. Some no doubt believe sincerely that preparedness will prevent war. But history is against them. Taking history by and large, preparedness never prevented war; it invited it. Nations which prepared for war usually got it."

Just how Dr. MacPhail goes about convincing himself through study of history that preparedness never prevented a war, is a little difficult to see. History is the more or less true account of the wars which have been fought in the world, one after another. History deals very little if at all with the wars that were not fought. Learning through history therefore just how many wars were prevented would be slightly difficult. But if preparedness never prevented a war it may be just as difficult to prove that pacifism never prevented one. Certainly that has not been the case in the United States. We were insulted and imposed upon by France and England prior to the War of 1812 because we could not defend ourselves. Our sailors were impressed and the laws of the sea violated because insult and violation could be practiced with impunity.

Perhaps never was the pacifist element so effective as during this unfortunate period of our history. Certainly pacifism did not prevent our being plunged into the World War. Our shipping rights were violated first by Great Britain and then by Germany. This was done because it was believed not without reason that we could not defend ourselves. It was not one of those cases where the spirit was willing but the flesh was weak. We were even told that we were too proud to fight and the presidential campaign as won on the slogan our chief executive by his diplomatic skill and desire for peace was keeping us out of war. Yet we got into war, forced into it by the very belief that we were unable to fight. There followed so desperate and expensive an effort to prepare that we are still paying some of the cost.

It may be seriously doubted that the love of money is at the root of most of the human cry about preparedness. Among those who desire preparedness are most of the thousands who crossed the ocean to fight for America in the World War. These men realized no monetary profit from this war. They would expect none in the next. They realize the horrors of international combat and they want none of it for themselves or their children. They believe that the way to avoid this horror is to prepare the nation adequately for defense. They know very well what most of us know, that there is little danger of Uncle Sam's going abroad to fight an imperialistic war. We have all the territory we need and more. What most Americans desire is to be left alone to work out their own destiny. They cannot do this unless they are assured of a real national defense. We realize that it would not pay us to go to war against another nation. Our only chance for safety is enough defensive strength to make the other fellow realize that it will not pay him to attack us. These are the reasons why the American patriots desire preparedness for defense. They are sound reasons and the love of money does not enter into them.

Dr. MacPhail is broad enough to admit that some people sincerely believe that preparedness prevents war. We are broad enough to admit that some people sincerely believe that pacifism will prevent war. It has never done so to the best of our knowledge. Reduction of armaments is a consummation devoutly to be wished, but it must be a general limitation of armaments. It must affect all nations alike. Were the United States to disarm as an example to the world and sit down lamb-like, in a nest of European and Asiatic wolves it would not be long until there was no American question. It would be merely the problem of European digestion and Asiatic assimilation.

There are some pacifists who demand the elimination of defense here but overlook entirely the case of Soviet Russia where even the women and children are said to have military training. These are not the sincere pacifists referred to above. They are inspired, not by the love of money, but by an affection for an Asiatic system which they hope will ultimately permeate America.

It is said that before the AAA lecturers start speaking this spring the band in the hall will play the new fertilizer song, "You're the Top."

The trouble with those World Court resolutions, they seem to make them up out of rubber. As soon as they hit the Senate, they bounce right back.

Anyhow it must be admitted, even by the internationalists, that the folks opposed to the World Court made business good for the telegraph companies.

That millionaire shoe manufacturer who is ashamed of his wealth is speaking out of turn. If he'll just be patient a little while, he won't have anything to be ashamed of.

The old theory if you start in one direction and keep going in that direction long enough, you will finally return to the place you started, seems to be the one used by the administration in balancing the budget. The idea being if you spend money long and fast enough, the budget will ultimately be balanced.

A CHILD'S LAXATIVE SHOULD BE LIQUID

(Ask any doctor)

For your own comfort, and for your children's safety and future welfare, you should read this:

The bowels cannot be helped to regularity by any laxative that can't be regulated as to dose. That is why doctors use liquid laxatives.

A liquid laxative can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced usage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation.

The right liquid laxative dose gives the right amount of help. When repeated, instead of more each time, you take less. Until bowels are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara, natural laxatives that form no habit — even for children. Its action is gentle, but sure. It will clear up a condition of biliousness or sluggishness without upset. Every druggist has it.

State Capitol News

Alabama State income tax is levied at a moderate rate, with due consideration to the welfare of the small taxpayer, the rate gradually increasing as the income mounts. This is in keeping with the accepted theory of income taxation, which is that ability to pay should govern. After deducting exemptions allowed by law, the rate for the first $1,000 of taxable individual income is one percent; where the taxable income is over $1,000 and up to and including $3,000, two per cent; over $3,000 and up to and including $5,000, three per cent; -5,000 to $8,000, four per cent; and over $8,000, five per cent.

The tax applies to income derived from salaries, wages, and commissions, income from business or profession; interest on bank deposits, notes, mortgages and bonds; income from partnership and fiduciaries; rents and royalties; proceeds from sale of capital assets; and income from dividends, except dividends from institutions paying an income tax to the state.

Every unmarried individual is allowed an exemption of $1,500, and every married person an exemption of $3,000. A husband and wife, however, receive only one personal exemption of $3,000 against their aggregate income. Where there are children, a credit of $300 is allowed for each child under 18. An exemption of $3,000 is allowed for any "head of a family"—a person who supports and maintains in his household one or more individuals who are closely related to him, and for whose support he has some moral or legal obligation. A return is required in any case from every unmarried person with an income of over $1,500, and every married person or head of a family with income over $3,000, even though may be entitled to deductions for dependents, etc.

Deductions allowed from gross income in determining the actual taxable income include interest on personal indbetedness, taxes, loss by fire, storm, etc., bad debts actually charged off during the year, and donations to religious, charitable, scientific or educational institutions not operated for profit.

The state income tax division has been reorganized since January 15, and is already making a close check in every county to uncover any delinquents on 1933 taxes. Returns on 1934 incomes are now due, and will be delinquent after March 15.

Graves Is Neutral On Prohi Question

Reiterating his determination to remain neutral and "umpire the game fairly" marked the conference here Saturday when a group of prohibitionists called upon Gov. Bibb Graves just before he left for Washington with his "new deal bills to negotiate for recovery funds." Gov. Graves reminded his callers that he had promised a fair election on the liquor question and now the matter is in the hands of the voters in accordance with his campaign promise.

During the campaign Gov. Graves promised the voters that he would submit a referendum election within sixty days after his inauguration. He took over the duties of the office on January 14, and the date of the election has been fixed for February 26—much less than sixty days after his inauguration.

Not only did Gov. Graves promise a fair election, but he also promised a clear-cut referendum. Both of these promises have been kept and the modificationists can vote "yes" on all three questions with the assurance that the saloon will not return. Those opposed to a change can vote "no" on all three questions and rest assured that the present regime will continue.

The visit by the group of prohibitionists to the governor Saturday was prompted by a report that he was quietly sending out word to vote "yes." The governor declared that no one was authorized to speak for him and that he would continue his policy of neutrality and "umpire the game fairly."

Those who know Gov. Graves best, know that he means just what he says. They know that he will remain neutral. They also know that those in his official family are at liberty to vote as they please without fear of punishment or hope of reward.

At headquarters in the Exchange Hotel, where Capt. J. Sanford Mullins is conducting the campaign for modification, encouraging reports continue to pour in. One caller there a few days ago assured Capt. Mullins that all 14 voters in his family will vote "yes" February 26, on all three questions.

REPLIES TO JACKSON ON PROHI QUESTION

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please allow me space in your paper to say a few words in regard to Mr. J. H. Jackson's letter in last week's paper.

Mr. Jackson said that he was surprised to see the church people make such a desperate fight to retain the prohibition law.

A true Christian person, who wants to serve God and protect his children and his neighbor's children against the evils of strong drink will want to retain the prohibition law.

Mr. Jackson said that it reminded him of the 23rd chapter and 35th verse of Matthew. If he had quoted the 34th and 35th it would have fit the case better. The 34th verse reads as follows: "Wherefore, behold, I sent unto you prophets, and wise men, and scribes: and some of them ye shall kill and crucify: and some of them shall ye scourge in your synagogues, and persecute them from city to city." Christians are God's servants and He wants them to fight for the right, and that is why the church people are for retaining the prohibition law. A Christian does not want to see his or his neighbor's children drunkards. The Bible does not uphold strong drink and how can a Christian?

In the 14th chapter and 21 verse of Romans we find these words: "It is good neither to eat flesh, nor to drink wine nor anything whereby thy brother stumbleth, or is offended or is made weak." If we vote to do away with the prohibition law we have put a stumbling block in the way of many. We will cause wives and children to have to suffer on the account of men spending their money for strong drink. We will also endanger our own children's lives with the evils of strong drink.

Mr. Jackson said that he believed that the ones that supported the prohibition law would be judges as greater criminals in the judgment day than those that violated it. The Bible says that whosoever believed in Christ should have everlasting life. And it also says that no drunkard can enter heaven.

I hope that every person will think before they vote to do away with the prohibition law.

Yours for retainment of the prohibition law.—Ollie Hayes.

If the Telephone were Not There!

MANY TIMES each day you reach for the telephone on your desk at the office or in its familiar spot at home. It is an old and trusted friend. You scarcely give a though to what it means to a busy day.

Yet suppose the telephone were not there! Suppose —for a week—or a month—you could not call anybody by telephone and nobody could call you! The whole machinery of business and the home would be thrown out of gear. Orders would be lost—efficiency and profits reduced. You would be out of touch with your world.

America needs quick, reliable telephone service to get things done in the brisk, crisp American manner. And it enjoys the best service in the world. America leads in telephone service. In relation to population there are six times as many telephones in this country as in Europe and the telephone is used nine times as much.

Greater progress has been made in this country because of the Bell System's one policy, one system and universal service.

Dr. Gragg Senses Economic Rifts In Future For U. S. Government

Dear Editor:

At the beginning, let it be thoroughly understood that in this letter I am not criticizing any administration or governmental agencies; for I feel that the New Deal at its beginning saved our country from revolution.

However, it seems to me that we are now in great need of some things; and some things we have, we don't need at any cost.

Now, one of the greatest needs is a better deal for the farmer and laborer; then it will naturally follow as day follows night, that there will be better times for everyone else.

There are two things that must not be forgotten. First, the common people, farmers, laborers, etc., are the backbone of our country; the people on which it depends for its very existence. Second, the farmer feeds them all, rich and poor, and were it not for him all would starve in short order. These are the two basic propositions that uphold the very foundation on which our government survives, and from which we cannot get away. This must be taken into consideration in every major move we make.

Has everything possible been done for the farmer, and has he had the consideration justly due him? After teaching the farmer (at the farmer's expense) to make more cotton, hen we let him plow it up (at his expense.) Oh yes, we pay him for plowing it up and then turn right around and tax cotton goods four cents per pound, flour $1.50 per barrel, meat, plows, in fact practically everything the farmer uses. So any nit wit ought to see that it is just a plain case of the farmer paying himself back for his plowed up cotton. In other words, "Jones pays the freight." He had already used the fertilizer and done the work to produce this crop and it is too late to plant another on the same land, so you see he was out his labor and money to produce it.

For argument's sake let's speak of two bales of cotton and let's use ten cents as the price so it will be easy to understand. The farmer has two bales of cotton for which he can get ten cents per pound or $100. He plows up one bale and this doubles the price making twenty cents per pound or $100. He still gets only $100 for his cotton besides losing the seed which might have been used for fertilizer or cow feed. So you readily see he is not one whit better off.

But, there is another serious side to their question. While Mr. Farmer is destroying his product, whether cotton in the South, wheat in the West, or hogs in the northwest, and just breaking even or losing money by doing so, the big warehouse man, the speculator, who has millions of this particular product in store is the one, and only one, who is reaping a golden harvest. He has not destroyed half his cotton or his hogs while Mr. Farmer has destroyed half his to to double the price without being benefited. Mr. Profiteer still has all his on hand ready to market at double price, and thereby make 100 per cent above a reasonable profit, as a result of a crop destroyed by poor Mr. Farmer.

Some will say, "Well, that is a thing of the past, why bring it up." True but is the debt the farmer still owes, that might have been paid, a thing of the past? No, it is still standing, or rather "rapidly growing" over him.

If it was necessary to destroy four million bales of cotton in order to get it off the market, why not go to the warehouses and ask Mr. Profiteer for four million bales of his poorest grade of cotton, the government paying for and destroying it. That would have removed from the warehouse records millions of bales of almost worthless and rotten cotton that is standing there today holding down the price of Mr. Farmer's good cotton from year to year.

But the best thing of all is that this plan would have given the farmer the benefit of the double price for his entire crop and not for a half crop. In other words, Mr. Farmer would have been benefitted in the deal instead of Mr. Profiteer getting it all. Then maybe Mr. Farmer would have been able to make a payment on his mortgage on his home, pay part on the doctor's bill, buy the wife a new stove, the children some clothing, repair the barn, etc., all of which has been neglected.

Now, how about cutting production, Mr. Farmer? I hope it is a good thing. They say it is. The same fellows that taught you how to make two bales instead of one now get up some recruits and helpers for you to pay and will proceed to teach you how to cut down production.

One thing I said a year ago or two years ago was, "As soon as cotton growers in foreign countries, e.g., Mexico, Brazil, Egypt, India, etc., learn that we are cutting our crop they will increase their crop to supply the world's demand, and we will wake up to find ourselves with no world market a few years later because the cotton could be bought cheaper anywhere than in the United States."

If we are not careful what we are doing, the first thing we know we will have no foreign market. Cotton will be cheaper than ever, foreign goods will be shipped in cheaper than we can manufacture them at home and nobody in the world will be benefitted but Mr. Profiteer. Something to think about. What is the remedy? I don't know.

Now coming to state and local affairs. I don't think we need any more whiskey, wine or beer than we already have. Whether legal or illegal it is harmful a thousand times where it is beneficial once. I do not think that officers have the backing of the people in enforcing prohibition, therefore I would not be surprised at our state going wet. I am proud to say that I still have hopes that our county will give a respectable dry vote. If I was going to vote one or two yes's I would vote all three, as the first one or two will only be a camouflage for the third, i.e., if beer and wine are sold legally, nine times out of ten, whiskey will be sold illegally at the same place. I know we have lots of bootleggers, but repeal will not cure that. To sum up in a few words, it is absurd to vote it in if you want it out. If you are more interested in liquor than you are in your child or your neighbor's wife or child, just vote it in and don't blame the bootlegger for you certainly will have him right on whether you vote wet or dry.

Well, a word about Clanton. It needs to grow. If it doesn't it is going the other way. I would like to see it as big as Thorsby, which is at present about eight times as large as Clanton. Any adjacent farm land that might be caught in the corner can be assessed so low that it will be of little difference to the owner. Certainly reasonable officials would enforce no undue regulations or restrictions. With its present population it makes a poor showing on census reports. There are so many special laws that apply to a town the size it would be —laws regulating schools, railroads, insurance, taxes and government that now do not apply to us whatever. Great benefits that we are now missing. The town will be much benefitted and some of the men who are now objecting would be Mayor or councilmen and would be proud of their town.

Just one more thing. If times are not too hard, why not start a movement to have an annual county fair at the airport? So that our farmers could compete and compare their methods and show off their products, and profit thereby, as well as have an all around grand time.

I would like to say something about "dole," "relief," "public works" "Coosa River improvement," etc., but doubtless this is too much already.—V. J. Gragg.

Commissioners Regular Session

The regular quarterly meeting of the Commissioners Court was held Monday and Tuesday of this week. There was a great array of matters to come before the court, none of which were of very much county-wide importance.

Concerning the matter of hauling gravel for the county the court set up a uniform scale of prices to be paid for this work. The order allows 60 cents an hour for one-yard trucks and 80 cents an hour for two-yard trucks.

The court agreed to purchase and install a clock in the petit jury room of the courthouse, and provide suitable places for the jurors to hang their hats.

Petitions were presented to the court from some sections of the county asking for removal and appointment of some road overseers and county employees. These matters were deferred by the court without action thereon.

Representative Charley Cox discussed with the court the question of passing a bill in the legislature authorizing the court to transfer county money from the general fund to the fine and forfeiture fund. This matter was calculated to enable the fine and forfeiture fund of the county to pay the many outstanding obligations against it for which there are at present no funds available.

The court passed an order setting up a uniform system for the purchase of supplies and the employment of labor and authorizing work done for the county. The plan places authority for orders against the county in the hands of the commissioners and Probate Judge. An official statement and full explanation of this system will be published next week, it was stated Wednesday by the county attorney.

AUTO WRECK MONDAY MORNING NORTH OF JEMISON

Spigener's ambulance was called to the scene of an auto wreck just north of Jemison early Monday morning.

The wreck occurred about 7:00 o'clock. One of the cars, "Dad's" Oatmeal Cookie truck, a Chevrolet light delivery truck was driven by C. E. Hollingsworth, who was not injured seriously. Riding with him was J. E. Ashton, proprietor of the cookie concern, who received several bad cuts about the face. He was carried to Gorgas Hospital at Birmingham, by Spigener's ambulance; 24 stitches were required in treatment.

The other car was a Ford V-8, driven by R. M. Shank, of Birmingham, a representative of the Heinz company. His injuries were slight, and he received first aid at Clanton before going on to Birmingham.

It was reported that the cookie car had started away from a store just north of Jemison, going south, and collided with the north bound Ford just as he reached the highway. Both cars were complete wrecks. When the cars stopped rolling, both were turned in the opposite direction from which they were traveling when the wreck occurred.

Miss Sara Elizabeth Venable and Miss Theda Wyatt were the week end guests of Misses Mary Jo and Jean Sanford in Wetumpka.

COUNTY BUYING PLAN EXPLAINED

Orders Must Be Secured From Probate Judge or One of Commissioners

In accordance with our promise of last week, and in order to fully acquaint the public with the details of the county's purchasing plan recently ordered and adopted by the Commissioners Court, we have secured for publication this week the following statement authorized by the Court through the County Attorney, Mr. Omar L. Reynolds.

"The Court of County Commissioners at its session on February 4th, 1935, prepared and adopted an order which provided that hereafter no person, except the four commissioners and the probate judge, had the authority to purchase or buy for Chilton County, any material or supplies, unless a written order was given by one of the commissioners or the judge of probate authorizing the purchase of said materials or supplies; and it was further ordered that no person shall be authorized to have any work done or bind Chilton County for such work alleged to be done for Chilton County, except by a written order from one of the County Commissioners or the judge of probate; and the judge of probate and the commissioners each have in their possession order books which have been specially prepared for this purpose.

It was further provided in said order that the Commissioners or judge of probate, if he desires work to be done or material or supplies to be purchased for Chilton County, that he give to the person selling said material or supplies or the person to do the work, a written order that the person furnishing the material or supplies, or performing the work for Chilton County shall retain said written order, and when the claimant desires to make claim to the Commissioners Court, that he shall attach said written order to his claim, and in this way the commissioners will always be assured that the work was properly authorized and that the county received the benefit. Said commissioners, or judge of probate also have a duplicate copy of said written order which he shall have at the session of said commissioners court passing the claim, to verify the same.

"However, the court provided that the provision of said order did not apply to any contracts made by the court while in session or to any materials or supplies purchased or work authorized to be done by the court, or other claims passed while in session, and that the same did not apply to laborers or road hands or to any salaried officials or to other claims directed by law to be paid by the county.

"Said order further provided that the commissioners can refuse to pay any claims of the classification stated herein, unless the written order is

Boy Scouts Will Organize Again

Meeting Called Friday Night, March 1st at the Clanton Baptist Church

A meeting for the purpose of reorganizing the scout work in Clanton will be held at 7:30 , March 1st, at the Clanton Baptist Church. In the past several months the troop has been inactive but as the summer draws near, we will need something to fill our spare time.

A question that is often asked is 'What is a Boy Scout and What is the Nature of One?" Well I am going to try to answer this by a series of writings in your local paper. A Scout is one who finds fun in hiking through the woods.

He can tell the north from south by moss on the trees and east from west by the shadows. He can talk to another scout across a river by signaling. He knows most of the trees, birds and animals in his locality. He knows poisonous and nonpoisonous snakes. If he should become lost from camp in a large forest he could find his way out by the guidance of the stars. A true scout never becomes lost, but sometimes the camp gets lost and he has trouble finding it.

If by any chance the matches are left in a chair at home he just laughs and proceeds to make a fire Indian fashion, rubbing two sticks together. When a fire is built he cooks his own meal so as not to get sick. He does not even use a pan to bake bread in, instead he uses a stick. Ask a scout how.

He keeps himself physically fit. He avoids the poison alcohol and tobacco. He also thinks ahead what he would do in case of an acident, fire, or if a person should become drowned. He knows first aid from the ground up. Scouting is a fine training for a boy between the ages of 12 and 18. If you happen to be of age be on hand March 1st. Watch your local paper next week.—John Thomas Parlar, reporter.

USUAL RULES APPLY

Montgomery, Ala.—Attorney General Carmichael ruled Saturday the prohibition referendum election February 26, would be held in the same manner as now provided for all general elections, with all qualified electors entitled to vote.

The opinion was written at the request of Judge Charles E. McCall, who said he had been requested to furnish information to a probate judge regarding the preparation of lists of those qualified to vote in the referendum.

In another opinion the attorney general held that boards of education are without authority to employ any member of such board to do any work, perform any duties or do any service which come under the board's jurisdiction.

The opinion was requested by H. E. Williams, Lauderdale County Superintendent of Education, who asked whether it was within the law to employ the chairman of the school board, a dentist, to make sanitary inspection of schools.

And to clear up a legal tangle Mr. Carmichael rendered an opinion to the effect that a "calendar year" means from Jan. 1 to Dec. 31, inclusive. This opinion was requested by the probate judge of Mobile County.

LILES, JACKSON KIWANIS GUESTS

Agricultural Objectives Featured In Program on Last Thursday Night

The weekly meeting of Clanton Kiwanis Club last Thursday night was of more than the usual interest. Dealing with the objectives and purposes of Kiwanis in advancement of agriculture and farm relationships, the program, under direction of J. W. Fant, chairman of the Agriculture Committee, brought before the club two of the outstanding agricultural authorities in Alabama, in the person of J. F. Liles and Dr. M. F. Jackson, both of Birmingham.

Mr. Liles is county agent of Jefferson County, and chairman of the Alabama Kiwanis District Committee. Dr. Jackson is agricultural agent for the T. C. I. Company.

The principal address of the program was made by Mr. Liles, in presentation and discussion of the plans of Kiwanis in Alabama to aid the farmers in an educational way. Dr. Jackson followed him with an impressive appeal to the Clanton Club to fulfill its opportunity in the field of agricultural education in Chilton County.

Four new members of the Clanton Club were presented by Sam Ezell, chairman of the committee on membership. The additions were Dr. Hosea F. Downs, Dr. Jesse Sam Gowan, J. P. Lawrence and U. H. Abrams.

MRS. JANIE MERCHANT DIED

Mrs. Janie Merchant died Tuesday night at the county almshouse, where she had lived for some time. Before coming to the almshouse she was a resident of the Maplesville community. The body was carried to Maplesville for burial Wednesday.

MRS. GWATHNEY'S HOME BURNED ON MONDAY OF LAST WEEK

The home of Mrs. Gwathney, in the Macedonia community, near Lay Dam, was burned on Monday, February 11, about eleven o'clock, a.m. The home with all its contents was a complete loss. Mrs. Gwathney was vsiting in Sylacauga, and the children were at school at the time the fire occurred.

The burning of the Gwathuey home was the last of a series of fires that have happened in the same community. The holiness church building was burned last summer; also a tenant house belonging to Rudolph Moates. Later in the fall a barn owned by Richard Wilson was destroyed by fire.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

Dr. Middlebrooks will preach next Sunday morning and evening. At 11 a.m. he will discuss the theme "A Watchtower View of the Highway." And at 7 p.m. the theme will be "America's Idol No. Two." The public is invited to these services.

PEOPLES SAVINGS BANK BOUGHT MULLINS PROPERTY

Public announcement was released this week by Mr. Frank Callen, president of the Peoples Savings Bank, of the purchase by the bank of nine feet of the W. I. Mullins lot adjoining the bank building.

While no statement was made concerning the future plans of the bank for use of the additional space, it is assumed that it will be used for enlarging and improving the bank building at such time as it may choose to do so.

It is currently talked that the Mullins building will be torn down this summer, and a modern brick and stone structure erected in its place. Actual plans, however, have not been given out by the owners.

More than likely, when a new building is erected on the Mullins corner, the Peoples Savings Bank will keep step with the improvement by also utilizing their part of the space by extending their present building.

Martin & Sons Better Equipped

Lowering Device, Green Grass and New Hearse-Ambulance Recently Added

Keeping in step with progress and the most modern appliances for service, the funeral home of J. Mell Martin & Sons have recently added a number of features to their facilities for handling funerals and burials.

The most recent addition to their equipment is a lowering device which operates mechanically for depositing a casket in the vault or grave. With this device they have secured a large carpet of artificial green grass to be laid around the grave. This eliminates the inconveniences of funeral attendants having to stand in mud or fresh dirt.

Only a few months ago this popular concern added a new eight-cylinder Henney combination hearse and ambulance to their road equipment.

In a statement Tuesday Mr. J. Mell Martin, founder and manager of this business said:

We have always tried to give to our patrons the kind of service and attention which they felt they needed. We feel that we have been rewarded in terms of appreciation and confidence among those whom we have served. We expect to keep ourselves and our facilities fully prepared and always ready to continue the high standard of service which has been our policy. We are glad that we are able to give a service that is second to none in Alabama."

JOHN B. MOORE BURIED SATURDAY OF LAST WEEK

John B. Moore, age about 70, died last Friday at his home in Dry Valley, and was buried Saturday near Montevallo.

He is survived by four brothers: Prof. J. Alex Moore and Sam Moore of Dry Valley; Dr. Cary Moore and Dr. Clifton Moore of Talladega. There are four sisters, Miss May Moore of Dry Valley, and three married sisters in Birmingham.

No charge will be made for this service. The matter of filing your income tax return should be given immediate attention, in order to avoid penalty and interest.

If your net income is $1,000 or over or your gross income $5,000 or over and you are single (or if married and not living with husband or wife), you are required to file a return. Want Two Doors In New Postoffice

Telegram Sent To Congressman Oliver Requesting His Assistance

Since the plans for Clanton's new post office building have been announced, there has arisen quite a lot of dissatisfaction among the citizenship over the fact that the plans do no provide but one entrance to the building.

A representative delegation of business men appeared before the town council Tuesday night to discuss the question. After a brief discussion, it was unanimously agreed that the mayor and council dispatch a telegram to Congressman Oliver, requesting that the plans be changed.

Early Wednesday morning Mayor Jones expressed the wishes of the people and the town officials to Mr. Oliver by telegraph as follows:

"The city officials and many citizens request you to use your influence with authorities at once to give the proposed postoffice building for Clanton an entrance on both First Avenue and Sixth Street."

It is understood that the plans of the building as now made, provide for the fronting of the new postoffice to the north on First Avenue, with the only public entrance on that side. Everybody would prefer to have the plans provide for a public entrance on both streets, as expressed in the telegram of Mayor Jones.

THORSBY WATERWORKS JOB GETS STARTED THIS WEEK

The installation of a municipal waterworks and sewage system for the Town of Thorsby was begun Monday of this week, we are informed by Mr. Grover Harris, Jr., of the Chilton County Reemployment Office.

Contract for the job, it was stated, has already been made through the Public Works Administration, to the firm of Sullivan, Long & Haggerty, of Bessemer.

Labor for the Thorsby job is being furnished through the Chilton County office of the National Re-Employment Service. Mr. Harris stated that about 70 men are being employed.

In this connection Mr. Harris also stated that it is expected that the additional paving on the Selma Highway west of Clanton, will be started this week.

An Honest Word From Virginia---Read This

A letter from J. M. Rowland, editor Richmond Christian Advocate, to Rev. Paul Gilbreath, showing the unbearable debauchery repeal has brought to Virginia:

" . . . We have over four thousand legal liquor shops in the state, far more than we had in the old days of the old fashioned saloon. And in spite of our high powered "central" board with its expensive machinery and political officers drawing big salaries, everybody admits the bootlegger is flourishing more than ever.

"The courts have just exposed the worst liquor scandal in our history and over forty high citizens and political office holders have been arrested for conspiracy to defraud the liquor laws. All the county officers and others seem to be involved and were running a big racket with all of them getting boodle out of it.

"Several of the judges have become alarmed over the marked increase in drunken-driving and wrecks caused therefrom and are lecturing the courts and people. The newspapers are conductnig safety campaigns for safety in driving. The increase is admitted to be over twenty per cent in fatal accidents the first year.

"In social society the matter is so serious with increased drinking among young people that a movement has been started in the society circles to open "milk bars" at the parties and try to wean the drinkers from the liquor bottle to the milk bottle.

"In seven local option elections we have had since repeal six of the towns have voted dry by big majorities.

"I travel about twenty-five thousand miles a year and last year saw more evidence of public drinking than in ten years before. I see empty bottles in the parks and along the streets and roadways and I never saw one in months before. The state capital park we have to go through several times a day is a rendezvous for them when the weather permits. The young lady in the office said the other day she had gotten afraid to go through it on account of menacing bums who drink and then sober up and start out begging.

"Two of the elite clubs raided last week and lots of liquor confiscated. Both running bootlegging on a big scale.

"I have challenged the two papers in this city to deny they are receiving at least seventy-five thousand dollars a year for liquor ads and they will not answer. They run as high as three hundred inches daily.

"Notwithstanding the control board promised not to advertise, extensive advertising is done on radio, bill boards, and in newspapers and magazines. They wiggle out of it because they say that they are not advertising but the ads read 'For sale at all state liquor stores.'

"We are being run over ruthlessly, have been sold out soul and body by our state politicians and I have lost the last lingering tinge of respect for them.

"Tell the people of Alabama not to be blinded and mislead by the biggest lying propaganda ever enacted on a civilized people and use this in anyway you see fit. I take full responsibility for every line of it. . . "

The above letter proves the following statement of Joseph H. Choate, Jr., the leading wet of the nation and director of the federal alcohol control board, in which he condemns the state control system the wets are trying to adopt in Alabama. This statement of Mr. Choate which should completely discredit the wet leaders in Alabama as to the virtue of the state control system, is as follows:

"But if you want to know whether I am for that system I will say that I view it with some doubt. Unless you have a large number of state stores and run some of them at a loss—unless you provide exactly what the customers want—the bootleggers will be patronized. Naturally such stores open a new door for graft and corruption. The state monopoly makes possible the building of a political machine. It's hard to get enough honest employees or pay them enough to eliminate dishonesty. Such a system can easily destroy the honesty of even the best state administration. I say it's a bad system because it is fraught with that danger."

Every control system in America has broken down and crime, drunkenness, driving while drunk and bootlegging have resulted. Don't be fooled by the false doctrine. Vote dry and save the people of our great state from this shame and distress

JUDGE REYNOLDS RETURNED FROM A TRIP TO FLORIDA

Judge L. H. Reynolds returned Sunday from a trip to Florida, where he spent several days last week enjoying the many delightful comforts and pleasures of the Sunshine City, St. Petersburg.

He said the temperature ranged around eighty degrees every day he was there, and everybody was having a good time swimming at the beaches. "I had a little cold when I went down there," he said, "but a few dips in the surf cured my cold, and I had a most delightful rest."

SOLDIERS HEAR BONUS ADDRESS

Commander Pritchard and Arthur Greenwood Spoke to Veterans Friday Night

The World War veterans of Chilton County enjoyed a get-together rally at the courthouse last Friday night, when a number of prominent American Legion officials delivered addresses upon subjects of much concern to the veterans.

The principal speaker was Col. Pritchard, of Birmingham, commander of the Alabama Department. He discussed the bonus question, outlining the stand of the Legion in requesting the government to make immediate and full settlement of the adjusted service certificates. Col. Pritchard expressed the opinion that the bonus question will be settled and payment of the certificates authorized in the enactment of a bill now before congress.

Department Adjutant D. Trotter Jones, of Montgomery, was one of the visitors, and made a short talk to the veterans. He introduced Commander Pritchard, and presented him for the main address.

Arthur Greenwood, of Birmingham, prominent Legionnaire, and proprietor of Greenwood's Cafe, accompanied Col. Pritchard on his visit to Clanton. Mr. Greenwood addressed the gathering, and stressed the importance of every ex-soldier being a member of the Legion. He made the veterans a proposition whereby they can join by the hen route or the 'tater route, as he termed it. "Send me three dollars worth of hens or 'taters, or anything I can use in Greenwood's Cafe, and I will pay your dues for you," he said.

CHANGE IN OWNERSHIP OF FARMERS HARDWARE CO.

A business deal was consummated recently whereby a change was made in the ownership of the Farmers Hardware Company of Clanton. Mr. J. Renfroe Jones has relinquished his interest in the business and will not be connected with it in the future. The company is now owned by the estate of E. M. Jones, deceased, and Lester Jones.

The personnel of the store force will remain the same as before, with the exception as referred to above. Those who will continue to run the business are: Lester Jones, Amon Jones and Lonnie Richardson.

In speaking regarding the business Mr. Lester Jones said: "We are gratified with the business our many friends have turned our way, and our present hope is that we may be favored with a continuance of this business. We assure the trade of this territory the same courteous and efficient service that they have always found at our place of business."

MRS. HEATH HOME ON FIRE WEDNESDAY NOON

The old home of Mrs. Heath in the heart of Clanton, was damaged by fire at noon Wednesday. The house was being occupied by the families of Mr. DeWitt Easterling and Mr. Clarence Easterling.

The city fire truck was unable to respond to the alarm on account of a flat tire. However, the firemen were on the job as usual, and hastily improvised a scheme for attaching a hose to the fire hydrant on the corner of the block next to the threatened building.

A portion of the roof of the west wing of the building was ripped off so that water could be applied to the fire, and the fun was soon over. With a strong wind blowing and the fire truck out of commission, some apprehension was expressed for the safety of nearby business houses. Luckily, however, the fire was stopped without much damage.

Get some new tires for the fire truck quick. Don't let us get scared that way any more, please.

Miss Callie Watts returned Friday from a few days visit to the market in Atlanta.

GRAND JURY GETS 20 TRUE BILLS

Recommended That County Do Something About Sheriff's House Near the Jail

State of Alabama, Chilton County:

To Hon. Arthur Glover, as Judge of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, Alabama:

We the grand jury impaneled for the January term of the circuit court, after receiving your honor's able and instructive charge, entered upon our investigation of the matters that came before us as grand jurors and herewith submit the following report:

During our investigation we have considered 28 cases, have examined 100 witnesses and have already returned to your honor, two true bills and are returning herewith 18 true bills, making a total of 20 true bills returned by us against 26 separate defendants.

We have examined the fee book of the probate judge and find it neatly kept and correct in so far as we were able to ascertain. We have examnied the bonds of the various county officials and find that they are ample for the protection of the public and on our examination of the sheriff's account with the state for feeding prisoners, we find it being kept in accordance with the law. On our examination of the office of the county superintendent of education we find that his books, records and papers are being kept neatly and in accordance with the law in so far as we were able to ascertain.

We have made a personal inspection of the county jail and believe it to be sufficiently safe for the keeping of the prisoners and find that the prisoners confined therein are being well fed and cared for with reasonable comfort. The grand jury inspected the county's dwelling house that is situated near the jail. We find that this dwelling house is in a bad state of repair and is fast depreciating for lack of attention. This building is used to prepare food for the prisoners confined in jail, and is also used as a dwelling for one of the deputy sheriffs. The grand jury wishes to recommend that the proper authorities investigate the condition of this county property with the view of rebuilding, remodeling or repairing the building, whichever, in the opinion of the proper authorities, would be best for the interest of the county.

The grand jury inspected the almshouse and found that for the most part the inmates were contented and all of them had the appearance of having received the very best of attention and food. We found that Mr. S. W. Littleton, who has charge of the almshouse, is doing everything in his power to care for the inmates and that the buildings are being kept very clean and neat. We feel that the people of our county should feel proud of the manner in which the poor of the county are being cared for and the grand jury takes this opportunity to highly praise the officials charged

Baptist Pastors Against Repeal

Southeast Alabama Bible Conference Unanimous In the Support of Prohibition

Florala, Ala.—With a total registration of 35 ministers who are pastors of churches with a combined membership of 13,000, the Southeast Alabama Bible Conference, in session at the Florala Baptist Church, voted unanimously Wednesday to oppose repeal or modification of the prohibition laws of Alabama, and to oppose the sale of light wines and beer. They pledged to urge all citizens to vote "No, No, No" February 26.

This action was taken following an address by the Rev. Charles F. Leek, of Montgomery, in which it was pointed out that deaths from auto wrecks have increased 77 per cent in the United States since repeal of national prohibition.

This statement was made according to the authority of the Government division of Vital Statistics. Dr. Leek quoted Joseph H. Choate, Jr., director of Alcohol Administration of the United States, to the effect that bootlegging has increased 100 per cent in the United States since the repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

He also asserted that Dr. Mayo, of the Mayo Brothers Hospital, recently made the statement that the driver who has not had but a drink or two and who shows no signs of drunkenness and who believes himself in perfect driving condition is the most dangerous man on the highway.

According to the speaker, taxes from the legalized sale of liquor would extend the schools of Alabama only 3 hours and 22 minutes a year provided the state received the same amount as was collected per year during the last four years in which liquor was legally sold in Alabama. Dr. Leek said that Kansas had recently voted to retain its prohibition laws and that 20 out of 22 beats in the city of Chicago had recently voted dry.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

TIMELY POULTRY HINTS

Most every farmer keeps some poultry, and most of you are feeding some cull hens. At this time of the year when the price of eggs is breaking and the price of hens is up, you should be thinking about culling out and selling a few of the low and non-producing hens.

Culling is a simple operation if we follow a few simple rules as follows: (1) Cull hens that are molting now. (2) If the hen's comb is pale, shrunken and scaly, take her out. (3) Pullets that have yellow legs and beak now will probably never pay for the feed it will take to get them into production. (4) If the vent is yellow and puckered, the hen is not laying. (5) If the breast and pelvic bones are close together the hen is not laying.

Clean up your poultry house, spray with old crankcase oil to control mites, and put clean litter on the floor. It is much easier to prevent mites getting into the house than it is to get them out after the house is infested. Just a few warm days now and mites will be bad.

A little sodium dusted on the old sitting hen will help control lice and prevent the death of lots of baby chicks. Do this before the eggs hatch.

The Chilton County Exchange ran a cooperative poultry car last week and bought 17,249 pounds of poultry, paying 424 farmers of the county $2,172.55 in cash.

At different points in the county the following amounts of poultry were purchased:

Maplesville, 1,075 pounds; Verbena, 2,892 pounds; Clanton, 8,898 pounds; Jemison, 4,384 pounds.

This carload of poultry returned to the county a nice sum of money. And too, loading poultry on a car and shipping it clear out of the district will have tendency to hold the local price up. When it is necessary to sell a few hens and fryers during the summer, farmers will get a better price.

GRAVES IS BACK FROM VISIT TO WASHINGTON FOR INFORMATION

Montgomery, Feb. 19.—Gov. Graves "gathered general information" in Washington last week as to how his state may be assured equitable participation in the new government works program.

Before leaving for Washington last week the Ala. congressional delegation was given a luncheon by the energetic and affable executive in a private dining room of the Capitol. Graves said he sought advice of the members "on how best to proceed here."

Late in the day he called at the relief administration and chatted briefly with Harry L. Hopkins, the administrator.

Graves planned to remain in Washington through Wednesday, and hoped by that time to contact the officials here with whom the state will deal in efforts to obtain the full benefits of the recovery program through government works projects.

A batch of bills, written in large by government attorneys and passed by the Alabama lgeislature, was brought here by the Alabamian. They were enacted with the view to removing barriers encountered by Alabama projects seeking to get within the public works fold.

Graves said he wanted Alabama "in on the ground floor" under future programs.

The threatened closing of schools in Clarke County, Alabama, was dismissed by the governor with the statement: "When I informed them the money was there for paying the teachers, I had done my part." Reports from Grove Hill, Ala., said closing was likely after "promised Federal Aid" had not been forthcoming.

Graves said money obtained from the Federal Relief Administration was available in Montgomery when the payrolls were properly executed.

Davis Cleckler of Thorsby was among the visitors to Clanton Tuesday.

FOREST TREE SEEDLINGS

Montgomery.—As a convenience to farmers and landowners interested in reforestation, the state Commission of Forestry operates a forest tree nursery near Livingston, Alabama, for the production of seedlings which are available for planting on idle land. The trees must be used exclusively for timber production and not for ornamental purposes, as the State of Alabama does not wish to compete with private nurseries.

Each year, a definite plan of nursery management is formulated for the purpose of raising sufficient trees of the various species that will be required to fill the requests of the landowners. Frequently, however, due to unforeseen demands, the supply of most species is exhausted early in the season with the result that many desiring to procure trees are disappointed and have to postpone their planting until such time as another supply can be grown.

During the present season the nursery has been unusually successful in its production, and after issuing many thousands of trees there still remain on hand enough seedlings to plant several hundred acres. The species still available include long leaf and shortleaf pine, black locust, black walnut, osage orange, bald cypress, persimmon, white ash, overcup oak, live oak and white oak The seedlings can be obtained at a cost not exceeding the actual cost of production and transportation upon application to the state forester at Montgomery, Alabama. Information pertaining to tree planting can be obtained on request.

In view of the fact that the planting season in Alabama ends early in March, no trees will be issued after March 1. For this reason all interested persons are urged to place their applications prior to that date.

PROTECTION OF FORESTS OWNERS' RESPONSIBILITY

Montgomery, Ala.—That over 95 per cent of the woodland of Alabama is in the title of private holders, and its protection as private property depends mainly on the owners, is pointed out by the Alabama Commission of Forestry. There is practically no southern state that undertakes to relieve the forest land owner of his responsibility toward his property. The reasons for this are various. Southern states are not wealthy, and heavy outlays of money expended chiefly for private benefits are not favored by legislative bodies. The average state appropriation for forestry purposes made by the state that have had forestry departments in effect as long or longer than Alabama is about three and one-half cents per acre of forest land. In Alabama it is in the neighborhood of one-tenth of one cent per acre. While this figure may be slightly increased in the future, it probably never will reach the point where the public funds available will be sufficient to displace the necessity of diligence and active endeavor in protection on the part of those who own land.

In the vicinity of the Emergency Conservation Work camps various landowners erroneously have conceived that their efforts may be relaxed and that the men of the CCC will see to the protection of their holdings. This is an entirely wrong impression, the protective work of the camps being limited to supplementing the work of the local residents, and in no sense designed to displace it. In fact, where it is definitely demonstrated that the landowners are slack in their own efforts in fire protection on account of the proximity of a CCC camp, the continuance of the camp cannot be guaranteed, since its original location was with the assumption and assurance that full cooperation by the local people would be forthcoming.

ADMISSION 10c and 25c

Funny Looking Car Here Friday

Many observers had the pleasure last Thursday of looking upon the most unusual automobile ever seen in Clanton. It was the Tear Drop Test Car, pictured above.

The unique body is built of aluminum and shaped like a drop of water. It is being used as a test car by the McQuay-Norris Manufacturing Company, of St. Louis. The design permits a speed increase of ten to fifteen miles per hour. This company has six such cars in use testing Super "C" Hi Unit Superoyl Piston Rings.

Tests are made of oil and gasoline consumption. There are fifteen instruments on the dash which enables the test engineer to get a complete check on engine performance.

The car stopped in Clanton on its way to Montgomery where it will visit the Auto Electric Service Company, distributors for McQuay-Norris products. It was driven by R. G. McCullough of the engineering test department of McQuay-Norris.

Dissertations Of Elder Blossom About "Life"

In de Gospel of John, de 10th chapter and de 10th verse we hab de words ob mah tex. "I am that come that they might have life and that they might have it more abundantly."

Life as ordinarily defined is animate existence. Vitally, union of soul and body. Period between birth and death. From de beginin of a man's days to de endin ob life, jes bout all ob his labor and study is directly or indirectly applied to de maintenance or de preservation ob his life. De same holds good when we apply it to evy livin creature, for every body knows dat all animals an creepin things on dis earth are either lookin fur somethin to eat or a hidin place frum danger all de time. Life is sweet to evy livin creature, an de thought ob death causes alarm. Jes bout evy body would like to live on an on an never die. Ob course dar is a few people now an den whut takes da own life, but dat comes fum eider a troubled conscience or a disordered mind.

But de physical life is not whut Jesus wuz talkin bout in de tex. Human beins is de only accountable beins in dis world, an fer dat reason some provision had to be made fer dem. When God placed man in de garden He told him dat "in the day thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die." He didn't mean physical death alone. He meant sipirtual death as well. So after de breaking ob God's law, man became dead in traspasses an sins. Some provision den had to be made fur a new life fur man, an dat is whut Jesus ment by de words ob my tex.

I druv up to a railroad crossin an stopped fur a long freight train to pass, an back bout de middle ob de train, hitched in between two cars wuz a big engin, as big as de one dat wuz pullin de train. But it wuz dead. Dat is, it didnt have no fire in de fire box or any steam in de biler. It dident have no power of its own. Dar wuz no life in it. De mechanical part ob it wuz all right so far as its physical makeup wuz concerned it wuz jes as good as any engine. De mechanical part uv it wuz why it could move along de track, but it lacked life.

So is evy sinner. He has physical life but is spiritually dead, lak dat engin needed steam to give it life, so do de sinner need Christ to give him life. I dont believe lak some folks, dat a man can be born ob de sprit. Dat is, be alive in Christ an den die a spiritual death here in dis life. We read in Romans, 6:9, "Knowing that Christ being raised from the dead dieth no more, death hath no more dominion over Him." And also we read in John, 11-26, "And whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die. Believest thou this" So de conclusion ob de matter, den, is if a man is out ob Christ he is dead, an if he is in Christ he is alive. An I might add dis, dat if it is possible fur de debil to take ur man out of Christ den it would be possible fur a man to die a spiritual death, because apart from Christ dar is no life.

Den to take ur dead man an make ur live one out ob him is de work ob Christ, fur dat purpose He came into dis world. De grace ob God is not enough by itself. To join de church is not enough. To quit doin bad an go to doin good is not enough. Jest to say that you believe in Christ an be baptized is not enough. Acording to de New Testament ur man is required to repent ob his sins and be borne ob de spirit an hab de precious blood ob Christ applied. We read in Hebrews, 9-22, "And almost all things are by the law purged with blood. And without shedding of blood is no remission."

With de bes wishes fur all an a prayer to God dat whut I has sed may hep some sinner to git rite wid God, I will stop fur dis time.—Elder Blossom.

The Story of the Bible Told in Pictures

Jesus Rides in Triumph Into Jerusalem.—All four of the Gospels tell of Jesus' triumphant entry into Jerusalem, an event which recalls the prophecy in Zechariah 9: 9, in the Old Testament. "And when they drew nigh unto Jerusalem, and were come to Bethphage, unto the mount of Olives, then sent Jesus two disciples, saying unto them, Go into the village over against you, and straightway ye shall find an ass tied, and a colt with her: loose them, and bring them unto me. And if any man say aught unto you, ye shall say, the Lord hath need of them; and straightway he will send them. All this was done, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying, Tell ye the daughter of Sion, Behold, thy King cometh unto thee, meek, and sitting upon an ass, and a colt the foal of an ass. And the disciples went, and did as Jesus commanded them, and brought the ass, and the colt, and put on them their clothes, and they set Him thereon. And a very great multitude spread their garments in the way; others cut down branches from the trees, and strewed them in the way. And the multitudes that went before, and that followed, cried, saying, Hosanna to the Son of David: Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord; Hosanna in the Highest." Matthew 21: 1-11. This illustration is from Merian's story of the Bible in pictures, engraved in 1625-1630.

The Brewers Or The Children?

Alabama has 1,500,000 children — 850,000 of school age. These are soon to take our places as citizens. Philanthropic? Brewers offer to give us $1,300,000 taxes to educate our children. But they do not tell you they will give you this if you will give them $27,000,000 for a little return of $1,300,000. Our 1,500,000 children are worth more than 86 and two-thirds cents each.

The personnel of the teaching force of Alabama do not want our children sold to the brewers so cheaply. Dr. H. H. Dowling, president of the Alabama Education Association says in a letter of February 12, "February 26 can be a very serious time. In fact, fatal day in Alabama history so far as many citizens are concerned. Unless far seeing wise leaders work actively it is my fear that old sour smelling evil producing saloon, or its equivalent under some name worse will be back this summer. Teachers and school workers are dry, 95 per cent, I believe. For years it has been my hope that my three children, and the 350,000 others whom you and I try to serve might never have to look at this ancient and devilish institution."

Mr. Citizen, we ask you to join our teachers of Alabama, and remember these 1,500,000 children and not to put a stumbling block in their way to cause them to stumble. "Woe unto the world because of occasions of stumbling," said Jesus. The brewers are ready to sell it to children. A recent convention of wholesale liquor dealers in New York authorized a fund of $19,000,000 for advertising in 1935. Do you see why the big dailies are wet?

Mr. Citizen Senator Borah warns Alabama in these words: "Much worse than the saloons has returned—a legalized dive, a potential rendezvous of crime. Bootlegging is growing, the budget is unbalanced, and crashes and deaths are mounting, 36,000 from wrecks and 1,000,000 crippled." Dr. Raymond Moley, the trusted advisor of our president, says: "At no time under prohibition were so many federal agents at work, and at no time were bootleggers so happy and prosperous."

Vote as you would if your boy and girl should say: "Dad, I will drink my part of the revenue. Vote no! no! no! three times.

Thorsby Institute News

On Saturday night the Helen Keller Literary Society held its annual valentine party at the dining hall. The hall was decorated in red and white crepe paper streamers and with red paper hearts. On the walls the colors of the two clubs, branches of the literary society, were placed in the form of shields. Blanche Morgan, Louise Mims and Lois Rister were the decorating committee.

Various group games were played, some of them being particularly appropriate to a valentine party. Valentines were also given each one by valentine girls, May Pearl Sorrell and Mary Christ. After the games which had been planned by Miss Ford, Miss Allen, Helen Kendrick, Ruth Higgins and Hoyt Burnham, a short program was given under the direction of Mr. Sutlive. The origin of Valentine's day was told by Mary Maude Knight. After that music was played by H. L. and Frederick Dunlap on the guitar. Collins on the harmonica and guitar Ruth Foss read an interesting valentine story.

At the end of the program refreshments, planned by Miss Leech, were served. They were heart-shaped cookies and ice cream with red hearts on top. The party closed with the singing of the Alma Mater.

Next Saturday night at seven-thirty the annual declamatory contest will take place in the auditorium. The four girls who are to take part, give their readings first. Then Miss Allen will play a piano solo. This will be followed with readings by four boys. After this the judges' decision will be given and the prizes awarded. A prize of five dollars goes to the winner of the girls and five dollars to the winner of the boys. These prizes have been given for several years by an interested Illinois friend. The lecture is being sponsored by Mortar Board, national scholastic fraternity for senior women, and the proceeds will be added to the Mortar Board Gift Scholarship Fund.

The Mortar Board Scholarship is awarded annually to some outstanding woman student high in scholarship and promise of future worth who would be unable to continue her college career without financial assistance. The scholarship was established four years ago, and is one of $100.

The office of the dean of women announces that an increase in enrollment of 16 per cent over last year is noted in the enrollment of women at the university. There are at the present time 1,025 women students at the University, including 303 freshmen, 239 sophomores, 213 juniors 190 seniors, 47 graduate students, 10 law students, two medical students, 16 special students, and five irregulars. Alabama has a representation from 63 of the 67 counties. Thirty-one states of the union are represented.

STATION ANNOUNCES THE BEST FERTILIZERS FOR COTTON AND CORN CROPS

Auburn, Ala.—A summary of the best fertilizer for Alabama farmers to use under their corn and cotton is given by the state experiment station as follows:

"1. Phosphate and potash, when used in mixed fertilizers, did not increase corn yields.

"2. Thirty-six pounds of nitrogen (225 pounds of nitrate of soda or its equivalent) should be used per acre for corn.

"3. The best fertilizer mixture for cotton is one which supplies 36 pounds of nitrogen, 48 pounds of phosphoric acid, and 24 pounds of potash per acre. These amounts of plant nutrients may be supplied by 600 pounds of a 6-8-4 fertilizer, or by 600 pounds of a 4-8-4 fertilizer and a side application of 75 pounds of nitrate of soda or its equivalent."

Farmers interested in a full discussion of the value of various fertilizers under corn and cotton are advised to see their county agent or write the experiment station for a copy of circular No. 70, which has just come from the press.

DAIRYMEN PREPARING CONTROL LEGISLATION

Alabama dairymen are preparing legislation to present to the state legislature to stabilize the dairy industry.

At a state wide meeting of approximately 100 dairymen, a committee of five was named to prepare the legislation. The committee is composed of Kenneth M. Harper, chairman, Selma; J. Frank Baker, Montevallo; William C. Regan, Mobile; C. E. Massy, Anniston; and H. H. Bailey, Morris, Rte. 1., Jefferson County.

ALL HONOR TO THIS WIDOW

The town of Greenville, Alabama Friday evening will honor a woman resident of the county. Distinguished Alabamians from far away will attend a dinner in her honor and join in the applause when she accepts a loving cup presented by The Greenville Advocate.

She is not the president of a club, a leader in civic affairs, the author of a best seller. She is merely a little widow whose indomitable courage has set an example of sturdy Americanism. For she insisted on fighting her own battle against adversity and spurned all offers of "relief" from organized bureaus of the government.

Mrs. Irene Davis early last year found herself destitute. She possessed only a ten-acre farm and three children, the eldest a boy of 14.

Mrs. Davis is a high school graduate with two years of normal school training. But she did not disdain to wield a hoe in the fields. Her son plowed her land with a borrowed mule and for every day's use of the mule Mrs. Davis hoed a day in the neighbor's field. Her two small daughters helped — and in some way she succeeded in keeping them in school.

This courageous woman accepted seeds and supplies from the Rehabilitation Division, but only as a loan. She declined to accept charity, even from the Great White Father at Washington, from whose bountiful board millions of able-bodied men are feeding and asking for more.

Mrs. Davis and her children earned a living on their ten-acre farm. She has repaid the government advances. She stored her pantry with food for the winter and ended the year clear of debt.

The Georgian joins in congratulations to Mrs. Irene Davis upon the fine courage she has displayed and the example she has set. It congratulates too, The Greenville Advocate and the Lions' Club of Greenville upon their public recognition of her value to the community and to the nation.—Atlanta Georgian.

My Final Shot At Prohibition

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please allow me a small space in your valuable paper to take my final shot at the prohibition law before it passes away.

Alabama has never voted dry in a referendum, and there is no reason to believe she will this time. The 18th amendment was ratified by a legislature traitorous to the mandate of the people, or the state would never have endorsed national prohibition.

I believe in temperance. I believe in it as the Bible teaches it. But temperance and prohibition are different in its teachings. Prohibition prohibits drinking any at all. Temperance teaches drinking in a temperate way. I take Christ's teachings in the Bible, as He teaches temperance and not prohibition. He taught temperance not only in drinking but also in eating. Christ warns against the drunkard and glutton. They both are condemned by Him.

Christ was no prohibitionist. All informed Bible readers know that he made wine and also drank wine. That is why that some of those old time prohibitionists accused him of being a wine bibber.

If He were here and did as He did when He was here, He would be classed as a criminal according to the present prohibition law. I think that the temperance union should be called the prohibition union as it don't harmonize with the teaching of temperance.

We should not make criminals out of people that drink in a temperate way. or for possessing the same. It is wrong to do so and the day will come when we will be judged for that wrong.

We have enough crime to encounter without manufacturing it. If a man gets out on the public highways drunk and endangers his life and others, he should be punished. I think the Bible will justify such law. I think people who pretend to take the Bible for their guide should take the whole truth or get off of the job, and stay off.

Yes, Bro. Hayes, I could have quoted the 34 verse of the 23 chapter of Matthew. But I didn't want to make it look so bad for the church people. But if our good editor won't get worried I will go back and quote the 33rd and 34th verses; also which says, "Ye serpents, ye generation of vipers, how can ye escape the damnation of hell, wherefore, behold I send unto you prophets and wise men and scribes and some of them ye shall kill and crucify and some of them shall ye scourge in your synagogues and persecute from city to city." Now Brother, you should know the synagogues mentioned here is a place of worship. It was their church house. It was owned and operated by this class that Jesus called serpents and vipers. This is the class that He said would kill and crucify them that He would send unto them in revelation 2: 9, it is called the synagogue of Satan; also in 3:9 these same synagogue people were the ones that called Jesus a wine bibber, and a gluttonous man because He ate and drank wine with publicans and sinners.

No, Brother, we don't want to bring up our children to be drunkards, but there has never been a time when the liquor was any more plentiful with our young people than today.

I'll venture to say that there is ten gallons to one in the county to what there was when we had a dispensary in Clanton. Yet we hear some people say that they don't want the liquor turned loose with our boys. You can never make the young people believe that it is a crime to drink in a temperate way so long as you allow them to read the Bible, much less the older ones.

I wish to say in conclusion that I have the highest respect for God's servants and his church, but I have no patience with the spirit of oppression and hypocracy. Now, Brother, if you wish to retain the prohibition law, vote no! no! no!, then the blood that this law has caused to be shed, including much incensed blood is on your shoulders and not mine, saying nothing of the untold misery spent in prison and hard labor, with their wife and children to root hog or die, and in so many instances their little home broken up. Now Brother, you know that the church people are responsible for this unjust law. It is as unjust in the day of judgment. Let it be unjust still, for there will be no time there to forsake principles. If you ever hear from me again, God being my helper, I hope to be standing on this same rock. Yours for the liberty that God intended for the people, and penalty where penalty is due. —Respectfully, J. H. Jackson.

NO BILL FOUND IN REYNOLDS CASE

The death of Joe Reynolds remains as much a mystery as ever. Investigation of the case by the grand jury last week failed to produce any evidence for an indictment in what is believed to have been a plain case of murder and placing of the body of the young man by the side of the railroad tracks.

In the case of Dan Lockhart charged with killing C. A. Johnson, the grand jury rendered an indictment against Lockhart charging him with second degree murder.

First degree manslaughter was the indictment returned against Melvin Turner, negro boy, accused of killing another negro boy.

A total of twenty true bills were found against twenty-six separate defendants.

REGISTER YOUR BABY

Montgomery, Ala.—Was your home blessed by the arrival of a real live "valentine" during the past twelve months?

If so, the state and federal governments, who are taking a census of all babies born in Alabama within the past year, wish to be provided with birth data.

Baby census cards have been distributed all over the state in the "register your baby" campaign, in a statewide endeavor to secure a complete census of all little new arrivals.

Parents are asked, even if they know the doctor has reported the birth, to fill in one of these cards—there are just a few simple questions to answer and mail, postage free—thereby assuring their baby proper birth registration.

This campaign is a joint project of the state board of health, the federal bureau of the census and the Alabama Relief Administration.

STATE CAPITOL NEWS

Cigarette bootleggers had a tough time of it during the first month of the Graves administration, which has launched an intensive drive to break up the smuggling which is robbing the public schools of needed revenue. Agents of the state tax commission are combing the state and rounding up evaders of the tax on cigarettes, cigars and smoking tobacco in batches. During the week ending February 16, the tax agents completed their drives centering in Montgomery, Jefferson and Etowah Counties, and every other county in the state will be closely checked.

Results of this activity are reflected in the sudden spurt in sale of revenue stamps, and in the huge increase in fines assessed against law violators which amounted to more during the first month of the present regime than in over two years preceding. During the first month of the present administration forty-five violators of the tobacco tax laws were caught and fines totaling $4,860.50 collected, while during the entire period November 1, 1932, to January 14, 1935, total amount of fines collected was only $4,777.25.

CALLOWAY INFANT DIED

NEW CODE YEAR FOR TRUCK DRIVERS HAS JUST BEGUN

More than 1,425 operators of 1,950 trucks in Alabama are preparing to re-register their vehicles under the trucking code in the new code year, which has just begun.

The second period officially dawned February 11th, but the state code authority will not begin the real drive on registrations until February 18th. By that date, registration forms and other materials will be in the hands of every known for hire operator in Alabama.

For the entire country, approximately 190,000 operators of about 300,000 vehicles pooled their efforts under the code during the initial period.

Registrations, however, in both Alabama and the entire country, were in progress only a little over eight months, since the actual work did not begin until late in May, 1934. President Roosevelt signed the code February 19, 1934, but the intervening period was consumed in formulating plans for code administration.

George C. Harris, chairman of the Alabama state code authority, which has main offices at 744 Martin building, Birmingham, Ala., today predicted that progress under the code would be speeded up considerably in the new year.

IN MEMORY

On February 6 the death angel visited our home and took away our precious wife and mother. She leaves to mourn her going a husband, Grier Culver, and three children, six step children, a mother, two brothers and two sisters, and a host of relatives and friends. Mother, we know you are through with toil and care.

She bore her suffering without fear, for she knew when God called her she was ready to go. She was 58 years and 9 months old. She was very kind and tender. She was very pure and good, and to know her was to love her, but we hope to meet her in a better world above. She was a member of the Primitive Baptist church for many years.

She was laid to rest at Chestnut Creek church. Funeral services were conducted by Elder Kelley and Elder Tucker. Spigener was in charge.

We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for their kindness shown us during our grief and sorrow.—Her Daughter, Mrs. Fonzie Williams.

Mrs. W. W. Fox spent several days last week in Greenville.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

My definition for wisdom: "Wisdom is the ability to use knowledge so as to meet successfully the emergencies of life." We read in the Book of Proverbs that wisdom comes from God. In the Book of James we read that if any man lack wisdom, let him ask God for it. In view of these quotations from God's word, we must conclude that the man who leaves God out of his life is not a wise man. I, personally, would not entrust the advice of an atheist in an hour of emergency.

Governor Bibb Graves, of Alabama, who is vice president of the board of trustees of the Bob Jones College and who has been my personal friend for a great many years, has been twice inaugurated governor of Alabama. It was not my privilege to be in Montgomery for the inaugural ceremonies either time. I have read with much interest Governor Graves's recent inaugural address. I was profoundly impressed with the religious tone of his message. At one place in his speech he said in substance, "Jesus Chriat, the great teacher who I believe is the son of God and whom I am trusting for salvation for time and eternity, has said . . ." I consider this statement one of the most striking that I have ever known any man to make on a great state occasion. It is possible for governors, senators, presidents, and all men in authority who are Christians to give their personal testimony on practically all occasions and to do it in such a way as to give no offense and at the same time accomplish great good. A governor's words have great weight. Jesus said that if we would confess Him before men He will confess us before our father in heaven. Governors, prominent men, and all people will some day need Jesus to say a good word for them. If we say a good word for Him down here, He has promised to say a good word for us up there.

Recently Dr. Howard Kelley of Baltimore in a letter to the president of the Bob Jones College said that he was greatly interested in the work and orthodox testimony of the Bob Jones College. Dr. Kelly is one of the greatest geniuses in the medical world. He is not only a great surgeon, but he is a great scientist. He is a profound scholar. He knows the Bible as few men know it. It has been my privilege to have fellowship with him in his office and discuss with him some of the great truths of God's word. I understand that Dr. Kelly spends as much as two hours a day in the study of the Book of Books. It is refreshing to come in contact with a man of Dr. Kelly's ability and profound scholarship and to find that he stands with the evangelical orthodox crowd in America. Some of the "half baked" modernistic teachers of science would do well to sit at the feet of men like Dr. Howard Kelly and Sir Ambrose Flemming, one of the greatest scientists of Great Britain, who recently in his presidential address to the Victoria Institute and Philosophical Society declared that he does not believe in evolution that he does not believe in bodily resurrection and that he does believe in the miracles recorded in the New Testament.

Frank and Will Mullins have returned to their home in Mobile after a brief visit to their mother, Mrs. W. I. Mullins.

Ralph Jones and Miss Elizabeth Lester of Birmingham were the week end guests of his mother, Mrs. Willie P. Jones.

Miss Ruth Prince of Alexander City returned to her home Tuesday after a visit of several days with Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Prince.

Miss Nita Campbell, a popular teacher in the Grammar School, spent this week end in Selma with her parents.

POWER ORDER ON RATE REDUCTION ISSUED IN STATE

'Objective' Toll To Be Open To All When 85 Per Cent Mark Is Reached

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 11.—(AP)—The Alabama Public Service Commission today issue an order to the Alabama Power Company directing that when 85 per cent of its customers were billed in any one month after August on the low "objective rate," all customers would be entitled to come under the rate.

In addition, the commission ordered that five per cent reductions were to be made in the objective rate base every six months, instead of every year as under its order of October, 1933, when the objective rate was put into operation. The first new reduction was ordered April 1.

The order affects only customers of the Alabama Power Company.

$600,000 Savings

In establishing the objective, the commission estimated it would result in a $600,000 per year saving when it became fully effective on all residential customers.

"Today's order moves that full saving date up three months at least," said Hugh White, Commission president. "If 85 per cent go on in any month after August it will be effective immediately."

VERMONT SCHOOL

Plans are developing rapidly towards the entertainment which will be presented at our school by our Parent-Teacher organization. Everyone wants to keep up with the facts regarding this program, as it is going to be the most outstanding one yet presented at our school. The ladies are preparing to give a version of the old-time Goose Creek Sewing Circle, entitled "Henpeck Hollow Gossip." And, boy! What line they do unravel. It will be worth twice the admission price to see those comic old-time costumes. To listen to the rapid-fire conversation in which they all chime in. Nobody escapes the net-work of gossip which is spread out over the immediate section.

They discuss every thing from a needle point to a preacher's second-hand courtship. Then there comes on this same program one of the funniest little dialogues in print, entitled "Foul Deeds." This will be presented by the Jr. High pupils. You won't need any laughing powders if you see this black-face travesty. It would be a whole show by itself to see "George Washington Gitten," and "Abraham Lincoln Gitten" cross-lifting for their pa, who makes his living by frequent visitations upon his neighbor's hen coops. He almost gets caught. It is a scream. Then to round out the comedy effects of this program, several of the men will present a mock trial. Boy! This is a stem-winder. If you haven't already run out of laughs this will complete the job. The drunk judge; the absent-minded jury; the comic witness and the half-wit attorneys will bring the house down. The Date at which this program will be presented will be announced later. Read the papers.

The boys and girls suffered another loss of basket ball games last Friday night when they fell before the attack of the Stanton players. The boys lost 23 to 14 while the girls lost 18 to 17. The visiting players were at a loss under the lights. They were unable to shoot efectively, even though they cracked the Stanton defense at numerous times. Our final game will be played on March 1st, when the crack team of Mt. Pleasant invades our court.

Those warm sunny days of week before last had a strong tendency to aid those of our community who are suffering from flu, colds and grippe to regain their strength and once more approach their duties. Most of our student body are back in school. We hope nothing in the form of another epidemic disturbs our school activities, which will soon be drawing to a close.

Prof. Briggs Hodgens, principal of the Jackson Chapel elementary school brought his band of players over to our school last Saturday week and presented the attractive little play entitled "Bound to Marry." Quite a number were present, even though the weather was raw and threatening.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Johnson dined last Thursday night with Mr. and Mrs Homer L. Ratlif. They reported a most lovely visit.

Our P.-T. A. will hold its next regular meeting Thursday night, March 7th. We only have two more meetings for this term, so the writer urges, especially all members and all others interested in our cause, to arrange your plans to be here. The program committee will try not to disappoint us, by presenting a cleverly arranged little program.

Miss Cagle has her Jr. III English class organiezd in a series of debates. One subject in which they are exchanging arguments is: Which is the most useful to modern times, the radio or the telephone.

Mrs. Johnson and Miss Manning have recently been carrying out projects in geography and child nature through the use of the sand tables. It is quite interesting to see the original arrangements of these projects by various students. Some of the subjects which they have associated their youthful ideas with are as follows: Indian life, early Christian life, Eskimo life, modern farm life, the quaint colonial life. Some of the projects have brought into play the old log cabin, the picket fences, the deep forests, the rippling brook on the mountain side, the placid lakes of the valleys the wig-wam the snow and ice huts, the manger, (birth place of Christ) the modern farm home, school, field, etc. These little projects proved very entetaining to the youngsters and yet it associated their ideas with other ages and other regions of the world.

Mr. Johnson has been busy the past several days with several of the larger boys setting out trees in and around the school building. The women's clubs are planning to set out shrubbery soon.

The Jr. III class will soon begin their preliminary plans towards the commencement program. There are seven students in this class this year. Namely: Francis Kendrick, class president; Gladys Sansom, Madge Williams, Adell Scott, Lizzie Mae Lewis, Robert Traywick and R. P. Kendrick.

The student body is making plans to present a birthday program the first part of March. These programs are very entertaining as well as valuable. We hope yau can be present the day these reports, exhibitions, demonstrations and recitals are given. They present a wonderful lesson regarding he nature of our native birds.

Attendance for this month has been better than last. In the event a full term is given we have only two more months. So the writer offers a word of encouragement to those who have been more or less dilatory, that they place just a little more interest to their cause so they will not be forced to bear the stigma of failure eight weeks hence.

More work has been done to our basket ball court by the county road machine. We are begnning now to get our athletic field shaped up in a real way.

We still have in a drive for all books, current magazines and periodicals suitable for our school library. If you have any of the above which you no longer need remember that your school can make a very efective use of them. Quite a large number have already been sent in.

LOMAX TABERNACLE

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely. Bro. Aaron Parker will be our pastor for this year. We will begin services Thursday night at 7:30, and throughout the week. Everybody is invited to attend.

Rev. Peary Mims from Temple church will preach for us the first Sunday and Sunday night in March. Everybody come.

Mr. and Mrs. Grady Reynolds and Mrs. Arthur Johnson were visitors to Montgomery Friday.

A STUDY of the past reveals that corn yields have a pronounced tendency to return to normal or better following seasons of abnormally dry weather. As indicated by the shaded columns in the above graph, the production per acre after the three severe drought years of 1894, 1901, and 1930 rose from a low average of about 19.6 bushels to approximately the normal United States annual average of about 26 bushels per acre. The yield of both barley and oats also was higher in two out of the three seasons following years of unusual drought.

The reasonable expectation in 1935, therefore, is normal or near normal corn yields. This fact has an important bearing on corn planting intentions for the coming spring. Material adjustments in cattle and hog numbers since a year ago have lowered corn requirements to such an extent that even the average acreage of recent years would produce, at normal yields, a burdensome surplus of corn.

Under the 1935 production adjustment contract, being offered by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, corn-hog farmers will have an opportunity to control corn acreage in keeping with these reduced requirements and the expectation of a normal yield per acre.

Extra! Extra! "Governor McNutt of Indiana has no desire for power," says a Democrat Representative. The state NRA presented by the governor would have made him a dictator but a revolt of the legislature has forced its toning down. Now he doesn't want to be a dictator. There's a reason.

NOT ALL TAX DODGERS

We read a great deal about "the big bad" corporations which have employed "crooked lawyers" to inveigle the federal government out of taxes by falsifying tax reports. But little do we read about the "big" corporation that through some error has overpaid his taxes.

Every year a long list of refunds for overpaid taxes is compiled by the United States Department of Internal Revenue at Washington, D. C. Strangely enough, when these refunds are made during a Republican administration a wild outburst is heard on Capitol Hill, and it is claimed that crooked politicians are doling out the American taxpayers' money to friendly big business campaign contributors. There may be something to that, but it has never been proven.

Andrew Mellon only recently battled with the administration now in power when the new administration charged that Mellon was holding out on taxes for his business concerns. When it was about all over Mr. Mellon discovered that there had been an error in his tax reports and that he had overpaid considerably. So, in retaliation, he now threatens to sue for refund.

Last year the Democratic administration refunded $57,763,119.46 for overpaid taxes for 1932, and recently $48,664,202.20 for overpaid taxes for 1934. The New York Life Insurance Company, it is reported, recently received a refund of $4,427,028 as overpayment for 1934. The Pennsylvania Railroad received $3,191,938; J. H. Hillman Company of Pennsylvania, $1,810,694; the Lackawanna Railroad Company, $1,526,149; and several smaller concerns received $500,000 or more.

Since all of the "big bad" corporations are accused of shaking down on the government in tax matters, one begins to wonder how a concern even as large as the New York Life could misfigure taxes to the extent of nearly four and a half millions. Those experts in faking tax returns we hear so much about have evidently overlooked several big bets in the above listing. If anything it appears that the "big bad" corporations are overly honest in their tax matters or how does one account for such as the above.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

Eventual exhaustion of government credit is threatened by the policy of meeting relief needs through borrowing. This however, it is pointed out, can be averted by the adoption of less expensive relief measures, curtailment of ordinary expenditures so as to permit the inclusion of relief payments in the ordinary budget, and a general lowering of wage rates throughout the nation so that business can afford to absorb the unemployed.

The federal burget submitted to congress on January 7 provided more than ample justification for all the fears expressed in various quarters during the past year that expenditures must be curtailed during the current year, that no attempt will be made to balance the budget this year, and that the increase in the debt will not be halted before it reaches the highest peak in our annals or of $31,833,000,000.

Instead of balancing the budget in the fiscal year 1935-36 as was planned a year ago, the government now proposes to spend $8,520,000,000, or practically as much as during the current fiscal year. Even though the government hopefully expects some increase in receipts, receipts will no doubt fail by almost as wide a margin to meet expenditures next year as they promise to do during the current year. The deficit next year is estimated at this time at $4,528,000,000. It may be more. At the same time, new borrowings next year are expected to total $3,152,000,000, which is a substantial figure. The public debt next year will be thus increased to another new high record of $34,239,000,000, if not more.

The prospective increase in the public debt is one of the most discouraging aspects of the economic outlook. This year the administration made no statement as to when it is expected to balance the budget as it did last year. It intimated that the deficit would continue as long as there was need for relief since the abandonment of relief was out of the question and since no attempt would be made to meet relief needs out of the ordinary budget as is done in England.

In view of this policy, it is difficult to see how the budget can ever be balanced since, under prevailing conditions the tendency is toward the maintenance of relief rather than toward the curtailment. Relief payments tend to perpetuate the need for relief by preventing the proper adjustment of wages and prices to the level that would eliminate employment. This does not call for the suspension of relief payments but it does call for the recognition of the natural effect of relief payments and consequently the voluntary making of adjustments which the abandonment of relief would make compulsory. The trend, however, has been in the opposite direction. Wage rates were arbitrarily raised under the NRA, are now being maintained at this level, and labor is seeking still further increases through wage increases and through a 30-hour week. As long as wage rates are kept at an artificially high level, there will be unemployment and the need for the continuation of relief payments.

CHECKS AND BALANCES

In the current issue of the National Republic A. H. Dixon has contributed a very timely article dealing with the "Distributed Powers" of the United States government under the Constitution. Mr. Dixon says, in part:

"If there is any one truth to be deduced from the Declaration of Independence, it is the following: The national fathers, by means of their inheritance from the Old World and their experiences in the new, found a new sovereign in government. This new sovereign is the will of the whole people, of the one sovereign nation, United States by name, lawfully expressed. This United States does not mean states united by law, nor the people of the several states so united, but the will of the whole people, so united.

"Having found a new sovereign, the next important step was to organize a government for this people that would safeguard the rights of the individual and at the same time be of sufficient strength to maintain order at home and command respect abroad. This was a stupendous task, completed by the formulation of the present Constitution, minus amendments, in 1787, and its subsequent adoption by the people.

"From the very nature of the case, there is a vast difference between the people and the government under which they live. This fact was clearly seen by the national fathers, and they set about to sufficiently safeguard the one, while they with extreme care, bestowed sufficient power upon the other to insure stable government.

"So it comes that sovereignty in the United States resides in the whole people of one sovereign nation, United States by name, not in the government under which the people live; not in the chief ruler as in the days of autocracy; not in the state governments as under the articles of confederation; not in the states that were being merged into one government; not in the people of the several states as some have argued since that day; not even in the government of the United States as some would have us believe today, but in the will of the one sovereign people, of the one sovereign nation, and that sovereignty has not been signed away; merely certain powers intrusted to agents of the people. These agents are to transact the people's business, but to do so in a lawful, constitutional way. If transacted in any other way, disaster must follow sooner or later.

Now, that sovereignty, supreme power had found its place in the whole people of the nation, the national fathers set about to find a safe and responsible agent to administer the will of this new sovereign, the people of the United States, in a way that would protect the unalienable rights of the individual as set forth in the Declaration of Independence, more than a decade before, and at the same time be of sufficient strength to insure stable government.

"The national fathers were individualists, not socialists nor communists. They believed in the individual, as a responsible and responsive human being, inherently possessed of certain unalienable rights, which no government could justly take from him. While these men detested socialism and communism with all their natures, still they were sleepless in their watchfulness of governmental authority which in days gone by, had usurped these rights of the people. Such usurpation to them was tyranny unbearable, and they set about to formulate a government under the constitution, in keeping with their preconceived notions and beliefs. They sought an agent for the transaction of the nation's business, that would be strong enough to carry forward the political notions of its founders and at the same time not meddle unnecessarily with the rights of the individual citizen. The state and local governments were already well setablished, and were recognized as integral parts of the government of the United States, then being completed.

"To accomplish the end desired, namely, stable government and the security of the individual citizen, they very happily fell upon the idea of distributing the powers of administration; namely, the national government, the state government, and the local government, creating the first of these and using the other two that were already established. By the distribution of governmental powers, the national fathers hoped to avoid the tyranny of past ages and to stimulate individual activity so essential to the peace and happiness of the people. The urgent call of the hour assisted them in a wise distribution of governmental powers, once resident in the whole people on the United States."

When one considers all the relief agencies and government bureaus functioning, one is tempted to agree with the farmer who said that there was too much harness and too little horse.

BETRAYERS OF PUBLIC TRUST

The announcement that 30 per cent of Detroit's registered voters have not been to the polls in two years cannot be accepted, without qualification, as an index of the local electorate's interest in the processes of democratic government.

At the same time it would be folly to ignore or attempt to obscure the fact that far too many voters in Detroit, as in other parts of the country, show little or no interest in participating in the creation of the governments under which they live. Some of this apathy is due to indolence, some to indifference and much to the feeling expressed in these word: "Aw, what's the use of voting? All politicians are crooks anyway."

Good government cannot be expected to exist where good citizens stay away from the polls and allow elections to be determined by bad citizens.

Grover Cleveland declared: "Your every voter, as surely as your chief magistrate, under the same high sanction, though in a different sphere, exercises a public trust."

Voters who betray their trust by not participating in the election of public officials need not be surprised if men get into office who will betray their trusts.—Detroit Free Press.

NO BUSINESS FOR THE STATE

The State of South Carolina would be imprudent to the point of insanity to enter into the manufacture of flour, cotton goods, cigarettes, and it can with equally good reason go into the manufacture of whiskey, beer, wines. The state should not manufacture toothpicks or shotguns; it should not raise peanuts notwithstanding the perpetual political demand for them, but it would as well raise popcorn as corn whiskey.

The state should confine itself to the simplest offices of government and leave to the South Carolinians all fields of private business and industry. As soon as the people abandon the absurd notion that there is a "something different about liquor" they will get on better. "Liquor" has never destroyed a man who did not first destroy liquor. If it were as free as water only the fools and weaklings would drink it to excess, and, in the course of years (not many) they would eliminate themselves. — Charleston (S. C.) News and Courier.

Man In The Moon

A Travesty

My attention has been called to an article, "Favors Repeal," and signed by G. W. Edwards, in last week's issue of the Chilton County News. I do not know Mr. Edwards personally, but some of the statements in his letter are a bit far-fetched, I believe. He says "God made whiskey when He made everything else, and said it was good". Imagine that kind of statement, people! It would require a rubber imagination to construe any passage in the Bible in that sense. I imagine there are quite a few of our readers who also read the Bible occasionally, and I would like to have any one of them point out just one place where whiskey is even mentioned in the Bible. It does mention "strong drink", but only long enough to warn against it—"strong drink is raging, and whosoever is DECEIVED thereby is not wise". Neither does the Bible state that Jesus made wine, as Mr. Edwards state, except to show His supernatural power — at least my Bible doesn't. He did use it, but only as a symbol of His blood. Is the wine that is drunk nowadays used as a symbol of Christ's blood, except as it is used in churches in observation of sacrament? Christ said "wine is a mocker". Does any one believe that we are COMMANDED to drink wine as a beverage? Mr. Edwards states that "those who make and use wine are followers of Jesus", and "the devil has always had laws that would imprison Jesus and His followers". Do you believe that the wine vats, the brewers and the distillers are under the supervision of Jesus or any of His followers? I don't, and I don't believe that Mr. Edwards does, either. I don't believe you can find the first distiller or bootlegger, or anyone else connected with the liquor traffic who will tell you that he feels "led by Christ" to enter the liquor business. He says "the prohibition law sends Jesus to the pen every day". I would like to have Mr. Edwards, or anyone else, name ONE Christian —true Christian—who has had to go to the pen on account of beer, wine or whiskey. Have you ever heard of anyone being sent to prison for the use of wine in the sacrament? Reading further, Mr. Edwards states that "under the prohibition law the churches are going to pieces, and morality has collapsed". He goes further to tell of the many vices that the prohibition law is causing, through the use of liquor. I would submit that these vices are being practiced IN SPITE of the law—certainly not BECAUSE of it. It is none of my business how much beer, wine or whiskey anyone drinks, but I fail to see how it will lessen the vices that Mr. Edwards says it causes, if we fix the law so that there will be MORE strong drink. I believe the law is too weak, rather than too strong. And I cannot believe Mr. Edwards has voiced his true sentiment. I cannot believe that he conscientiously construes the quotations he has cited in the sense that he has used them. And, if not, then he has wilfully changed the meaning of God's own Word, and you will remember the Bible has something in it regarding he who changes the meaning of the Word of God and teaches men so.

TO THE WEST COAST, AND BACK

(Part V)

Now to tell you a bit of the Stanford-Alabama game, itself. Capt. Bill Lee, of Alabama, gave the crowd its first big thrill when he won the toss and elected to kick off; from comment heard about me, it must be the custom of western teams to receive when they can, and the fans couldn't understand why he wanted to kick. Alabama gave the throng its second shock when they took the ball off over to one side of the field to kick. After a minute they thought they understood, and what a yell went up; they reasoned that by kicking from one side of the field, the side line takes care of the receiver on that side, leaving the whole Alabama team to watch the other side. The westerners must not have seen this done before, for I heard many spectators comment on this move as "smart". Then Don Hutson stuck his boot in the pigskin and the game of games was on.

I will not attempt to give every play, but will touch on the high spots for the most part. To give a play by play description of the game would take too long. However, for those who would like to read such a description, I have it here at the Union-Banner office, and you are welcome to come in and read it any time. It is quite interesting to any football fan.

Grayson received, but didn't get very far back up the field. After two short punches at the line, Stanford kicked, and the ball was downed on Alabama's 31. The crowd was on edge, waiting to see this wonder team they had heard so much about, when it got into action. Howell lost a few yards on the first play, and the Stanford stands really acted like Indians. (That is the name the Stanfordites go by, you know — "Indians". Howell punted, and the crowd gazed round-eyed at the distance the 164-pounder got with his toe. Stanford tried the line, then a pass which was fumbled. Another pass, incomplete, and then a punt. Howell tried an end, but it was no go, and he kicked on the next play. The 'Bama offense was bogging down before it got started. Stanford's ground game then began to click, until Bob Ed Morrow broke through and stopped the all-American Grayson for a loss. Here Stanford kicked, Howell received, and came back to his 42 and fumbled, the first of a series of costly Alabama fumbles. (Later, Braven Dyer, a sports editor, said that Alabama was "tops" in every part of the game—even fumbling). Stanford recovered in mid-field and their mighty ground game began clicking again, one after another of their backs ripping off nice gains through the line. Stanford was penalized 15 yards for holding, and took to the air, but were able to complete but one short pass, good for about two yards, and then kicked, the ball going out of bounds on 'Bama's 29. Demyanovich then fumbled, and Stanford recovered on the 27, the break that led to Stanford's first touchdown. That vicious pounding line attack of the Stanford offense would not be denied this time. Grayson got 7 yards, Van Dellen reversed and got 8, Hamilton got 7, stopping inside the 5-yard stripe. Grayson took two smashes at the line and went over for a touchdown. Moscrip kicked the extra point, putting Stanford out in front, 7 to 0, and the Stanford band struck up "The Old Gray Mare Ain't What She Used To Be". The Alabamians were certainly looking like anything but champions, and but one thing, we fellow-staters in the stands woud certainly have felt a bit glum. However, on each of the times when 'Bama's men fumbled, it was after gaining considerable yardage, so it didn't look quite so bad as it sounds from reading or as it may have sounded from your radio announcer. We were a little stunned of course but we felt sure that if they could once get a grip on the ball they would "go places", having watched them through the regular season, and knowing something of their ability. We knew they were playing under par.

Alabama kicked off again, and the first quarter ended shortly. As the second quarter got under way, Stanford punted. After a few plays Alabama punted. Stanford tried the line, but there were no holes there now, so Stanford kicked, Howell taking the ball on his 30 and stepping up the field for 25 yards, coming down on the Stanford 45. Four minutes of the quarter were gone. Bryant lost a few yards on the "end-around" play, which Alabama had been using to advantage all season, but it didn't fool the Stanford team; the "end-around" lost every time it was tried. Howell then passed to Bryant, who came down on the 5-yard line, a gain of 45 yards. Howell hit center, went through as perfect a trapeze flip as any circus performer ever did, came down behind the heap of line men, and sprinted across for a touchdown. The crowd gave him a great hand. The try for extra point was no good, and the score was 7 to 6, for Stanford. But the fans seemed to sense that Alabama had "opened up", and everyone seemed to be on the edge of his seat as Stanford kicked off. The ball went into the end zone, and 'Bama put it in play on their 20. The tricky, fast, and long-heralded Alabama attack began to click in dead earnest here, and the crowd really got an eye-full for the next few minutes.

Angelich got 2 at the line; Howell went through the line for 17 to 'Bama's 39-yard line; a pass, Howell to Hutson for 4, and then again for 25, to Stanford's 32. Howell got 3 at the line; a pass was knocked down; another pass, Howell to Bryant, was good for 18, to Stanford's 12. Howell got 2 at right end; Howell passed to Hutson, who was down on the 5. (I think I was sweating blood). Howell lost 2 at the line; it was 4th down, so Riley Smith dropped back, and with the Stanford secondard lying back, looking for a pass or some other kind of "funny stuff", he stood on the 22-yard stripe, over near the side line, and streamlined a perfect field goal through the bars for 3 points to put the boys from the South ahead 9 to 7. They were not to be headed again. Pandemonium broke on the west (Alabama) side of the stadium, as the thousands paid tribute in no uncertain manner to this bunch of white-shirted men from the "deep South", who were fighting like demons, and putting up the smoothest game the westerners had ever looked upon. Where a few moments before the Alabama supporters sat glum in their seats, now the west side was one seething, cheering mass; all were cheering wildly, and no one knew nor cared what the other was saying. They were pulling, cheering, encouraging Alabama on in her victory march. I think the spectators were getting a greater kick out of it all than was the winning 'Bama team, itself. I know I was.

Stanford kicked off again, and Howell returned to his 26. Angelich got 7 at the line. Stanford must have been looking for more passes, for they were drawn in close back of the line, and the ends were both back in the secondary to try to stop those deadly bullet passes just back of the line. Sensing his opportunity, with only 5 men in Stanford's line, Howell broke away on his now famous 67-yard sprint for a touchdown, behind a piece of the prettiest blocking it has ever been my pleasure to witness, as the Alabamians mowed would-be tacklers down. Time after time it looked as if he would surely be stopped, but always just in the nick of time a white shirt got in front to remove the threat and send him on his way again. I think the blocking of the Alabama team was prettier than the run by Howell. In short, the whole play was perfect—perfectly timed, perfect interference, and the ball was in the care of one of the most elusive pigskin toters who ever donned the moleskins. Riley Smith's kick was good, and Alabama led, 16 to 7. And, if the Alabama stands were wild before, they were fit to be tied at this point. But that was not all.

Hutson kicked off and Stanford brought the ball back to their 27. A try at the line for 6 yards, and then Stanford passed, Smith intercepting on his own 46. Again the Stanford defense was drawn in to stop those short spot passes or another gallop through the line. The Stanford men were really "up in the air." When the Alabama passer would pull back and cock his arm to shoot a pass, they would begin running in short circles, looking here and there and everywhere that the pass might be going. They were bewildered. Too, they could never be sure that the 'Bama speedsters would not try the line or the ends, and with their defense spread out in the line, and drawn in in the secondary they were easy marks for 'Bama's versatile attack. It was Alabama's ball again, and again the Stanford team spread out, fan like, in the line, and the secondary drew in, even Grayson, the so-called All-American, to stop those short spot passes or fast stabs at the line. With Stanford in this position, and 8 seconds remaining in the second quarter, Joe Riley faded back and shot a long pass to Hutson who had succeeded in getting behind Grayson; Hutson took the pass on the dead run, the ball coming in over his right shoulder, and continued on into the promised land without a hand being laid on him. The play was good for 54 yards. I have never heard such cheering. Those sailors just back of me must certainly have leather-lined throats—and they were using them, believe me! Even the Stanford stands gave credit where credit was due, and did the Alabama team the honor of rising en masse in recognition of this wonder team's performance.

Just a word here to scan those 11 minutes in the fag end of the first half. Imagine—22 points in 11 minutes—the most spectacular, dazzling, sparkling display of football ever seen on anybody's field, if we are to take the word of some of the sport's greatest critics. Striking with lightning-like swiftness and rifle accuracy, the Alabama attack left the Stanford defense and the spectators alike all breathless, goggle-eyed and dizzy. Stanford must have realized that it was done for—beaten—up against something they knew no way of stopping, as they ran in circles or danced back and forth in a vain attempt to stop the rapier-like 'Bama attack. They did really look like a bunch of high school lads as they tried to stop those passes and sharp stabs at the line. And the spectators must have realized that they were seeing something extraordinary in football history in the making. Imagine 85,000 raving maniacs as they rose to their feet as one to pay tribute to "the greatest football team in all history of the game," and to yell their approval of this team and its exploits to high heaven itself, it seemed. It was indeed awe-inspiring, and a sight I shall never forget.

The story of the last half can be told in a very few words. In the third quarter the Alabama team seemed content to play a purely defensive game, trying to keep that ball deep down in Stanford territory. However, that vicious old ground game of the Stanford team got going again, and little by little, it forged on and on, seemingly unstoppable as a mighty river, to score again and bring the count to 22 to 13. That was all for the 3rd quarter.

Early in the 4th quarter, with Stanford trailing by only 9 points, it seemed the Alabama team must have said: "They're too close; let's go out and get another score". It seemed just that easy for them to score, when they tried. Accordingly, after an incomplete pass, a gain of 4 yards by "Demmy", and 'Bama had suffered a 15-yard penalty, the 'Bama team came out of their huddle bristling like a bull-pup, fighting mad. Howell faded back, cocked that right arm again, and fired another pass, good for 39 yards in the air, to Hutson, who took the oval on the 20-yard line and traveled on into Canaan untouched, to bring the count to 29 to 13, where it was to remain to the end. That was the last straw for an already bewildered Stanford team. And when Coach Thomas here removed all his "first stringers" and put in another entire team, the Stanford men were so broken in spirit that these second line men were playing them to a stand-still as the game ended.

As Alabamians, we should feel proud of that football team, for to all but a very small section of the country up around Minnesota they are national champions. Echoes from Tuscaloosa bring us the cheerful news that Alabama may have another championship team, and if they have anything near as good a team next year as they had this, you can bet your best eye they will be invited back to Rose Bowl again for January 1, 1936. If Alabama ever goes back to the coast again, string along with them. You'll find that the west has a wholesome respect for the ability of Alabamians, and you'll receive a royal welcome everywhere you go.—Man in the Moon.

LET'S HAVE REFERENDUM

One of the comments made since the defeat of the World Court resolution in the senate by those who were in favor of Uncle Sam's going to Europe, is that the majority in the senate voting for the World Court represented the will of the American people. It would be difficult to make a statement with less basis of sound fact. There has been no referendum on internationalism in the United States since 1920, when the party which advocated American membership in the League was snowed under by an avalanche of votes. No national campaign on the issue has been held since that time. There have been few, if any, instances to show since that time that the American people have changed their minds on the subject. The World Court resolution passed the senate a few years ago with strict reservation and was kicked into the discard by some of the other nations. There were not nearly so many votes against the World Court in the senate then as there were this time.

This, however, it not important. It is to be remembered that the present senate was not elected on the World Court issue, and that the majority of the senate does not represent the majority of the sentiment of the voters on the question.

For example: the state of Indiana formerly had two senators who were opposed to the court. The majority of opinion in the state is undoubtedly opposed to our participation in the court. These two senators were defeated in the last two Democratic landslides. In the two campaigns the World Court issue was not mentioned and undoubtedly few voters in the state knew how the successful candidates stood on international affairs.

If a referendum were held in Indiana this spring on the question of our joining the court, if all political and personal issues were put aside and only international affairs were discussed, it is doubtful whether as many as a half dozen counties would vote to put Uncle Sam in the World Court. It is easily conceivable that the entire 92 counties would vote against it.

Public sentiment in this state is generally pretty well in line with other commonwealths. If it be contended that the Middle West is more opposed to international entanglements than other parts of the country, let us not forget what happened to the legislatures in Texas, Massachusetts, and other states.

In view of these facts it is a little difficult to conceive any sound reason for a belief that the majority of people of the United States favor our adherence to the World Court. There is only one way to settle it. Some of the internationalists tell us that they are going to keep up the fight. If they are so sure of the popularity of their cause let them call for a national referendum on the subject the next time the question comes up.

DEPRESSION IN 1934

For the full year 1934 the value of department store sales in the United States was 13 per cent higher than in 1933, according to the Business Conditions Weekly of the Alexander Hamilton Institute. Sales in 1934 were also higher than in 1932 with a gain of 10 per cent. However, as compared with the predepresson year 1929, the value of sales in 1934 showed a decrease of 31.5 per cent. The expansion in 1934 over the previous two years was due entirely to the higher price level. The quantity of goods sold in 1934 apparently dropped to a new low for the depression.

Montgomery, Ala.—Ernest G. Holt, chief forester of the U. S. Soil Erosion Service at LaCrosse, Wis., spent several days in Alabama last week appraising the wildlife possibilities of a government soil erosion project now being conducted on 110,000 acres in Tallapoosa County.

Mr. Holt discussed with Game Commissioner I. T. Quinn the feasibility of undertaking wildlife development on this land before proceeding to Dadeville where he met R. Y. Bailey, director of the project, for a tour of the area.

"The purpose of my visit is to appraise the possibilities of this land for wildlife development and if they seem good, a competent biologist will be appointed to handle the project," Mr. Holt said. "The soil erosion project has been under way since last spring and I want to know something of its environmental conditions before I make recommendations to Washington."

He said the government has adopted a policy of adding wildlife specialists to the scientific staffs in charge of soil erosion projects where these projects promise beneficial results. There are 32 projects now in operation and while they are aimed primarily to help the farmer much is being accomplished in reforestation and wildlife propagation.

"The fundamental objectives of the wildlife plan, which is closely integrated with soil erosion control, include bettering conditions for wildlife as a whole, both from a biological and social standpoint, and providing an annual replaceable crop of game and fish as supplemental compensation to farmers for the use of the land," declared Mr. Holt.

"It is largely up to the states as to how this is done. Wisconsin, where we have been operating for a year, had an increase of 96 per cent in quail without predator control. An attempt is being made to organize the farmers into cooperative groups and each group appoints a chairman to handle contacts with the sportsmen. The government acts merely in an advisory capacity.

"There is a small daily charge to the hunter and then so much per bag and this, we have found, creates a greater tendency on the part of the hunter to hunt out the birds that he wounds. Our operations are carried on in close cooperation with state authorities and the whole problem is an incentive to the farmer to continue practices of value to the perpetuation of wildlife."

Mr. Holt is a native of Montgomery and for many years was connected with the National Association of Audubon Societies.

FOREST FIRE REPORT

Montgomery. — That over fifteen thousand Alabama citizens turned out to fight forest fires without pay from the state or federal governments during 1934 is shown by the compilations just completed by the state commission of forestry for its annual report to the U. S. Forest Service. Intensive research and investigations over the state show that approximately nine per cent of the 22,500,000 acres of forest land in Alabama burned over during the year.

The total number of fires occurring was 13,954. Of these lightning caused 80 fires, railroads, 344, lumbering operations 574, brush burning and land clearing 5,573, camp fires 419, smokers 1,113, incendiaries 2,320 and miscellaneous causes were responsible for 3,531.

The efficacy of coordinated efforts towards the protection of woodlands is shown by the fact that for the 10,032,663 acres of net forest land included within the organized districts only four and two-tenths per cent burned over, whereas on the 12,467 acres comprised in unorganized territory fires swept over thirteen and three-tenths per cent of the area. In other words, in those parts of the state where the Commission of Forestry, because of lack of funds, has been unable to extend its field work, one acre out of every seven was burned, while in the territory which it was able to cover only one acre out of every twenty-four was damaged. Even this latter figure, however, is much too high, due mainly to the fact that the funds available are spread over too great an acreage. In order to meet the federal requirements as to adequacy of protection, the state is faced with the alternative of reducing the area covered or providing additional funds to maintain or possibly slightly increase the territory to be included in organized districts.

PLEASANT HILL

Last Sunday was another perfect day with us. Folks around Pleasant Hill, our Sunday school was the best we have had in a long time. Following Sunday school we had a most wonderful message delivered to us by our pastor, Rev. W. E. Robinson. We were glad to have the large crowd out Sunday and hope they will continue to come to church. Listen, let's all try and go to Sunday school next Sunday and keep our Sunday school growing. It's only what we make it, and every time you are absent you're missing a great blessing. We also have B. Y. P. U. every Sunday night.

Miss Jessie Cleckler spent last week with her sister, Mrs. Howard Robinson, of the Pleasant Grove community.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Twilley and children had dinner Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Otis Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cleckler spent a while Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Cleckler.

SENATOR HUGO BLACK FAVORS GROUP HOSPITALIZATION PLAN

Quotation From Speech Recently Made By One of Our U. S. Senators Concerning Question of General Public Interest to People of Limited Means

As our readers already know, Dr. V. J. Gragg, of Clanton, in recent months, has taken occasion to make, through the public press, some very interesting statements upon the subject of group hospitalization and medical care for those who might not be able to secure such services through their own individual resources.

Quite a number of other lay citizens have joined Dr. Gragg in expressing their interest in and approval of such a plan.

Knowledge of Dr. Gragg's suggested plan has extended far beyond the borders of Chilton County. Senator Hugo Black has heard about it in Washington. In a letter to Dr. Gragg Monday of this week Senator Black speaks very favorably of the idea and the need of group hospitilization. He quotes from a recent speech of his the following enteresting and enlightening facts:

"Of those American citizens examined for service in the World War, thirty per cent were rejected for physical disability. The national committee on the cost of medical care reported to Mr. Hoover as follows:

"'Physicians on the whole, are unoccupied between one-third and one-half of their time. Thousands of nurses seek employment, but in vain; meanwhile, millions suffer, and tens of thousands die from ailments which might be cured or alleviated by medical aid.'

"This committee, after five years of study, found that two out of every five people receied no medical care of any kind. The committee also reported that adequate medical treatment would require 174,000 physicians and we had 144,000; 219,000 dentists and we had 68,000; 270,000 nurses and we had 137,000; 1,422,000 hospital beds and we had 956,000.

"No one need to look further than his own city or county to see a part of this picture of inadequate medical and hospital treatment. The wages or salary of the average man is not sufficient to enable him to face a medical, dental or hospital bill, even for a short period, without a feeling of desperation. The result is that few people obtain proper hospital, medical or dental care. A further result is wasteful and unnecessary suffering and physical weakness and infirmities.

"With tens of thousands of people in need of nurses and hospital treatment, hundreds of thousands of hospital beds have been empty, and thousands of nurses have gone to the breadlines and relief.

"A study of the income of doctors throughout the nation has disclosed that a distressingly large number of them have received incomes below the amount found indispensable for a decent living. This we have on this social economic front . . . . medicine, doctors, dentists, nurses and hospitals, sufficient to give relief to the ills and pains of millions who need it, if they could but buy it.

"Throughout many years, the physicians of America have rendered wonderful service to our people. Most of them respond to the calls of the sick and the afflicted with or without any assurance of pay. Millions and millions of sick and suffering people have received the kind and gentle care of physicians who neither asked nor expected any money reward. Some whom I have personally known have given their lies in traveling over rough and rocky country roads, day and night, to treat the suffering and the diseased.

"History records no martyrs who have given their lives to a more sacred cause than some physicians whose sole object in life was human service."

Without a doubt, you who read the above statements of Senator Black, know that he is telling the truth about a situation that has become tragic for hundreds of people within the confines of our own county. We know further, that the facts present a problem that is vital to our citizenship. We have seen it proven already, many times within the scope of our own observation. It may have been that one of your next-door neighbors was the example.

Something can be done about this important problem. The agricultural leaders tell us we must feed ourselves. Even more important to our people is the matter of health. We must get well first when we are sick, else we shall not need anything to eat. We can solve this problem for our people. May we hope that the efforts of men like Dr. Gragg and Senator Black will arouse us to the importance of the matter.

County Buying

attached to the claim as herein set forth.

"Very often claims have come before the court for materials or supplies that certain persons have purchased of which the commissioners or judge of probate were not advised; and also very often work was done for the county and not authorized by the commissioners court, and the court felt that the adoption of this plan would prevent materials or supplies being bought or work being done when the same is not needed and often times materials being duplicated; and also they felt that the county could buy much more economically by observing the above system and by this system, also the commissioners will always know by whose authority the work and labor was done or materials and supplies purchased.

"As stated, therefore, whenever any person desires to make purchases for Chilton County, we want to urge all of the merchants and also want to urge garages and other people doing work or selling supplies to the county to be sure and have the person who is seeking to purchase supplies or have work done to present a written order from either the commissioners or probate udge, and this will save the delay of passing on your claims, as the court is authorized to refuse any claim, unless a written order accompanies the same."

with the duty of looking after the poor of the county and for the satisfactory and efficient manner in which this duty is being discharged. The grand jury is of the opinion that electric lights and water works should be placed in the sleeping quarters of the inmates, provided the expense is not prohibitive. Most of the inmates are old and decrepit and require attention at night and this grand jury feels that by having electric lights and water works the inmates of the almshouse could be made more comfortable. We find some of the buildings on this property already have water works and in our opinion our recommendations can be carried out at a maderate cost. We find also that a cooking stove is needed at the almshouse, as the one that is now being used belongs to the caretaker and also a coal bin should be provided for the supply of coal.

We wish to express our appreciation to your honor for the instructive and impressive charge given us when we were first impaneled. The able manner in which you defined our duties not only impressed us of our responsibility as grand jurors, but brought to our attention most impressively of our responsibility as citizens. We wish every citizen of the county could have heard your charge to us.

We wish to thank Sheriff J. R. Hardy and his deputies and the bailiff, Mr. J. L. Easterling, for the prompt manner in which they secured witnesses that were required during our investigations and for the conveniences given us during our stay as grand jurors.

We have complied to the best of our ability with your honor's charge, we respectfully ask that we now be dismissed until such time as your honor may see fit and think proper to have us to again convene.

SENATOR BANKHEAD PREPARES NEW BILL

A measure proposing federal loans to help eliminate the tenant farmer has been prepared by Senator John H. Bankhead, widely known throughout the nation as author of the compulsory cotton control bill.

The proposal would establish an emergency similar to the home owners loan corporation. Only tenants would be eligible for the loans to purchase land already in cultivation. The loans would bear a low rate of interest and would be amortized over a period of thirty years.

Gus Jackson Says Vote For Repeal

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you give me a little space in your good paper to give a few reasons why I shall vote for repeal of the prohibition law on February 26th?

1. Prohibition has never been enforced, because too many citizens disregarded the law and it does not prpohibit.

2. It has created the bootlegger and he hides his rattlesnake stuff in every secret place imaginable to keep the law from finding it. And by so doing, has caused the youths of our land to become hunters of bootleg liquor, and they find plenty of it. And that is why the records at Kilby Prison revealed the facts that on September 30, 1,935 out of 5,475 prisoners placed in Kilby Prison during that year that 3,054 were Baptists and Methodsts. The majority of them were sent there for violating the prohibition law and nearly half of them were under 25 years old. That shows what the prohibition law has done for the churches.

3. I cannot vote for a law that would put my Saviour in prison if He were to come to earth again and do what He did when He was on earth nearly two thousand years ago.

4. I cannot vote to retain a law that will permit me to possess and drink wine on sacremental occasions in rememberance of my Savour and on any other occasion put me in prison.

5. Paul said let no man therefore judge you in meat or in drink.

6. It is not a question as to whether or not we and our children shall have liquor or not. Because any body can get it that wants it under the present prohibition law, which does not prohibit drunkenness, but is a question as to whether or not it shall be sold legally or criminally.

7. Our good Bible teaches a loyal and illegal way of using strong drink and wine. It is illegal to use it to an excess and legal to use it temperately from a Bible standpoint.

8. It is my honest opinion that if our churches and preachers would allow their members to drink temperately as they did sixty years ago and back through the Bible ages, we would have little drunkenness and our churches would not have so many criminals. But thousands of good people would go to the church that are now out of the church on account of the attitude of the churches and preachers toward temperance. Respectfully yours for temperance, —A. A. Jackson.

REPORT HEALTH WORK DONE IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Figures Reveal Great Need for All-Time Health Unit In the County

In urging the installation of an all-time county health unit here, Supt. Luther E. Little and others interested in the proposition cited figures to show that the county has benefitted more than $13,000 during the past three months as a result of health work that has been carried on nder the supervision of the State Health Department and the Alabama Relief Administration.

During this time, figures compiled by Mr. Little and two relief nurses, Mrs. Sarah Crim and Mrs. Thelma Pasley, show that 2,304 school children in the county have been given diphtheria toxoid; 130 examined and treated for vicents angina; 116 vaccinated to prevent smallpox; 163 given typhoid vaccine; 46 examined for tuberculocis; 6,000 examined for hook worms; 2,000 found positive and treated; and considerable other health benefits administered.

This work would have cost these people approximately $13,591 at regular charges made by local physicians, according to those in charge of the surveys. Consequently much of it would never have been done and many children's health would have been endangered as a result of continued suffering and exposure to these ailments.

In quoting these figures, Superintendent Little and local physicians who are intensely interested in securing for Chilton County an all-time health unit, stated that this work is just a fair example of what would be a part of the routine duties of the unit.

The maintaining of this protection to its citizens would cost Chilton County $2,500 per year, which may be paid by appropriations from the county government, municipal governments in the county, and any other organization that may wish to lend its cooperation.

House-Cleaning At The Hospital

General Renovation Program is in Progress for Interior of the Building

Spring house-cleaning at the Central Alabama hospital this year has been extended into a general program of renovation, reparing, interior decorating, and new painting throughout the building.

This is the first time, since the hospital was built, about fourteen years ago that the building has had any repairing done to it. Naturally, in that time, the plastered walls have become cracked and discolored. The paint on the woodwork has grown drab and lost its lustre. The present program of renovation has already brought back an atmosphere of attractiveness to many of the rooms and wards, and it will not be many days until everything throughout the place will be as spic and span as it was in the beginning.

The cracks in the walls have been refilled with new plaster. The door and window trimmings are being retouched with fresh paint. Kalsomine in a variety of attractive colors is being applied to the walls of the rooms and hallways. The nurses, in their idle moments (which are few indeed) are taking every opportunity to add delicate feminine touches to the program, without which no spring house-cleaning project could hope to be a success.

None of us, of course, want to go to a hospital. But in spite of our wishes, it usually happens that we all have to do it one time or another. The Central Alabama Hospital is our hospital, and is the place where most of us will go when the necessity arises. It will not be many days until our hospital will be new inside from cellar to attic. Those of us who may have to go there during the next year will, therefore, find it a more attractive, neat and orderly place than it was the past year.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Roberts moved into their new home Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Hart and son, Eric, attended college night at Montevallo Friday night.

Chilton County Voted Dry Tuesday

DRUNK DRIVERS FINED BY MAYOR

Chief Browder Warns Tippiers To Stay Off Streets of Clanton

As indicated by action of the Mayor's Court Monday and a statement by Chief of Police John Browder, on the subject, it appears that it is going to be unhealthy for people who aspire to the pastime of getting lit up and driving automobiles in the city of Clanton.

Three such cases were on the docket of the Mayor's Court Monday. Each of them was convicted and fined $50 and costs of the court. Another violator charged with disorderly conduct was fined $1 and cost.

Chief Browder says it looks like an impossible task for officers to have any luck in an effort to keep people from drinking liquor, but he is positive that they can be kept off the streets when they get drunk, and he issues a faithful promise that his efforts will be diligently applied in that direction.

It is a dangerous proposition to drink liquor at all. It is a tragedy for one to drink to excess. It is an outrage against the safety of the public for people to get on our streets and pester others when they are under the influence of liquor, especially when they elect to drive automobiles.

We hope our officers will be zealous in their efforts to protect our streets from the hazards that are caused by intoxicated persons. If a man insists upon subjecting himself to the personal danger of overindulgence in liquor, he ought to get away to some place where he will not molest others. If he will not do that, then he ought to be put in jail.

DR. BARSON HERE SECOND AND LAST MONDAYS EVERY MONTH

Dr. S. A. Barson, the optometrist, of Montgomery, filled his regular appointment at the Exchange Hotel in Clanton Monday this week. CHILDREN OF COUNTY TO SHARE IN ROOSEVELT BALL PROCEEDS

Some time ago the citizens of Chilton county were asked to buy tickets to the Roosevelt birthday celebration in Montgomery. At that time we were told that Chilton county would receive a lion's share of the proceeds of the Ball, because Chilton county has more cripples suffering as a result of infantile paralysis than has any other county in the Montgomery district.

On Wednesday, February 22nd, Mr. E. H. Gentry, superintendent of the Rehabilitation service in Montgomery, came to Clanton. In co-operation with the local child welfare superintendent, a careful survey of the county's needs was made. As a result of the survey three major cases were selected for treatment from the Roosevelt ball fund. By major cases is meant cases which will involve the expenditure of $50 or more for treatment. In addition to the 3 major cases chosen, plans were made for treatment for a few other cases in which only a special shoe or inexpensive appliance is needed.

Twenty tickets were sold in Chilton county, making our contribution to the fund amount to $20.00.

MAZAR'S STORE HAS NEW SETUP

New Manager, Mr. Lavine, Has Applied New Ideas To Store Interior

The plans of Mr. I. S. Lavine, new manager of Mazar's Store in Clanton, have been about completed for rearrangement of the stock and fixtures of the store. A stroll through this extensive merchandising place convinces one that it is a business somewhat out of the ordinary for a town of this size.

Every department has been individualized so there is neatness and attractive displays everywhere you look. Every convenience for the buyer has been studied carefully by the new manager, and has been applied to each department with carefully calculated accuracy.

And above all else, the one most attractive thing about this big store is the astounding low price at which every item of merchandise is offered. The writer was shown a few departments particularly, as an example, and it was really a surprise.

For instance, the offerings that are being made in the department for ladies dresses and shoes are outstanding. Without actually seeing, one can hardly believe such marvelous things could be bought for such prices. Mr. Lavine had several years experience in the department store business, and the changes he has accomplished since coming to Mazar's attest his excellent ability in store management.

Assisting Mr. Lavine in the store are Mr. Herbert Lowery, and Mrs. G. C. Harris and Mrs. Ludie Lenoir in the ladies departments. John Ponder Lawrence, Jr., is in charge of decorations and displays.

The bargain department in the back part of the store is the place you want to be sure to see when you visit Mazar's. Such an array of wearing apparel, shoes, hats, etc., you have never seen before in Clanton. This week there is a special event coming off in this bargain department Friday and Saturday.

When you come to Clanton, don't go away without visiting Mazar's. You will receive a most cordial welcome, and you will be made glad that you went there.

Mr. J. D. Bell, of Bessemer, formerly with the Murray Hardware Company, has opened a new hardware business in Clanton. The location is in the Walker building formerly occupied by B. L. Jones. The name of the store will be Murray-Bell Hardware Company.

Mr. Bell is well known to the hardware trade, having traveled this territory for several years representing one of the large wholesale hardware houses. He will carry a full line of general light and heavy hardware, catering especially to the needs of the farmers in this territory.

Mr. and Mrs. Bell, with their two children, Katherine and Jimmie, have taken rooms at the home of Mrs. Latham, on Eighth Street, where they will reside until they can rent a home.

Ready To Work Out The Cotton Program

Instructions For Compliance and Program of County Meetings Are Announced by County Agent, J. W. Fant

"We are ready to work out the 1935 Cotton Program," is the statement of County Agent, Fant, to farmers this week. He continues:

If you signed a contract in 1934, it will be necessary for you to see your committeemen in your Beat and tell him what per cent of your base acreage you want to rent to the secretary in 1934.

If you failed to sign a contract in 1934, but want a contract in 1935, get the cotton history of the place, 1928 through 1934, you are living on in 1935 and give it to your committeemen.

The program for 1935 is about the same as it was in 1934, except you many rent only 25 to 35 per cent of your base acreage.

I believe that it will be to the advantage of each cotton producer to rent 35 per cent of his base acreage and receive the maximum rental benefit.

Mr. C. A. Cobb, Chief, Cotton Section, made the following statement February 18, 1935:

"It will be to the advantage of individual producers to plant in 1935 only 65 per cent of their base acreage because in no case will the bases used in making allotments of tax-exemption certificates be more than 65 per cent of a producer's base production. Producers should therefore be cautioned against planting more than 65 per cent of their base acreage with the anticipation of buying surplus exemption certificates at reduced prices in 1935. It will be our recommendation that provisions be made which will prevent surplus exemption certificates being sold below the full amount of the tax. We will also recommend that the tax be kept adjusted at 50 per cent of the price."

Bring your contract and the weights of the bales of cotton produced on the farm on which you are now living, to the place nearest you in your BEAT, on the date listed below. Your committeemen will be there to help you fix your paper.

There wil be no farm to farm canvass made this year. It will be necessary for you to see your committeemen to get your old contract fixed up or make a new contract.

If you have fixed your contract at one of the meetings it will not be necessary to see the committeemen any more.

DR. L. N. DUNCAN AUBURN PRES.

Has Been Director of Extension Service In Alabama For Many Years

Both the Alabama Polytechnic Institute and Dr. L. N. Duncan are to be congratulated on the action of the Board of Trustees Friday in elevating Dr. Duncan to the presidency of Auburn.

To Dr. L. N. Duncan, this promotion comes as a testimonial richly deserved by nearly 40 years of continuous service to his Alma Mater and to Alabama agriculture in general. Graduated from Auburn in 1900, Dr. Duncan spent several years as instructor in agriculture and director of the agricultural experiment station of the Fifth District Agricultural School at Jackson, before returning for his Master's degree, which he received in 1907. Since that time he has served continuously on Auburn's agricultural staff, many years of which he has been director of the institution's extension service. He organized the first 4-H Club in Alabama—an organization of farm boys and girls dedicated to improvement of farm conditions. His leadership in extension work helped bring Alabama's farm service to the forefront of the nation's systems. For his distinguished service to Alabama agriculture, he was awarded a medal by the American Farm Bureau Federation in 1929.

When Dr. Bradford Knapp resigned the presidency of Auburn in 1932, it was only natural that Dr. Duncan be named one of a board of the three faculty members to govern the institution until a new president was elected. His accomplishment as a member of that board made it logical that he become the new president of the institution. The Board of Trustees made a wise choice, and further showed their wisdom by recommending Mr. P. O. Davis to the post of extension division head, succeeding Dr. Duncan. Although Mr. Davis' appointment is subject to confirmation from Washington, this is expected to be promptly forthcoming, as his past experience will enable him to step immediately into Dr. Duncan's shoes and carry on.

These appointments are of paramount interest to all Alabamians at this time, in view of the fact that agriculture is now regaining its rightful place in our state's economic scheme. To Alabama agriculture these appointees bring that trained, experienced leadership so essential in these trying times. To Alabama Polytechnic Institute they mean the inauguration of a new era of effectiveness, shaped by a man thoroughly and personally conversant with the basic problems and fundamental needs of both a large cross-section of our population, and of the institution itself.

Unofficial Statements at Noon Wednesday Say Alabama Voted Dry Majority

The voters of Chilton County turned "thumbs down" on repeal of the state's bone dry law in the referendum vote last Tuesday. With only two boxes to be heard from, unofficial returns gave the drys a lead of 927.

Out of the 25 boxes reported, only three went "wet," and all of these were small ones. Beat 1 went for repeal, 16 to 10; Beat 7, Box 2, went for repeal, 18 to 12; and Beat 13 was wet, 23 to 13.

The leading dry box so far reported Beat 14, the vote of which was 32 to 2—or a majority of 16 to 1.

In the state, dry leaders were jubilant, as returns Wednesday morning gave the wet forces a lead of a little over 6,000. These returns included all but 21 boxes in the three big wet counties—Jefferson, Montgomery, and Mobile. Even Calhoun was going dry by a wide margin. The wets had counted Calhoun in their column by 3 to 1. DeKalb County had reported only 7 out of 48 boxes, in which the drys were leading over 2 to 1. Several of the north Alabama Counties were showing dry margins, while in central and southern Alabama the counties with mostly rural population showed either a dry margin or a very close vote. Montgomery County was wet by about 3 to 1, while predictions of wet leaders had been from 5 to 1 to 7 to 1. Jefferson was running about true to predictions of the wets, with a huge majority for modification.

The total which gave modification a lead of 6,000 included returns from all the larger cities and towns, while most of the boxes yet to be heard from were from rural sections, where the wets conceded the drys would lead.

Following is a listing of the boxes which had been reported on Wednesday morning in Chilton County. Official returns will be reported in next week's paper.

Lesson for March 3

PETER UNMASKS FALSEHOOD AND HYPOCRISY

LESSON TEXT—Acts 5:1-11, 8:18-24.

GOLDEN TEXT—Wherefore putting away lying, speak every man truth with his neighbor: for we are members one of another. Ephesians 4:25.

PRIMARY TOPIC — Peter's Friend Helps People.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter Stands for Truth and Honesty.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Sin of Lying.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Modern Forms of Hypocrisy.

I. Ananias and Sapphira (Acts 5:1-11).

The new community formed after Pentecost is now for the first time called the Church. Since the Christians have now broken with Judaism the success of the new community depends upon its gaining recognition. The Church is now superseding the Mosaic economy. It was now to be God's dwelling place, as hitherto it had been in the Tabernacle and Temple. Their sanctity was now being transferred to the Church. This fact the Church itself must learn as well as the Jewish people who surrounded it.

1. Their sin (vv. 1, 2). It was a hypocritical imitation of the generous act of Barnabas (4:36, 37). Because of the particular distress of the early Church following its open rupture with Judaism, its members for a time had a "community of goods." This was not universal nor permanent. Ananias kept back a part of the proceeds from the sale of his land, while pretending to have brought it all. His wife was a partner in it. They wanted the honor of generosity without paying the price thereof.

2. Their judgment (vv. 3-10). Physical death was visited upon Ananias and Sapphira for their sin. They lied to the Holy Ghost in keeping back a part of the price of their land. They were not obliged to sell their land or, having sold it, to bring any of their money and place it in the common fund. People today are walking in the way of Ananias and Sapphira when they make a profession of Christianity for temporal gain and pleasure. Preaching the sermons of Moody, Spurgeon, etc., without giving credit is another form of this evil. God is passing judgment upon many for their sins of this kind (1 Cor. 11:27-30).

3. The effect (vv. 11-16).

a. Great fear came upon the Church and upon all who heard of these things (v. 11). The Church should be regarded as holy because of its being the very dwelling place of the Most High God. Irreverence is an outstanding sin of this age.

b. Multitudes of men and women were added to the Lord (vv. 14, 15). The fame of Peter was spread far and wide, so that the people were anxious to come under his shadow. The proper recognition of the holiness of the Church, the body of Christ, will bring many to Christ for salvation.

c. Hypocrites did not dare to join (v 13). The vindication of the holiness of the Church deterred none but hypocrites from joining. No unregenerate person and nothing unhallowed has any place in the Church.

II. Simon the Sorcerer (Acts 8:18-24).

1. His wicked request (vv. 18, 19). When Simon saw that Peter's power to work wonders exceeded his own and that this power was received through the laying on of hands, he offered money for the gift. This act revealed his hypocrisy. He professed faith in Christ and was baptized, and even followed the apostles for a selfish end. Traffic in sacred things is called "Simony," from the name of this sorcerer. Making merchandise of Christianity is committing the same sin. Using the name of Christ for the purpose of gain is to be guilty of this sin.

2. Peter's severe rebuke (vv. 20-22).

a. "Thy money perish with thee." This implies that Peter's judgment was that Simon was unregenerate and that he himself was in the way of perishing.

b. "Thy heart is not right in the sight of God." One whose inner life delights in God could not seek the Spirit's power for selfish reasons.

C. "Repent of thy wickedness and pray to God for forgiveness." While Peter recognized that this man was unsaved, he did not regard him as beyond the hope of salvation, but urged him to turn from his sin and ask for forgiveness.

d. "Thou art in the gall of bitterness and in the bond of iniquity." The one and only thing for this man to do was to repent and sue for forgiveness. Simon requested Peter's prayer to the end that he might escape divine judgment.

The Power of Jesus

Therefore doth my Father love me, because I lay down my life, that I might take it again. No man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of myself. I have power to lay it down, and I have power to take it again. This commandment have I received of my Father.—John 10:17-18.

Must Be Tested

In most men there must be a tragedy of the soul, and the "majesty of righteousness" must be burned into us.

Miss Ruth Pardue, county home demonstration agent, spent the past week end with Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Stapp in Selma.

IN REMEMBRANCE OF LITTLE TOM JEFF KNOX

It was on one sad Monday morning, the eighteenth day of February, at fifteen minutes until nine o'clock the death angel visited the home of Mrs. Leona Knox and bore away her sweet little baby, little Tom Jeff. He was only one year and six months old. He was sick on his bed only nine days. It took the measles and relapsed with the bronchial pneumonia. Little Tom Jeff bore a pain we have all got to bear. But our loss is heaven's gain. It died so sweet. He was loved by all who knew him. He loved everybody. He was always ready to say howdy do to everybody who entered the door. He was so sweet. He always were a sweet smile. It was ready to do any little thing it could. He was the sweetest flower or little bud that God ever sent for the sun to shine on.

He stayed shining out for just one year and six months for us to be with, but it's at rest—no more pain, no more suffering for it. My baby is at rest and sweet rest. It was so sensible and so sweet to its grandfather. It left lots of broken hearts, but our loss is sweet heavenly gain. There was a vacant place in heaven no one on earth could fill, and God took the sweetest bud on earth to fill that place.

He is at rest in Jesus's arms. We know where our sweet baby has gone. Just prepare ourselves to meet him again where there be no more sadness nor pain. He was just a little angel for us to be with here on this earth. He is not dead. He is just only asleep waiting for us to come. He was so sweet to take its medicine. It wore a sweet little smile, but little Tom Jeff is gone beyond the shining shore. But he never will be forgotten. Everybody who saw him wanted litte Tom Jeff. He couldn't walk but dear kind people, what a sad pain the Lord left its mother, but it's gone on to rest. That's where I want to go and meet my sweet baby, little Tom Jeff. But the Lord doeth all things well. He knows best for us all.

I sure do want to express my thanks to the many good, kind people that were so kind to us during the illness and death of our dear darling baby. God reaches blessings to each of you. I do thank Judge Smith for his kindness. I thank Mr. and Mrs. Ballard, Mr. and Mrs. Zed Mims, Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Connell, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Littleton, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Giles, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Connell, Mrs. Ed Williamson and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Gimosie Connell, Mr. Grady Cleckler, Mr. Newt Connell, Mr. Rollfie Franklin, Mr. and Mrs. Jabow Ballard, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Ballard and all of the many good people that were so kind to us.

Little Tom Jeff leaves to mourn his loss his mother, Mrs. Leona Connell Knox; his grandfather and grandmother, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Connell; his little aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. William Bradley, Dalton Connell, Linnie and Roland Connell. He was laid to rest the nineteenth day of February at Mt. Springs cemetery about eleven o'clock, with Rev. Jake Parker in charge of the funeral.

The pallbearers were Sam Connell, Rube Rhodes, Albert Thompson,

The songs were so sweet and many thanks for the beautiful flowers and those that were willing to help. I do thank Mr. M. T. Bradley.

We miss him, oh we miss him
There is no human tongue can tell,
We are praying to meet little Tom Jeff
Where we will never say farewell.

He was willing to take his medicine. He always took it well. He was so sweet to nurse, but our hearts have asked and suffered pain, but our baby is laid to rest.

We miss him calling papa,
Our hearts are full of pain you know,
But it makes me full of joy to think
That is where I want to go.

We miss his sweet voice,
We miss his bumping over the floor,
There lays little Tom Jeff's playthings
For it to see no more.

Little Tom Jeff is gone but not forgotten nor never will be, for the sweetest thing God ever sent was taken on to rest. God bless every one of us and you.—Written by his mother, grandfather and grandmother, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Connell. 1tpd.—adv.

NO GOOD REASON FOR PESSIMISM

F. M. Law, President American Bankers Association, Sees Improving Conditions and a Changing Future

WASHINGTON, D. C.—There is no good reason for pessimism today, for though the "depression is not by any means over we are coming out of it," F. M. Law, President of the American Bankers Association told the American Institute of Banking convention here recently.

"Banking is a necessary business and will endure," Mr. Law said. "In order to endure, it must be the right sort of banking, under the right sort of management.

"The American Institute of Banking commands and is entitled to great respect because its major objective is to teach and promote the right kind of banking. One of the chief reasons for my faith in the future of banking is that this organization has 219 active chapters, with over 50,000 members, and with 33,000 students enrolled, and it is doing a good job in teaching these thousands of bank employees what good banking is, and what it is not."

Business men everywhere, and especially bankers, he said, will do well to recognize and to understand the many changes that are occurring, for "it is fatal to be obsessed with the belief that any and all change from the existing order is heresy."

Banking is a serious business, he said and "I know not one single man or woman who has made a success of it who has not been over a long period of years a hard worker." He added:

"Take for your motto the old German phrase 'Ich Dien.' (I serve). Meaning what? Serve your depositors, your stockholders and society.

"Let no man tell you that private initiative is dead. On the contrary, it commands a greater premium today than ever before. If you and others like you have courage enough, if you possess patience, if you have a passion for hard work, and if, with an open mind, you look to and prepare for the future and the opportunities which are sure to come, you cannot be denied. Your generation will add prestige to the honorable calling that we know as banking."

CENTER HILL NEWS

Winter is still prevailing and people trying to farm, but can't get much done at it for cutting wood and building fires.

Most all the people who were sick are able to be out, and believe me, we were proud to see them.

We regret very much to hear that Mrs. Jeff Ellison, who was operated on at South Highland Infirmary, is not doing well. We sincerely hope she will soon be improving.

Our singing was fine Sunday afternoon. Several visitors were present, among whom were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Scott and Miss Edna Murel Thombro. Always glad to welcome old friends and residents back.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Cobb, Misses Mildred and Mable Cobb were the dinner guests of the Millers Sunday.

This community was well represented in Selma for the basketball tournament. Those attending from here were Messrs. Lonnie, J. T. Alton and J. O. Cobb and Leo Collum. J. T., and especially J. Some few from here attended court in Clanton Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Price and daughters spent the week end with their daughter and sister, Mrs. Ward Thrash.

EXCESSIVE production of corn may be expected in the fall of 1935 unless a large percentage of farmers agree to hold plantings for the year within reasonable limits, it is pointed out by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. The normal response to severe, though temporary feed shortages and high feed prices occasioned by severe drought is a planting of a larger than average acreage to corn the following year. At the same time, yields per acre usually return to normal and a record crop with low feed prices results. Then, after a year or two, livestock production, particularly of hogs, becomes excessive, and livestock prices also are forced down.

For example, in 1895 following the severe drought year of 1894, farmers increased their corn plantings by over ten million acres. The yield per acre followed the usual trend and returned to two bushels above average. As indicated in the above graph, a record crop resulted. On December 1, 1895, the price of corn was 25 cents per bushel as compared with approximately 45 cents per bushel the preceding year. By 1897, hog production had been greatly stimulated and prices were lower.

The 1935 corn-hog production adjustment program offered by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration provides farmers with an opportunity for avoiding a similar reaction to the current drought situation.

A VICTORY FOR U. S. A.

The defeat of the World Court resolution in the senate is a heartening thing. It shows that in spite of a present fashion of experimenting without regard for consequences enough of the old spirit of Americanism remains to prevent the adoption of such a piece of folly as adherence to the tribunal of the league of nations. The only regret today is that the vote against adherence was not heavier.

Talk about the result being a defeat for President Roosevelt should be heard with due consideration of the facts. The president undoubtedly threw all his strength to the World Court crowd, but the issue involved was above and beyond him. Presidents come and go, but the peace and dignity of the United States—and both were threatened by the prospect of entry into the Court—are or should be continuing. Let us not call it a defeat for Franklin D. Roosevelt, but a victory for the United States of America.—New York Sun.

BILLIONS FOR RELIEF

The $4,000,000,000 work relief budget of the administration is a challenge to the whole nation.

Rather than argue about the use to which this huge sum of money is to be put, although there is room for argument, it would be better to devote time to planning ways of making a similar appropriation unnecessary next year.

There is room here for constructive planning—and doing—not only by the administration, but also by the Republican Party and by business intertests.

This fund not only measures the failure of the Roosevelt administration to bring recovery, it also measures the failure of private capital to provide employment. Instead of arguing exclusively about its employment, it would be well to plan for its elimination in the next budget.—Syracuse Post Standard.

The way to solve the alien problem, says the Department of Labor, is to buy each alien "volunteering" to go home a ticket, pay his expenses and appropriate enough for him to get started anew in the country of his origin. That sounds good to those who haven't had a vacation for a while. Wonder if Europe would offer the same to visiting Americans.

A few of the Department of Agriculture men are inspecting the situation to ascertain whether they are liable to a plowing under procedure.—Washington (D. C.) Star.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

Bureaucracy marches on at Washington and it begins to appear that the dreadful disease may be spreading to the states. For instance, thee old rock-ribbed state of Indiana is now scrapping in the state legislature over a proposed "NRA" for the state which, if enacted, will elevate the governor of that state to a position of virtual dictator.

In Nebraska all gold clauses have been cancelled. Still other states, for instance Illinois, have enacted NRA legislation and the germ of dictatorship continues to spread.

Down Georgia way there is an entirely different atmosphere, however. The governor of Georgia thinks differently about matters and has recently refused to play that sort of game. Recently he called attention to the fact that if the old age pension system proposed by the federal government were adopted in Georgia, it would saddle onto that state a new expense of $42,000,000 annually which he refused to burden the taxpayers with.

In Washington the fur is flying. Investigations are becoming rife. Many are aimed at various branches of American industry, banking and what not. If the people could summarize the expense involved in these investigations they would be considerably concerned. Several new investigations now on the road are those of the telephone companies, of the electric utilities, of water utilities, of the NIRA, of Farley, the Postmaster General, of the propaganda of foreign governments regarding the World Court and League of Nations, and of the mortgage holders. Some have begun to look on Congress more as an inquisitorial body than as a legislative one for which it was originally designed.

A new bureaucracy that promises the most devasting effect in the country is the proposed Central Bank plan. President Andrew Jackson abolished such system after an eight year fight, saying it had become a political weapon to control the government, the credit and holdings of the people of the nation and therefore their votes, and to keep friends of the controllers in office.

Louis Haney, proffessor of economics at New York University and considered a foremost authority on finances, says the "Eccles" plan would mean the "complete abandonment of liquidity and reduce banking to government operation. It would mean no distinction between money and credit, which means 'fiat' or 'dead' money. It would mean a very long step toward socialism in finance."

The gong may ring on the varied socialist schemes and the wide spending spree with the adjournment of this Congress, for next spring begins the national election season. But unless the public changes the colors of its horses it will continue to march on even more despotically thereafter.

REDS ACTIVE

Much is being said regarding the communists in the United States and of the furor they have been creating in the way of strikes and revolts throughout the land. William Kelty, who was on the scene of the Minneapolis truck strike last fall and who attended meetings at which reds were conspiring maneuvers to prolong the strike and to turn it into a general warfare has given deep study to this question and deals with it in a very scholarly fashion in the current issue of the National Republic in an article of the above title. Mr. Kelty says, in part:

"That many of the numerous strikes, riots and mass protest marches during the past year were intended, not to benefit the workers who had been agitated to such an extent that they joined them, but to prevent the progress of the nation from the stage of depression to a greater stability, is evident from a close analysis of the more serious revolts.

"The Minneapolis transportation strike in August, 1934, offered a very clear picture of the intrigue of the communists and of the double-crossing methods they used on many of the workers who, sheep like, fell into the ranks organized by these conspiring agitators. This strike ceased in its early stages to be an instrument for securing fairer wages or better working hours and conditions for the worker. Instead it soon became what has been very aptly termed as an 'entering wedge for communism,' due to the desire of radical leaders to transform the walk-out into a revolutionary weapon. This affair was cleverly timed to break out when the reds assumed the San Francisco, Seattle and Portland seamen and longshoremen's general strikes would have reached their most heated stage.

"Other midwestern strikes were, likewise, to break forth in succession in Toledo, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit and within the midwest farm districts. At the peak of those strikes the textle tilt in the East and South was to blossom out. These strikes were to be joined by share croppers, transportation and garment workers, steel workers and miners, formulating into what the reds hoped would become a nation-wide general strike which they visioned would be turned into the long proclaimed 'civil war.'

"The Minneapolis newspapers revealed with complete evidence, that the Trotskyites and the Communist League of America were directly engineering the Minneapolis strike from their headquarters in New York, and although it received less notoriety, the (Stalinites) Communist Party of the United States was even more active.

"The early arrest of two strangers to Minneapolis, one the editor of the Militant, official publication of the (Trotskyites) Communist League, and the other the editor of the New International, which terms itself the 'organ of revolutionary Marxism,' led police to the immediate disclosure of large amounts of subversive propaganda which had been shipped into the city in order to help stir up confusion and discontent, and of a strike school to turn out trained agitators and thus precipitate a general strike. It was further revealed that this propaganda, together with letters and telegrams outlining plans for communistic strategy, was distributed through the agency of a leader of the striking union who, it was later discovered, is also a member of the National Committee of the Communist League of America. * * *

"Many intercepted messages clearly reveal that the strike situation in Minneapolis was merely an attempt of communists to ignite a carefully planted bomb into an explosion of a carefully planned revolution. Though this may seem fantastic at first appearance, it offers much cause for serious thought, particularly since other strikes have also served the communists to advantage. It is also obvious that the strike is of highest importance to the communists for it is through such strife that they are able to poison the minds of the workers against their employers and against the government of the United States, which they lyingly paint as owned by the 'capitalist.' These strikes, the communists claim in their inner circles, are 'drills for the civil war,' and the more numerous and frequent these are the more progress made in the program for the revolution. So say these communist generals of turmoil. And only to this degree do they interest themselves in the working conditions or wages of the laborer.

"From the above statements it would appear that the 'Communist League' is monopolizing radical activity. On the contrary, the Communist Party has also been extremely busy. The two organizations operate in a different manner, however. The League appears to make a policy of dispatching agents to the scene of all labor trouble to concentrate agitators in any place at a given time."

RETIRING ELDERLY PEOPLE

There is a rush among social reformers to secure old-age pensions for needy persons all over the country. Public sentiment seems to demand some such action, as an expression of sympathetic spirit of our day, but some of the propositions offered go much too far as respects giving these pensions at a too early age. Some people advocate granting them when people pass sixty or even fifty-five years. Such plans would encourage the idea that when people reach these ages the time has come for them to retire. No doubt many young folks would like to see them stop work, and leave their places for younger people, but if the people generally quit work at fifty-five or sixty years of age, the result would be in the long run, to reduce the country's production.

The people over fifty-five or sixty years of age are not "done" by any means. Millions of them are doing excellent work. A normal state of society would encourage them to keep working. The nation is never going to be saved by cutting down production. When the total production of the community is reduced, the amount which can be divided up among the people declines and there will be less for wages and salaries and interest and dividends, and everybody will suffer. Also a tremendously heavy tax burden would be created by granting pensions at an early age.

During the year from the World War to the 1929 crash, most people had work most of the time, if they wanted to work, or were competent workers. We need to get back to the conditions prevailing then, except that serious abuses were tolerated then, which must be reformed. But even with those abuses, our business system produced from 1918 to 1929 the greatest comfort for the masses that was ever created in the world history. Our business system is perfectly capable of producing work for all who want it, if some obvious faults are corrected, and if the government encourages it, instead of restricting it too severely.—Salem News.

Many people are against military training in America. They do not want any war. But we should remember that Belgium didn't want any war and Korea and China didn't want war, but war came. The United States should continue to hate war and to be prepared to discourage anybody who doesn't hate it from trying it on us.

Man In The Moon

TO THE WEST COAST, AND BACK

(Part VI)

On Wednesday, January 2, I went from the Roy Moss home in Burbank to various towns in the Los Angeles district, gathering newspapers bearing notes on the game, and listening to people comment on the teams and the players. It seemed that the general trend was that most of the fans in Los Angeles and surrounding territory had figured that Alabama would win, in spite of the "dope" of the smart heads to the contrary, but even these Alabama supporters on the coast were stunned with the staggering superiority the lads from 'Bama had shown over the coast's best. The popularity of Alabama is attested by the fact that the Rose Bowl, seating 85,000, was a complete sell-out for the first time in its history, with an overflow crowd estimated at from 8,000 to 10,000, for whom the Rose Bowl officials were nice enough to rig up a public address system all around the bowl, through which they heard the report of the game, after it was assured that every seat in the spacious stadium would be sold.

Right here I can tell of a little incident that happened as I was hurrying to my seat for the game, which will show very well just how tight the ticket situation was. As explained before, the New Year's game had never been a sell-out before, so there were thousands who thought that they could go down to the gate and get a ticket. But there were no tickets to be had, for love or money! So, as I neared the gate, a "ticket hawker" (one of those fellows who are engaged by wealthy people to buy tickets for them, no matter what the price) approached me and asked if I had a ticket. I told him I did, and a box seat at that. His first offer for that ticket (which cost me $5.50) was $25.00, but I wanted to see the game myself, and started on. He raised the price two or three times, and I got out of hearing as soon as I could—I was a bit afraid he might offer me enough that I would sell it to him—and I had driven over 2,000 miles to see that game. No doubt some big rich gink was sitting around close somewhere just ready to pay $150.00 or maybe $200.00 for that ticket. Those wealthy fellows don't care for money—what they wanted was to get in the bowl, no matter what the cost.

The regular prices on tickets, according to position were $1.65, $2.20, $2.75, $3.30, $3.85, $4.40, $4.95, and $5.50. It would happen that I would have to be so late that I would have to pay $5.50. Mr. Duffey was lucky enough to get his for $2.75. But I must get back to the story.

On Thursday, January 3, we went out to the beach at Santa Monica, going by way of Hollywood and Beverley Hills (the film colony—the former being where most of the films are made, and the latter being where most of the screen stars have their homes) where we took another last look at the poinsettia field. This is a field of some 10 or 15 acres absolutely wrapped in these beautiful flowers. The field is on the slope at the base of the mountain on the side of which "Pickfair" is built. "Pickfair" is the palatial home of Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford, and the poinsettia field looks as if it might have been laid out as a front yard for this beautiful estate, except that the boulevard runs between the two. This field is a veritable sea of flaming red, except for the paved lanes for sightseers' cars which run here and there all over the place. This is said to be the biggest field of this particular plant in all the world—millions and millions of the plants—the flower that is not a flower— and with stems 8 or 10 feet tall. From this field, too, we had a full view of greater Los Angeles. And let me tell you, folks, that is a fairly good size burg, with its 2,000,000 people. From this viewpoint the city spreads out like a toy city on the spacious plain far, far below. I suppose the city must be some 6 or 8 miles away, maybe further, and on this occasion the cars and trucks looked like ants crawling about.

At the beach at Santa Monica we looked out over the Pacific, took in a few of the sights to be seen there, walked out on the sand to the water's edge, made a few pictures, and gathered a little of the sea sand to bring back home with us. I have it in a bottle at the Union-Banner office. It is of a greenish tint, and is what builders call "square" sand. On the day we were at the beach, it seemed that there was much fog over the water, so that we could not see very far out, but I was told that this is not the case every day, and that some days one can see for miles out over the water. Looking out over the ocean is much like looking up toward the sky on a cloudy, foggy day. Everything just fades off into nothing. I didn't get much of a kick from it.

The beach is really a series of small villages, or show places, all very much alike, each with its fishing pier, amusement park, freak shows, scenic railways, mystery trips, auto spins, slides, plunges, gambling spin wheels of the roulette type, and scores of curio shops, souvenir stores, etc.

Just north of Santa Monica a beautiful drive begins and runs up the edge of the water for some 40 miles—this is called the Palisades Drive. In traveling along this wide drive—I think it must be all of 60 feet wide—it seemed to me that we were going down hill all the time. We drove for several miles and when we turned back it seemed just the same, still going down hill.

Getting back into town, we began talking over the matter of starting back home. The ladies had just about made all their arrangements pertaining to church matters, and my wife didn't seem to be doing so well in the damp California climate. So I got in touch with Mrs. Taylor and Mr. Duffey and made arrangements to start home the next morning (Friday, January 4).

The story of the trip back home will not be long, as we came back, for the most part, by the same route we went out over, only leaving the original route in three places.

On the return, we left our original route at Indio, California, to take the road to lead through Yuma, Arizona. We had a late start, getting out of Los Angeles about 9:00 a. m. We got no further than Yuma that night, coming through the Mojave Desert, "The North American Sahara", late in the afternoon. I believe this was one of the most interesting parts of the whole trip. For several miles on both sides of the road, there is nothing to be seen but a broad expanse of sand — pure yellow sand. It is never still, but is continually shifting, restless as the ocean. When we came over this section on this trip it was much quieter than when I crossed it in the summer of 1930. Then, the wind was blowing strong, and great clouds of the fine sand could be seen rising into the air. In other places (in 1930) the wind was in the form of whirlwinds, and regular cones of sand rose to great heighth. On this last trip, however, the sands were comparatively quiet, but still moving around some. This region is some 10 to 15 miles across at this point. We gathered some of this sand, too, and I have a sample of it at the Union-Banner office. It is what builders call "round" sand, and will keep a level almost as fast as water.

We made Yuma that night, and, although we had not come so far, all were a little tired, and we decided to put up, as it was a long way to the next good-size town. I went with Mr. Duffey to see a show, which I believe was the worst I ever saw. Yuma isn't such a great place, if you'll take Mr. Duffy's estimation of it. In fact, it is one of the poorest of the so-called larger towns we passed through.

Up early the next morning, we went to Gila Bend for breakfast. And, by the way, that word "Gila" is pronounced like "Heela"—that's the way the people of the town pronounce it, so I suppose it must be right.

From Gila Bend, on through Casa Grande, and out into the open desert again. Before long we came to our desert zoo again, "the parting of the ways". One road would carry us back by way of Globe, through the mountains, while the other would carry by the desert route through Tucson and Benson, Arizona. We could see the heavy storm cloud hanging in the mountains miles away, and, although we really wanted to come back by that route in order to make some pictures, yet decided it would be best for us to take the desert route, as we were afraid we might be snowed in around Globe, and have to wait over for several days.

There was nothing of note on this section of the road, as it was just like hundreds of miles we had already passed through—totally wrapped up in hundreds of different kinds of cactus and other desert growth—all of it thorny. Everything in the desert is thorny, even the people you meet are not so smooth as you can find elsewhere. As we came into Tucson my motor cut out; glancing at the fuel gauge, I knew we were out of gas, but by choking and coaxing I got a few more drops, and coasted in under a filling station on the edge of town. Believe you me, I really filled the old tank that time.

On into Benson, Arizona, a Mormon town. There I was told that I could take what is known as the "Benson cut-off" from there to Lordsburg, New Mexico, missing Douglas and Bisbee, and so cut off something like 100 miles. We took it and saved some time, although we found quite a bit of gravel road, some of it pretty rough. In here, however, we saw some of the prettiest scenery to be found. We stopped at one place on this section to make pictures of cowboys going on about their duties in "the round-up". On this loop, too, we came to Wilcox, Arizona, which I believe is the roughest spot on the whole trip. Everything there, even the ladies, looks pretty tough, and we lost no time in getting out of the place.

About night we got into Lordsburg, N. M., and stopped at Hidalgo Court, the prettiest tourist camp we saw anywhere in the west. Every cabin is topped off with a spire, resembling a Turkish minaret. I was a little too tired to go to a show that night, but inasmuch as Mr. Duffey was just bound and determined to see one, Mrs. Taylor went with him, while I stayed in to catch a little shut-eye.

The next morning we drove into El Paso and stopped to pick up some Mexican novelties which Mr. Duffey had left there. Leaving El Paso, we drove all the rest of the day in a storm of all kinds. At first it was just wind, then there was a little hail; next the sand began to rise in clouds which filled the air; then the rain began to fall in sheets. The rain, falling through the sand cloud, brought down a regular rain of pure mud. After a while, though, it all settled down into rain, and we drove all that day in it, stopping at Odessa, Texas.

From Odessa we drove to Abilene the next morning, where we took 80-S, the southern section of road 80. This carried us through Cisco, where Mr. Duffey wanted to see Baker Glenn, a former Verbena boy. He was not there, however, and we drove to Mineral Wells, on through Fort Worth, Dallas, and several smaller towns, spending the night at Mineola. This night we spent in a hotel, the only place in which we did not stay in tourist camps.

The next day we drove hard and far in order to make it back home. We were lost in Meridian, but we finally found the road again, losing some precious time. Coming into Selma, we took another road across to Prattville, so as to come up by Mt. Creek and Mr. Duffey's home. This road was slippery and slowed us up, but we were too close to home to mind that so much. Shortly after mid-night we reached home, tired and sleepy, but full of memories of a wonderful trip into a wonderful country.

I have had several people inquire about different parts of the country, and I have tried to tell them, but no matter how hard a person may try to describe scenes of "the golden west" it just cannot be done in words. Using a well worn expression, the west "must be seen to be appreciated."

Now a few statistics. Going out our speedometer registered 2,160.9 miles from Dief's Service Station to the intersection of Road 80 and Sunset Boulevard, the "main drag" of Los Angeles. Coming back we registered 2,186.3 miles. While in Los Angeles I drove 482.8 miles, making a total mileage of 4,830 miles. I user 22 quarts of oil, draining the crank case every 1,000 miles, 277 gallons of gas, had my car greased four times and bought two light bulbs; the total auto expense was $63.07. I had no car trouble, not even a puncture. I bought gas in one place in the desert on the Benson cut-off at 23 cents for third run (the only kind to be had there), and at Terrel, Texas, I bought Texaco Ethyl for 15 cents a gallon. There was plenty of gas on sale at from 8 to 12 cents, but I didn't want that kind. It isn't so "hot". So, you see it isn't so costly to travel after all, and for seeing things, I think Mr. Greely was right when he said: "Young man, go west."—Man in the Moon.

CHILD LABOR

What this miscalled child labor amendment really means is that a bare majority of the House and Senate, less than 300, cannot only limit and regulate but prohibit the labor—not merely the employment for hire—of every person under eighteen, making them to all intents wards of the nation and setting up over them a bureaucracy to supervise their lives. One may say that this is an extreme interpretation, but it is not more extreme than the very language of the amendment makes possible. The wise and prudent course is not to grant Congress a power that lends itself to such opportunities for misuse.—Hartford Courant.

INVITING DISASTER

The representatives of the people in Congress are supposed to live in an intellectual vacuum and to content themselves with voting billions on presidential demand—to be expended by the President who lacked time or interest or something to read his nearly five billion bill, framed by unknown subordinates, before it was submitted to Congress. It is disgraceful and it invites disaster.—Baltimore Sun.

LEANING ON GOVERNMENT

In the midst of a well organized drive for government ownership of everything from the back yard garden plot to the kitchen stove, Relief Administrator Hopkins made the announcement on February 9th that "one out of every seven persons in the United States is now dependent on the government for the necessities of life." He produced figures showing that five million families totalling 20,000,000 men, women and children and 775,000 individuals, or a total of 21,000,000 persons are on Federal Relief rolls now. The population of the country is about 129,000,000.

There is a two-edged drive on to governmentalize all industry. We say "all" for that is the aim of some of the brain trusters, some members of Congress and their socialistic pals on the outside who are organized into many movements and have an eye on all private property. This drive has been waged continuously since the beginning of the World War. It is led by socialists and communists and the I. W. W.'s also figure strongly in the movement.

One group of the wreckers of individualism or private ownership, the "public ownership league," will congregate in Washington late in February to add stimulus to the drive. Another organization, the "people's lobby," only recently held a "confab" on the subject.

The immediate program is to socialize or communize utilities, railroads, mines, communication, transportation, banks, textile industries, etc. Taxation of payrolls and machinery, and the shortening of hours to 30 a week are added attempts to break down private enterprise.

The government has purchased 8,156,962 heads of farm stock with the taxpayers' money; they are investing in homes; they own practically all of the good securities of the banks, having taken them in from banks they closed and from banks to which they have loaned money. They own a very large percentage of the farm mortgages and home mortgages of the country, having acquired them as collateral on loans; and now, in the event of war, the McSwain Bill will enable the government at a sweep of the hand to take over all that is left.

In Delaware, it has been exposed in the United States Senate and by Rev. Father Coughlin over the radio, a corporation has been organized by several government brain trusters which could use the taxpayers' money to "communize and socialize the private property" of the nation, as Coughlin puts it. The corporation gives these brain trusters power to go into business in competition with the people whose tax money they expect to use, to take over nearly all lines of private endeavor.

The American public which in 1932 plowed under the Socialist and Communist Parties to the tune of about thirty-six million votes as compared to about 500,000, because they wished to guard their personal belongings, are beginning to awaken to the fact that their belongings are being socialized anyhow. It is pretty late to protest, but many are protesting. It will require a "world court" protest action to stop the onslaughter against the invasion of personal property rights at Washington. When everyone is forced to lean on the government, a dictatorship, of course becomes a reality. Then personal liberty will follow the same route as has property. The government becoming the full master of the people and not the people the masters of their government.

PRINTING AND PUBLISHING

Printing and publishing are among the nation's largest and most stable industries, according to figures released recently by the United States Department of Commerce. Employment in these industries increased in 1933 especially in the summer and fall, while most industries were showing a slump. It, however, shows considerably less than in 1931.

Over 225,000 people receive wages from this industry, and the total amount of subscriptions, sales and advertising including commercial printing contracts, reach over billions of dollars a year. Newspapers and periodicals employ half of the 25,000 wage earners, and commercial printers the other half. Labor costs represent approximately half of the costs of production.

National advertising has been considerably off, but subscriptions for the most part have held up, and in many instances have shown an increase. The publishing business is an all year industry and has kept pace with the times. There is little opportunity for "over production" in the business, and the employees are among the highest paid and enjoy the best working conditions of all labor. This is not a new thing in the printing and publishing industry. Even before the NRA most plants worked only 44 to 48 hours a week and paid exceedingly high wages. Little labor trouble has existed in the American plants, and the majority of employees are well satisfied with their positions and trade. It is truly an example, that other industries would do well to make a study of.

STATE CAPITOL NEWS

Attention of taxpayers was called recently by John P. Kohn, associate member of the State Tax Commission, to the fact that residents of Alabama who own securities issued by foreign corporations should register their ownership with the state tax commission. Mr. Kohn also pointed out that franchise tax returns must be filed by March 15.

"The state tax commission wishes to express to the press of the state its appreciation of their cooperation in giving publicity to the state income tax regulations" Commissioner Kohn stated. "The tax commission, acting under direction of Gov. Graves, is determined to make an earnest effort to collect all the revenue to which the state is entitled, and to do it in a business like way.

"The commission will not mind the criticism of the tax evader who is putting an unfair load on his neighbor.

"The State Tax Commission does not have the pleasant privilege of spending any money, but it is the commission's duty to collect taxes and licenses to procure the means to finance the operations of the state throughout the year.

We especially thank Brother Parker for his good funeral service at Mt. Springs. May God bless each and every one, is our prayer.—Written by uncle and aunt.—J. T. Connell.

VERMONT SCHOOL

Our basketball team (boys) bowed in defeat again to the swifter and more experienced team from Mt. Pleasant last Friday by the one-sided count of 24 to 8. Little Earl Melton and George Chambers were the big guns for the visiting team; the former looping the ball for 12 points while the latter was cracking out 11 markers to his credit. Coach Glasscock deserves credit for molding one of the swiftest and the most sportsmanlike Jr. High School teams in Chilton County. He has enstilled in the players the principle of fair play regardless of victory or defeat. It will take plenty of hustling to win over those boys. The team at Vermont this season is composed of all young inexperienced players, but they have shown wonderful improvements, and in a couple more years this school will place a real strong contender on the court.

Most of the players are in the elementary grades, thus giving them a distince advantage in having several more years to play before completing Junior high school work.

Miss Icie Bell Cobern, child attendance officer, made a brief visit to our school last week.

Our P.-T. A. meets next Thursday night, March 7, at 7 o'clock. Remember that we have only two more meetings and we want you to be with us on these occasions. We hope to have Superintendent Little to address us on our next meeting date.

The P.-T. A. ladies have been busy this week with their final preparation for staging the entertainment on next Saturday night. Folks, this is going to be one of ludicrous and amusing programs that has ever been given at Vermont. You just can't pass up this chance to see Judge Hoptoad conduct his court. It's a "wow." Then there is the hen-pecked hollow gossip, a whole show by itself, and finally comes that funny little skit entitled, "Fowl Deeds." Not a dull moment during any of this program.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson motored to Selma last Saturday to witness the third district basketball tournament. Mr. Johnson got quite a thrill watching his old Alma Mater team (Jemison High School) turn back five teams Saturday to win second championship. This places them among the sixteen best teams in the state and affords them an opportunity to compete for the state championship team, at Tuscaloosa on March 7-8.

S. S. CONVENTION AT REFUGE CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY P. M.

A convention of the Sunday schools of the Central District of Chilton County Baptist Association will be held at Refuge Church next Sunday afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock.

The Sunday Schools composing the Central District are Cane Creek, Macedonia No. 2, Friendship, Refuge, Maple Springs, Liberty Hill, Highland, Mulberry and Pleasant Grove No. 2.

A special appeal is made to superintendents of all these schools to attend, and bring as many representatives from each church and Sunday School as possible.

Devotional services will be conducted by Rev. M. Lockhart, beginning at two o'clock.

Prof. Luther Little, county superintendent of education, will speak on the subject, "Motives and Purposes of the Sunday School."

Rev. J. W. Jones, of Thorsby, will make an address upon the subject, Relationships and Influences of the Sunday School upon the Church."

Mr. S. J. M. Webb, clerk of the Chilton Association, expresses the hope that this may be made the best convention of the year, and that the attendance will fully represent all the schools and churches in the Central District.

FRIENDLY SINGING SOCIETY

The society met at Friendship with a good attendance and a good singing.

The opening song was sung by Mr. Emmett Wilson and prayer by Mr. Johnnie Miner. Directors were Mr. Andrew Blow, Mr. Floyd Little, Mr. Posey Cleckler, Mr. Frank Willis, Mr. Johnnie Miner, Mr. Wilson and Mrs. J. D. Collins, Jr.

Pianists for the afternoon were Mrs. James Gillespie and Miss Lillie Mae Weldon. The closing song was sung by the president, Mr. Wilson, and benediction by Rev. W. E. Robinson.

We regret that Mr. Jim Parrish was unable to attend, due to the misfortune of hurting his leg. We missed him very much and hope to see him back soon.

There will be no singing at Mineral Springs because of our visiting day, since we take one Sunday out of each month to visit other societies.

Let us all visit New Salem next Sunday afternoon, since they cooperate with our society; as many as can should go to their singing. — Sec'y, Wilma Gillespie.

Highest Yield?

MOST cotton and corn growers in the South will envy the records made last season by Mr. A. P. Johns of Toccoa, Georgia, pictured above. On an acre, of cotton 1 1-16 staple, he obtained a yield of 1,276 lbs. of lint and 2,394 of seed. The result was a net gain of $165.38 on the acre.

On his cotton, Mr. Johns used 400 lbs. of a 4-10-4 fertilizer at planting and side-dressed with 100 lbs. of American nitrate of soda. With the same application on an acre of corn, he made 159 bu. of Hastings Prolific at a net gain of $140.65.

Both demonstrations were conducted under the supervision of the American Cotton Association and Better Farming Campaign. Col. Harvie Jordan, Managing Director of the Association said that all of the Association's results last season prove the value of intensive culture. "There are two things I'm sure of," Col. Jordan remarked, "And they are that we Southerners have to adopt intensive culture in the field and have to support our home industries. When I look at a result like this, made with our own Southern nitrate of soda, I think we have a combination the whole world can't beat."

Southern Agricultural Workers Acclaim Dr. Charles H. Herty

Pictured above is part of the large audience of Southern Agricultural Workers who acclaimed Dr. Charles H. Herty (inset) when he delivered his recent "Urgent Message to the South." In this address Dr. Herty stated that the rapidly growing chemical industry is choosing the South as its center because of the South's rich raw materials, and in this lies the key to Southern prosperity. He urged the agricultural group to spread the use of Southern products, and particularly chemical products, on Southern farms. He described importations of such foreign goods as news print and sulphite pulp, sulphate of ammonia and nitrate of soda as needless, and pointed out that the American products offer equal values.

Notables in the banking and business world also received Dr. Herty's message with enthusiasm. Dr. Herty was greeted on his arrival by a Junior League Reception Committee of which pretty Miss Caroline Crumley and Miss Ida Sadler, pictured in the inset, were members.

GROWING CROTALARIA

Crotalaria is a new summer legume which has given good results as a soil imporving crop. It has no value as a forage since animals will not eat it. There are many varieties of crotalaria but of those tested in North Alabama the most promising one has been the early strain of Crotalaria spetbilis. The late strain makes a larger vegetative growth than the early but does not mature seed in all years.

Planting.—Crotalaria may be planted alone or in alternate rows with corn. The land should be well prepared. The rows should be 3 to 3½ feet apart. The seed should be planted at the rate of 7 to 10 pounds per acre and covered very lightly, not over three-fourths inch deep. The ordinary planter with a sorghum seed plate may be used. This plate will put down 7 to 10 pounds of seed per acre. It should be planted about the usual time of planting corn and cotton and when there is abundant moisture in the soil. Moisture sufficient to get a stand of cotton or corn is not sufficient to get an even stand of crotalaria.

Broadcast seeding alone or in corn middles frequently fails. This method may be used when seed are plentiful and cheap but where seed are expensive it is too liable to failure to be recommended. When this method is used the seed should be sown at the rate of 25 to 35 pounds per acre.

Fertilization is not generally practiced though it may be profitable to use 100 to 200 pounds of superphosphate or 300 pounds of basic slag at planting if the soil is very poor. Inoculation is usually not necessary.

Harvesting. — Crotalaria produces from 500 to 2,000 pounds of seed per acre. The seed do not ripen evenly, therefore, some of the seed may shatter before the other seed are ripe. The seed may be stripped by hand in which case a man usually will harvest 40 to 50 pounds of seed per day. The plants may be cut and the seed threshed or flailed out. Many more seed can be obtained per day by this method than by hand pulling, although some seed will be lost. The seed should be cleaned and carefully stored so that they can be well aired to prevent molding.

Volunteer Seeding. — Many of the seed are hard and may not germinate for three or more years. If the seed are allowed to mature and scatter over the land, they will remain in the soil and germinate the following year. Thus, after one large seed crop is scattered crotalaria plants will come up in whatever crop follows for the next few years.

Plowing Under. — A heavy growth of crotalaria should be plowed under in December or early January to get the best results. If plowing is delayed until spring poor results from the crop following the crotalaria are sometimes obtained. The plants should be cut with a stalk cutter when they are thoroughly dry; they may then be easily turned under.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

ALL FARMERS ADVISED GROW SWEET POTATOES

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 25.—Sweet potatoes on every Alabama farm in 1935 is the goal of the Alabama Extension Service.

"Every family should plant ¼ to ½ acre to sweet potatoes," writes Dr. L. N. Duncan, director, in a special message to rural rehabilitation farmers of the state.

Potatoes should be bedded about 5 or 6 weeks before time to set in the field, and the plants should be set 15 to 18 inches apart in the field in 3-foot rows. This will require about 6,000 plants to set ½ acre—about 4 bushels of potatoes should produce the plants.

The potatoes should be fertilized with 4-8-7 fertilizer at a rate varying from 600 to 1,100 pounds per acre.

COWPEAS SERVE FOUR PURPOSES ON FARMS

Auburn, Feb. 25.—Alabama farmers have found four important uses of cowpeas. These uses are: (1) makes good hay; (2) gives grazing for hogs and poultry; (3) is a good soil builder; and (4) is a desirable human food.

The Whippoorwill variety is perhaps the most popular, repart agricultural officials of the College of Agraculture who also advise that "The Brabham and Iron should be grown on lands infected with cotton wilt."

Red Ripper, Clay and Black are running varieties and are satisfactory for grazing and soil improvement, it was added.

Plant 25 to 35 pounds of seed per acre in rows wide enough to permit one or two cultivations. When broadcast, cowpeas should be sown at the rate of 80 to 120 pounds per acre.

JOHN IVEY BECOMES POULTRY SPECIALIST

Reports from Auburn say that on February 16th John Ivey, former head of the poultry department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, became poultry specialist of the State Extension Service. Immediately after his appointment he became active in helping farmers and poultrymen develop their pountry industries.

DISSOLUTION NOTICE

The title of the new firm will be Farmers Hardware Company, which firm will be composed of the Estate of E. M. Jones, deceased, and Lester Jones, who assume all the legal liabilities of the old firm and are authorized to collect all accounts or indebtedness due the old firm.

Dated, this the 19th day of February, 1935.
The Estate of E. M. Jones, deceased,

CORN AFTER LEGUMES NEED NO FERTILIZATION

Auburn authorities advise that corn planted ten days to two weeks after turning a good crop of either hairy vetch or Austrian peas needs no further fertilization. J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, advises further that corn not following winter legumes should receive a side-dressing of 100 to 200 pounds per acre of nitrate about forty days after planting.

It is probably advisable to apply phosphate at rate of 200 to 300 pounds per acre on land recently cleared.

OTHER CROPS ALLOWED ON IDLE CORN LAND

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 23.—Land held out of production of corn for grain under the 1935 corn-hog contract may be planted without limitation to any other crop than corn, but not to corn for use as fodder or other forage purposes, reports the corn-hog section of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

BLACKSHER LAKE IN LITTLE RIVER PARK

Montgomery, Ala.—One of the outstanding features in Alabama's state parks is the lake in Little River Park in the Escambia County portion of the reservoir, according to Colonel Page S. Bunker, state forester, who is also director of state parks. "Comparatively few people are aware of the details of the developments being made on our state parks," says Colonel Bunker. "This is largely due to the fact that the commission of forestry has not publicized extensively the various features of the development program for the reason that most of the improvements are still under construction and are accessible to the general public only with some difficulty. As soon as the roads and other engineering features are sufficiently well advanced to be used freely and safely, the public will be invited cordially to visit and enjoy the parks to their full extent. Meanwhile, all visitors are welcome but in many cases they will find facilities and conveniences still in the construction stage.

"Blacksher Lake at Little River State Park has a water surface of approximately forty acres bordered by high banks and hills. The shore line is irregular, being about two miles in length, and has been given engineering and landscape treatment to add to the natural beauty of the setting. The lake is supplied with water from Blue Springs Creek. A rustic structure serving as boathouse and as a pavilion has been completed."

"REGISTER YOUR BABY" MOVE HAS GOOD SHOWING IN COUNTY

Montgomery, Ala.—At least 226 babies in Chilton County will be sure of their "first citizenship papers" since that many baby census cards already have been returned to the state board of health, Montgomery, in connection with the "register your baby" campaign.

In 1933 there were 628 births recorded from Chilton County, according to Dr. J. N. Baker, state health officer. The 1933 birth registration is used as a basis for estimating the number of cards that may be returned from any county, Dr. Baker pointed out.

Parents in Chilton County can materially assist the board of health, and the two other cooperating agencies, the bureau of the census and the Alabama relief administration, and at the same time assure their baby of proper birth registration by filling out and returning a baby census card. The cards do not require postage. They are being checked with records in the vital statistics bureau of the state board of health.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

P.-T. A. Holds Annual Session

The annual P.-T. A. meeting, which is a joint meeting of all local P.-T. A. in the county, was held at the County Training School last Friday, February 22. All local organizations were well represented in number.

The P.-T. A. had as its guest speaker, Mrs. J. H. Anderson, of Birmingham, president of the state congress of parents and teachers. In a very simple manner Mrs. Anderson addressed the association, giving them some new ideas and suggestions that can be made practicable in the future. For the position she holds, Mrs. Anderson is a very capable woman, and her interest in the work is deep-seated, as was manifest in her address.

Another interesting feature of the program was a very practical demonstration by the vocational boys on repairing leaky tubs, harrows, single stocks, and building door steps at home.

There was also a very good exhibit for the adult school in Clanton, where Mrs. Jackson is teacher. The exhibit, itself, was evidence of the good work Mrs. Jackson is doing with our people who are grasping the opportunity which the adult school offers.

Others participating on the program were our County Superintendent Mr. Luther Little, and the attendance officer, Miss Cobern, and Mr. Benj. Anderson, principal, who gave an interesting history of the works of the great philanthorpist, the late Julius Rosenwald, who gave so liberally of his immense wealth for negro education in the South.

We must congratulate our president, Mrs. Leila C. Woods, for her untiring effort in the field and for such a splendid program. The program was interesting throughout and all reports including financial reports were very good.—Benj. Anderson, principal.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

There came recently a significant press story from London, England. Sir Ambrose Flemminy, who is eighty-five years old, in his presidential address given to the Victoria Institute and Philosophical Society of Great Britain startled the scientists by challenging the Darwin theory of evolution. He said that the Darwin theory of evolution is a product of the imagination. It is not scientific. Sir Ambrose has been long one of the outstanding scientists and philosophers of England. "I cannot consider that we have an serious proof of the evolution of man from an animal. We have not the smallest knowledge of how empty space became occupied with the most rudimentary form of matter." Sir Ambrose declared that he believed in the bodily resurrection of Jesus and that this is the best attested fact in human history. He said that the resurrection of Jesus from the dead certified all the previous miracles of the Lord.

Some of the "half baked" science teachers in our schools and colleges say that all modern scientists accept the evolutionary hypothesis. It is refreshing when a man like Sir Ambrose, who is a fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge, and who has headed the Victoria Institute for the last 8 years speaks unequivocably against evolution and for an authoritaitve Bible. Often teachers of science say that we preachers know nothing about science. My reply is few of the teachers of science know anything about the Bible. Occasionally a great scientist like Sir Ambrose and Isaac Newton know the Word of God and when they do know it they believe it. The writer has never met any man or woman who really knew the Bible who didn't believe it. I cannot understand how any teacher of science can accept the guesses of Darwin and repudiate the authority of the Bible. I should like to say especially to young people: "Pay no attention to the high sounding words of worldly wise men who ridicule the Bible. The Bible is the book of books. It will stand any kind of test, scientific or otherwise. It is flawless. It is what it claims to be—the word of God."

A cowpuncher ordered a steak at a restaurant. The waiter brought it in, rare—very rare. The pnucher looked at it and demanded that it be returned to the kitchen and cooked.

"Tis cooked," snapped the waiter.

"Cooked heli," returned the puncher. "I've seen cows hurt worse than that and get well."

STAGE SET FOR BIG SPRING SALE

Low Rates Pave Way For Many More Alabamians To Enjoy Comforts and Convenience of Electric Cooking and Water Heating

Low rates, low prices and unusually reasonable terms abundantly complete the triangle of value on which we base our confident prediction that our 1935 Spring sale of electric ranges and water heaters will set a new all time record.

Until you've actually owned an electric range or water heater you can't imagine what a world of comfort and real enjoyment these two appliances can bring into your home.

When you cook electrically you will have many more carefree hours to spend in your garden or with your friends. Your kitchen will be cool and clean, your pots and kettles free from soot and grime. And meals will be tastier, because foods cooked electrically hold their flavor.

An electric water heater is an equal aid to living comfort. It reduces the hot water problem in the home to one simple thing—turning on the faucet. Automatically and silently it maintains an inexhaustible supply of piping hot water at all times. And gives you this constant service without dirt, smoke or flame.

During our Spring sale, beginning March 1st, electric ranges will be offered at prices ranging from $77.50 up and electric water heaters from $60.50 up. Convenient terms will be available.

Drop around and see us sometime soon, and let us figure out for you how economical it is to own and use these two dependable home services.

Beebe made a new low record for deep sea diving in his bathysphere. Electric rates in Alabama have also reached the lowest point in Alabama history.

Preferred Stock Dividend Declared

Birmingham, Ala., February 11. (Special)—The Board of Directors of Alabama Power Company have declared the regular quarterly dividends on its preferred stock, payable April 1, 1935, on the $7 and $6 stock to stockholders of record March 15, 1935, and payable May 1, 1935, on the $5 stock to stockholders of record April 15, 1935.

These dividends will aggregate approximately $585,000 and dividend checks will be mailed on March 30, for the $7 and $6 stock and on April 30, for the $5.

Its Easy To Have A Lighted Outdoor Living Room

A cozy outdoor garden, enclosed with shrubs and vine covered fences, bordered with flowers, softly lighted by electricity, will prove a wonderfully attractive retreat during hot-weather nights this summer. A little cash, a little ingenuity, a little careful planning can easily transform your back yard or garden into such a fairyland — an "out-door living room" which you, your family and friends will find a place of constant pleasure.

With modern outdoor lighting many beautiful effects can be achieved. For instance, underwater colored lighting for your lily pond, portable spot lighting to reveal the full beauty of your flowering dogwood, your boxwoods, or other shrubs in which you take especial pride. Then there are border lights for your flower beds, and many other lighting methods which are new and novel. Our lighting engineers have made special studies of outdoor garden lighting, and will be glad to advise and assist you with your "outdoor living room." Under the FHA financing plan you can finance such improvements at low cost and on long terms.

MARVELS

I

How would you like to bathe in melted snow? Folks who live in Iceland actually do! But the melted snow in that part of Iceland is really the hottest spring water in the world. Snow on the peak of the volcano, Hecla, in Iceland, melts and rushes down thru deep ravines in the volcano's seething sides, then underground for 30 miles to emerge finally as steaming natural springs, some of which have a temperature as high as 260 degrees Fahrenheit. Citizens of Iceland use this hot water for bathing and washing clothes.

Alabama has no volcanoes, and no natural hot springs. But many citizens of Alabama do have a hot water supply which is equally abundant and even more convenient. They use electric water heaters.

II

America's first bath tub was built in Cincinnati in 1842. It was of mahogany, lined with sheet lead, and was exhibited at a Christmas party. Next day, local papers denounced it as a "luxurious and democratic vanity." Medical men took it up and pronounced the bath tub a "menace to health." In 1843, Philadelphia undertook by public ordinance to prohibit bathing between November 1st and March 15th. Two years later Boston made bathing unlawful except when prescribed by physicians. Bath tubs were taxed $30 yearly. And that was only little more than 90 years ago! Today all recognize that the daily ath is a vital part of good health, good breeding and good business. And that hot water—instantly available at any hour through the convenience of electricity, is an essential service in the modern home.

Utility Service Low In Average Budget Dollar

Figures compiled by the National Industrial Conference Board show that the total cost of all utility service to the individual in the United States is only six cents of the average family's budget dollar. That includes electricity, gas, telephone, water, and street railway fare.

Farmers' Dollar Is Biggest Since '29

For the first time since 1929, the farmers' dollar in terms of what he buys is estimated to be worth from 89c to $1.09.

The Christian Endeavor Society presented an interesting missionary program on Japan Sunday evening, February 24th. This was one of the closing services of a month's study of Japan, its people and their problems.

A number of talks were given, presenting the various aspects of Japanese life through stories of their daily activities, reports of the Christian work being done there, and histories of several mission schools, and also, Kobe College, which is the most famous school in Japan.

The places mentioned were pointed out on a carefully drawn map. This map and the talks given, helped those who heard the program, to better enjoy the stereopticon pictures on Japan, which followed in the regular church service.

The program was led by Miss Bernice Robinson and it was brought to a close with song and prayer.

BANKERS' GROUP BACK BANK ADS.

New Service to Promote Informative Bank Advertising in Newspapers

The American Bankers Association's Advertising Department, under the direct supervision of the general executive officers, has prepared, at the headquarters in New York City, an informative newspaper advertising series for the use of member banks in the association to aid them in developing in their own communities better general public understanding regarding banking, it is announced.

"The underlying theme of this advertising is that sound banking is based on helpful human relations and that it has a unity of interest with the people of its community which binds them together with a common purpose," R. S. Hecht, president of the Association says.

"We are confident that if a clear understanding of this is brought home to the people in all our banking communities, it will go far in restoring the public confidence which good banking deserves. A bank in which people deservedly believe is doubly safe. It is to the public interest for the people to have confidence in their banks.

The Place of Advertising

"We feel that bank advertising has a special public duty to perform in this connection under existing conditions. The copy which will be supplied in the service we have developed will not only aid the individual bank in promoting the use of its own facilities but is also aimed to bring about with the aid of newspaper advertising a clearer public viewpoint regarding the essential part it occupies in its community."

Mr. Hecht emphasized in regard to the new advertising facilities being offered to the members of the association that they are not a profit making venture and that there is no intention to disturb existing advertising arrangements, the idea being that these institutional services shall supplement rather than replace present plans.

LYNCHBURG and OLIVER

POINTS and PARTS

Ease and Economy are what you have a right to expect in a turning plow—and that is what you get when you buy one of the several Famous Models of the Lynchburg, with its self-sharpening point. They're easy on the plowboy, light on the horse, turn a lot of land, and are especially adapted to Chilton County soils. Come in now and get your supply of points and that other turner you've been planning to buy.

The Story of the Bible Told in Pictures

The Prediction of the Second Coming.—When the Pharisees sought to entangle Jesus with questions and asked Him concerning the payment of tribute, Jesus perceived their wickedness and told them to "render unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's; and unto God the things that are God's." He then confuted the Sadducees who sought to trap Him with questions concerning the resurrection and the lawyer who came tempting Him with a question: "Master, which is the great commandment in the law? Jesus said unto him, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."—Matthew 22: 36-39. Matthew 24 and Mark 13 say that Jesus then went to the mount of Olives, where He foretold to His disciples the destruction of Jerusalem and the signs of coming judgment, both teachings being recorded in the first three Gospels. The illustration is based upon that prophecy, and is from Merian's story of the Bible in pictures, engraved in 1625-1630. "And then shall appear the sign of the Son of man in heaven: and then shall all the tribes of the earth mourn, and they shall see the Son of man coming in the clouds of heaven with power and great glory. And He shall send His angels with a great sound of a trumpet, and they shall gather together His elect from the four winds, from one end of heaven to the other."—Matthew 24: 30-31.

LESPEDEZA

Uses. — Lespedeza is a valuable crop for improving the soil, for hay, for pasture and for controlling erosion. Crop yields are greatly increased on lands allowed to grow lespedeza for a few years. It is an excellent crop to plant on lands removed from cotton production. Seed of all kinds of lespedeza and all of the cultivated varieties are valuable sources of quail feed.

Soils. — Lespedeza grows on all soils of Alabama except the lime soils of the Black Belt. It grows best on fertile, loamy, moist bottom lands.

Fertilizers. — Apply broadcast when the soil is prepared, 600 pounds per acre of basic slag. Apply 1,000 pounds per acre if the lespedeza is to occupy the land for several years.

Hay. — Lespedeza will make sufficient growth to cut for hay only on moist, fertile soils. On poor soils it will not grow tall enough for hay. It has approximately the same feeding value as alfalfa hay. There is less waste in feeding lespedeza hay than any other hay due to its leafiness and fine stems. Cut for hay when the plants are forming seed. For hay, sow 25 to 50 pounds of seed per acre about the first of March on well-prepared soil. Run a harrow over the land after sowing to cover lightly. Lespedeza is often sown on small grain.

Pastures. — Lespedeza is the most generally grown pasture plant in Alabama. It furnishes little grazing before June 1. Disk pasture land sufficiently to scarify the surface of the soil and sow 25 to 30 pounds of seed per acre. Sow in late February or early March.

Varieties. — For hay sow Kobe or Tennessee 76. These varieties make larger yields than common, but they often do not reseed themselves. Common lespedeza is the best variety for pasture in Alabama. These varieties are preferable to Korean for Alabama.

Inoculation. — Artificial inoculation of lespedeza is not necessary on Alabama soils.

Weed Control. — Dodder or "love vine" is the worst pest of lespedeza. Prevent dodder by sowing clean or dodder-free soil. Small patches of dodder may be picked by hand. Control annual weeds by moving in early summer.

Saving Seed. — Seed for the needs of the farm can be easily saved. Information relative to saving seed will be made available by the county agent prior to time to harvest seed.

For further information write to me. — J. W. Fant, County Agent.

CENTER HILL SINGING

The singing at this place was good Sunday afternoon. The best we have had any place since we got our new books.

Directors for the afternoon were B. L. Cobb, Cleo Cay, Coburn Cofer, Russell Scott, Gordon Crumpton, Lum Scott, Burl Martin, Mrs. Joe Corey, Mrs. J. W. Collum, Mrs. J. D. Scott, and Miss Berney Dean Cobb.

Organists were Mrs. Howard Roper, Mrs. Russell Scott, Mrs. B. L. Cobb, Mrs. Burnice Childers and Miss Violet Martin.

We were glad to have the visitors from Jemison, Union Springs, Sylacauga and other places with us. Come back next fourth Sunday afternoon and bring someone with you.—Mrs. Viva Cory, Sec'y.

Bill Boyd, of Montgomery, was a visitor to Clanton a few days last week. It was his first visit here in many years. Bill was reared in Clanton, coming up in the same school with George Kilgore, Clyde Davis, Ousley Johnson, Gilvey McKee, Marvin Wilson, and many others of the old-timers, most of whom have already passed on to other scenes. Bill found only George of the old gang, and they enjoyed a day together rehearsing many of the happy incidents of their early years.

Watch next week's paper for news about the annual plow line sale at the Clanton Building Supply Co.

Irene Dunne Has A Real Role In "Sweet Adeline"

Ever since she has been in Hollywood, Irene Dunne has hoped for a chance to star in an operetta that would give her a chance to use her magnificent voice to best advantage.

"Sweet Adeline," the Warner Bros. production, which comes to the Wadesonian Theatre on March 1st, is the culmination of that hope.

Miss Dunne, whose beautiful lyric soprano voice was recognized as Grand Opera quality when she was only 18 years old, went into musical comedy, in stead. At the time, she considered it only a temporary detour on the way to the metropolitan, but her success was so great, that she could not resist the tempting offers that followed each other so regularly.

"Sweet Adeline" gives her an opportunity to sing the beautiful music of Jerome Kern, the original operetta, in collaboration with Oscar Hammerstein II.

"In spite of all the pictures I have already done," she said, "I feel that 'Sweet Adeline' is really my debut since it is my first chance on the screen in the sort of role that makes real demands on my voice. Warner Bros. have given me the finest possible production and a perfect cast. I consider this a brand new phase of my screen career."

Donald Woods plays opposite Miss Dunne, while others in the cast include Hugh Herbert, Ned Sparks, Joseph Cawthorn, Lewis Calhern and Winifred Shaw. Mervyn LeRoy directed the production from the screen play by Erwin S. Gesley, while Bobby Connolly staged the ensembles in which scores of beautiful girls take part.

KUDZU

Uses. — Kudzu is a perennial legume crop valuable for hay, temporary grazing, and for setting along ditch and road banks, to stop erosion. It will not become a pest. It ranks well with other legumes in feed value. It is a cheap hay crop since it does not have to be planted each year and it can be cut when it suits the convenience of the farmer.

Propagation. — Kudzu is propagated by setting two-year old or older crowns. A good crown has a bud or growing point and well-developed fleshy roots, eight or ten inches long.

When to Set Crowns. — Set Kudzu while dormant. Setting in late winter or early spring and before growth starts has given satisfactory results.

Crowns. — Crowns should be obtained locally so that they may be set within a few hours after they are dug. Crowns dry out badly in shipping, resulting in poor stands.

How to Sow. — Open furrows ten feet apart and set the crowns five feet apart in the furrows, pressing the soil carefully around each crown, leaving the bud just above the surface of the soil. Eight hundred and seventy-five crowns per acre will be required. If crowns are available it is advisable to set five feet apart in five-foot rows. This will give a start much quicker.

Fertilizers. — Apply prosphate or manure by each plant when setting the crowns. The fertilizer should be well mixed with the soil.

Cultivation. — Cultivate kudzu until it completely laps in the middles. Cultivation will result in new crowns being formed by partial covering of vines. Soybeans or other low-growing crops may be planted between the kudzu rows the first year if the rows are ten feet apart.

Management. — Kudzu must not be moved or grazed until it is well established which usually requires two or three years. Kudzu must be grazed moderately and not cut more than twice per year.

When to Mow. — It is preferable to cut kudzu only once per year. If cut twice, the first cutting should be made in June and the second just before frost.

Providing a Supply of Crowns. — It is desirable to set crowns very thickly on a small fertile area, such as may be found behind a rock dam, to grow quickly a supply of crowns for setting larger areas on the farm. —J. W. Fant, County Agent.

ALRED DRUG COMPANY SELLING FARM SEEDS

Alred Drug Company, the Home of Quality in Clanton for more than twenty-five years, desires the farmers of this section to remember again this season that they continue to offer the very best in the way of garden and field seeds of all kinds.

Alred's is the pioneer in the seed business here. They have persistently and insistently sought to impress the people who buy seeds for planting that they can be bought at home to better advantage than they can be secured from mail order houses.

"We have always stood behind the seeds we sell," said Mr. Hance Alred, "and we expect to continue to do so. We are fully prepared to fill the needs of our trade, and we will appreciate an opportunity to serve you." Read Alred's advertisement about seeds in this paper.

MAN IS STABBED AT COURTHOUSE

Barney Littlefield Is Recovering From Wound Inflicted By George Bolton

In an altercation which happened in the toilet at the courthouse on last Thursday afternoon, Barney Littlefield was stabbed near the heart with a knife said to have been wielded by the hand of George Bolton. The trouble is said to have been caused by a dispute between the two men, details of which are very meager.

Present in the toilet at the time of the stabbing were Loss Robinson, Ernest Bolton, brother of George; and an Ellison boy, in addition to the principals.

After the stabbing Littlefield came out into the hall of the courthouse, where friends took charge of him and carried him to the hospital for treatment. Examination revealed that the blade of the knife entered his chest, piercing a deep hole only a few inches from his heart. He is still in the hospital, and is reported doing all right.

Thursday night Sheriff Hardy, with deputies Nivens and Smith, went to the home of George Bolton in the Cane Creek community, and placed him under arrest and brought him to jail to await the outcome of the injury to Littlefield. Ernest Bolton was also placed under arrest.

Barney Littlefield is about 35 years old. He is a son of Uncle Tom Littlefield, and brother of Manuel Littlefied, janitor at the courthouse.

BENEVOLENT OFFERING OF THE CLANTON METHODISTS

To All Methodist Families:

Each member of your family has received or will receive this week an envelope of the Clanton Methodist Church Fellowship League of Sharing. We are entering the Lenten season, during which we shall be thinking especially about the life of service, sacrifice, and sharing of our Lord.

The envelope you receive invites you to save a penny per meal from now until Palm Sunday, March 3, April 7, and share with others. The children are to save a penny per day during this period and share with others.

All the envelopes are to be brought to the church on Palm Sunday, on which day a special and unique program will be presented. Look forward to this day as well as to Easter Sunday. The offering that you bring in the envelopes will go for benevolences, what we formerly called "conference collections"—for the promotion of the Master's kingdom at home and abroad in giving the gospel of light, hope and love to the entire world.

Every member and child will want to share in this great program of work-service. Show your love and loyalty by helping to lift the load of sin and suffering from the hearts of your fellowmen.—Your co-worker in His services, A. E. Middlebrooks, pastor.

White Collar Jobs For 2,500 People

Governor Graves Will Make Appointments Regardless Of Politics

Montgomery, Ala.—The procedure to be followed in awarding the 2,500 jobs Governor Bibb Graves has made available to the "white collar" class in Alabama was outlined at a conference between the governor, W. O. Henderson, representing the Alabama Relief Administration, and Senator Earle Thomas, the chief executive's personal representative in handling the work assignments.

Governor Graves emphasized at the outset that the allocation of these jobs were non-political, and that need was the controlling factor of eligibility for jobs. He also stressed the fact that when the state undertakes the broad public works program he has planned, it will be inclined to favor those persons who have shown a willingness to work by accepting the two months employment offered now. These persons will be selected from the so-called marginal "white collar" groups who have not been eligible for relief on the basis of actual destitution. They will be assigned to projects supervised by the various state departments and will be paid an average of $45 per month each, for the two months period.

The governor explained that Mr. Henderson will be in charge of the county relief agencies that will handle the qualifying of applicants as to eligibility and that Senator Thomas will have charge of the task of lining up, with the heads of the state departments, the jobs for the applicants after they have qualified. Persons to be eligible for this work must be able to certify that there is insufficient income in the family, and only one member of a family group will be eligible for one of the places.

The mayor was not able to make a definite statement as to the time when work on the waterworks extension will begin, but is assured it will be within a short time.

Bus Passenger Arrested Here

Attempts Suicide After Being Placed In County Jail For Safety

A passenger on the north-bound bus Monday afternoon was taken into custody by city policemen after he had threatened and frightened fellow passengers by the unusual display of two pistols he was carrying. Soon after the officers took the man in charge it was evident that he was suffering a serious mental derangement, and was not responsible for his acts. It was necessary to secure medical attention for him at the hospital.

After relieving him of his guns, a .38 Smith and Wesson and a .25 automatic, a further search revealed papers that identified the man as Ray Bernstein, of Detroit. He was traveling on a bus ticket from Lake City, Florida to Detroit. He had cards showing he was a soldier of the Rainbok Division in the World War and a member of the American Legion.

He had a money belt with several dollars in currency; also a permit to carry a gun issued by the police department of the city of Detroit. Unable to get from the man satisfactory information, the officers placed him in the County jail until further investigation could be made.

Mayor Jones wired the chief of police at Detroit, giving him the information contained on identification cards in the man's possession. This wire was sent early Tuesday morning.

Late Tuesday afternoon Mayor Jones received a reply from the Detroit police department saying the man, Ray Bernstein, was a World War veteran suffering from shell shock. He was reported a man of good reputation, having been employed at a store in Detroit for the past fifteen years. Two weeks ago, it was said, he was advised by his doctor to go to Florida for his health.

The telegram also advised Mayor Jones that the wife of the man would communicate with him. A short while after the telegram was delivered to Mayor Jones Sheriff Hardy received a telephone call from Mrs. Bernstein advising him that she would come to Clanton and get her husband.

Meanwhile Bernstein, confined in the county jail, refused to talk, and continued to display evidences that he is mentally deranged. During Tuesday he sought to find a way to kill himself by hanging. Mayor Jones assigned personal guards to attend him Tuesday night to prevent him from doing violence to himself. This measure of caution and protection will be continued until his wife arrives in Clanton and until he can be disposed of in a safe manner.

JOHN A. FOSHEE ATTORNEY MOVED TO CENTREVILLE

Mr. John A. Foshee, young attorney, who has been associated with the firm of Reynolds & Reynolds in Clanton for the past two years, has withdrawn his connection here and moved to Centreville.

Upon a visit to Clanton Monday Mr. Foshee stated that he has an opening for a fine opportunity in Bibb County. He has already secured location for his offices, and will be ready to begin practice at Centreville in a few days.

The many friends of Mr. Foshee will regret to learn that he will not continue his practice in Clanton.

Mr. J. N. Atkinson, of Mt. Creek is confined at the Central Ala. Hospital.

CRIPPLE CHILDREN'S WEEK BEGINS ON EASTER SUNDAY

Under plans being carried forward by the Alabama Society for Crippled Children, the week beginning April 21st, Easter Sunday, has been designated "Crippled Children's Week" in Alabama.

During that week the society, with the cooperation of local groups and agencies in all the counties of the state, will stress the sale of seals, the proceeds of which will go to the aid of crippled children in the various counties.

Miss Nolan Meroney, child welfare superintendent of Chilton County, is bringing the matter to the attention of the people here. Miss Meroney points out that two crippled children from this county have been sent to Selma and two to Birmingham for treatment.

The sale of seals here during Crippled Children's week, will be added to other funds being donated and provided, to defray the expenses of hospital treatment for these four children in correction of their physical infirmities.

AMENDMENT TO HUNTING RULES

Only Three Shells In Magazine Will Be Allowed In the Future

Montgomery, Ala.—President Roosevelt has approved an amendment to federal hunting regulations that places a three-shell limit on autoloading and other repeating shotguns, the U. S. Bureau of Biological Survey has advised the Alabama Game and Fisheries Department.

This reform in wildfowling long advocated by sportsmen and conservationists was made urgent by the alarming decrease in the number of ducks. The regulation, which becomes effective immediately, applies only to automatic-loading or hand-operated repeating shotguns used in hunting ducks, geese, and other migratory game birds. Users of these types of weapons are required to have the magazines stopped with plugs that cannot be removed in the field, or must have the magazine cut down to the required shell capacity.

Repairs necessary to bring guns within the provisions of the new regulation, it is pointed out, will cost little, and arms companies having in mind the interest of sportsmen now in possession of such guns, have agreed to cooperate in this conservation measure.

The new amendment provides that migratory game birds may not be taken "with or by means of any automatic-loading or hand operated repeating shotgun capable of holding more than three shells the magazine of which has not been cut off, or plugged with a one-piece metal or wooden filler incapable of removal through the loading end thereof, so as to reduce the capacity of said gun to not more than three shells at one loading."

The advent of the repeating gun, the biological survey states, came at about the same time as the rapid decrease in migratory birds, to which it contributed, but for which it was not totally responsible. The rapid development in the efficiency of all arms and munitions and the invasion of game-breeding areas by civilization, together with the increase in the number of hunters, have thus brought the American sportsmen and conservationist to the realization that if wildfowl shooting is to be preserved it must be as skilled sport and not in mass killing.

TORNADOES KILL TWO IN TEXAS

Forney, Texas.—Tornadoes killed two negro children, injured half a dozen persons and wrecked scores of buildings in Texas and Louisiana while dust storms and rain marked other areas of the Southwest today.

The child victims died in the ruins of their flimsy home on the outskirts of this Kaughman County farming town of 1,000, where 100 buildings were damaged.

"It didn't last two minues—just hit and was gone," explained B. B. Hulsey, manager of the East Texas Cotton Oil Company.

Two persons were injured by a tornado which whipped down the main street of Winnfield, La., the seat of Senator Huey P. Long's native Winn Parish. The city hall, a frame building, was demolished. Residents estimated the damage in the thousands of dollars.

Rural communities of northeast Texas which suffered from the tornadic winds included Celina, Rockwall, Campbell, Price, Clark and Amy. Casualities were surprisingly few.

A mule and a calf were left standing in their stalls unharmed when wind carried away their barn on the farm of James Evans, two miles west of Shawnee, Okla.

MRS. JOE HOLLOMAN DIED

Mrs. Joe Holloman, age 90 years, died Monday at her home, Billingsley Route 1. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. W. P. Lowery Tuesday at Shiloh. Spigener was in charge of burial.

She is survived by her husband, 6 grandchildren and 8 great grandchildren.

COUNTY HEALTH UNIT APPROVED

Doctor Will Be Employed As Full-Time Health Officer For the County

By a unanimous vote Monday the members of the Court of County Commissioners approved and authorized the appropriation of county funds for the establishment, maintenance and operation of an all-time health unit for Chilton County. Supplementing this appropriation the County Board of Education has authorized that $500 be applied to this purpose, thus guaranteeing the amount of $2,500 which is the county's part of the health program expenses. The balance of the funds necessary to carry out the public health program will come from state and federal funds.

No definite statement is available as to when the health unit will be established. Details of the organization and set-up will be worked out through the regularly constituted channels of the state health department. A doctor will be employed as full time health officer, with a trained nurse, sanitation officer, and clerical help necessary to the work.

It is believed that the action of the county officials in authorizing the establishment of a health unit will meet the hearty approval of practically every citizen of the county. The need of such a program here is so big and glaring that anyone who will open his eyes to see and admit the truth can not deny.

Only one voice was raised before the Commissioners in opposition to the health unit, Dr. J. B. Williams, chiropractor, of Clanton. Dr. Williams made a vigorous protest against the practice of medicine in general, but his remarks had no weight. In spite of his protest the Commissioners moved unanimously to put on the health unit.

VERMONT SCHOOL

The concert last Saturday presented by our P.-T. A. was declared an overwhelming success. The gross receipts from the door totaled $37.45. The auditorium was filled to capacity, there being a large number from each of the following places: Clanton, Maplesville, Selma, Prattville, Isabella, Stanton.

Attendance for the fifth month was 87.5 per cent. We trust that a better mark will be made during the sixth month.

Basketball season is drawing to a close. We are expecting to play only two more schools. They will be Maplesville and Stanton.

Our Parent-Teacher meeting will be held at the school building tonight (Thursday) March 7. We are anticipating a large number being present. Mrs. Johnson is planning to present a program centering around the "Life in Holland", by the third and fourth grades.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cagle from Mitchell Dam and Mrs. Jean Wyatt from Clanton were among those present at the entertainment last Saturday night.

We take this opportunity to thank those who furnished us the costumes, furniture, lights, etc., which were used in our recent entertainment.

The Jr. III English class presented a debate at chapel period last Thursday. The subject involved was "Resolved that the Radio is a greater asset to modern needs than the telephone." Many very good and amusing illustrations and arguments were given by both sides. Robert Traywick, Frances Kendrick and Madge Williams upheld the affirmative, while R. P. Kendrick, Lizzie May Lewis and Adell Scott supported the negative. The former were adjudged the winners. Judges rendered their decision on a four point score, namely: (a) style of presentation; (b) position on the floor; (c) selection and arrangement of subject matter; (d) manner of expression.

We were glad to see our friends and former patrons, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Williams and family, who were present at our program last Saturday night. They now live in the Culp school district.

We are expecting a responsive chord from those patrons who are delinquent in their desk fee assessments. A committee has been apponted to approach them relative to the matter.

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala.—Sportsmen in a half dozen of the largest cities in North Alabama either have met or are preparing to meet to effect permanent organizations for the protection and development of the game and fish resources of their respective counties.

The cities interested in forming the clubs are Huntsville in Madison County, Athens in Limestone County, Jasper in Walker County, Pell City in St. Clair County, Cullman in Cullman County and Decature and Hartselle in Morgan County, the latter two proposing a joint organization.

Through the newspapers, the local game wardens and direct communication with the state department of game and fisheries the sportsmen of these communities have signified their intention of creating organizations to fight for the perpetuation of wildlife.

I. T. Quinn, commissioner of game and fisheries, has set aside an entire week to assist in setting up these conservation units and has recommended for their consideration the model constitution and by-laws by the American Game Association. The Jefferson County Sportsmen's Association also is lending a helping hand and has created a special extension committee to assist the sportsmen of neighboring localities who are anxious to organize.

Warden Claude Harwell, of Huntsville, has reported an enthusiastic desire on the part of the Madison and Limestone County sportsmen to undertake an active and constructive conservation program. The same desires have been expressed to the game department by the sportsmen of Cullman and Morgan Counties through Warden Howard L. Brown, of Hartselle.

Approximately 100 sportsmen were expected to greet Commissioner Quinn at Huntsville. From there he was to go to Hartselle and then Cullman, later swinging by Pell City, the new St. Clair County Hunting and Fishing Club to help them complete their organization. State Senator W. T. Starnes, of Pell City, was elected president of the club at its initial meeting.

The Jasper Advertiser, eager to protect wildlife and encourage conservation practices among the hunters and fishermen of Walker County, has created a hunt club editor and is soliciting county-wide support for the movement. The sportsmen of Ft. Payne, in DeKalb County, plan to establish a 13,000-acre hunting preserve on Lookout Mountain and the Alabama Society of the D. A. R. has announced its intention of converting its property on Gunter Mountain into a bird sanctuary.

STATE CAPITOL NEWS

The State Tax Commission will assess penalties for failure to file income tax returns by March 15th, the deadline proivided by law, it was announced following a recent conference of field agents of the tax commission, held at the Capitol. In the past no penalties have been assessed, due to the newness of the law, as it was felt that taxpayers should have an opportunity to become familiar with the various requirements. It is now felt that sufficient time has been allowed, and beginning immediately, penalties, will be assessed on those returns which are not filed on time, or which might prove to be false. All calendar year returns must be filed by March 15th of the year following. The year which the return covers, and fiscal year returns within 75 days of the close of the fiscal year in question. In cases where no returns has been filed for the calendar year 1933, and in the future any return filed after the close of the filing period, will have the maximum penalty invoked.

In the case of sickness, or similar occurrence which would prevent the filing within the time required, the taxpayer may, upon request to the state tax commission, be granted extension of time for filing a return.

The state income tax division in the first year of its operation never had two field men, and as a result comparatively few of the 1933 returns have been checked. In line with the policy of the state tax commission of equal justice in taxation, it was determined that an audit should be made of all returns of certain types, in order to correct errors resulting from misinformation ,technical mistakes and similar items. It is expected that considerable addition assessments will be collected, and that those taxpapers who have overlooked or avoided filing returns will be required to file such returns, and any back tax due collected. Experts in the various types of a counting required to check the returns in the entire state have been employed and the department is now prepared to check all returns, from those of the largest corporations to those of individuals and other businesses operated with inadequate books.

The state tax commission reserves the right at all times under authority granted by law to determine the net income of any individual and may require the taxpayer to file a certified copy of his federal return for the year in question. The state grants more liberal exemptions than the federal government—$1,500 if single, and $3,000 if married or head of a family. The state rates are also much lower.

LEGAL NOTICE

As provided by law, notice is hereby given that we have completed the construction of our Chilton County Project No. NRS 268, and the same has been accepted by the State Highway Department. Any persons having claims against us on this project are requested to file same with us at our office in Columbus, Ga., on or before March 8th, 1935.

Child Welfare Heads Meet In Montgomery

The Conference of Institution Heads and Child Welfare workers held in Montgomery February 27 and 28 was most stimulating, bringing together the heads of the various child caring institutions and agencies in the state for a study of their mutual problems. Through the conference the child welfare superintendents were enabled to meet the superintendents of the institutions in Alabama, both public and private, and learn something of their problems. The institution superintendents, in turn, were enabled to get a better understanding of the problems confronting the child welfare superintendents and the child welfare department in the placement and care of dependent children outside of the institutions. This bringing together of the two groups necessarily resulted in a greater respect and appreciation on the part of each group for the work which the other is doing.

Among the outstanding speakers on the program were: Mrs. A. M. Tunstall, head of the state child welfare department, Montgomery; Miss Elizabeth Elmore, state child welfare department, Montgomery; Father Cullen of the associated Catholic Charities, Mobile; Mrs. Matthews, state child welfare department, Montgomery; Dr. J. O. Colley, superintendent Baptist Orphanage, Troy; Miss Lorena Parrish, head of the department of physical education, Huntingdon College, Montgomery; Dr. J. N. Baker, state department of health; Miss Mary Fowler, superintendent state Training School for Girls, Birmingham; Judge Murphy, of the Jefferson County Juvenile Court; Mrs. Edward Gresham, satte child welfare department, Montgomery; Mrs. Harry Simon, state child welfare department; Mrs. Alvice Sharpe, Birmingham; Col. D. M. Weakley, superintendent Alabama Boys Industrial School, Birmingham.

Of particular interest to those interested in the welfare of children was Dr. Colley's talk on publicity without exploitation of the child. He particularly stressed a few points which are worthy of serious consideration. First, dependent children have exactly the same needs that other children have. They are not different from other children, simply because they have been unfortunate, and they should be treated as other children are treated. They should not be expected to earn their own way nor should they be made to feel that they are dependent. Second, dependent children should not be brought before the public gaze. All too often in the past the mistake has been made of bringing orphan children before a group and appealing for aid for them by calling attention in the presence of the children, to their pitiful condition. An audience may respond to such an appeal but what will be the effect on the children of such publicity? Institutions must devise some other means of raising funds for the support of the children and the public should not expect an institution superintendent to display his children in order to advertise their needs.

An interesting lecture on case work service by Mrs. Sharpe was effectively summed up in the following quotation:

"If a man give me aught he has done me no benefit, if he has enabled me to do aught for myself, he has done me great benefit."

GREENSBORO FIRE $30,000 LOSS

Greensboro, Ala., Mar. 4.—The Hale County Courthouse and all government relief records were destroyed by fire of undetermined origin this afternoon, with a loss county officials estimated at $30,000.

The fire originated in the attic from an undetermined cause and quickly ate down the woodwork, leaving only the brick walls, smoke-blackened, standing.

A high northeast wind fanned the flames and, for a time, it was feared the fire might spread to the adjoining business district, but heroic volunteer firemen were able to confine it to the courthouse.

Volunteer fire fighters prevented spread of the flames by standing on roofs of stores nearby and stamping out sparks as they were blown about by a high southeast wind. Four lines of hose were played on endangered buildings.

The flames gained rapid headway, and the structure was doomed before fire-fighting equipment could bring the blaze in check.

Prisoners in the county jail nearby were turned into the bull pen as the flames burned downward through the brick structure. There were no escapes.

Most of the county records were hastily placed in fireproof vaults, and the others were moved to safety on the lawn.

Plans already were underway to establish a temporary courthouse in the building of the old Military Academy, until a new structure can be built.

A fire truck from Tuscaloosa, 40 miles distant, hurried to the blaze, but the danger was virtually over when it arrived.

From the start, volunteer firemen centered their attention on a garage, containing inflammables, directly across the street from the courthouse. They agreed that, if it caught, the business area would be in grave danger.

Fire starting in the courthouse 25 years ago destroyed virtually the entire business area.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala.—With Beta Gamma Sigma scholarship fraternity tapping exercises and a special New Deal Ball as features of the program, the annual Commerce Day has been set for Monday, March 3, at the University of Alabama, according to information received from the officials of the Commerce School at the University. The events of the day also include a special assembly at which Dean Bigood will deliver a message to the senior class. Special entertainment for the occasion has also been prepared by the graduating class.

Beta Gamma Sigma tapping is one of the outstanding yearly events in the Commerce School. The fraternity holds the same position in the Commerce school which Phi Beta Kappa holds in the colleges of arts and science. Less than ten per cent of the highest ranking seniors are selected for the fraternity. The exercises will be in charge of Professor Marry V. Mitchell of the accounting department.

At this time also a medallion given by Alpha Kappa Psi, professional fraternity, will be awarded to the senior having the highest record for the first three years.

The day has been dedicated by Dean Bigood to the New Deal. In a special bulletin he said, "The New Deal has impressed upon the people as nothing ever has before, the importance of the economic life of the nation. The Senior Class in Commerce, therefore, selects the anniversary of the New Deal as its class day."

The activities of the day will be closed with a dance, the proceeds of which are to be used to purchase a gift for the Commerce School.

An exact hand-made copy of the original "divine comedy" by Dante has been presented to the University of Alabama by the Italian Society of America. Valued at one hundred dollars, the book was sent by Luigi Carnovale, of Chicago, and has been placed in the University library.

The inscription on the fly-leaf reads "Presented to the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa by the Italians of America to commemorate the six hundredth anniversary of the death of Dante."

The book is handsomely bound in leather, and is one foot wide by about a foot and half wide. It contains about a hundred pages, each one being illuminated in color, and having the marks or age and wear on the original accurately produced.

Fourteen members of the sophomore class of the school of medicine, University of Alabama, have already been accepted by outstanding four-year schools of the nation, Dr. Stuart Graves, dean of medicine, announces. Some of the students have received the approval and have gained admittance to as many as two medical schools.

Dean Graves states that every man who has finished the first two years of medicine at Alabama during the past six years has been successfully transferred. Ninety-eight per cent of the men transferred have won promotion and graduation in the school to which they were transferred.

A drunk was swaying back and forth on the sidewalk when the cop stepped up and asked him what he was doing and where he lived.

"Right there," he said, pointing to a house, "but I rang the bell and nobody anshered."

"How long ago was that?" asked the cop.

"Oh, a couple hours."

"Well, why don't you try again?"

"Aw, to hell with 'em—let 'em wait."

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

We read in the thirteenth chapter of the gospel of John the statement that Jesus having loved His own He loved them until the end. We also read that He knew that all power was given unto Him. He loved and He knew that all power was given unto Him. He loved and He knew. Of course, our Lord was God manifest in the flesh. However, we as frail human beings may learn two important lessons from this incident in the life of Jesus. He loved and He knew. Love was the motive power; knowledge was the guiding power. Every life that succeeds in any sphere is moved by some great motive. It may be ambition. It may be love of money. However, the real motive that brings real success for time and eternity is the love motive in the human heart. Love is the motor in the automobile. Knowledge is the steering gear. A mother loves her baby, but a lack of knowledge about how to take care of the baby might mean that the baby would die while a loving mother is endeavoring to save it. It takes a well-balanced head and a fervent heart to put over any real undertaking.

"Jesus knowing that He had all power took a towel." He washed the disciples' feet. He could have taken a throne, or a sceptor, or a crown, but He took a towel. He didn't have to take a towel. Love always does what it doesn't have to do. Men do not have to go to foreign fields and become missionaries. Love sends them there. Paul did not have to go to prison and spend long nights in dark dungeons with bleeding back and with his feet in stocks. Love sent him there. A mother does not have to watch by her baby through long days and weary nights, but love makes her do it. Yes, love always does what it doesn't have to do, yet love has to do what it doesn't have to, because it is love.

One time a little girl asked Napoleon how many needles full of thread it took to make a shirt. Napoleon replied, "Only one if it is long enough." The reason it is necessary to stop and thread the needle is because the thread is not long enough to finish the job. Very few people have enough thread in their needle to finish an undertaking. On the wall of one of the rooms in the Bob Jones College is this motto, "Finish the Job." The men who succeed in this world are men who stay with the proposition until the work is done. A lot of people are failures because they start a job, leave it and start another one. Nothing is ever finished. That is one of the reasons so many brilliant people with a variety of gifts make a failure of life. It is well to develop all of our gifts but when we are using one of the gifts let's finish the job which that gift is supposed to do.

FIRES DAMAGING FORESTS

Auburn, Ala.—Lyle Brown, extension forester, has issued a warning to Alabama farmers to protect their forests against fires.

He estimates that fires destroy over $3,000,000 worth of property in Alabama each year and prevent reforestation of countless acres fitted only for growing trees.

"Light fires seen creeping over hill and vale with the sanction of the landowners or tenants are destroying the tiny seedlings from the previous year's seed crop and preventing the covering of the soil with trees for another timber crop and to prevent the loss of soil by erosion," he says. "Thinking landowners are planting trees on many such acres at costs possibly averaging $5.50 per acre, while thoughtless ones permit the destruction of such crops planted by nature at no cost."

Dick Reaves, prominent attorney, of Montgomery, was here Tuesday, on business at the Circuit Court.

Rev. Smith, pastor of the Calera Methodist church, was in Clanton Sunday and Monday of this week.

All Business Threatened By Public Utility Bills

Forced Liquidation of Billions of Securities and Blow to Recovery Foreseen.

All business would be threatened with bureaucratic control by enactment of the utility bills now before Congress, and their passage would compel liquidation or sale of billions of dollars of securities, according to public utility executives.

In reply to the recent radio talk of Congressman Rayburn, which attempted to justify the bill to wipe out holding companies and hamstring operating companies, J. F. Fogarty, President of The North American Company, declared that it constituted a clear warning to customers, security holders and workers of the public utility industry which should arouse them to the necessity of studying the bill and understanding what it proposes to do to them.

"The bill is based on an unwarranted, sweeping indictment of the public utility industry," Mr. Fogarty said, "and a threat against all business lies behind it. It would discourage the expenditures of a billion dollars each year normally made by the public utility companies for purchases of equipment principally from the heavy goods industries now suffering acutely from unemployment. Should such a situation develop it would be a serious blow to national recovery."

H. Hobart Porter, President of American Water Works and Electric Company, Inc., also emphasized the grave dangers in the bill to all business, and stated that the proposal to destroy the holding companies not only directly affects the operating companies but threatens the ultimate nationalization of the industry.

Mr. Porter listed the following harmful results indicated by the proposed legislation:

1. Crippling of the nation's electric and gas service, directly by reason of unfair restriction of operating companies and indirectly through the abolition of holding companies.

2. A condition apparently equivalent to government management and operation of electric and gas production and distribution, with all the attendant risks of loss and a heavy burden of taxation still resting upon the owners.

3. Breaking up of all utility holding companies, to be possibly followed by the destruction of other holding companies, such as those that exist in the steel industry, automobile manufacture, food products and practically every basic commercial enterprise.

4. Destruction of the value of securities held by millions of investors in electric and gas companies, both operating and holding companies, and thus checking the nation's efforts toward recovery.

"So far as it is the goal of the bills to prevent unsound practices not already controlled by present regulation and law, its intentions are commendable," Mr. Porter stated. "But a study of this bill indicates that that would not be its effect. By weakening the operating company through the elimination of holding company services and by the particular ways in which it extends the power of the Federal Power Commission the bill apparently looks toward the establishment of nationalization of the electric light and power, and gas industries."

Are You Undecided?

PERHAPS you and your family have given serious thought to having a telephone in your home, but are not quite sure you really need it.

It is a matter which concerns everyone in the family. Think how much a telephone would help Mother with her shopping and household duties, and how Father would find it handy in many ways. The young folks too, would use it frequently in arranging social activities with their friends.

In addition, a telephone assures you prompt assistance in emergencies and quick personal touch with friends and relatives both in and out-of-town.

When you sum up the many advantages of telephone service, compared with the small cost of only a few cents a day, you will probably decide it really doesn't pay to try to do without it.

Order your telephone today. Your friends will be glad to know you have one and every member of your family will enjoy it. Just call the telephone business office.

RED CROSS AGENCIES SAFEGUARD HEALTH

First Aid, Life Saving, Nursing Care, Promote Health and Safety

Five outstanding services make up the health-conservation program of the American Red Cross, according to the annual report just issued in Washington. These services are first aid and life saving, which together have trained more than a million persons; nursing, with an active enrollment of 36,133 registered nurses; Public Health Nursing, conducted by 750 nurses in 424 chapters last year; and Home Hygiene, which has taught more than 700,000 men and women simple ways of caring for the sick at home.

"The achievements of the Red Cross in public health nursing place it among the leaders in this field," said James L. Fieser, vice chairman in charge of domestic operations. "This service was organized in 1919 to meet needs developed by the World War and the ravages of the flu epidemic which in 1918-1919 took so great a toll of life.

"Since that time Red Cross nursing services have been pioneers in more than one half of the counties in the United State. Many services we established were taken over later by civic, state and federal agencies, and the Red Cross continues to establish services in other new fields. Red Cross nurses made more than a million visits to patients last year, and 629,025 children in schools were inspected.

"Red Cross courses in home hygiene and care of the sick are especially important in times of depression, because they teach families to maintain hygienic conditions in their own homes and to recognize symptoms of illness

NEW SALEM NEWS

We are glad to say that the flu is dying out in our community. Our Sunday School is now getting better. We hope to have a large crowd next Sunday. We want to meet at 9:45, so that everyone will have time to sing a little longer.

Last Sunday was a day of good services at this place. We had a large attendance at preaching services and a grand message was delivered by our pastor, Rev. Carroll, at 11 a.m. We met at 2 in the afternoon for the singing and we were exceedingly glad to see the great number that attended the singing.

The new "Singing On the Way" No. 2 and "Harbor Bells" were used. The service was called to order by the chairman, J. E. Minor. Prayer was offered by Mrs. A. H. Glasscock. The directors were as follows: O. C. Bennett of Clanton, Emmett Wilson, Perry Cleckler, Dock Harris, E. L. Glasscock, H. W. Lowery, T. E. Wyatt, Houston Melton, Marion Mims, A. H. Glasscock, O. L. Devaughn, Dr. J. B. Williams; also one song by little Doward Minor. A good quartet also by Mrs. Irene Mims, H. W. Lowery, O. L. Devaughn and Mr. Bennett. The pianists for the evening were Miss Edna Gore, C. H. Robinson, Mrs. Birdie Johnson, Mrs. James Gillespie.

We feel like the evening was spent well in the work for our Master. It seemed that everybody enjoyed it fine. Two hours was spent in good singing. We were dismissed in prayer by Mr. Mose Robinson of Providence, Beat 16.

All remember that you are welcome at New Salem at any time.

We were glad to have Rev. Freddie W. Riggins with us Sunday; also on Sunday night. He preached a fine sermon. He is in school at Howard College, we are glad to say.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

FARMERS ARE USING MORE ELECTRICITY

With approximately 12,000 Alabama farmers using electricity in their farming operations, more state farmers are using electricity than ever before in the history of the state. In 1934 there were 11,604 rural customers in the state compared with only 240 in 1924—10 years earlier.

Not only are farmers finding electricity useful in their farm work, but the farm women are finding that it removes many of the burdens of homemaking. It is also useful in preserving fresh fruits and vegetables.

EIGHT MILLION QUARTS FOOD CONSERVED IN '34

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama farm women and girls conserved more than 8,000,000 quarts of food valued at $2,594,650.21, reports Margaret Garrett, food preservation specialist with the Alabama Extension Service.

Miss Garrett estimates that a total of 2,760 pressure canners and 1,178 sealers were used in the entire canning program by relief and non-relief people. During the season 1,152 pressure cookers and 558 sealers were purchased by individuals and organizations.

CHILEAN DEMONSTRATION

The Jemison F. F. A. has selected Erdis Atkinson to represent the Jemison school in the Chilean Nitrate of Soda demonstration. Erdis was selected after a very careful survey of a number of locations for this demonstration was made.

The demonstration comprises 2½ acres of corn, 2 acres fertilized with 200 pounds of Chilean nitrate each and one half acre not fertilized. The Chilean nitrate of soda corporation furnshes the fertilizer free of charge.

This demonstration is on the side of a road where the passing public may observe the effects of the nitrate of soda.

HOG PRICES TO MAKE FURTHER ADVANCES

Auburn, Ala.—Further advances in hog prices are expected throughout 1935, says the Bureau of Agricultural economics, which expects the prices "to remain at relatively high leves compared with recent years."

J. C. Grimes, head of the animal husbandry department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, lists three reasons for the increase in hog prices: (1) Low price for past three years caused many people to reduce operations; (2) the government pig and sow slaughter campaign; (3) high price of feed forcing the corn-hog ration out of line.

Chest Colds

Don't let them get a strangle hold. Fight them quickly. Creomulsion combines 7 helps in one. Powerful but harmless. Pleasant to take. No narcotics. Your own druggist is authorized to refund your money on the spot if your cough or cold is not relieved by Creomulsion. (adv.)

JEMISON BOYS SEND IN ESSAY

Four boys in the vocatonal class at Jemison high school mailed essays recently in a state-wide essay contest among vocational students. All entrants have as their subject, "The value of the rarer elements and their influence in natural fertilizers in crop production and annual nutrition."

The following boys represent Jemison: Fred Lecroy, Erdis Atkinson, Ernie Lee Robinson, C. W. Wells.

This contest is being sponsored by the Chilean Nitrate of Soda Education Bureau in cooperation with the Alabama Future Farmers Association.

JEMISON AGAIN QUALIFIES

The strong basketball team of Jemison high school again last week at Selma qualified for the state basketball tournament. Jemison came second. Felix won first place. For three successive years Jemison has won either first or second place. The team along with Felix will represent this district in the annual state meet to be held March 8 and 9 in Tuscaloosa.

Coach Turner deserves much credit for his consistent winning teams.

The following boys compose the Jemison team: J. T. Cobb, John Busby, Cecil Ellison, Rosen Ellison, J. O. Cobb, Victor Davis, Alford Davenport, Gilbert Littleton.

FLOCK NETS $569

Carrollton, Ala.—Lacy Tracy of Union Chapel community netted $569.00 on 250 hens during 1934, reports F. A. Rew, county agent. "Mr. Lee raised 134 pullets and has a flock of 260 hens this year," Rew states.

Lesson for March 10

PETER PREACHES TO GENTILES

LESSON TEXT—Acts 10:1-11:18.
GOLDEN TEXT—Of a truth I perceive God is no respecter of persons: but in every nation he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him. Acts 10:34b, 35.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Peter Learns That God Loves Everybody.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter Learns Something New.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Gospel for All.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Overcoming Racial and National Prejudices.

The missionary program of the church having broadened to include the Samaritans in Philip's preaching in Samaria, we see in this lesson the program still widening and embracing the Gentiles. Through the conversion of Cornelius, the middle wall of partition was broken down (Eph. 2:14).

I. The Man Cornelius (10:1, 2).

1. His official position (v. 1). He was a centurion, a Roman officer over a company of one hundred soldiers.

2. His character (v. 2). a. "A devout man." b. A benevolent man. c. A praying man. d. Highly respected by his family.

The Lord chose Cornelius as the channel of the transition of the gospel to the Gentiles because of his character and position.

II. Supernatural Preparation for the Transition of the Gospel to the Gentiles (10:3-35).

In order to bring this about, observe:

1. Two visions were given.

a. The vision of Cornelius (vv. 3-8). While engaged in prayer, an angel of God instructed him to send to Joppa for Peter, who would tell him what to do. Cornelius sent at once for Peter.
